

HOSPITAL AND DISPENSARY MANAGEMENT.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS PROVIDENT DISPENSARY.

THE first annual meeting of the Tunbridge Wells Provident Dispensary was held on the 12th instant. The report, which was read and adopted, gave a satisfactory account of the progress of the institution. There are at the present time more than 1,350 members on the books. During the year, their payments have amounted to £406, and of this sum £268 have been divided among the medical officers. This is a good beginning, and we trust the dispensary may go on growing in popularity and prosperity year by year. It is remarkably well situated, as it occupies premises next door to the infirmary. The leading medical men of the town take a lively interest in its welfare, and several of them are on its acting staff. There is, therefore, good reason to anticipate for it an useful and successful career.

Insufflation of Air into the Intestine.—Reduction of Femoral Hernia by Insufflation.—The School of Medicine.—Re-establishment of Tours.—Sudden Deaths.

SOME of the inaugural theses submitted from time to time to the Faculty of Medicine for the doctorate are remarkable for the perspicacity evinced by their authors, and the thorough acquaintance possessed by them of the subjects treated of. This remark applies particularly to the thesis lately submitted by Dr. Juan B. Gil, on Recherches Expérimentales sur l'Insufflation d'Air dans l'Appareil Gastro-Intestinal. The author, already a doctor of the Faculty of Medical Sciences of Buenos-Ayres, had commenced his researches with the view of elucidating the pathogeny of tympanites, in the production of which intestinal paralysis plays a more important part than is generally supposed. The experiments performed on animals are extremely curious and interesting, and the following are the conclusions arrived at by the author. Insufflation of air into the digestive tube by the rectum reaches the stomach and produces distension of that organ, just as if the insufflation had been practised directly by the œsophagus, without the ileo-cæcal valve affording the least obstacle to the passage of the air; but, in order to effect this, it is necessary to stop up the anus, which Dr. Gil does by introducing an "obturateur", an apparatus devised by him, and which is depicted in the thesis. According to Dr. Gil, a dog may without inconveniences support an intestinal tension of 9.2 centimètres of the mercurial column; whereas, in a rabbit, such a pressure would produce perforation of the intestine; and the author noticed that, in the dog, insufflation of air into the stomach was constantly attended with vomiting when that organ attained its utmost limit of distension. This phenomenon is absent in the rabbit; but expulsive contractions of the abdominal muscles are, nevertheless, observed. Vomiting is produced even when carbonic acid, hydrogen, or water is injected instead of air, and continues even after section of the pneumogastric nerves. The vomiting is reproduced as well by electrically exciting the central portions as the peripheric extremities of these nerves, whether the stomach is or not previously distended with gas or liquid. Vomiting from intestinal insufflation does not occur during complete anaesthesia, but it begins as soon as the sensibility of the cornea returns. The convulsive contractions of the abdominal muscles and of the diaphragm which characterise vomiting do not appear to take place during intestinal insufflation, when the nerves of the stomach are cut off from their vasculo-nervous connections by a strong ligature. The same thing has been observed in animals curarised. Insufflation by the intestine of air saturated with the vapours of chloroform produces anaesthesia, as well as by pulmonary inhalation; but the intestinal anaesthesia is less manageable, as absorption continues even after the desired degree of anaesthesia has been obtained. Pulmonary insufflation constantly lowers the arterial tension from 12 to 4 centimètres, and even less, of the mercurial standard; whereas intestinal insufflation always raises it, although but slightly. The first raises the venous tension; the second raises it also, but in a slight degree. During the vomiting produced by the injection of air into the intestine, the arterial and venous tension increase considerably. Intestinal insufflation to a pressure of 9.2 centimètres of the mercurial standard reduces by nearly one-half the capacity of the lungs. Sphygmographic tracings, representing the arterial and venous tensions, are given at the end of the thesis. Such are the important results obtained by Dr. Gil with his experiments, which will doubtless be called into requisition in the treatment of many medical and surgical cases of disease.

