For the internal treatment of

Syphilis Merjodin

(a practical and discreet preparation in tablet form) has been highly recommended by many physicians. According to clinical observations Merjodin is specially suitable for "intermediate and after-treatment" and is also very useful with other mercurial treatments and Salvarsan. Merjodin is pleasant to take, and is distinguished by being absorbed without irritation, and is without contra-indication. Administered in increasing doses it causes even obstinate symptoms to disappear.

In original bottles of 50 tablets. Only procurable from the chemist on a physician's prescription.

Literature and trial samples free to members of the medical profession from H. Trommsdorff, chem. works, Aix-la-Chapelle NO 53.

LISTERINE

is an efficient, non-toxic antiseptic of known and definite power, prepared in a form convenient for immediate use.

It is a saturated solution of boric acid, reinforced by the antiseptic properties of ozoniferous oils.

It is unirritating, even when applied to the most delicate tissue.

It does not coagulate serous albumen.

It is quite generally accepted as the standard antiseptic preparation for use where a poisonous or corrosive disinfectant can not be safely used.

It is particularly useful in the treatment of abnormal conditions of the mucosa, and admirably suited for a wash, gargle or douche in catarrhal conditions of the nose and throat.

In proper dilution, it may be freely and continuously used without prejudicial effect, either by injection or spray, in all the natural cavities of the body.

There is no possibility of poisonous effect through the absorption of Listerine.

A pamphlet descriptive of the antiseptic, and indicating its utility, in medical, surgical and dental practice, may be had upon application to Lambert Pharmacal Company, Locust and 21st Sts., St. Louis, Mo., U.S.A., or their British Agents, Messrs. S. Maw, Son & Sons, 7, Aldersgate Street, London, but the best advertisement of Listerine is

Of Proved Efficacy in Intestinal Disorders

ANGIER'S EMULSION

In the treatment of intestinal disorders with purified petroleum, the best results will be obtained if administered in the form of Angier's Emulsion. In this form, the minutely divided petroleum globules mingle freely with the intestinal contents and are more widely and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract. Moreover, the Emulsion forms an adherent, protective coating to the inflamed or ulcerated mucous membrane, a factor of much importance in many cases. Angier's Emulsion mixes instantly and perfectly with water and may be administered either undiluted or in any suitable beverage. It will be found much more acceptable to fastidious patients than will petroleum in any other form.

"After long experience of many forms of paraffin and petroleum, both in the character of emulsions and otherwise, I have found none so satisfactory as Angier's Petroleum Emulsion." — M.D., D.Sc., M.A.

SAVORY & MOORE'S MAGNESIA COMPOUND

(Magnesia Composita, S. & M.)

For the Relief of WIND, GRIPING PAINS, etc.

Savory & Moore's Magnesia Compound is a pleasantly flavoured Carminative preparation of freshly precipitated Magnesia, readily taken by the youngest baby, and without the serious disadvantages of Calcined Magnesia.

The magnesia exists as the semi-liquid magnesium hydroxide, the blandest and most highly available form for the instant neutralisation and removal of any sour or acid secretion. It is combined with simple Aromatics and Carminatives. Unlike Calcined Magnesia this preparation cannot form dangerous concretions internally. As the magnesia is not held in solution by carbonic acid gas, the preparation is not liable to suffer serious diminution in strength or to develop flatulence.

In the many ailments of infancy arising from digestive causes or through the irritability of teething, Savory & Moore's Magnesia Compound will be found invaluable. The warming and stimulating carminatives present in the Compound allay any tendency to griping or pain arising from Flatulence. It relieves wind, griping pains, indigestion, sickness, diarrhoea, and constipation. The preparation is entirely free from Opium or other narcotics, also from sugar, and it does not owe its properties to alcohol.

