The System that Never Grows Old

This system of treatment is unique in that the rapid advances in medical knowledge will never render it out of date.

These quarterly revisions can be incorporated in the index in a few moments.

One complete Index, with an addendum comprising a useful list of modern Pharmaceutical specialities, is supplied in a handsome plastic cabinet. The initial cost of £5 5s. includes the first four quarterly replacements. Subsequently the cost of the replacement service is £2 2s. per annum.

Vitamin Therapy—its uses and limitations

Safeguarding the B-complex balance

Attention is being drawn more and more to the necessity of a basal supply of essential vitamins, especially during intensive treatment with any member of the B group. Failure to take this precaution may result in a flare-up of latent symptoms of deficiency in other factors. The prescription of a variety of pharmaceutical preparations of individual vitamins, of activity higher than necessary, can be avoided by the use of

of Pernicious Anæmia*

The hæmopoietic factor as presented in Anahæmin B.D.H. is essential for the prevention of subacute combined degeneration of the cord. Potent liver preparations are essential for the satisfactory treatment of pernicious anæmia.

Casualties in circumstances of this sort frequently call for ophthalmic surgery.

One of the most suitable anaesthetics in use for eye surgery is Soluble Thiopentone, given as a total anaesthetic by intravenous injection. The eyes remain fixed and after-sickness is negligible.

Soluble Thiopentone has other important advantages—ease of administration, ease of portability, quiet respiration, non-inflammability. It is usually given intravenously, but may be administered per rectum as a basal anaesthetic.

Soluble Thiopentone is a mixture of 100 parts by weight of the mono-sodium derivative of 5-ethyl-5-(1-methylbutyl)-thiobarbituric acid, and 6 parts by weight of exsiccated sodium carbonate.

Taste cannot be disputed

The need for iron in cases of pregnancy and post-partum anaemia is generally recognised, yet the form in which it is given must depend on the individual needs of the patient.

Taste cannot be disputed — but a prescription for only three 'Plastules' daily will be found readily acceptable to the patient. They are easy to take and contain ferrous iron in semi-fluid form, sealed fresh in a gelatin capsule. Thus a rapid response without causing digestive upset is achieved.

Of Good Repute

ON the considered word of the family Physician many homes benefit by the gentle efficacy of Dinneford's Pure Fluid Magnesia.

This mild laxative and antacid, consisting of Liquor Magnesii Bicarbonatis 2.9% w/v, has long been of good repute in the regulation of acidity in the infant stomach and in that of the delicate adult.

Dinneford's

INCREASED PREVALENCE OF HYPERACIDITY

One legacy of war-time strain persists. It is evidenced by the number of patients exhibiting symptoms of gastro-intestinal disorder.

The same stress factors of overwork, hurried, irregular meals and the inability to relax completely still prevail.

In such instances, 'Milk of Magnesia' is invaluable in securing rapid control of discomfort. A colloidal suspension of magnesium hydroxide, it soothes the inflamed mucosa, and neutralizes the excess acid, without liberation of gas. Furthermore, its mild laxative action ensures removal of toxic waste products.

'Milk of Magnesia' may be prescribed with confidence equally in the mild case of dyspepsia or the acute ulcer stage where sustained alkaline treatment is essential.

The quick, safe way to oral cleanliness

In four safe ways, Macleans Peroxide Tooth Paste keeps teeth clean. It removes greasy film by means of a lipoid solvent. Its solid ingredients, which are not abrasive to enamel, can then polish quickly and without scratching. It is antiseptic but innocuous to the normal oral flora which defend the mouth against pathogenic bacteria. All the ingredients of Macleans Peroxide Tooth Paste are ultimately soluble in saliva. They leave no solid residues in the oral tissues. The flavour of Macleans is appealing and refreshing.

*The principle behind
Wright's
Coal Tar
Soap*

In Liquor Carbonis Detergens the antiseptic and antipruritic agents in Coal Tar were isolated for the first time from the inert residuum of substances lacking therapeutic value, and the preparation has been used and recommended by skin specialists for over 80 years. It naturally followed that Liquor Carbonis Detergens was included in the basic formula of Wright's Coal Tar Soap. This powerful antiseptic principle gave the soap a character and value exclusively its own without the slightest risk of harshness to the skin. Wright's, in fact, is specially soothing and particularly thorough in its cleansing.

"And everything I eat seems to upset me"

SUGGESTING a suitable diet for the patient recovering from illness or suffering from some form of gastric disorder can be a difficult problem under present conditions. Here Inglis Food is particularly helpful. Inglis is a highly nutritious oat food fortified with Iron, Calcium, Phosphorus, Vitamins D and B₁. When combined with milk, Inglis Food establishes a desirable balance of fat and protein, and so protein stimulation of excess acid is avoided. Unlike many other cereals, Inglis Food is bland with a very low fibre content (0.20%). The fine processing of the flour removes this irritant. Inglis is an economical food: a 16-oz. tin costs 2/-.

SUBJECT Scott's Baby Cereal

The composition of Scott's Baby Cereal makes it an excellent introduction to mixed feeding. It has a high Rf. content. The product is ready cooked. My mothers find it a very practical form of feeding. Babies seem to take to it readily.

I understand that clinics receive priority for supplies. Suggest we order immediately.
