Assisting THE MOVEMENT

In cases where colonic stimulation is indicated, 'Petrolagar' assists the movement surely but subtly. By supplying an unabsorbable emulsion that augments the intestinal fluid content, it provides a soft ductile fæcal mass that promotes a comfortable, natural bowel action, and encourages the return of normal habit. Agreeable to take, 'Petrolagar' is issued in two varieties: Plain and with Phenolphthalein.

For suppression of severe cough

'Physeptone' depresses the cough reflex in a manner comparable with that of diamorphine. It may therefore be prescribed with advantage for those cases of persistent cough which would normally be given diamorphine.

For this purpose, 'Physeptone' Linctus is issued containing 2 mgm. of Methadone (Amidone) Hydrochloride in each fluid drachm. The average adult dose is one teaspoonful (2 mgm.) every three or four hours, and this will control nearly every cough.

For children 'Physeptone' Linctus should be diluted with simple syrup in the proportion of one part linctus and seven parts syrup. One to two teaspoonfuls (0.25 - 0.5 mgm.) of this diluted linctus to be given according to the age of the child.

Preliminary skin testing is advisable to determine to which pollen, or group of pollens, the patient is sensitive.

The Bencard Pollinarium, where collection of pollens for diagnosis, treatment and research is carried out.

Part of the allergen store at Park Royal where extracts and specimens of over 800 allergenic materials are kept.

Management of hay fever is best accomplished by prophylaxis, and it is in January that "desensitisation" (hyposensitisation) courses should be begun to provide resistance during the pollen season.

The BENCARD Allergy Service

Bencard Skin Testing Solutions, enabling the physician to trace the cause of individual allergies, are supplied in standard outfits. Where sensitivity is to several pollen groups or certain individual pollens, it is a good plan to prescribe a specific combined pollen vaccine. Where, however, sensitivity is mainly to grass pollens, Standard Combined Pollen Vaccine (Bencard) is suitable. It is prepared from the pollens of 32 grasses, shrubs and trees (with grasses predominating) and is supplied as a complete course.

The Bencard range of pollen extracts for specific hyposensitisation is the largest in Great Britain and is set out in our Extended List of Allergens available on request.

OCTOR, THAT'S JUST A WONDERFUL DIET you've Derive, man s soon and a get the given me, but where on earth can I get the protein foods from?..." If you have been shopping with your wife lately you will agree that this is a legitimate question and is, indeed, the root cause of patients failing to keep to a high-protein diet when one has been prescribed for them. It is a needless failure, for a high-protein intake can always be maintained by adding Sanatogen protein tonic to the patient's diet. Sanatogen is 95% milk protein combined with 5% sodium glycerophosphate, has a specific nutrient and tonic effect and a high rate of utilisation. The protein in Sanatogen contains a higher percentage of aminoacids than any other preparation and supplies all essential amino-acids together, thus permitting tissue regeneration in accordance with the all-ornone dietetic law. Usually taken 3 times a day as a mixed drink in a little water or milk, Sanatogen can also be taken sprinkled on food or mixed in cooked dishes and is easily digested and most rapidly absorbed. Have you considered the use of Sanatogen for your high-protein diets?

Where combined action Succeeds

From apparent defeat, many a contest is won by combined action. The joint administration of penicillin and the sulphonamides frequently establishes successful therapy, when the oral administration of the antibiotic or chemotherapeutic agent alone has been ineffective.

Sulpenin, containing penicillin, sulphadiazine and sulphamerazine in balanced dosage is a convenient means of applying combined therapy in the treatment of many infections due to susceptible microorganisms. By utilising the synergistic action known to exist between penicillin and the sulphonamides, the antibacterial range is increased, the likelihood of kidney damage is lessened and the tendency for the bacteria to develop mutant strains resistant to one or other of the component drugs is reduced.

For the 'bilious' or 'liverish' patient

DEHYDROCHOLIN B.D.H. is the most active and least toxic of the bile acids. Since it is highly effective in promoting the secretion of bile and therefore aids the digestion and absorption of foodstuffs, particularly fats, it is indicated particularly for the treatment of 'bilious' or 'liverish' conditions.