A SAMPLE of the MAGNESIA COMPOUND may be obtained on application to:—

APENTA

"Apenta" Water has always been given the preference by me over similar waters in my practice in the West-African Tropics on account of its numerous advantages. It is just in hot climates where the European specially by reason of the greatly increased loss of moisture through the skin, by change of food, and as a consequence of the most common illness in the Tropics, namely Malaria, is inclined to constipation. Apenta has proved itself as a reliable and mild aperient, free from unpleasant after effects, and one which is taken willingly by patients. It has also shown itself to stand the heat of the Tropics.

NEAVE'S MILK FOOD (STARCHLESS)

For Babies from Birth.

Introduced for those requiring a Milk Food for Babies from Birth. It is absolutely free from starch, rich in fat and in composition very closely resembles Mother's Milk, and where this is not available or is deficient in quantity or quality it may be given either alone or in conjunction with the breast without causing nausea afterwards.

Instantly prepared by adding Hot Water only.

Dr. —, D.Sc., M.D., D.P.H., London, reports 25th March, 1909:—"When diluted with 7 to 8 parts of water, the mixture would closely resemble human milk in composition. The fat would then be about 3 per cent. This is very satisfactory."

MEDICAL REVIEW, Nov. 1910.—"When diluted with water, yields a preparation almost identical with human milk."

A LONDON COUNTY COUNCIL DISTRICT NURSE reports, 21st June, 1910:—"That in her Municipal work she finds that Neave's Milk Food is the only Food she has ever known that babies can take in conjunction with mother's milk without being sick afterwards."

A LONDON M.D., etc., writes:—"I consider your 'Neave's Health Diet' a most efficient preparation for Invalids. Nursing mothers, and persons suffering from weak digestion, being far more nutritious than beef tea."—8th Sept., 1909.

A LONDON M.D., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., etc., writes:—"I am exceedingly satisfied with 'Neave's Health Diet.' In a case of ulcer of the stomach it was the only food the patient could keep down. Its nice flavour gives it a great advantage over all the other Foods on the market, and I introduce it as a regular food in many cases."—8th March, 1909.

The Value of Albulactin in Augmenting the Colloid Element in Cow's Milk.

While the action of reversible colloids in preventing irreversible colloids from coagulation has been understood only in recent years, it has long been known that certain substances prevent the casein of milk—an irreversible colloid—from coagulating in large, thick curds when used for infant feeding.

Recent investigations have shown that the reason why human milk forms soft, highly comminuted flakes in the infant's stomach is because it contains much reversible or protective colloid in the shape of milk-albumin. Cow's milk contains very little of this substance, hence the large tough curds it forms in the infant's stomach.

More than this, the problem of artificial infant-feeding is further complicated by the fact that by far the largest proportion of proteid in human milk exists as milk-albumin, while there is relatively little in cow's milk. Dr. Still's analysis proves this strikingly.

When cow's milk is diluted to make the total proteids agree in quantity, the child gets 1.6 per cent. of casein and only 0.37 per cent. of milk-albumin, or nearly three times more casein than it ought and only a quarter of the milk-albumin.

If the milk is further reduced to make the casein proportion correct, the milk-albumin is reduced to about one-tenth of what it ought to be.

The solution of the infant-feeding problem, therefore, resolves itself logically into the addition of sufficient milk-albumin to supply the necessary protective colloid and to furnish enough easily digested proteid. This is best done by Albulactin, which is simply pure, sterile, soluble milk-albumin, and is being extensively used by the Profession.

"VASELINE" IN TUBES.

Germ-Contamination Impossible.

The putting up of "Vaseline" in hygienic pure tin tubes successively obviates the risk of all germ contamination or chemical change. The contents of the tubes are guaranteed to be untouched by hand until they are squeezed from the tubes.

The ingenious method of machinery-packing precludes the possibility of germ-laden air getting to the preparation, and we feel sure that the medical profession will greatly appreciate these precautions—in view of the host of preparations available at the present day which are packed by careless and often dangerously slipshod methods.

As is well known there is no base so suitable for ointments as pure "Vaseline." It is the most salutary means of conveying standard specifics known to science, as its emollient, antiseptic and healing properties peculiarly fit the preparation as a medium—and, what is more important, perhaps, it can never turn rancid or decompose, as do animal or vegetable fats.

