THE DUBLIN MEDICAL SCHOOLS.

ST. VINCENT'S HOSPITAL.

ON Friday last, Dr. Quinlan gave the opening lecture. He dwelt at great length on the life and labours of the late Dr. O'Ferrall, who was the founder of the hospital. The history of the institution, which was wholly managed by Sisters of Charity, and of the Convalescent Home connected with it, was next given; and the lecture terminated with a statement of the arrangements which had been made this session for clinical instruction.

THE MEATH HOSPITAL.

ON Monday, the session was inaugurated with an address from Dr. Stokes. After some observations addressed to students, he said:—

"As to the relations of the profession to society, it had been too much the habit to find fault with the Government and the public. There was a large class who sought to remedy this evil by a demand for class legislation, which some men called medical politics. All this was a mistake. The Legislature would pass no law to serve the interest of class unless it could be shown that the public would be benefited thereby. The evils at present existing in connexion with the medical profession would continue to exist until the public mind was better educated, and the profession became wholly a profession, getting rid of the principle of trade, its members learning to be just and generous one to another, and to honour all men, and to do the best they could for society in whatever circumstances they found themselves. He read, afterwards, extracts from letters written by the Lord Chancellor, the Chief Justice of England, and Dr. Taylor on the subject of medical witnesses, and referred to the course pursued by medical men at inquests. He heard daily of evidence being given by them as to the causes of sudden death, and his opinion on that subject he would not venture to give. They questioned, whether if a man died with a certain disease, he died of it. It was impossible in the present state of knowledge to determine the cause of some deaths. Medical men in such cases should acknowledge their ignorance."

The lecturer concluded with remarks on the duties of professional men towards their brethren.

THE LEDWICH SCHOOL.

DR. CAMERON, Professor of Chemistry, delivered the introductory lecture. It was a learned discourse on the characteristics of the physiological and empirical methods of medicine, and a review of the various subjects which should, seriatim, engage the pupil's attention. The labours of Irish Physicians and Surgeons were portrayed in very glowing terms.

MATER MISERICORDIÆ HOSPITAL.

AN influential meeting was held on Monday, under the presidency of His Eminence Cardinal Cullen, for the purpose of procuring funds for the completion of the hospital. The second wing will be ready for patients next May. The Lord Chancellor, Mr. Pim, M.P., Earl of Granard, Sergeant Dowse, M.P., Sir W. Wilde, and Dr. Stokes addressed the meeting; and the last-named announced that Dr. Nixon had been appointed Assistant-Physician, and Dr. Coppinger Assistant-Surgeon. The medical session was opened on Wednesday by an address from Mr. Tyrrell.

THIRTY-SEVENTH ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE

BRITISH MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.

Held in LEEDS, July 27th, 28th, 29th, and 30th, 1869.

SECTION B.—SURGERY. President, WM. HEY, Esq., F.R.C.S.

Wednesday, July 28th, 1869.

