IRELAND.

A RUMOUR having been extensively circulated that small-pox was extremely prevalent in a place called Buttermilk Lane, in the town of Galway, an investigation was recently undertaken by order of the Local Government Board; but we are glad to state that the report was unfounded, and that there is only one case of small-pox in the neighbourhood—that of a child nine months old, now convalescent—and that every sanitary precaution is being taken to prevent the disease from spreading.

SUPERANNUATION OF MEDICAL OFFICERS.

At a meeting of the guardians of the South Dublin Union last week, a resolution was unanimously adopted to allow Dr. Henry Croly, late medical officer of the Rathfarnham Dispensary District, a superannuation allowance of £60 per annum. It was originally proposed that Dr. Croly should be allowed to retire on two-thirds of his late salary and emoluments—£120—but the matter having been investigated by the Dispensary Committee, the smaller amount was substituted. Dr. Croly has been twenty-seven years in the Poor-law medical service, and has always discharged the arduous duties of his office in a most efficient manner.

MEDICAL WITNESSES.

RECENTLY we gave an abstract of a circular lately issued by the Government to magistrates throughout Ireland, directing that medical witnesses should not be summoned to give evidence in cases of assault unless where life had been endangered. This absurd enactment has called forth great disapprobation; and Sir Francis Brady, County Court judge, at Dungannon, last week, spoke strongly against it, observing that the issue of such instructions by an official of the Government was an absolute frustration of justice. The matter was brought under the notice of Mr. Lowther last week, who would not promise that it should be withdrawn, and stated that it did not confine the medical evidence to cases where life had been actually endangered.

LUNATICS IN WORKHOUSES.

THE recent report of the Inspectors of Lunatic Asylums in Ireland, refers to the unsuitability of workhouses for the treatment of this class of disease. They remark that, from their want of proper organisation, attendants, and appliances of management, they are more calculated to fix than to alleviate mental disorders, no matter how intelligent the physicians attached to them, or however benevolently inclined the non-professional superintendents may be. There are one hundred and sixty-three workhouses in Ireland, and, being in many instances remote from asylums, they must be looked upon as useful from the subordinate, however indifferent, assistance they afford to lunatic requirements; that is to say, by constituting a certain refuge and a safeguard against personal danger, more especially to the idiotic, the epileptic, and utterly demented of the pauper community. Of the 3,372 lunatics in workhouses on the 1st of last January, 1,920, or about one-third, were of the idiotic class, and 210 epileptics, all so far hopeless cases. Of the remaining 1,210, the greater number, owing to age and infirmity, gave very slight hope of improvement, a considerable number being resident for upwards of twenty years. With respect to the insane in workhouses, it appears that they are not equally distributed, for in some they are from one hundred to double that number; in others, forty to sixty; and in many, they range only from four to ten; the average for each, if they were equally divided, would be twenty for each workhouse. The inspectors appear to consider that, by the erection of district auxiliary buildings, a desirable object would be attained, these buildings being for the accommodation of the lunatics at present in the various workhouses, and for the many chronic and incurable inmates now occupying a great deal of valuable room in several district asylums. By this arrangement, the district asylums could be more beneficially devoted to recent or acute cases of lunacy, and thus efficiently serve as hospitals for the cure of insanity, instead of being mere receptacles for the safekeeping and maintenance of hopeless patients.

MEDICO-PARLIAMENTARY.

HOUSE OF LORDS.—Thursday, June 27th.

