Amaratone Eupinal

Contains the hypophosphites of calcium, potassium, manganese, quinine and strychnine, together with the tonic bitters, gentian, orange and chiretta. Amaratone is indicated in convalescence, and in nervous depression or lassitude. It improves the appetite, aids digestion, by stimulating the flow of gastric juices, and aids nutrition generally.

Increasingly administered in the treatment of asthma, chronic bronchitis, hay fever, and affections of the cardio-vascular system. Eupinal combines the therapeutic properties of caffeine and iodides in a particularly effective and elegant form. It relieves lung congestion, promotes diuresis and stimulates the heart.

Professional requests will be responded to at once.
