to science until it was discovered a few years since by Mr. Swinhoe in the neighbourhood of Shanghai.

To the series of cetacean skeletons (upon which Professor Flower has thrown much light), a long desired addition has been obtained in a complete specimen of the very singular freshwater dolphin of the Ganges (platanista gangetica), received through the courtesy of Professor Rolleston, in exchange with the Oxford University Museum. The animal was captured by T. P. Griffiths, Esq., about two hundred miles north-west of Calcutta.

Dr. Julius Haast, F.R.S., of the Canterbury Museum, Christchurch, New Zealand, sends a specimen of one of the smaller species of the extinct wingless birds of that country (dinornis didiformis), far more complete than any yet received.

A skeleton of a jackal has been mounted and presented to the Smithsonian Institution at Washington, at the request of the Secretary of that liberally managed establishment, as a specimen of the method of articulation introduced and carried out by Mr. James Flower in the Museum of the College.

In the physiological collection, 266 preparations have been remounted during the past twelve months.

There have been numerous additions to the collection of surgical instruments made by Messrs. H. Bellot, J. Hogg, P. Hewett, E. L. Hussey, T. C. Jackson, T. M. Stone, W. H. B. Winchester, and P. Wormald, who has presented most of his late father's instruments.

We must here, in justice to Professor Flower, publish an extract from the report of the Royal Commission on Scientific Instruction and the Advancement of Science, of which the Duke of Devonshire was Chairman, for investigating the condition of the various National Scientific Museums; it states of the Museum of the Royal College of Surgeons of England—

"This collection of human, comparative, and morbid anatomy was founded in the last century by the celebrated John Hunter. After his decease, the Hunterian collection was purchased by the Government, and placed in the keeping of the Royal College of Surgeons, subject to periodical inspection by a board of trustees, which is kept up by co-optation of new members as vacancies occur. Since the collection came into the possession of the College, it has been vastly extended and enriched, and is now probably the most complete and best arranged museum of its kind in existence. It is freely accessible to students; and lectures to members of the College, to which any person interested readily obtains admission, are delivered, on comparative anatomy, by the Conservator, Professor Flower, and, on surgical subjects, by Fellows of the College appointed to that duty, from time to time, by the Council.

"For the purchase of the original or Hunterian collection, and in grants for buildings, the nation has contributed £57,500 towards the expense of this museum; but the entire expense of its maintenance and continued extension, amounting to about £2,500 a year, is discharged by the College out of the fees payable by candidates who pass the examination for the College diploma; and the aggregate sum which has been thus expended far exceeds that supplied by the State.

"The comparative anatomy division of this museum, besides a great osteological collection, contains an extensive series of preparations of the internal organs and other dissected parts of animals, preserved in spirits. Preparations of this description are requisite for a well grounded study of zoology; and, as no such series exists in the British Museum, this part of the College of Surgeons' Museum may be regarded as supplemental to it. But, although it might seem, on this account, desirable to incorporate the comparative anatomy division of the College of Surgeons' Museum, in whole or in part, with the zoological collections of the British Museum, there appear to be serious objections to such a measure. For, in the first place, by far the greater part of the collection in question being the property of the College of Surgeons, a very large outlay of public money would be required for the purchase of it, were the College willing to part with it, which we have no reason to think probable. Again, so large an increase of spirit preparations in the British Museum would increase the risk of destruction in case of fire; and, lastly, the transference of the comparative anatomy collection to South Kensington would render it much less conveniently accessible than it is at present to students attending the medical schools, who now make use of it.

"Should the fund at the disposal of the College, owing to changes in medical legislation, or from any other cause, prove inadequate for the efficient maintenance and continued extension of the museum, we are of opinion that it should receive support from the State as an institution intimately connected with the progress of biological science in this country. At the same time, there seems to be no sufficient reason why it should, in such a case, pass from the custody and the management of the College, under which it has so long and so greatly prospered."

Amongst the donors to this interesting collection are Professors Gervais of Paris, Julius Haast, Quatrefages, Sir William Fergusson, Captain Harris, Drs. Fayer, Watts, Dowse, Goodhart, etc., and Messrs. W. M. Baker, T. C. Jackson, J. Birkett, J. Gay, Irvington, McCarthy, Crowther, Garrod, Duncan, Mrs. Wormald, etc., and, as usual, the Zoological Society, the Smithsonian Institution, etc.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND POOR-LAW MEDICAL SERVICES.