Stricture of the Urethra; its Prevention, Early Detection, and best Method of Treatment. By W. F. TEEVAN, B.A., F.R.C.S.—Mr. TEEVAN wished to draw attention to the importance of detecting stricture of the urethra in its earliest stage. The ideas as to the sign denoting the presence of stricture were vague. Mr. Teevan defined stricture to be "any diminution of the normal calibre of the urethra, the result of the contraction of organised lymph." The presence of a gleet, of six months' duration or more, might commonly be regarded as the outward and visible sign of the existence of a stricture which might, perhaps, in no way interfere with the flow of urine; and the actual presence of such stricture might be demonstrated by the bougie à boule. That instrument was invented by Sir C. Bell, and was by him made in metal. Leroy d'Etiolles improved its usefulness by making it of an elastic material, which allowed the instrument to follow the deviations of a tortuous and deformed urethra; its diagnostic value was still further enhanced by Dr. Henry Dick, who had the shoulder of the bougie made sharp and angular. The bougie à boule was simply for diagnosis. It would, as it was being withdrawn, catch at the slightest unevenness in the urethra, and told accurately the slightest change in the mucous membrane. That tissue, in its normal condition, transmitted through the bougie the sensation of travelling along a velvety path; and, if there were any constriction, not only would that fact be communicated to the surgeon, but also the degree of pathological change which the urethra had undergone. The bougie à boule, therefore, would detect stricture of the urethra in its earliest stage; and the treatment of such stage might correctly be termed the preventive treatment. When a patient went to a surgeon for a gleet, he ought always to be examined with the bougie à boule, for it was necessary to ascertain the pathological condition of the canal before an appropriate treatment could be decided on. If there were no constriction, deep injection was proper; but if there were contraction, however slight, it would be aggravated by injection, but cured by gradual dilatation. Mr. Teevan, after enunciating M. Mercier's views of the pathology of stricture, discussed the seats of stricture, as deduced from facts observed by himself. He grouped together stricture at the bulb or membranous urethra, and called it "subpubic." This was by far the most common kind of stricture, simply because the triangular ligament favoured its production. The next stricture in order of frequency was the "penile", situated at a spot varying from two-and-a-half to three-and-a-half inches from the meatus externus. This stricture was rarely absent, in some degree, when the other was present. The rarest form of stricture was that just within the meatus, the "orificial." Strictures, regarded in their physical conformation, were of two kinds—the "tunnel" stricture and the "ring" stricture. He called them so on account of the sensations communicated to the bougie à boule when passing through them. Subpubic strictures were generally of the tunnel kind; orificial strictures were of the ring character; and penile strictures partook of both forms.

BIRMINGHAM AND MIDLAND COUNTIES BRANCH: ORDINARY MEETING.

THE first meeting of this Branch for the session was held at the Midland Institute, Birmingham, on October 14th, at 2 P.M. There were present, J. VOSE SOLOMON, Esq., President, in the Chair, and seventy-four members of the Branch and visitors.

New Members.—The following members of the Association were elected members of the Branch: J. W. Coates, M.D., and W. H. Dawson, Esq., Malvern; E. Dewes, M.D., Coventry; O. F. Wyer, M.D., Leamington; J. L. Earle, M.D., J. Darwin, Esq., E. B. Whitcombe, Esq., Birmingham; and W. F. M. Jackson, Esq., Smethwick.

Communications.—1. Mr. NEWNHAM exhibited a specimen of a virgin Scirrhus Breast, which he had removed that morning.

2. Mr. PEARCE showed a boy with a large Abdominal Tumour.

3. Dr. SAWYER showed the Heart of a boy, aged 16, who had died in the Queen's Hospital, under the care of Dr. Heslop. It exhibited, in a marked degree, calcareous degeneration of the aortic and mitral valves.

4. Mr. FURNEAUX JORDAN showed a large Fibro-muscular Tumour, and an Uterus, from the fundus of which the tumour had been cleanly removed by the écraseur. The patient sank in a week from peritonitis, for which there was no apparent cause.

5. Mr. JORDAN also exhibited a Leg which had been removed at the knee-joint by a new method, in a case of old pathological dislocation into the popliteal space. The tibia was removed from the popliteal space; but the femur and adherent patella (bearing blows and pressure easily) were not touched.

6. Mr. WEST presented the parts removed in a case of Resection of the Shoulder-joint for disease occurring in a strumous young man from idiopathic causes. The cancellous tissue of the head of the humerus was hollowed out by an abscess; the cartilages of the joint were destroyed; and the glenoid fossa was extensively carious. Resection was performed by a vertical incision three inches long, commencing at the tip of the coracoid process; and a small transverse incision, extending from that point to the acromion. The humerus was divided with the chain-saw, and the glenoid fossa cleared with the osteotrite.

7. Mr. LANGSTON PARKER read a paper on the Hypodermic Treatment of Constitutional Syphilis. He gave a short sketch of the history of this mode of treatment. He gave an account of the forms and strength of those solutions best fitted for injections, and the kind of disease in which it was indicated and most likely to be successful. The strength and frequency of the injections, and the parts of the skin best suited to injection, were also described. Mr. Parker brought forward a few cases in which this method had been very useful after the failure of most of the ordinary methods in use, and particularly advocated its employ in cases of frequently relapsing syphilis, after the failure or in-success of other remedies.