The following case, related by the Gazette des Hôpitaux, would seem to afford an illustration of the efficacy of intestinal insufflation of air or gas in certain forms of disease. A woman aged 58 had a left femoral hernia for about twenty years, which was kept in a reduced condition by a truss, which one day she neglected to wear, when the hernia returned, and, notwithstanding the proper application of the taxis, purgative enemata, etc., it remained irreducible for five days; and, urgent symptoms having set in, Dr. Guernonprez of Annappes, the patient's medical attendant, recollecting that cases of intestinal obstruction had been overcome by the administration of lavements of eau de Seltz or ordinary soda-water, resolved to try the remedy in this case. He accordingly administered an enema of this liquid; but, this having failed to produce the desired effect, he administered a second, but with no better result. The next day, two more lavements were unsuccessfully administered, and an operation was decided upon; but, on the third day, when preparations were being made for the operation, the hernia was found reduced, with the exception of a small knuckle of omentum, which was reduced by the taxis without any difficulty.

The long projected improvements of the School of Medicine to which I referred in a former letter are being carried into effect, and, on the 4th instant, the foundation-stone of the École Pratique, which is a branch of the School of Medicine, was laid by M. Bardoux, the Minister of Public Instruction, in the presence of the Professors of the Faculty, a great number of medical students, and some of the higher dignitaries of the city. The new school is to be built on the ground occupied by the Hôpital des Cliniques, which has been pulled down; and its cost is estimated at 12,000,000 francs, or £480,000. It will contain one hundred and eighty tables for dissection, instead of eighty, which now exist in the old school. There will be six amphitheatres, and the number of professors and teachers will also be considerably increased. Thus the French are determined to show that they will no longer be behind their neighbours in affording every means and facilities for the extension of the medical sciences; but they will have to put up with their present position for the next four years, as it is estimated that it will take at least that time before the works are completed.

The re-establishment of the tours is another long-talked-of scheme, to which I had also referred in a previous letter, but which is now about to become a realised fact; but, instead of one general tour for the reception of abandoned infants, there will be one for each arrondissement or district. The buildings are to be situated in the most conspicuous places in the public streets, the offices of which will be kept open day and night, and the employés are to be sworn to the utmost secrecy, any disclosure being met by a most severe penalty. Every facility will be afforded to mothers and others for depositing infants at these establishments, which will be provided with a staff of medical men, nurses, inspectors, etc., who will be under the immediate control of the Minister of the Interior.

Two sudden deaths in rapid succession of husband and wife having lately taken place in Paris, suspicion of poisoning was naturally excited in the minds of some of the friends of the deceased couple, and the authorities were induced to institute an inquiry into the case. The result showed that the husband's death was caused by disease of the heart, and that of the wife by the bursting of an aneurism brought on by the intense sorrow she experienced by the death of her husband in her arms. These two cases would point to the necessity of having coroners' inquests, an institution entirely ignored in France.

PUBLIC HEALTH AND POOR-LAW MEDICAL SERVICES.

DISTRICT MEDICAL RELIEF IN THE GUILDFORD UNION.

THE Surrey Advertiser of the 14th instant reports the evidence taken at a very important Poor-law inquiry which took place in the board-room of the Guildford Union on the 12th instant. The inquiry was conducted by Mr. Henley and Dr. Mouat, Local Government Board Inspectors. Nominally, it was an investigation into the system of district medical relief in this union; practically, however, the inquiry was narrowed to the issue how Mr. Taylor, medical officer of No. 1 District, had performed his duties, though, in the course of the investigation, evidence came out which impugned the public conduct of the board as well.

It would appear that, with the view to checking out-door medical relief, or, more properly speaking, curtailing the orders for stimulants and extras, the board of guardians in 1871 adopted the following resolution: "That, with a view to checking the medical relief and effecting the more speedy cure of cases requiring such relief, it is ordered that no medical relief be given by the relieving officer out of the house for more than a fortnight, unless a certificate be given from the medical officer to the effect that the patient cannot be removed." This is dated October 28th, 1871. It would appear that this resolution was forthwith forwarded to all the district medical officers. The majority, it seems, accepted it without reservation; not so Mr. Taylor. During the seven years which have elapsed since its adoption, he has repeatedly, in the column of the medical relief-book devoted to observations, drawn the attention of the guardians to the fact that, in accordance with their resolution, he had ceased to attend the case, notably as the relieving officer, in obedience to his instructions, had declined to carry out his recommendation for medical extras. It does not appear, however, that any notice has been taken by the board until recently, when, Mr. Taylor having made himself obnoxious to certain of the guardians, a request through the chairman of the board, the Hon. J. Scott, was made to the Local Government Board that an official inquiry should be instituted.