"Vaseline" is not a mere distillate, but a highly concentrated essence, which goes through innumerable and highly specialised processes of refinement and filtration, leaving an absolutely tasteless and odourless jelly of great medicinal value.

A New Member of the Vaseline Group.

"VASELINE" ANALGIC:

Contains Menthol and Methyl-Salicylate, with pure "Vaseline" as a base. The value of these essentials in medicine is too well known to the Profession to need explanation.

This speciality is confidently recommended for Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Sprains and Painful Conditions generally. A thorough massaging with it produces excellent results.

Sold to the public in the ordinary way in ONE SHILLING TUBES.
Special terms to the Nursing Profession will be quoted on application.

"Ever since you introduced your food I have been in the habit of prescribing it for Infants and Invalids, and in my opinion it surpasses and absolutely supersedes all other foods and humanised milk.

"The laxative effect of your Food when the pre-digestion has been carried pretty far is one of its most valued qualities, and can be regulated precisely according to the time of the digestive process. By graduating this a most perfect adjustment of the action of the bowels may be secured."

MIST. HEPATICA CONC. (HEWLETT'S)

COMPOSITION.—Ext. Cascaræ, Ext. Rhei, Jalapin, Podophyllin, Cocainæ Hydrochlor., 1-12th gr. in each fluid drachm.

THIS excellent compound, first introduced as a general aperient and cholagogue, has now become a popular remedy, and attention has very recently been called to the value of the mixture, by various authorities, in that class of cases spoken of as Chronic Biliousness, in Catarrhal Jaundice, and in the Jaundice of simple Hepatic Torpor. The remedial value of the compound depends chiefly upon the power which it possesses in influencing the action of the liver and other glandular organs of the alimentary canal. The remedy would not seem to be indicated in Hepatitis with high fever, so much as in the more chronic form of the affection which ends in enlargement and induration of the organ. In passive or habitual Congestion of the Liver, so frequently met with, it has been used with marked benefit. Even in the early stages of cirrhosis, whilst the liver is still enlarged, the compound should be regularly given, as great benefit has been derived from its use.

In the treatment of acute or temporary constipation, frequently met with in the convalescence from acute disease, and in pregnancy, or in the constipation due to sedentary habits, to habitual overwork (especially of the nervous system), to a deficiency of intestinal secretion, and of peristalsis, and a paralytic state of the intestinal muscular fibres, the mixture can be prescribed with wonderful effect, positively curing cases that have resisted other remedies.

The Dose is from 10 to 60 minims, according to the age and condition of the patient. One drachm is a direct aperient, and is not accompanied by griping or tenesmus.

Packed for Dispensing only in 10-oz., 22oz., 40oz., and 90oz. Bottles.

Please write: "Mist. Hepatica Conc. (HEWLETT'S)" to ensure obtaining this Preparation.

Obtainable from all Wholesale Druggists and the leading Dispensing Chemists throughout the United Kingdom, India, and the Colonies.

TRADE “Solurool” MARK

(Thyminic Acid).

“SOLUROL” (Thyminic Acid) has been given with much success in those cases of Gout, Rheumatism and allied disorders in which there occurs a deposition in the tissues of biurates.

Under normal conditions, Uric Acid and Thyminic Acid are formed in the body at the same time. They combine to form a soluble compound, which is eliminated by the kidneys.

If Thyminic Acid (“Solurool”) be not produced, Uric Acid is precipitated, and varied symptoms arise. It is in these cases that “Solurool” is particularly valuable.

“Solurool” is harmless, being non-toxic and non-depressant.

“Solurool” in tablet form is administered with advantage in Gout (acute and chronic), Gravel and Obesity.

“Solurool” has proved valuable by intra-muscular injection in Neuritis, Sciatica and Lumbago.

Tempts when other foods fail.