8. Dr. WADE read a paper on Modern Views of Inflammation and its Treatment.

New Members.—At a Council meeting held subsequently, Mr. Morris of Birmingham, Dr. Crespi of Birmingham, and Mr. Hodges of the Birmingham Eye Hospital, were elected members of the Association.

REPORTS OF SOCIETIES.

CLINICAL SOCIETY OF LONDON.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 22ND, 1869.

JAMES PAGET, ESQ., F.R.S., President, in the Chair.

THE PRESIDENT brought under the notice of the Society the case of a man who, with extensive necrosis of the occipital bone, had Muscular Atrophy of one side of his Tongue. After removal of many pieces of dead bone from about the foramen magnum, the wasted side of the tongue increased in bulk to a considerable extent.

Mr. SPENCER WELLS exhibited a new Clamp for Ovariectomy, which is figured and described at page 467 of last week's JOURNAL.

Mr. MARSH read notes of a case in which a Cleft of the Soft Palate had been cured in a child sixteen months old. The operation was performed in August. Chloroform was used, and the parts were brought into view by Mr. T. Smith's gag. The edges of the cleft were pared, and then brought together with horsehair sutures. The arches of the palate were snipped with blunt-pointed scissors. The greater part of the wound healed in eight days, but a hole as large as a kernel of wheat remained where the soft joined the hard palate. The author offered the case as a contribution to the data on which it might be determined at what age in childhood the operation for closing fissure of the palate should be undertaken. It seemed reasonable to believe that, the earlier the operation could be successfully performed, the better would the child's future power of articulation be. He referred to a statement made by Mr. Lawson Tait in the Lancet, to the effect that he had operated with success on a child nine months old (of this case, however, no particulars were given by Mr. Tait); and also to a case in which Mr. Frank Buszard, House-Surgeon at the Northampton Hospital, had closed a fissure of both the hard and the soft palate in a child six months old at a single operation.—Mr. THOMAS SMITH had had an experience of forty-two cases which were operated on under chloroform; half were under seven years of age, and others younger. He had met with no failures in hard palate operations; but in operating on soft palates there were many dangers which affected them more, as scarlatina, whooping-cough, mumps, etc. In the older cases, surgeons were more successful.—Mr. SPENCER WELLS wished to know the effect on pronunciation. He said that M. Nélaton had given up operating on both hard and soft palates, as the artificial palates were better for speech. Mr. Wells had performed eight or ten operations, but they were disappointing.—Mr. SMITH could scarcely give the result, as his operations were mostly on young persons. He thought the difference in cases was due frequently to the shape in which the palate was made. If discretion were used in forming the arch, a good palate could be made. He thought that adults often spoke better with artificial palates; the same men who would take trouble in learning to pronounce with them, would be good subjects for operation; but still the cases in adults were disappointing.—A MEMBER gave his experience of a case of a girl, who in ten days, especially when she took trouble, showed very marked improvement in her speech.

Mr. CAMPBELL DE MORGAN related a case of Fracture of the Base of the Skull. The patient fell on his head in a state of intoxication, was stunned, and had bleeding from the right ear. He gradually recovered, and was in about three weeks so well that he was desirous of going home. But he was then attacked with slight shivering, and became drowsy, and lost his appetite. Soon after he was perfectly comatose, and had complete paralysis of the left side of the body. From this state he entirely recovered, and in about ten days he was nearly as well as before the attack, but he had severe pains in the head and restlessness. On August 3rd, he again became drowsy, and complained more of his head, and remained much in the same condition till the 12th, when he was suddenly taken much worse and died. He had no return of paralysis. The skull was found to have a fissure at the base on the right side, with marks of old effusion of blood about it. There was an abscess in the under and outer part of the middle lobe, near the seat of fracture, and a rupture, shortly before death, of the arachnoid continues; the opening into the arachnoid remains patent; and slow but destructive inflammation about the spinal cord takes place, ending in death.

