

to land would normally be refused. Citizens of the Republic of Ireland were not aliens. The answer to the second part of the question was "None."

Radiation Hazards in Industry

Mr. HAROLD DAVIES (Leek, Lab.) asked the Minister of Labour on February 24 what steps he was taking to study and limit radiation hazards in the health of workers exposed to ionizing radiations, and whether he would consult the Minister of Fuel and Power about the occupational health problems that might arise as a result of the programme of nuclear power development. Mr. HAROLD WATKINSON, the Parliamentary Secretary, stated that the precautions taken at factories to protect workers from ionizing radiations were carefully watched by the Inspectorate of Factories, which was notified by the Atomic Energy Authority of all consignments of radioisotopes supplied by them to factories. The Chief Inspector had also issued an advisory booklet on Precautions in the Use of Ionizing Radiations in Industry. He was considering, in consultation with the Chief Inspector, whether, in addition to the general requirements of the Factories Acts, more detailed special regulations would be desirable for factories using ionizing radiations. In all such matters he had the benefit of the expert advice of a radio-logical advisory panel, of the statutory advisory committee appointed under the Radioactive Substances Act, 1948, and of the Atomic Energy Authority itself. He was in consultation with the Minister of Fuel and Power regarding the measures that would be necessary for the protection of the health of the workers in the projected atomic power stations.

Civil Estimates

The Vote on Account for 1955-6 presented to Parliament on February 21 shows that expenditure on the National Health Service is estimated at £463,370,000, an increase of £24m. over the previous year.

Harley Street Cable.—The POSTMASTER-GENERAL said that he very much regretted the inconvenience caused to telephone subscribers in the Harley Street and Wimpole Street area. The Post Office had had to replace a section of a large cable which was in a very bad condition. By working day and night the job was finished in three weeks. They did all they could to minimize interruptions, but were seeing if it was possible in such cases to give subscribers a better system of warning.

Chiropody.—Mr. MACLEOD said that he would like to see a chiropody service available for all who would benefit from it, but financial considerations at present rule out any extension of the existing limited facilities.

Thames Pollution.—The very extensive technical investigations into the causes of pollution of the River Thames of the Water Pollution Research Laboratory have been completed. The results are being analysed; and it is hoped that in the next few months they will be ready for consideration by the departmental committee of the Ministry of Housing and Local Government.

Silicosis Claims.—In 1953 the Silicosis Medical Board dealt with 465 applications under the Workmen's Compensation Acts for certificates of death in respect of coal-miners; in 330 of these cases it was certified that death was due to silicosis or pneumoconiosis and in 135 cases it was certified that death was not due to the disease.
