Analgesia from a travelling case

The Minnitt Gas-Air Apparatus is ideally suited to the needs of visiting practitioners and midwives alike. Now standard throughout Great Britain, it weighs only 15lbs. in its travelling case, measures 19" x 12 1/2" x 5" and is specially designed for self-administration by the patient. The flow of gas-air is controlled by the patient's own respiration; complete unconsciousness never occurs as on the verge of insensibility the pressure of the patient's finger relaxes, allowing additional air to enter and dilute the mixture. Muscular action remains unimpaired. A wheeled model for hospitals and nursing homes is also available.

SNOWED UP - but not frozen!

9th February, 1947.

I hereby certify that this vehicle was standing in the open on the 8th February 1947 when the Caldwell Pre-Heater Charger was connected up.

20 Hours later I opened the car when it was beneath 4" of snow and ice. The engine started on the second press of the Starter Button within 5 seconds - opened up immediately to full throttle it responded instantly without misfiring.