I wish to record my firm belief that very many cases of spina bifida are amenable to treatment, and that a correct diagnosis in each instance is the proper ground on which to base the treatment. There can be no doubt that the treatment of these cases has been attended with much success of late years; and that the remark of M. Ferrand is correct—viz., that “the omission of the necessary remedies is as fatal to humanity, and perhaps more frequently so, than rash attempts to cure. Everything depends on the discernment of the practitioner. Life and death may be equally the effects of his knowledge and dexterity, or of his want of experience and skill.” These remarks were made with reference to a large hydromeningocele (Fabric. Hildanus, Observ. Chirurgia, Cent. Sexta, Obs. 17), which Ferrand considers might easily have been removed. Now, within the last year or two, two similar tumours have been removed by the knife—one with complete, the other with partial, success.

M. Dubourg (Gazette Médicale, July 31st, 1841) records three cases of spina bifida on which he operated. In the first, he used the ligature. The child died in two days. In the second, he used the knife. The child was cured, and, four years afterwards, was quite well. In the third, he used the knife (the tumour was situated over the last cervical and first dorsal vertebrae). The child was perfectly cured, and remained well when seen two years and a half afterwards.

I myself have had two most happy results of the treatment of spina bifida by the knife. The sacs removed are both in the Museum of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London. The children, both of them threatened with immediate death before operated on, are now healthy and strong. One is eight years of age, the other four years. An account of the first case will be found at page 215 of the Pathological Transactions, vol. xiv. I do not endorse all that is there written, and purpose writing further on the subject, if I am enabled to find time to visit the museums and libraries of the metropolis. I have seen, in the Museum of St. Bartholomew's and the Hunterian Museum, sacs containing brain-substance or posterior spinal roots of nerves, which would probably have been better removed.

I am, etc., W. J. WILSON.

CARBOLIC ACID.

SIR,—Dr. Thomas Keith's letter corroborates, rather than invalidates, my position. Allow me to state:

1. That it is my belief that, like creasote, which has been long used as a dressing, and with which carbolic acid has the closest chemical affinities, the latter will be found of use in the treatment of indolent sores; or solutions of continuity, accompanied with bruising, whereby the vitality of the part is depressed; while I am persuaded in my own mind that, in the case of clean wounds, the interposition of any foreign material whatever is opposed to the reparative process.

2. That it has never yet been proved that suppuration is due to spores, as Mr. Lister asserts, for suppuration has taken place since humanity was formed, in situations to which atmospheric spores could never have had access; that the existence of these spores in the atmosphere is problematical; while the persistence of suppuration may be due to any irritant, atmospheric, mechanical, or constitutional.

3. That, if it be simply the exclusion of air that is desiderated in Mr. Lister's method, the practice is by no means new; while, to accomplish this, carbolic acid possesses no superiority over other applications that have been used for this purpose.

4. That, if the whole air be excluded, how can it be proved, granting even beneficial results, that the benefit is due to the exclusion of a hypothetical component part, and not to the exclusion of other parts whose existence has never been disputed, or to the exclusion of the entire atmosphere?

5. That, granting that carbolic acid is an antiseptic, and may, and doubtless does, act beneficially in wounds having a putrefactive tendency, it is but one of a numerous class whose good effects no one disputes (Vide papers on Syphilitic and Phagedenic Ulceration, by D. C. Black, M.D., Lancet, 1866); and that it is unphilosophical to give undue prominence to one, at the expense of all the rest, as Mr. Lister and his disciples have unquestionably done.

6. That some mystery underlies its form of application; for Mr. Lister admits that, as a remedy, it will fail in Glasgow, as elsewhere, without due regard to antiseptic principles. Other antiseptics applied to wounds act beneficially as antiseptic remedies, no matter how applied. By their action, they make the principles—not the principles them.