SANITARY LAWS AMENDMENT BILL.

At a meeting of the Parliamentary Bills Committee, held last week—present, Mr. Ernest Hart, in the Chair, Dr. Tatham (Birkenhead), Dr. Syson (Huntingdon), Dr. Holman (Reigate), Dr. Fox (Chelmsford), Mr. Rivington, Dr. Seaton (Sunbury)—the Sanitary Laws Amendment Bill (1874) was considered. The Chairman stated that he had brought the clauses of the Bill under the consideration of many medical officers of health, and that replies had been received from the following medical officers of health, among others: Dr. Bond, Gloucester; Dr. Child, Oxford; Dr. Fox, Chelmsford; Mr. Haviland, Northampton; Dr. Wilson, Leamington; Dr. Syson, Huntingdon. The following is a summary of their opinions.

Dr. BOND has not attempted to criticise or amend the proposed Bill, believing that it has been drawn up "to meet the administrative exigencies of the office"; but has confined himself to "suggestions for the consideration of the Committee as addenda to Mr. Sclater-Booth's Bill". These "addenda" comprise eighteen clauses as to "sewers and drains", "removal of nuisances", and extended definition of the word "nuisance"; "prevention of the spread of infectious diseases", by providing hospitals, and inflicting penalties for exposure; enlarged interpretation of "person in charge"; also rendering it imperative on medical practitioners to forward as early as possible notice of infectious cases, and payment for such notice; also as to "water-supply", and "provision of privies and water-closets". Under this last head, Dr. Bond proposes in certain cases to empower an owner of property not having any land on which to erect a privy or privies, to acquire such land from his neighbour, provided no nuisance or annoyance, public or private, is created thereby.

Dr. CHILD is of opinion that, "if passed as it stands, much of the Bill would be a dead letter in country districts", owing to its "permitting" people to do things which they have not the slightest intention of doing. Dr. Child suggests that Sections 50 and 55 (?) should be rendered compulsory, and considers Sections 11, 50, and 41 to 49, as the most important in the Bill, particularly 47 and 48, as giving power to a rural sanitary authority to make bye-laws. But he thinks these clauses are by no means clearly expressed, and will be perfectly useless, unless rendered compulsory. As to omissions in the Bill, Dr. Child complains (1) that it contains no provision for rendering the appointment of a Sanitary Committee compulsory; and that, without the appointment of such a Committee, it is impossible for any ordinary Board of Guardians to do any serious sanitary work. Dr. Child therefore suggests that the appointment of a Sanitary Committee should be made compulsory, and that it should be put upon the same footing as the Assessment Committee. Another omission noticed is, that the Bill contains no clause conferring any legal status on the Central Committee for a compound district. Dr. Child also suggests that the power of compelling combination of two or more port sanitary authorities should be extended (under Section 14) to all sanitary authorities. In Section 41, Dr. Child would add "or inspectors of nuisances" after the word "surveyor". Attention is also drawn to the omission of all further provision for the prevention of the spread of infectious diseases, and "of all systematic attempt to arrange, simplify, and consolidate the forty Acts or so which now constitute what is understood (?) by 'sanitary law'." However, Dr. Child would take the Bill for what it is, as he thinks it professedly leaves more weighty and disputed matters to be dealt with more at leisure next session. The urgent need for amended legislation, Dr. Child thinks, is very great; and that, until medical officers are assisted by such legislation, their work is paralysed.

Dr. FOX thinks the designation of the Bill in the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL as "in the main an office Bill" is the correct one. He is of opinion that four clauses only will be of service in his districts—viz., 11, 20, 56, and 50; and suggests that in clause 50, after the words "if it shall be represented to any sanitary authority", the words "by the medical officer of health" shall be inserted, as an inspector of nuisances is not competent to give an opinion as to the quality of water. Adopting the "omissions" alluded to in the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL, Dr. Fox calls attention to others, viz.: 1. The omission of any provision as to returns of mortality and payment for the same; 2. Omission of any clause empowering a medical officer of health to inspect, for the purpose of making his returns or reports, the books of a registrar of births and deaths; 3. The omission of provisions for checking the spread of infectious diseases; 4. Overcrowding.