It must be abundantly obvious that the literal compliance with this decision of the guardians would entail much needless suffering on the sick poor, many of whom, to our knowledge, will resist every effort which a board of guardians may make to force them into the house. As the subject is now under the consideration of the Local Government Board, we refrain for the present from further comment.

MR. HENLEY, POOR-LAW INSPECTOR, ON THE REMUNERATION FOR MEDICAL SERVICES.

THE Board of Guardians of the Reading Union recently resolved to augment the stipend of one of their district medical officers from £125 to £150, on account of the great increase in his work. The proposed increase was in due course communicated to the Local Government Board; and that Board having referred the matter to Mr. Henley, the local inspector, that gentleman gave a decision adverse to Mr. Lowsley. Hearing of this, Mr. Lowsley at once communicated with the Local Government Board, and showed conclusively that Mr. Henley was in error in asserting that his duties had not increased, and therefore that his salary needed no revision. Inter alia, he exhibited that Mr. Henley, in his effort to prevent his getting an increase of his stipend, had taken as his basis for calculation the years 1874 and 1875, altogether overlooking the fact that in the interim the population, pauperism, and sickness had increased 48 per cent.

We are pleased to notice that the guardians of this union, honourably distinguishable among provincial unions for their enlightened views on the importance of efficient outdoor medical relief, as evidenced by their early adoption of the dispensary system, have remonstrated with the Local Government Board, and have requested a reconsideration of Mr. Lowsley's case. This view the Reading Express, in its issue of the 11th instant, heartily and generously endorses.

MEDICAL SUPERVISION OF SCHOOLS.

A VERY serviceable and timely memorial on this subject has been presented to the Right Hon. George Sclater-Booth, M.P., President of the Local Government Board, by the members of the Liverpool Medical Institution. It sets forth that, as epidemics of children's diseases constantly occur in this country, and have been very prevalent in this town of late, and as the death-rate is high, the members of this Institution, feeling the importance of checking the spread of these diseases, and knowing that the active support of the Government is necessary to this end, pray that he will give the subject his most careful consideration. Scarlatina, measles, whooping-cough, and other diseases of children, appear periodically in an epidemic form, and cause much suffering and many deaths. The medical profession is unanimously of opinion that the prevalence of these diseases can be greatly diminished, and further believes that public schools in their present state are active centres of infection for these and other contagious and infectious maladies. A movement for remedying this evil was set on foot in Liverpool some years ago, and was supported by many leading members of the profession. The medical press has since declared its concurrence with the remedy then proposed; viz., a systematic medical supervision and inspection of public schools. The memorialists consider this a necessary measure, and hope that the recommendation of it will meet with approval, particularly since medical supervision has been made obligatory under analogous conditions, viz., under the Factory Act and in the Emigration Service. They suggest that the duties of the proposed medical inspectors of schools should chiefly consist in preventing children who have been suffering from infectious diseases from attending school before the infective period has passed, in visiting the houses of children absent from school in consequence of illness, and in making strict inquiries into the general sanitary condition of the respective families. Under existing arrangements, the warnings sent to schools by medical officers of health generally come too late to answer any practical purpose; and it must further be considered that such officers by no means obtain information of all infectious cases. The duties of the proposed medical inspectors should, they suggest, further consist in ascertaining and certifying that the children seeking admission have been properly vaccinated and are free from contagious skin-disease. There should be also medical inspection of the school-premises and of the children in attendance, carried out in such a way as to interfere as little as possible with the work of instruction. The memorialists are aware that they must limit their request for medical inspection to public schools which are under the control of the Government; but they feel confident that managers of private schools will very soon not only not object to, but court, medical supervision. This timely and valuable document is signed, on behalf of the members, by Dr. A. T. H. Waters and Dr. Richard Caton, Honorary Secretaries of the Institution.

STATE OF THE RIVER THAMES.