Dental Practitioners' Bill.—The Marquis of LANSDOWNE: My lords, I beg to move the second reading of this Bill. Its object is to make an alteration in the law by which the public will have some security that for the future persons calling themselves dentists and practising as such are properly qualified. The way we propose to set to work is to establish a registration somewhat similar to that which exists under the Medical Act. The persons who will be entitled to have their names placed on the register will, in the first instance, be licentiates of the College of Surgeons in England, of the College of Surgeons in Edinburgh, and of the College of Surgeons in Ireland, and also the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow, and, besides these, the licentiates of every University in the United Kingdom for the time being. In addition to that, we propose to protect the interests of existing practitioners, by enabling every one in bond fide practice at the time of the passing of the Act to have his name, on the proper declaration being made, put upon the register. This Bill is one which has been received with great favour by the profession. It has been, I believe, favourably received by the General Medical Council, under whose supervision these examinations are to take place; and I hope your lordships will give it a second reading. I would have gladly given further explanations of the details of the Bill, but I am prevented by an affection of the throat which renders it difficult for me to speak. I did not put off the second reading for this reason: your lordships are aware that the Medical Act Amendment Bill deals to a certain extent with the subject of dentists, but perhaps not quite so fully as this Bill does. I am glad, however, to believe that the objects which the noble Duke (Richmond and Gordon) has in view are very much the same as ours; and I believe I am right in understanding from him that, if we accept certain amendments in the machinery under which the registration is to take place, and which will be the same as that he proposes to introduce in his Bill, he is prepared to view our measure favourably. I therefore propose that the Bill shall be sent to committee to-morrow, and that it shall be printed with the amendments of the noble Duke. When the Bill stands in its amended shape, your lordships will have an opportunity of forming an opinion on it as a whole. I will move that it be now read a second time.—The Duke of RICHMOND and GORDON: I think the proposal of the noble Marquis is the most convenient course he can adopt. I quite endorse what he has said as to the objects of the measure. It has objects in view that the clauses of the Medical Bill that I had the honour to introduce into your lordships' house also had. As the noble Marquis states, it goes rather further than the Medical Bill which has gone down to the other House of Parliament. Be that as it may, the objects are no doubt the same; and, as I understand the noble Marquis to be agreeable to put into the measure certain amendments—which, by the way, I am not sure he has seen—we shall be able to see how the Bill stands after it has been committed, and I have no doubt I shall be in a position to give the noble Marquis all the assistance which may be required.—The Bill was then read a second time.

Thursday, July 4th.

Dental Practitioners' Bill.—This Bill passed through Committee.

HOUSE OF COMMONS.—Thursday, July 4th.

Medical Acts Amendment Bill.—Mr. ERRINGTON: I wish to ask the Vice-President of the Council whether he can inform the House what course he proposes to take with reference to the Medical Act Amendment Bill; whether, considering the great differences of opinion which exist on the question of medical reform, and the late period of the session at which we have now arrived—the various Medical Bills standing for second reading for Thursday, July 11th—he will consent to refer the whole question to a Select Committee, in accordance with the petitions of various medical bodies; and, if so, whether he will take an early opportunity of moving for the Committee, so that the inquiry may be actually started this session; and, having obtained the full attention of the medical profession during the autumn, may be resumed early next session under the most favourable circumstances.

—Lord GEORGE HAMILTON: A number of interviews have taken place between the Lord President of the Council and myself, and the various corporations, and the questions of medical education and registration have been thoroughly discussed. Undoubtedly there are on certain minor points some discrepancies of opinion; but, on the main question there are no differences which, in our opinion, may not be satisfactorily discussed and settled. As regards the various other medical Bills, all the objects contained in them are covered by the Government Bill, with the single exception of the reconstruction of the Medical Council, with a view to the direct representation on it of the medical profession; and that question is not, in our opinion, ripe for legislation. We see no reason why its postponement to a subsequent session need impede the passing of the Government Bill this session, and cannot, therefore, assent to the suggestion of those gentlemen to refer these Bills to a Select Committee. I think if time will permit, and we have the assistance of the House in the matter, we shall succeed this year in passing a Bill, which is urgently called for.—Mr. MITCHELL HENRY: Will the noble lord be good enough to say when he will take the second reading of the Government Bill?—Lord GEORGE HAMILTON: I am afraid I am not in a position to state that.

