TROUT IN INDIA. It will be recollected that about a year ago Dr. Day brought out some trout ova from England in the hope of being able to rear the fish in the streams of the Neilgherry hills. The experiment did not, unfortunately, succeed; and both Dr. Day and the Government have come to the conclusion that the prospects of success are so small that it would not be worth while to renew the attempt. It is thought, however, that the fish of the low country may be introduced into the hill streams, and the collector of Coimbatore has been directed to take the necessary steps for conducting further experiments in this direction.

Obituary.

DEATH OF DR. DUIRS, M.D., M.A., D.I.G.R.N.

EACH of the last three Jamaica mails has brought the news of the death of a medical officer while attending the sick in hospital with yellow fever. The last intelligence, which will be received with great regret by the entire body of naval medical officers, is of the death of Dr. Wm. Duirs, Deputy Inspector-General of the Naval Hospital at Port Royal. He accepted that appointment in December last, leaving a wife and family in England. He was highly esteemed by his brother officers for his scientific attainments, for his amiability of disposition, and extreme coolness under the difficulties which fall to the lot of members of our profession in the navy. He served in the trenches in the Crimea, where he showed the best qualities of a military surgeon. Doubtless there will be no lack of volunteers in the service for the honourable and dangerous post which his death leaves vacant. It is, indeed, only by such a gateway that officers of the rank of staff-surgeon in the navy can now hope to attain the inspectorial rank; for there is but one supernumerary officer, who is still on foreign service.

BONNEY v. SMITH: ACTION FOR SLANDER.

AN action of some interest to the Association has this week been tried in the Court of Queen's Bench.

It will be remembered that, in the early part of last year, a malicious prosecution for malapraxis was instituted against Dr. Armstrong of Gravesend by a person named Rudman; and that a Mr. Bonney was the principal medical witness on the part of the plaintiff. Mr. Bonney's evidence led to the conclusion that, as a medical witness in a case of the kind, he had acted in a manner which has been repeatedly condemned by the profession and in this JOURNAL; and, at the meeting of the South-Eastern Branch in 1866, Mr. Heckstall Smith gave notice that he should take steps for bringing the conduct of Mr. Bonney before the British Medical Association, that he might be dealt with according to our laws. Mr. Smith's speech was reported at page 27 of the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL for July 7th, 1866; and, having read it, Mr. Bonney raised an action for slander against Mr. Smith. The trial has been deferred, through the pressure of law business, until Tuesday last, when it was opened. On Wednesday, the case was decided by the withdrawal of a juror; there appearing to be some doubt whether the defendant had justified the first part of the libel, which charged Mr. Bonney with having seen the patient three times in the absence of Dr. Armstrong, and given an adverse opinion on the treatment; while there was abundant evidence, on the part of the defence, to justify the second part, that Mr. Bonney had, by his conduct, shown an undue partisanship. Mr. Bonney alone was called on the part of the prosecution; while Mr. Heckstall Smith's defence was supported by Mr. Solly, Dr. Armstrong, and Mr. Vinal, as well as by a Mrs. Johnson, in whose house the girl Rudman had lodged before and during the trial of the action against Dr. Armstrong, and who had had opportunities of observing Mr. Bonney's conduct.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

MEMBERS are reminded that it is a matter of great convenience and economy to the Association, and conduces to the efficiency of its working and to their comfort and advantage, that their subscriptions, which are now due, should be paid promptly to the Secretary, Mr. T. WATKIN WILLIAMS, New-hall Street, Birmingham; or to the Secretaries of their respective Branches.

All Letters and Communications for the JOURNAL, to be addressed to the Editor, 37, Great Queen St., Lincoln's Inn Fields, W.C.

AUTHORS OF PAPERS are respectfully requested to make all necessary alterations in their copy before sending it to the JOURNAL. Proofs are furnished to authors, not for further changes, but that the writer may correct the printer when he has misread the manuscript.

Communications as to the transmission of the JOURNAL, should be sent to Mr. RICHARDS, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C.

CORRESPONDENTS, who wish notice to be taken of their communications, should authenticate them with their names—of course, not necessary for publication.

THE ETIQUETTE OF CONSULTATIONS.

SIR,—Will you have the kindness to tell me if I acted right in the following case, in the next number of the JOURNAL?