Dr. WILSON of Leamington is of opinion that "no urgent necessity for further sanitary legislation this session" exists; but, as the Bill is a Government measure, he would suggest that clause 5 should also make provision for giving a legal status to the committee of delegates; that clause 21 should also apply to every rural sanitary authority invested with urban powers; that to clause 33 should be added words giving any sanitary authority compulsory powers to acquire land for dealing with sewage; that clause 50 should be altered so as to enable any sanitary authority to close any well, etc., immediately on having reason to believe that it was polluted; also that any sanitary authority should be enabled to call upon owners to provide proper water-supply. Dr. Wilson also makes several suggestions, in the main similar to those made by Drs. Bond, Child, and Wilson as to infectious diseases; and would like to see every rural sanitary authority endowed with powers to make bye-laws as to dwellings, ashpits, privies, and cesspools, common lodging-houses, and slaughter-houses. He also suggests that the Local Government Board should be empowered to enforce combination; and that such combinations should not be dissolved without their consent.

Dr. SYSON suggests that Mr. Sclater-Booth's Bill should be accepted as far as it goes, but that attempts should be made so verbally to alter clause 45 as to make it clear that rural sanitary authorities can and may make bye-laws on all matters on which an urban authority may make bye-laws; and that, by order of the Local Government Board, any sanitary authority shall make bye-laws on one or all these matters; that section 50 of the Act should be amended so as to enable any sanitary authority to order the closure of any well, etc., on the certificate of any public analyst or their medical officer of health; power being given to rescind such order on being satisfied that the water, etc., has become or been rendered fit for drinking purposes; that, looking at the Bill as an "office Bill", it is highly important to specify what drains, sewers, etc., do, and what do not, belong to a rural sanitary authority (the same as to urban authority); that all drains, privies, water-closets, cesspools, and ashpits, shall be under the control and survey of the sanitary authority, and shall be altered, repaired, or reconstructed from time to time as they may think fit. With regard to the seizure of diseased meat, Dr. Syson suggests that any policeman should be empowered to seize meat at any time, just as inspectors of nuisances are now empowered to

MEDICO-PARLIAMENTARY.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Monday, July 6th, 1874.

Outbreak of Small-pox at Gloucester.—Mr. SCLATER-BOOTH informed Colonel Kingscote that his attention had not been called to any recent outbreak of small-pox at Gloucester; but in the month of January the Local Government Inspector discovered a considerable amount of small-pox in the workhouse infirmary, and directions were given to the local authorities as to the course that should be pursued. Some difficulty, however, had been experienced in carrying out the recommendations, and a private Bill was now passing through Parliament upon the subject. The last official letter which they had received from the Town Clerk of Gloucester upon the subject was dated in February last, and it said that the disease was diminishing.

Vaccine Lymph.—In reply to Mr. Meldon, Sir M. H. BEACH said that in order to supply vaccine lymph gratuitously in Ireland as in England would require that the present grant of £400 to the Dublin Cow-pox Institution should be doubled. The question whether it could be given was one more for the decision of the Treasury than for himself. If such an arrangement was made, the management of the supply must be entrusted, as in England, to the Local Government Board.

NOTICES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

CORRESPONDENTS not answered, are requested to look to the Notices to Correspondents of the following week.

PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT.—We shall be much obliged to Medical Officers of Health if they will, in forwarding their Annual and other Reports, favour us with Duplicate Copies.

AUTHORS desiring reprints of their articles published in the JOURNAL, are requested to communicate beforehand with the printer and publisher, Mr. T. Richards, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C.

CORRESPONDENTS, who wish notice to be taken of their communications, should authenticate them with their names—of course, not necessarily for publication.

WE CANNOT UNDERTAKE TO RETURN MANUSCRIPTS NOT USED.

COMMUNICATIONS respecting editorial matters, should be addressed to the Editor; those concerning business matters, non-delivery of the JOURNAL, etc., should be addressed to the General Manager, at the Office, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C.

DR. ROGERS'S and Mr. Spencer Watson's letters are deferred.

ERRATUM.—In Mr. Lennox Browne's article, in the JOURNAL of June 27th, p. 828, line 28, for "abduction", read "adduction".

NOTWITHSTANDING that nearly every number of the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL published this year has included a supplement of eight pages, and that one third more of original matter has been published this year in the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL up to the present date than in any former year, we have still a considerable accumulation of manuscripts from town and country contributors. We would therefore especially ask our correspondents to compress, as much as possible, any communications with which they may favour us, with a view to their publication with the least possible delay.

AIDE-TOI, ET DIEU T'AIDERA.