Peter's Swiss Milk Chocolate is a valuable food as well as being a delightful sweet-meat. It will often—because of its irresistible flavour—tempt the patient when an ordinary convalescent food will only create nausea. It embraces three important foods—chocolate, milk and sugar. The ingredients are the choicest, the milk used being Swiss full cream milk from the clean Swiss dairies and breezy mountain slopes. Peter's Swiss Milk Chocolate is absolutely pure and does not create thirst.

HOEFFTCKE'S EXTENSION APPLIANCES.

AMBULATORY TREATMENT OF FRACTURE OF THE LIMBS, TUBERCULOUS AND ARTHRITIC DISEASE OF JOINTS.

By C. A. HOEFFTCKE,

21, Woodstock Street, Oxford Street, London, W.

By Appointment to several Hospitals and Societies.

THE medical profession is conservative, and need be, as so many different treatments are tried and found wanting. It is therefore satisfactory to me, in obtaining success with my treatment for fractures and diseased joints by means of my Extension splint, to find that after a prolonged trial a number of eminent surgeons continue to employ it in a steadily increasing number of cases. As described in the Lancet, Nov. 4th, 1911, it is possible even in most complicated fractures to enable the patient to walk about with comfort while the bones are uniting, and to obtain, indeed, splendid results, when otherwise union of the bones in a workable position would have been despaired of and the patient crippled for life.

The same principle which underlies the treatment of fractures—that is, by taking the weight off the leg and transmitting it from the tuber ischii on to the splint so that there is no weight on the heel of the foot when the patient walks—is applied to tubercular and arthritic joints, with the difference that more extension is needed. It is possible for me to apply from 10 to 20 lbs. continuous extension on either hip, knee, or ankle-joint while the patient is walking about, so that friction is absolutely prevented between the surfaces of the condyles whilst the joint can be moved if necessary.

The material I use in the manufacture of my Extension appliance is a specially prepared leather which is very hard. The advantage of using the hard leather is that when it is moulded on to the plaster cast and applied to the limb it fits like a glove, and produces an equal pressure on the enclosed tissues. This pressure however can be regulated on various parts of the leg so as to act like the elastic bandages for Bier's Hyperæmic treatment. The swelling of the leg as well as the patient's statement of pain are a sure guidance, and the supervising medical man can easily regulate the required pressure if shown how to do it.

As also described in the article above referred to this treatment is a great inducement for callus to form, as the blood-supply can by this means be controlled. On the other hand, the weight of the body can be transmitted on to the apparatus without any pressure on the soft parts at all, so that when my splint is applied to an atrophied leg the muscles develop and the leg soon regains its normal shape. The following case (see Figs. 1 and 2) shows that success can be obtained by means of my Extension appliance in even the worst cases which can come under the notice of any surgeon.

The patient was a doctor from South Africa who was sent in June, 1910, to a consulting surgeon here in London with a compound ununited fracture of tibia and fibula, the bones being broken in four places. It was plated in South Africa three months before and by some accident the piece of bone in which the screws were fastened broke away. The plate and screws were taken out of the fragments and I took a plaster cast of the leg in Guy's Hospital two days afterwards. On the fourth day after the cast was taken my appliance was put on and the patient walked across the ward. As many surgeons know who were present at the B.M.A. Meeting in London that year the doctor patient attended the meeting every day and took part in the festivities and went back to South Africa two months later. The bones united firmly and in good position (see Fig. 2) and he wrote some time after my appliance had been taken off: "I have no shortening and I can now do my work without any artificial aid at all."

While it is sometimes difficult to get the bones to join in a fracture where union was delayed for a long time—ununited fracture—the reverse is the case if my splint is applied when the bones have just been broken.

In a recent fracture the patient can be up and about within a week of the accident, and in most cases the fracture requires less time to unite than with the recumbent treatment; whilst the danger of stiffening of the joints is entirely avoided. The advantage of this treatment in accidents to old people must be keenly appreciated, as my appliance will enable them to be got out of bed, and a tendency to hypostatic congestion of the lungs and bedsores is thereby counteracted.

