Half a Century of Progress

IT is exactly 50 years since the House of Parke, Davis & Company was established in London. During this time the firm has been privileged to enjoy the confidence of the medical profession and has always endeavoured to justify this trust by rigid adherence to the high standard of integrity implied in its motto, "MEDICAMENTA VERA."

Relentless investigations pursued in the P., D. & Co. research laboratories have led to the discovery and introduction of many outstanding products of international recognition which have represented substantial advances in therapeutic progress.

Parke, Davis & Company will endeavour to maintain for all time the ideals expressed in the creed of its founders in 1866—"To merit and preserve the confidence of the best elements in the medical and pharmaceutical professions—to build well to last."
