DISEASES OF THE JOINTS AND SPINE.

By HOWARD MARSH,

Surgeon to, and Joint Lecturer on Surgery at, St. Bartholomew's Hospital, Consulting Surgeon to the Hospital for Sick Children, Examiner in Surgery at the University of Cambridge.

"It is clear, well arranged, full of practical work, and excellent alike for reading and for reference. The chapters on Charcot's Disease, on Bone-setters, and on the different forms of Epiphysitis, are models of good clinical teaching; and the chapters on Diseases of the Spine, now first published, are admirable. The illustrations are well chosen; the whole book is the outcome of wide experience, careful observation, and what is called 'surgical instinct.'"—British Medical Journal.