THE condition of many of the bodies recovered from the Thames after the Princess Alice collision drew attention in a most forcible manner to the present state of the river, and, together with the statements made by Mr. Harry Leach, has induced the Metropolitan Board to take samples at various parts between London Bridge and Greenhithe. Mr. Harry Leach stated, in his last report, that the present system still keeps the sewage in the Thames; that it still continues to be conveyed up and down as the tide ebbs and flows (though, of course, much diluted); and that the heavier and grosser particles are deposited upon the banks and in the bed of the river. Captain Culver has gone further, and said that in many parts large banks are being formed in the bed of the river from sewage-deposits; and that it is gradually becoming silted up. Mr. Wigner also stated, in his report to the Woolwich Board, that the smell of the water was offensive at many places, especially between the gasworks and North Woolwich Pier, being "most offensive" near the powder magazine. He also noticed the evolution of sulphuretted hydrogen when the mud was stirred up. He examined a sample of mud taken from the foreshore of the river, which he found full of particles of muscular fibre and of partially decomposed food of various kinds, which evidently could not have come from the mere attrition of the banks, but must have been deposited from it is opening its sleepy eyes, in gaping and bewildering astonishment, at the position in which it finds itself. "Serve it well right" is the verdict of, sir, your obedient servant,

R. H. S. CARPENTER.

DIPHTHERIA: A RECLAMATION.

SIR.—At the present time, when the subject of diphtheria is justly claiming a great amount of public and professional attention, I think that it is only a matter of fairness for me to be allowed to point out that many of the views as to the nature, relations and origin of this disease, now put forward as novelties, have been adopted and published by myself for many years.

In your leading article of last week, for instance, you state truly that in 1875 Sir William Jenner boldly expressed a view that, although diphtheria was undoubtedly contagious, yet it might arise spontaneously and independently of contagion. Now, I had not only entertained this view long before, but I had proved its truth by cases of my own and post mortem examinations made by myself, which were published in the ordinary channels of medical information. Again, it is well known that, in the year just mentioned, Sir William Jenner expressed his conversion to the opinion that the so-called "membranous croup" and "laryngo-tracheal diphtheria" were essentially the same disease, although it is equally well known that, in his little book on Diphtheria published some years before, he had expressed an entirely opposite opinion. Now, I had published in 1871, in 1872, and in 1873, and indeed in 1865, not only my views as to the real nature of diphtheria, which are exactly the same as those now entertained by Sir William Jenner, but also the pathological and historical evidence on which my views were based.

In making these remarks, I do not intend to offer the slightest disrespect to Sir William Jenner, who probably never saw any of my numerous writings on the subject, and for whom, moreover, on grounds of former intimate friendship and present professional courtesies, I entertain the deepest regard; and I am sure that he is one of the last men who would desire to deny me the credit (if it be such) of having struggled for many years in endeavouring to establish, in spite of vehement opposition, the truth of views which are now beginning to be generally recognised.

In proof of what I state, I refer any one to my published papers; and I forward you one or two papers and abstracts, which, as they abound in references and dates, may also be found of service to those of your staff who are writing on the subject of diphtheria.—I remain, sir, your obedient servant,

R. H. SEMPLE, M.D., F.R.C.P.

PURE SPASMODIC ASTHMA.

SIR.—In answer to "A Puzzled Practitioner's" inquiry, I would suggest a trial of the following remedy, which has afforded great relief to like suffering patients that have been under the care of yours truly,

A PHYSICIAN.

℞ Tinct. stramonii, tinct. conii, sp. ætheris, 3i 3ss ad 3ii; potassæ bicarbon. ʒi; infusi lupuli ad ʒvi. M. Ft. mistura, cujus capiat cochlearia magna horis duabus post cibum bis terve die.

SIR.—In answer to "Puzzled Practitioner" in your last number, I have found the following very useful in spasmodic asthma. ℞ Tinct. lobelie inflatæ ʒiss.; spir. ammoniac comp. ʒii; potassæ bicarbon. ʒi; ætheris chlorici ʒi; aquæ camphoræ q. s. ad ʒvi. Two tablespoonfuls to be taken every four hours.—Yours faithfully, 61, Clarence Road, Lower Clapton, Dec 14th, 1878. ALFRED CHARLTON.

SIR.—I would recommend "A Puzzled Practitioner" to try "Himrod's Asthma Cure". It may be procured from Newbery and Sons, 37, Newgate Street. I have found it more generally useful than the inhalation of chloroform, ether, or nitrite of amyl. It is an American remedy, and I think must be prepared from some solanaceous plant. For use, a small quantity is burnt on a plate, and the smoke inhaled.—Yours truly, GEORGE BIRT, M.B. LOND.