The Medical Acts Amendment Bills.—The following are among the orders of the day for Thursday, July 11th. Medical Act (1858) Amendment Bill (Lords), second reading; Medical Act (1858) Amendment Bill, second reading; Medical Officers' Qualifications Bill, second reading; Medical Act (1858) Amendment (No. 2) Bill, adjourned debate on second reading (June 13th). With respect to the above, the following notices of motion have been given: Mr. Meldoun, on second reading of Medical Act (1858) Amendment Bill (Lords), to move, "That it be read a second time upon this day three months." A similar motion has been given by Mr. M'Laren. Mr. Henry, on second reading of Medical Act (1858) Amendment Bill (Lords), to move, "That no measure of medical reform can be satisfactory which does not provide for the affiliation of all licensed practitioners to one or other of the existing medical corporations either in England, Ireland, or Scotland; and further, that provision should also be made for the direct representation of the profession on the Medical Council." Mr. Errington, after second reading of Medical Act (1858) Amendment Bill (Lords), to move, "That it be referred to a select committee." Dr. Lush has also given notice of a similar motion.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND POOR-LAW MEDICAL SERVICES.

MID-WARWICKSHIRE SANITARY DISTRICT.—This district includes four urban and five rural districts, one being very small—viz., Lillington—which had a birth-rate of only 8.3 and a death-rate of 10.7 per 1,000. Dr. Wilson states that in Warwick Urban District the birth-rate was 33.0 and the death-rate 21.1 per 1,000, against only 17.2 in the rural district. In Milverton, the death-rate was 14.6; in Rugby Urban District, it was 17.8; in Rugby Rural, 18.3; in Solihull Rural, 16.0; in Meriden Rural, 16.8; and in Southam Rural, only 15.1 per 1,000. The zymotic death-rate varied between 0.4 and 2.1 per 1,000.

in the different districts, and the percentage of deaths under one year to total births between 7.1 in Southam and 13.0 in Rugby Urban District. Dr. Wilson gives a detailed account of the work done in the year, and of his method of carrying out his duties, which is very satisfactory, and shows the necessity for special study and training in properly carrying out the duties of a medical officer of health. The want of house-accommodation in some parts of his district is so great, that Dr. Wilson says he could not require more than two hundred cubic feet of air as a minimum without rendering many persons homeless. The water-supply, closet-accommodation, drainage, sanitary condition of schools, and other matters, are also reported upon at some length.

THE POLYMICROSCOPE.

SIR,—I have just seen a notice in the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL for June 15th, that "I. von Lenhossék has constructed an apparatus which permits no fewer than sixty microscopic preparations to be observed in immediate succession without the trouble of changing the slides and readjustment of the object-glass."

I beg to state that ten years ago I had an instrument constructed which shewed forty microscopic preparations in succession; and, a short time afterwards, another, by which double that number (eighty) could be shown without changing slides or object-glass.—I remain, sir, your obedient servant,

T. DAVIDSON.

MEDICAL EXPERTS AS WITNESSES.

SIR,—That portion of the article in to-day's JOURNAL upon Medical Experts as Witnesses in Courts of Justice which relates to fees is very interesting to members of the profession, but the writer gives no advice with regard to a frequent cause of dissatisfaction. It is seldom that a medical man is summoned purely as an expert, and he is then generally well able to take care of himself. More usually the medical witness has to testify to facts, but in the course of his examination is required to draw freely upon professional knowledge for explanations and opinions founded upon the facts spoken to by himself or by others. Supposing that after a whole day's attendance at court he is tendered three shillings as an ordinary witness, what redress has he? Can he, when in the witness box, decline to give opinions or explanations on the ground that he is only a common witness?—Yours faithfully,

JUSTICE.

*.* We regret to say he has no redress. He must accept the tariff of the county or borough, however inadequate the sum for the services rendered. When once in the witness-box and he has given testimony to facts, he cannot decline giving opinions relevant to the facts. The fees allowed to a medical man, whether at the assizes or at coroner's inquests, are wholly disproportionate to the services rendered. An attendance of three or four days is remunerated by the same small fee as that allowed for one day.