The ability to walk about while the fracture is uniting must also be of great advantage to business men who cannot afford to stay away from their offices. As for sportsmen—hunting men, jockeys, footballers, cricketers, &c.—the pleasure of being able to watch their sport instead of being confined to bed must be keenly appreciated.

Dr. S. Showing ununited fracture. Plate and screws taken out.

In face of the good results obtained by means of my Extension splint in cases of fractures and diseased joints, I may maintain that the treatment with my splint has a raison d'être. I hope that in future when an enquiry is made the medical adviser will not say "I cannot recommend this treatment as I do not know anything about it," as I shall always be pleased to send a detailed description with illustrations upon application; but in no case do I supply an appliance without medical supervision.

(To be Continued in the last issue of every month of the current year.)

Mr. HOEFFTCKE will personally demonstrate and show skiagrams of cases treated with his Ambulatory Extension appliances at the B.M.A. Meeting held next month.

"I AM INDEED PLEASED"

writes a London doctor of his 12 h.p. four-cylindere

De Dion Bouton

"Dear Sirs,

"June 4, 1913.

I have now run over 1,200 miles on the 12 h.p. Model DX car I got from you in April, to replace the little 7 h.p. I had from you previously. I am indeed pleased with the car, and particularly note

1. Its smoothness and quietness in running, comfortable springing and smart appearance;
2. Its really great flexibility on top speed, very fair reserve of power in second and first speeds, and its satisfactory petrol consumption;
3. Its mechanical simplicity of design and accessibility of parts and, so far, its absolute reliability.

All these things are important from a medical man's point of view, and, as far as I am judge this model justifies the high esteem De Dions are held in, by the medical profession.

Yours truly,

A. A. R.—, B.A., M.R.C.S."

ARMSTRONG-WHITWORTH

Builders of Dreadnoughts and Motor Cars

THE firm that builds Battleships, together with their gun-mountings, guns, and controlling mechanism—in fact, every mechanical detail, however colossal, however microscopic—the firm that actually manufactures and rigidly tests the materials from which these units are made—the firm that has constantly to be inventing and perfecting new methods and processes to keep its place in the very fore-front of the world's most famous constructors, is a firm exceptionally well equipped to design and construct an exceptionally efficient motor car.

Armstrong-Whitworth use for their cars only their world-famous materials, made and tested at their great steel works and brass foundry. Armstrong-Whitworth motor cars possess a reserve of strength that make them the most dependable car built.

The reliability of simplicity.

No one appreciates more than the doctor-motorist the value of simplicity.

The simpler a car's mechanism, the less the possibility of troubles due to complications, therefore, the greater the reliability.

And the Doctor's car must be, above everything, reliable—reliable and "always ready."

The acme of simplicity is reached in the

"VALVELESS" Car

The engine has only six working parts.

No valves or sleeves.

One sparking plug only.

Nothing to adjust. Thus

Minimum upkeep charges,

Maximum reliability, and consistent readiness are the result.

Great durability is the outcome of this simplicity. A well-known doctor in South Africa ran his "Valveless" over 20,000 miles in three years at a total cost for renewals of only 8/-.

Let us arrange a trial run.

We have in our Showrooms a 15 h.p. 5-seated Limousine Landulette, body by Cole, ready for immediate delivery, price £530, completely ready for the road.

FREMLIN'S SPECIAL "ENGLISH ALE"

COMPARATIVELY SUGAR FREE.

Extract from "LANCET" LABORATORY REPORT 11th MAY, 1912:—

"Our attention has been drawn to this ale by a medical practitioner who has found that on account of its relatively small amount of sugar it can be recommended in moderate quantities to sufferers from diabetes. He has reported to us that this ale did not by itself as an addition to the diet produce any fresh excretion of sugar, and in three cases in which a pint daily was taken no return of sugar in the urine was shown."

For those unable to take ordinary beer, Fremlin's English Ale is specially recommended.