7. That carbolic acid has been made of late years a medical and surgical hobby, as the pages of our leading journals can testify; so much so, that the difficulty consists, not in stating what it has cured, but what diseases have not yielded to its therapeutic properties. If those diseases have yielded to it, why retain our cumbrous materia medica? If they have not, as I contend, notwithstanding all that has been said to the contrary, what then? Why, blow off the cloud of chaff in the shape of coincidences, and retain the grain of wheat; and matters will remain just as they have been!

8. That, as a rule, those medical and surgical sensations are obstructive to the progress of true science, owing to the mental diversion from other and rational subjects, and the necessary time spent in unlearning.

Will Dr. Keith dispassionately show, then, what he is pleased to term “Mr. Lister's discoveries”? Dr. Keith has not informed the profession whether he has met with greater success from the employment of carbolic acid than such old-fashioned yet good antiseptics as “bags of charcoal, sulphate of soda, sulphate of iron, and Condy's fluid and tar.” That Mr. Lister's recent publications regarding carbolic acid have given our Medical School a “name”, I will not dispute. Of the value of that “name”, greater authorities than I am pronouncing an opinion.

These, then, are my humble views; and, with your kind permission, I have as good a right as any one else, if I have the temerity, to give them expression. If my former letter can bear any other interpretation, I have learned the elements of the English language in vain, and Dr. Keith's letter may be subversive of the opinions I have adduced.

I am, etc., D. CAMPBELL BLACK.

ACTION OF ATROPINE ON THE HEART.—From a series of experiments lately carried out by Dr. F. B. Nunneley, he concludes that the action of atropine on the heart is neither considerable nor energetic, a progressive weakening of its power being the most prominent visible effect. This occurs at the end of ten, twelve, or several more hours.

OUR notice of the vacant assistant-physicianship at the Brompton Hospital was premature. A physician must first be appointed; and it depends upon the result of this election whether a vacancy for an assistant-physician will occur.

AN ORDINANCE has been issued in the Mauritius for the regulation of the practice of pharmacy and the sale of poisons.

LADY NURSES.

SIR,—I am glad to see that you have favourably noticed the efforts that are being made to induce a superior class of persons to take the position at present occupied by upper nurses in families. There are hundreds of educated women at present dependent on their friends, or struggling for a living as daily governesses, who would be far more happy and comfortable in the nurseries of the rich, exercising all those affections and instincts that constitute the beauty of the female mind. As the head of the nursery, there are no duties that are at all menial. Children would have an educated instructress from their earliest days, and would not acquire vulgar expressions and evil habits, which so often is the case when they are constantly associated with servants.

I can speak with confidence as to the advantages and success of this system, having for the last twelve months had the services of an educated person, a widow, as lady nurse, who has performed her duties most satisfactorily. I hope that my example and success will induce others to adopt the same plan, that ladies seeking remunerative occupation may find duties more in unison with their nature than studying anatomy or the abstract sciences.

I am, etc.

J. BRENDON CURGENVEN.

M. ROBERT (Comptes Rendus, August 16th) draws attention to the fact that bronze statues placed on stone pedestals protect the stone from the attacks of cryptogams, no doubt through the influence of the salts of copper formed by exposure to rain and weather. The fact is worth remembering in reference to vegetable parasites in animals, against which as yet we believe the salts of copper have been but little used. Possibly, however, they are not superior in efficiency to others already well known.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.—Advertisements should be forwarded direct to the Printing-Office, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C., addressed to Mr. RICHARDS, not later than Thursday, twelve o'clock.

AMENDMENT OF THE MEDICAL ACTS.

SIR,—I enclose copy of a letter which I addressed to Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the Home Department, and his reply. My object in asking for an interview at long date, was to enable me to communicate with a number of those who signed the memorial, and by whom I hope to be accompanied when I present it. I now beg that any one desirous of forming part of the deputation will be good enough to communicate with me. On receipt of the Secretary's appointment, I shall forward invitations for a meeting at the Medical Club, an hour before the time which may be fixed for attendance at the Home Office.

