GLOUCESTERSHIRE BRANCH: ANNUAL MEETING.

THE annual meeting was held on Tuesday, November 18th, in the board room of the General Infirmary, Gloucester, under the presidency of Dr. WILSON of Cheltenham.

Previously to the meeting, the members of the Association inspected the new offices of the Hospital, by which the entire system of drainage has been carried outside the building, and every communication with a drain has been separated from the wards by passages with free air-currents.

Election of Officers.—Dr. BOND called attention to the difficulties attending the present mode of election of officers ; and the council was instructed to take the matter into consideration and to report upon it.

President-elect.—Mr. T. S. ELLIS of Gloucester was elected president for the ensuing year.

Communications.—The following communications were read.

2. Mr. CRIPPS (Cirencester) brought before the meeting a case of Disease of the Testicle.

3. Mr. ELLIS called attention to the benefit to be derived in cases of Paralysis, even of long standing, from the Injection of Strychnia, and the use of the Continuous Current.

4. Mr. ELLIS also exhibited an Arm-Splint, which he had found of great service, and to the comfort of which the members present were all able to testify.

5. Dr. BATTEN gave the report of a case of Tumour of the Medulla Oblongata, occurring in a foreign sailor in his wards in the Infirmary, with the various symptoms present during the time.

6. Dr. BATTEN brought forward the subject of Hypermetropia as a very common cause of Nerve-disturbance, pointing out the mode of its diagnosis, and illustrating, by many cases, how excessively common these cases were, and how readily, when once recognised, these cases, of long-standing headaches, and giddiness, and upper dorsal spinal curvature, etc., were cured by the use of properly selected spectacles. In fact, so much had he been impressed with the frequency of this cause, that he had for a long time never neglected to examine the condition of the eye in any case of brain-disturbance.

Dinner.—The members afterwards supped together at the Bell Hotel.

The mortality from all causes was at the average rate of 25 deaths annually in every 1,000 persons living. The annual death-rate was 20 per 1,000 in Edinburgh, 17 in Glasgow, and 31 in Dublin. The annual rates of mortality in the twenty English towns were as follow: Portsmouth 15, Bradford 17, Sunderland 20, Newcastle-upon-Tyne 21, Oldham 22, Brighton 22, Norwich 22, Sheffield 22, Leicester 22, Salford 24, Birmingham 25, Manchester 25, Wolverhampton 26, London 26, Bristol 26, Leeds 27, Nottingham 27, Hull 28, Liverpool 29, and the highest rate 34 in Plymouth. The annual death-rate from the seven principal zymotic diseases averaged 3.9 per 1,000 in the twenty towns, and ranged from 0.5 and 0.7 in Oldham and Wolverhampton, to 5.5 and 5.8 in Leeds and Liverpool, and 7.0 in Plymouth. Scarlet fever showed the largest proportional fatality in Leicester, Nottingham, Bristol, and Newcastle-upon-Tyne; measles in Liverpool, Plymouth, and Leeds. Diphtheria caused 8 deaths in London and 2 in Birmingham. Four fatal cases of small-pox were recorded in London and its outer ring of suburban districts, but not one in any of the nineteen large provincial towns. In London, 1,802 deaths were registered, being 45 above the average, and giving an annual death-rate of 26.0. The 1,802 deaths included 3 from small-pox, 78 from measles, 102 from scarlet fever, 8 from diphtheria, 49 from whooping-cough, 28 from different forms of fever, and 13 from diarrhoea—in all, 281 deaths, which were one above the average, and equal to an annual rate of 4.1 per 1,000. The deaths referred to diseases of the respiratory organs, which in the seven preceding weeks had ranged from 190 to 499, further rose last week to 576, and exceeded the corrected weekly average by 89; 373 resulted from bronchitis, and 153 from pneumonia. Different forms of violence caused 38 deaths; 35 were the result of negligence or accident, including 14 from fractures and contusions, 7 from burns and scalds, 2 from poison, and 7 of infants under one year of age from suffocation. At Greenwich, the mean temperature of the air was 33.2°, and 7.7° below the average. The general direction of the wind was north-easterly, and the horizontal movement of the air averaged 7.8 miles per hour, which was 4.5 below the average. Rain or melted snow was measured on four days of the week, to the aggregate amount of 0.19 of an inch. The duration of registered bright sunshine in the week was equal to 20 per cent. of its possible duration.

PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT.—We shall be much obliged to Medical Officers of Health if they will, on forwarding their Annual and other Reports, favour us with Duplicate Copies.

CORRESPONDENTS who wish notice to be taken of their communications, should authenticate them with their names—of course not necessarily for publication.

WE CANNOT UNDERTAKE TO RETURN MANUSCRIPTS NOT USED.

MR. PEARCE (Plymouth) informs us that his paper "On the Treatment of Consumption", on the appearance of which in a local paper we recently commented unfavourably, was forwarded without his knowledge by the publisher of the Medical Press to the Plymouth Mercury. We observe, in fact, that the publisher makes in his last number that discreditable avowal, pretending, apparently, that he sees no difference between news paragraphs, which may be harmlessly copied by political daily papers, and communications of a technical character communicated by medical men on the treatment of disease to a medical paper for discussion by their medical brethren.

CABS FOR COUNTRY PRACTITIONERS.

SIR.—In your impression of the 29th ultimo, a "General Practitioner" asks about a two-wheeled cab for country practice. When I was in general practice in the East Riding of Yorkshire, I had a covered cab to seat four people. Nothing I have had since has been so satisfactory; and although this is a very hilly country, I am now having one built for me. My horse is 14.3 high, a strong cob. It has the advantage of having the driver under cover, driving through the open window in front; and when the rain beats in, the windows can be closed and the reins put through a slit over them, in which they work on a roller. The top takes off and makes a comfortable open car. The only requirement is, that you should have a horse which does not need much whip, as it is necessary to open the window to use the whip when the rain necessitates driving with it closed. The car is built and finished like a circular fronted brougham, but the door is behind. The maker is William Roberts, coachbuilder, of Great Driffield; the price is fifty guineas.—Yours truly,

HALIFAX, Dec. 1st, 1879.

THOS. BRITTON, M.D.

SIR.—I should be greatly obliged if any of your correspondents would kindly give me any suggestions in the following case. A young lady, aged 19, has suffered several years from what appears a chronic congestion of the Schneidean membrane. The membrane looks abraded, but there is no discharge, but fibrinous casts occasionally come away, with a slight staining of blood. In cold weather, and frequently after meals, the end of the nose on the affected side gets very red; there is a dry burning sensation in the nose, and occasionally intense itching. The general health is very good, with the exception of dyspeptic troubles.—Yours obediently,

OZENA.

POISONING OF INFANTS BY OPIATES.

SIR.—Mr. Good having wisely brought before your notice the report of an inquest held here on the 31st ultimo, and whose communication appears in the JOURNAL for November 22nd, I should like to give a few more details of the case, and when these other facts are known it will still be more plainly apparent that the jury returned a wrong and misleading verdict. It is very uncertain what dose of the Godfrey's cordial was given to the infant. A pennyworth was obtained from the druggist for the mother, who took most of it, leaving a little in the bottom of the glass, which she poured into a spoon and gave to the baby. The nurse who gave evidence at the inquest said there would not be more than four drops in the spoon; but four drops were not actually measured by dropping. The nurse is aged, and by the meagre light of a lamp it is very likely she could not have formed a very correct idea as to how much there really was in the spoon, and I should think it most probable that the child had considerably more than four drops.

You will be surprised to learn the strength of this Godfrey's cordial. The druggist in his evidence stated that he made it in the proportion of one ounce of gum opium to the gallon of water and syrup, etc. Now, if all the properties of the opium were abstracted, there would be equal to three grains of opium in one ounce of the cordial; but even supposing only two-thirds were abstracted, there would be two grains of opium in an ounce—an extremely dangerous compound to give to infants.

The coroner summed up in a very clear manner, putting the nature of the evidence plainly before the jury; and if they had only received the enlightenment and instruction from the coroner's summing up which they might have done, they would have returned a different verdict, and not one opposed to his advice. But to show the extraordinary intelligence of the "twelve countrymen", they, after a consultation in private, at first gave their verdict as "Death from natural causes, accelerated by diarrhoea". And upon the coroner explaining that diarrhoea was a natural cause, and that therefore the last three words of this verdict were unnecessary, they agreed to withdraw the words "accelerated by diarrhoea", and let their verdict be recorded as "Death from natural causes". I think that any one knowing the facts of the case will agree with me that there is little doubt the child died from the effects of the narcotic.—I am, sir, yours obediently,