SIR.—Change of residence is one of the most potent aids in treating asthma. Some persons (myself for one) suffer only in dry smoky fogs, such as are alone seen in London, Manchester, etc. I left London seven years ago from this cause, and now live in a town of 40,000 people near the Thames, where the fogs are damp, and in these I do not suffer. I have seen exactly the reverse, however: the country affects some, London agreeing. But I have seen two cases where the house was obviously the exciting cause. In both cases the houses had dry rot at some period, and smelt fusty, with a sour sort of smell before rain. The drugs I have found of use are sulphate of zinc, bromide of potassium, sedatives—such as henbane or conium—rarely opiate. On the other hand, stimulants occasionally relieve. The best cigarettes for smoking (so far as my experience goes) are some made by Butler, McCulloch, and Co., of Covent Garden, London (rs. 6d. per box): they contain stramonium. "Cigars de Joy" relieve some, but are best smoked cut up and put into the bowl of a clean pipe. I have seen both forms relieve a severe attack, which usually lasted some hours, in a few minutes, enabling the patient (a lad aged 13) to lie down after smoking. In diet, cheese, beer, and late suppers should be avoided. If a patient smoke stramonium cigarettes, it is well to smoke directly the attack threatens ever so slightly, to try and break the "habit" of recurrent attacks.—I am, sir, etc., M.D. and B.A.

HE METRIC SYSTEM FOR PRESCRIBERS.

METRIC documents have been forwarded to Mr. T. Outterson Wood, General Lunatic Asylum, Isle of Man; Mr. G. D. Brown, Ealing; Mr. John M. Moir, Kerriemuir; and others.

AN OLD MEMBER (Huddersfield).—1. A course of instruction at Dr. Corfield's Laboratory of Hygiene; 2. Parkes's Treatise on Hygiene; 3. Wilson's or Hart's Manuals of Health.

CORONERS AND MEDICAL WITNESSES.

SIR.—Will you kindly give your opinion on the following case?—

A child is found dead, brought to the West Bromwich Hospital by the police, and examined by the House-Surgeon. Mr. John Manley, who happens to be the Police Surgeon here, but is not on the staff of the Hospital, calls at the Hospital some time after the child was brought, and casually sees the body. An inquest is held, and the Coroner issues his summons for a post mortem examination, not to the House-Surgeon who first saw the case, and in whose charge it was left by the police, but to Mr. Manley, the House-Surgeon being altogether ignored.

I may add that the Coroner here seldom calls upon any medical man except Mr. Manley to give evidence before him, even in cases where another medical man had been previously called in.—I am, sir, yours truly, West Bromwich, November 27th, 1878. H. SUTCLIFFE, Surgeon.

. The precept should have been issued to the House-Surgeon.

URINARY TEST-CASE.

SIR.—Your correspondent will find that the most useful test-case which exists is the one designed by Dr. Reginald Alexander of Bradford, and highly commended by Dr. George Johnson, at whose suggestion a nitric acid bottle in an ebonite protecting box has been added; the nitric acid capillary tubes having been found unsatisfactory and misleading in testing for albumen. This test case carries everything necessary for all practical purposes at the bedside; it is thoroughly portable, durable, and strong, and is sold at 35s. by Hawksley, of Oxford Street, and Messrs. Arnold and Sons, West Smithfield, London.—I am, sir, your obedient servant, J. C. SAUNDERS, M.A.,

Fellow and Lecturer on Natural Science, Downing College, Cambridge.

November 26th, 1878.

THE Editor has forwarded copies of the printed Suggestions for establishing and managing coffee-taverns, as requested, to Dr. Harris of Redruth, Dr. Pearce of Botesdale, Professor Longmore of Netley, and Dr. Trier of Lurgan.

MEASUREMENT OF THE FŒTUS.

ACCORDING to Dr. Delabost of Rouen, the length of the fœtus for the first six months of intrauterine life is indicated in centimètres by the square of the number of the corresponding month. Thus, at 1 month, a fœtus measures 1 centimètre; at 2 months, 4 centimètres; at 3 months, 9; at 4 months, 16; at 5 months, 25; at 6 months, 36. During the last three months, the monthly rate of growth is 4 or 5 centimètres.

A. F. S.—The address of Dr. Marion Sims in Paris is 3, Rue Montalivet.

J. C. W. (Dartford) will find the information required in the collected letters of a Member of the Charity Organisation Society on the Abuse of Hospitals, etc., which are republished from the BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL, at the office, 161, Strand, with appended Model Rules for Provident Dispensaries.