Bearing, as the memorial does, the signatures of 9471 members of the medical profession, from all parts of the United Kingdom, it is a document without parallel in our professional history; and one which cannot fail to have great weight in promoting the desired Amendment of the Medical Acts. Personally I attach the utmost importance to the following clauses of the memorial:

"The undersigned are of opinion that the system of medical education should be revised, so as to ensure the possession of a thoroughly scientific and practical acquaintance with medicine and surgery on the part of persons applying for the legal qualifications."

"To this end, it is held to be necessary to substitute for the present system of examination, and for the many forms of license now granted, one high and uniform standard of examination and one legal qualification."

The one faculty system granted, all other desirable reforms must follow. The reconstitution of the Medical Council is essential; but I trust there will be no split on the method of representation of the profession, by the direct or the indirect plan, as the rival schemes have been respectively designated. It is pretty evident that the Government intend introducing a Bill to amend the Medical Acts next session; and now that so large a majority are agreed on the general principles of the desired reform, I think the safest course is to wait the appearance of the Government measure, and dispassionately consider its provisions.

The task of eliciting the opinion of the whole profession has entailed an outlay in printing and postage of about £400. Towards this sum we have received £161 : 0 : 7, from 1782 contributors. I beg that further donations, by cheque, post-office order, or stamps, be forwarded to the Treasurer, Mr. Arthur Oakes, 9, Old Square, Birmingham.

I shall in any case deem it a very honourable duty to appear at the Home Office with a deputation to present the memorial entrusted to me; but I confess I should feel stronger in the responsible position, if I had better evidence than I now possess on which to assure the Secretary of State that the majority of the profession are prepared to do something more than merely sign a memorial for the amendment of the Medical Acts.

Confident that those who have co-operated with me in this matter will not be allowed to be pecuniary losers by their labours in the general interest,

I am, etc.,
BELL FLETCHER, Chairman,
Senior Physician to the General Hospital.

"Amendment of the Medical Acts.

"Sir,—I have the honour to inform you that I have been entrusted with a petition for presentation to you, signed by nine thousand four hundred and seventy-one (9471) registered medical practitioners throughout the United Kingdom, praying that Her Majesty's Government may introduce a Bill into Parliament for the amendment of the Medical Acts. I shall feel greatly obliged by your naming a day, in the ensuing month of November, when I may have the honour of waiting upon you with a deputation to present the memorial.

"BELL FLETCHER, Chairman, etc."

"Whitehall, October 19, 1869.

"Sir,—I am directed by Mr. Secretary Bruce to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 14th instant, requesting an interview for a deputation to present a memorial from certain registered medical practitioners praying for the introduction into Parliament of a Bill to amend the Medical Acts; and I am to inform you that Mr. Bruce is unable, at present, to fix a day to receive the deputation, but will do so in November, when due notice will be given to you.

"I am, sir, your obedient servant,

"KNATCHBULL HUGGESSON.

"Bell Fletcher, Esq., M.D., 7, Waterloo Street, Birmingham."

QUESTIONABLE.—On the occasion of receiving the freedom of the city of Edinburgh last week, Sir James Simpson adverted to the subject of town versus country mortality after surgical operations, throwing into strong relief the increased dangers accruing to patients in large hospitals. The Daily Review of Edinburgh, in a leading article, quotes the remarks on this point in extenso. Sir James Simpson is, doubtless, thoroughly conscientious in his conviction of the truth of his own statistics; yet it would have been no more than ordinary caution to have withheld a popular exposition of his latest doctrines until they had gained tolerably general professional assent.

