

WHEN compared with the condition of the vital organs, an appearance of fine physique is unimportant as a determining factor in constitutional strength and longevity.

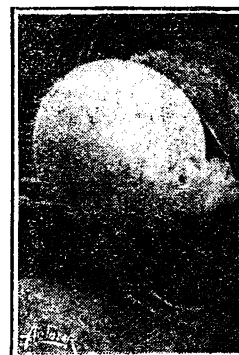

To the tyre, the inner tube is both heart and lungs.

See that the sturdy reliability of your Dunlop cover is not discounted by the use of an inferior tube.

A remarkable example of Dunlop quality is furnished by the incident depicted above. The Dunlop tube shown swelled out through the cover becoming displaced. After photographing the tube was deflated and replaced. It was still running, without further attention of any description when last reported—several weeks after the occurrence.