SIR,—An anonymous correspondent in the JOURNAL for June 27th, inquires what the Poor-law Medical Officers' Association has been doing since the Superannuation of Poor-law Medical Officers Act, and lays down, rather too absolutely, I consider, the principles which should guide the Association in its labours. Now, I am not at all indisposed to admit that it would be very desirable, could we secure it in an amendment Bill, that all this writer requires should be sought after; but it should be borne in mind that so determined was the opposition of certain gentlemen in both Houses of Parliament, and so great was the apathy of the bulk of the Poor-law Medical Service, that it was only with extreme difficulty we succeeded in getting any measure passed at all. Indeed, the indifference of the medical officers, even of those who have since profited from the provisions of the Act, was to my mind most extraordinary; for not only did they not subscribe one farthing towards the expenses of the Association which was fighting their battles, although many of them had enrolled their names as members, but they did not even petition in its favour. A similar state of things prevails now. Although upwards of forty forms of petition have been sent out to members of the Association, only an eighth part has been returned to me; and not one single petition, to my knowledge, has been forwarded to the House from any gentleman outside our body, save from two dispensary physicians living in a remote part of Ireland. It therefore appears to me nearly hopeless to expect to do much for the benefit of a service when a large majority of its members, with stolid indifference, leave two or three of their numbers to fight their battles. No, sir, Jupiter only helps those who help themselves.

Having thus replied to your correspondent, permit me to inform your readers that our parliamentary champion, Dr. Brady, finding it impossible in the present session to bring in an amendment Bill with any reasonable prospect of carrying it, has very wisely refrained from presenting any of the petitions I have forwarded him, but intends to keep them all until next year. If your correspondent will in the meantime urge his own friends to petition, or if any one else care so to do, I refer them to the form you published in your issue of April 25th, page 563, and beg to tell them that all they have to do is to get their wives, sons, or daughters to copy it out fairly on one side of a sheet of foolscap paper; to sign their names, and to write in the appointment they hold; and, having done so, forward such petition by a halfpenny stamp to yours, etc.,

JOSEPH ROGERS.
33, Dean Street, Soho, June 30th, 1874.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS.—Advertisements for insertion in the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL, should be forwarded direct to the Printing Office, 37, Great Queen Street, W.C., addressed to Mr. FOWKE, not later than Thursday, twelve o'clock.

A PROVINCIAL FELLOW inquires how many papers were declared void, and in what manner, at the last election into the Council of the College of Surgeons of England. There were three; and, notwithstanding the very clear instructions, one had the address only of Mr. Hussey, instead of the name erased; the next had the name of Mr. Smith erased, leaving four instead of three candidates; the third, like Mr. Hussey's, had only the address removed, leaving in each case four candidates.

SLEEPLESSNESS.

SIR,—I shall feel indebted if any of your numerous correspondents can help me to the successful treatment of a case of prolonged sleeplessness. The subject is a clergyman, as he tells me, never overworked mentally, and to my own personal knowledge during the past twelve months he has been working almost as a relaxation. Secretion and excretion are normal. Chloral hydrate in doses of 30 to 60 grains gives rest for an hour or two; but that is all. I seek a radical cure, and have exhausted somewhat the British Pharmacopœia. At present, he is taking phosphate of zinc in three-grain doses, and shower baths, and is ordered to do without sedatives. In a few weeks I send him to a Hydropathic Establishment. He has only been about two years here (sea-side), where the air is strongly impregnated with ozone. Has this anything to do with it? I find he is better when inland. Hints for his guidance will be gladly received by one who seeks a remedy for an

EXHAUSTED BRAIN.

DR. RADCLIFFE.

SIR,—I send for insertion in your JOURNAL an epigram on the celebrated Dr. Radcliffe, which I accidentally found in an old book in my possession. It may probably interest those who have read Dr. Jefferson's entertaining work, entitled A Book about Doctors.

I am, etc.,

GEO. CHAS. COLES.

On a Dispute between Dr. Radcliffe and Sir Godfrey Kneller.

Sir Godfrey and Radcliffe had one common way

Into one common garden, and each had a key.

Quoth Kneller, "I'll certainly stop up that door

If ever I find it unlock'd any more."

"Your threats," replies Radcliffe, "disturb not my ease;

And, so you don't paint it, e'en do what you please."

"You're smart," rejoins Kneller, "but say what you will,

I'll take anything from you—but potion or pill."