THE TREATMENT OF SCABIES IN BELGIUM.—We are indebted to Dr. Oppert for the following information. Most patients with skin diseases in Brussels are sent to a special hospital, the St. Pierre, which contains 597 beds. New bath-rooms were opened there a few years ago, where itch patients undergo a procedure by which they are cured in a few hours. In the basement of one of the blocks, with a separate entrance from the court-yard, is an oblong room for males, with twenty-three wooden baths standing rather close together. There is a smaller similar room for females; and between them a place partitioned off by an iron screen. A high temperature is there maintained by hot pipes and a stove; it is generally of 90 to 95 degrees Fahr. Washed clothes may be dried there, and the patients' clothes subjected to the heat. The latter passes through sheet-iron. The patients have a bath, with carbonate of soda (one pound to each bath), in which they remain for an hour, in order to mollify the skin. Afterwards, a compound is rubbed in, and they are ordered to stand near the hot screen. To obtain the compound, 2 kilogrammes of lime (about 4½ lbs.) and a kilogramme of sulphur are boiled with 3 litres (5½ pints) of water for an hour, and then allowed to cool. One bath usually is sufficient for a cure. Similar bathing arrangements for the treatment of itch are found at Antwerp and Haën.

NOTICES of Births, Marriages, Deaths, and Appointments, intended for insertion in the JOURNAL, should arrive at the Office not later than 10 A.M. on Thursday.

"MR. —'s PROVIDENT MEDICAL CLUB.—Established for providing families of small means with attendance and medicine by a yearly subscription. Rates of Payment: For an adult, man or woman, per quarter, 1½ franc; for a child under 15 years, 1 franc. Families of more than five in number taken at a reduction of the above rates. Cases of sudden illness will be attended at any hour."

A Guernsey correspondent, who sends us the above, informs us that the issue of such documents has previously been unknown there. There can be no doubt that it is greatly below the dignity of a medical man, and a gross deviation from etiquette. We withhold the offender's name for the present, in the hope that he may reform his manners. The document appended will show him the kind of company into which such conduct brings him.

"The Metropolitan Provident Dispensary.—Medical officers: Surgeon, J. Baker Brown, F.R.C.S. Exam.; Physician, Dr. Gutteridge; Assistant-Surgeon, P. R. D. Gabbett. Midwifery: Within half-mile, 10s. 6d.; within one mile, 15s.; within two miles, £1 : 1."

MEDICAL TITLES.

SIR,—With reference to your recent articles on status, titles, etc., can you inform me if there is anything in the charter of the College of Surgeons, or the Apothecaries' Act of 1815, to prevent those who hold the diploma of one or both of those bodies from using the title of "Doctor"?

Licentiatees of the College of Physicians (1860) are distinctly excluded from so doing by their own bye-laws; but it would be interesting to know if the great bulk of the profession are free to use a term which, as far as concerns the public, only means one who "attempts to cure."

The doors in Pall Mall were bolted when I qualified for general practice, so, as a disciple of the "third and very meritorious corporation," I subscribe myself,
L. S. A.

A. O. F., M.D.—Percival's Medical Ethics will give you the desired information. Consult also Willcock's Laws Relating to the Medical Profession. The latter is almost obsolete since the passing of the Medical Act.

MEDICAL EVIDENCE IN LAW COURTS.

SIR,—I enclose other house-surgeons should suffer in a similar manner, I send you the particulars of a hard case.

I have lately been twice summoned to Brentford by order of the magistrates to give medical evidence for the prosecution in a case of assault. As the prisoner was kept at the House of Detention for two months, during the time that the prosecutor was in-patient in this hospital with a broken leg, the case was not sent for trial, but settled summarily. On my asking for my fees and expenses, the magistrates informed me they had no power to grant them. An application to the Home Secretary had no better result; so I have been forced to lose two days, and spend five shillings in travelling expenses, in the cause of "justice". Now, sir, how can poor house-surgeons avoid this imposition on their time and pockets? I shall try, if I ever have another similar case, refusing either to attend or give a certificate. In the meantime, I send you this, as a "warning to house-surgeons".

I am, etc.,
CHAS. H. JOUBERT, M.R.C.S.,
House-Surgeon, St. Mary's Hospital.

R. F. H.—Your commendation of our strictures on the Medical Register and Directories is very gratifying. You will find a former review on the subject in the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL of February 10th, 1867; and owing to that review, the two delinquents then exposed were struck off the Register.

