

larly men who smoked, were spreading the disease perhaps more than any other class of persons. Mr. TURTON said he had no separate evidence to support that statement, but he was in entire agreement with the general view expressed by Mr. Hastings.

Alcoholic Beverages Prescribed

Mr. C. GIBSON (Clapham, Lab.) asked the Minister what explanation had been given to his department for the published increases of expenditure on wines and spirits in three leading London hospitals. Mr. TURTON said he assumed the question referred to Dulwich, St. Francis, and St. Giles' Hospitals, which were mentioned in a Sunday newspaper. These hospitals had a high proportion of long-stay cases in chronic-sick, orthopaedic, and tuberculosis units. The alcoholic beverages were principally stout and ale issued to patients on medical prescription. Mr. GIBSON asked if he was satisfied that the increase in expenditure of nearly one-third was justified by a large increase in the number of patients. Mr. TURTON said he understood the hospital management committee was looking into the matter.

B.C.G. Vaccination

Dr. BARNET STROSS (Stoke-on-Trent, Central, Lab.) asked what were the arrangements for making immigrants from Eire and the West Indies aware of the facilities available in Britain for protection against pulmonary tuberculosis; and what steps the Minister proposed to extend the use of B.C.G. vaccine, now manufactured in Britain. Mr. TURTON stated that the same arrangements applied to immigrants as to residents in this country. He was considering what further advice he should give to local health authorities regarding the greater use of B.C.G. vaccination for the protection of schoolchildren before leaving school. Dr. STROSS asked him to consider a further extension of this new preparation, not only for school leavers but for children aged 5 if the parents were willing to have them treated. Mr. TURTON replied that British vaccine was not yet available for general use. He was considering sending a circular to local authorities urging them to offer vaccine for all 13-year-old children.

Vital Statistics

Graphs of Infectious Diseases

The graphs below show the uncorrected numbers of cases of certain diseases notified weekly in England and Wales. Highest and lowest figures reported in each week during the nine years 1947-55 are shown thus -----, the figures for 1956 thus ———. Except for the curves showing notifications in 1956, the graphs were prepared at the Department of Medical Statistics and Epidemiology, London School of Hygiene and Tropical Medicine.

thoroughly and easily cleaned, and give adequate protection from contamination. (2) In most cases wash-hand basins, sinks, and constant hot and cold water must be provided in food premises. (3) In certain circumstances there must be accommodation on food premises for outdoor clothing and footwear of those working in the premises. (4) The use of a room communicating directly with a sleeping-place for the handling of open food is prohibited. (5) Requirements are laid down as regards the temperature at which certain foods that provide a particularly favourable medium for food-poisoning organisms shall be kept on food premises where food is supplied for immediate consumption. (6) Washing facilities (including hot water) must be provided on stalls and vehicles where open food is supplied for immediate consumption.

The Regulation dealing with the construction and equipment of vehicles used for the transport of meat also came into operation on the first of the month.

Care of Homeless in War.—Under two Orders in Council the civil defence responsibilities of the Ministry of Health for the care of the homeless in the event of war were transferred to the Ministry of Housing and Local Government on July 1. The Ministry of Housing already includes billeting and evacuation of civilians among its civil defence responsibilities.

"Getting Married."—Family Doctor has issued a popular booklet for those about to marry. It takes the form of a 200-page glossy-covered, magazine-style small book, designed and produced by Roger Smiths Editorial and Publishing Services. The price is one shilling. It contains some 40 short articles on such subjects as the factors which make for success in marriage, children, the management of the wedding and honeymoon, and advice for the bride on home-making and cooking.

Queen's Honorary Physicians.—The following were gazetted Honorary Physicians to Her Majesty the Queen on June 29: Dr. H. K. COWAN, C.M.O., Department of Health for Scotland; Professor I. G. DAVIES, M.O.H., Leeds; Dr. G. C. KELLY, S.A.M.O., South-western Regional Hospital Board; Dr. C. G. MAGEE, D.C.M.O., Ministry of Pensions and National Insurance; Dr. F. F. MAIN, C.M.O., Ministry of Health and Local Government, Northern Ireland; and Dr. J. A. SCOTT, M.O.H., London County Council. The appointments are for a period of three years.

R.S.M. Library Regulations.—The Royal Society of Medicine has circularized draft library regulations to take effect from October 1. The principal change is that postage on books and journals would be borne by borrowers, and not by the Society as at present. There would also be some stricter control of admission to the library.