Yesterday, at the request of the friends of a patient suffering from bronchitis, I called in a neighbouring practitioner. We met, when the usual thing took place; but, on the medical man leaving, he said to me: "I will see the patient again to-morrow". He then went up stairs alone, and told the patient the same thing. I consented to meet him on the morrow; but, on looking over the rules of the Medical Association (of which I am a member), I wrote to the gentleman, telling him I did not think he had treated me professionally, as he had proposed to see the patient a second time, and that I declined to see the case again, and left her entirely to him.

This is the third time this gentleman has treated me badly. In one case, he visited the patient every day for ten days; and in another, he sent the husband to say that he should take the case.

I have been in practice nine years; and up to now have been treated with the greatest courtesy. I am, etc.,

West Felton, Salop, June 20th, 1867.

WILSON H. BINNS.

. The duty and rights of the consultant cease with the consultation. Further appointments rest with the practitioner in charge; and, under the circumstances stated, Mr. Binns has just cause for complaint.

THE Prospectus of the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL for 1867, Vol. II, is now ready, and copies for circulation will be forwarded on application to members and officers of the Association.

"THE HOSPITAL FOR DISEASES PECULIAR TO WOMEN AND CHILDREN".

THERE exists, under this title, in the south part of London, an institution to which Sir William Fergusson, Dr. Greenhalgh, and Dr. Eastlake, are attached as consulting officers; and of which, Dr. G. de Gorreque Griffith is physician. The following document, which has been forwarded to us for publication, presents so inexplicable a confusion of the public charity with the private pecuniary affairs of Dr. Griffith, that we are totally at a loss to explain the meaning or principle of it. It carries its own strong condemnation with it. Of course, the consulting officers strongly disapprove of this "bill", as the profession generally will do; and we believe that Dr. Greenhalgh and Dr. Eastlake will take immediate steps to put themselves in a proper position in the matter.

"The Hospital for Diseases peculiar to Women and Children, Vincent Square, S.W.—Physician: Dr. G. de Gorreque Griffith, M.R.C.S. England, 9, Lupus Street, St. George's Square, Pimlico, S.W., Licentiate in Midwifery and Special Extern of the Dublin Lying-in Hospital; First Anatomical Prize-man of the Dublin School of Medicine; formerly Physician's Clinical Assistant at the Meath and Mercers' Hospitals, Dublin; and some time Resident Surgeon at The London Surgical Home for Diseases of Women; and Physician-Accoucheur to St. Saviour's Maternity. Fee (to the poor) for attendance in ordinary confinement, £1:1:0. Fee (to the poor) for visit and medicine (to be paid for at the time of visit), 2s. 6d. Hours, when at home for consultation, 10 to 1 in the morning; or, by appointment, in the evening.

"9, Lupus Street, St. George's Square, Pimlico, May 1867.

M. To Dr. G. de Gorreque Griffith, M.R.C.S., for professional attendance, medicines, etc., etc., supplied to his family and household, from June 13, 1866."

CORRESPONDENTS whose letters are unanswered, are requested to look for an answer in the next issue.

WE beg leave to point out to the members of the Association that the annual meetings of the respective Branches and commencement of a new issue of the JOURNAL in an enlarged form but for the modest annual subscription of a guinea, which entitles also to the social, professional, and political benefits of the Association, make the present a very convenient and fitting time for using exertions to extend the influence and spread the benefits of the Association by enlarging the number of members. The Association numbers now some three thousand members; but, as there are upwards of eighteen thousand members of the profession, there is obviously room for a considerable expansion. The advantages of membership are becoming rapidly and widely appreciated outside the Association. If each member would interest himself to introduce a neighbour into the Association, the funds at disposal for the further improvement of the JOURNAL and the prosecution of the professional, political, and scientific objects of the Association, would be materially and beneficially increased. The advantages so obtained accrue to the profession at large, and to each member individually; for the objects of the Association and the JOURNAL are to elevate the social status of the profession, and to increase its political influence; to advance medical science; to afford means of intercommunication; to supply an independent channel for ethical discussion; and to raise medical journalism from the commercial to the professional level.

DR. M., F.R.C.S.—The election will take place on Thursday next, at 2 o'clock. Your votes will not be received for the reason stated. On sending your address to the Secretary, you will receive a notice to attend and sign the bye-laws.

F. M.—The details should appear as an advertisement.

AN ASSOCIATE (Shrewsbury).—It would be very inconvenient to alter the time of payment for subscriptions, which are always due at the commencement of the year. But a half-yearly subscription may be commenced with the new issue, and the membership taken up formally to commence at January.