ANIMAL VACCINE.

SIR,—Can you inform me where I can obtain some "heifer lymph" for inoculating the heifer? Dr. Blanc, who generously proffered to supply any of his professional brethren who asked for it, I understand, has left town. I am, etc.,
Lower Norwood, October 1869.
ALFRED ARMSTRONG.

SIR,—In the JOURNAL of October 16th, you allude to an occurrence of twins twice within eleven months as "sufficiently curious and rare to be worth notice". Another instance happened not long ago in this city. A poor woman, the wife of a journeyman tailor, was confined with two boys on June 3rd, 1867, and with a boy and girl on April 28th, 1868. The former two and one of the latter are living at the present time; the other died three weeks ago. The poor mother died after her last confinement, in her thirty-third year, having given birth, before the twins, to five other children—all girls—two of whom survive. The whole were brought up by hand, as she had no milk after her first confinement; when she nearly lost her life from puerperal fever.

Apophros of births, I may mention that the mother of a late physician to our Royal Infirmary had thirty-four children, of whom he was the youngest. He was a hale and strong man, and died at the age of eighty a few years ago. Formerly a surgeon in the army, he went through the whole of the Peninsular War, and came out of it with a bullet in his loins, which he retained to his death. This was the occasion of some good-humoured bantering as to his courage before the enemy; but the bullet, whether in the back or front, was an evidence that the non-combatant officer was not afraid to place himself under fire in the discharge of his duty.

I am, etc.,
Bristol, October 1869.
W. F. MORGAN.

* Mean hourly velocity in miles.

REMARKS.—The mean pressure of the atmosphere has been, on an average, much the same as that of the week before; but it has been more steady, and therefore the range of pressure has been greatly less. The decrease in temperature noted last week has continued during the present one, the mean temperature being about 3 degs. below that of the previous week, while the minima fell at most stations below 32 degs.; the lowest occurring at Dover = 21.4. The range of temperature has been about the same as last week. Winds have continued to blow from the northerly quarter, those from the north being by far the most prevalent. Their force has been on the whole slightly greater than the week before, but it has been more evenly distributed. Rain has fallen in moderate quantities at all stations excepting Scarborough, where the rainfall exceeded 2 inches. The amount of clouds has been slightly less. The first day of the week was generally fine and mild, but gradually the wind freshened, till on the 27th it blew a heavy gale from the north at Scarborough, which continued till the morning of the 28th, and at other stations with a force varying from 4 to 8 of the scale. At the same time temperature underwent a general and rapid diminution. Snow and hail storms occurred at Scarborough on the 25th, 26th, and 27th, the depth of the drift in some places being between 7 and 8 feet: at Bath, on the 27th, at 10.20 a.m., lasting quarter of an hour, and from 6 to 7 a.m. on the 28th; also about 4 a.m. on the 29th; at Dublin on the 26th and 27th; on the 26th at Llandudno, leaving all the surrounding hills white with snow; at Malvern on the 26th and 27th; at Dover snow fell heavily on the 27th, from 4 to 5 p.m., and again on the 28th from 11 a.m. till 1.30 p.m., melting however by the evening. At Ventnor a slight fall of snow occurred on the evening of the 26th, and another more heavy one between 7 and 8 a.m. of the 27th. At Worthing a slight fall of snow took place in the early morning of the 27th, but only just enough to whiten the grass. At Kew, and in and about the metropolis generally, a slight sprinkling of snow occurred about 3.30 p.m. on the 27th, lasting only 10 minutes. The temperature fell to its lowest point during the night from 27th to 28th. After this a general increase took place in the temperature, and rain fell on the last day of the week at most stations. During the week ending Oct. 23rd, scarlatina caused 14 deaths in Dublin, and measles 10; and both diseases continue to be very prevalent. At Worthing some cases of scarlatina of a mild type are still occurring, but chiefly in the same localities as previously noticed. Otherwise the public health is reported as excellent.

Kew, November 3rd, 1869.