Dehydrocholin B.D.H. is also useful in establishing normal bowel action in patients with a deficiency of bile and in patients needing mild peristaltic stimulation. Dosage of three tablets three times a day is recommended.

Introducing

A new, highly effective expectorant on an original basis

The principal constituent of 'HICOSEEN' is 2-Diethylaminoethyl-phenylethyl-acetate, synthesized by Hommel and for the first time clinically used. It acts broncholytically and at the same time sedatively on the cough reflex.

'Hicoseen' provides the basic requirements of anti-tussic therapy: repression of cough reflex and promotion of expectoration. These are accomplished with a very high degree of compatibility.

PHARMACOLOGY

Absence of side-effects, including drowsiness, is of outstanding importance. The respiratory centre not being acted on in any way, the cough reflex is probably influenced by a mechanism different from that of morphine alkaloids. 'Hicoseen' contains such a small dose of codeine phosphate that even high overdosage is innocuous.

COMPOSITION

2-Diethylaminoethyl-phenylethyl-acetate	0.1%
Codeine phosphate	0.08%
Guaiacol albuminate	5.25 %

INDICATIONS

Specific in cough irritation, bronchial catarrh, bronchitis, tracheo-bronchitis in emphysema and pulmonary tuberculosis.

DOSAGE

Adults: 2 to 4 tablespoonfuls; in cases of cough irritation 1 to 10 teaspoonfuls daily. Children: according to age and number of cough paroxysms 3 to 5 tea- or dessertspoonfuls daily.

"These charts show the increase in gastric tolerance following the oral administration of Aminophylline with aluminium hydroxide (Theodrox) compared with that of plain aminophylline.

THEODROX provides a dependable method of oral administration of aminophylline in doses large enough to proc'uce blood levels comparable with those following injection.

Previous investigations have shown that good response is obtained from aminophylline only if a certain concentration of the active component, theophylline, is attained in the blood. Because gastric irritation prevents giving oral doses large enough to produce this necessary blood level, the only dependable way of obtaining this end has been to resort to parenteral aminophylline.

Now there is clinical proof that when aminophylline is combined with a specially prepared aluminium hydroxide, the stumbling block of gastric irritation can be virtually eliminated, and massive oral doses can be tolerated to produce consistent blood levels comparable to those obtained by parenteral administration. (1) (2).

Theodrox is supplied in containers of 25, 100 and 1,000 tablets, each tablet containing Aminophylline, B.P. 3 gr. and Dried Aluminium Hydroxide Gel, B.P.C., 4 gr.

Theodrox is also available as Theodrox with Phenobarbitone, each tablet containing in addition $\frac{1}{8}$ gr. of Phenobarbitone B.P.

Sprains and reduced dislocations of the fingers, and STABLE fractures of the phalanges and metacarpals, may be treated by the following method:—

The injured finger is strapped to an adjacent uninjured finger by two strips cut from a 1" wide Elastoplast Plaster. The strapping is applied transversely around the two fully extended fingers so that the interphalangeal joints are not covered.

The above method of strapping prevents lateral movements of the injured joints; allows the fingers to be fully flexed and extended, and prevents stiffness* of the joints and permanent limitation of movement often associated with other means of immobilization.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT ABOUT BISMUTH

All restrictions on the use of Bismuth in medicine have now been removed and ample supplies are available.

Bismuth Salts are valuable in many gastrointestinal complaints, including peptic ulcer.

For diarrhoeal disorders they are often as effective as the sulphonamides commonly used. They are much less expensive and quite non-toxic.

Certain Bismuth preparations are also valuable externally in dermatology, and have other important uses.

Bismuth preparations may be prescribed on E.C.10.

The key to successful peptic ulcer therapy

WHENEVER continuous neutralization of gastric acidity is required—in active and quiescent peptic ulcer, gastritis, hyperacidity—NULACIN TABLETS are indicated.

The successful clinical behaviour of NULACIN TABLETS is accounted for by their composition and unique manner of use.

Dosage

Beginning half-an-hour after food a NULACIN TABLET should be placed in the mouth and allowed to dissolve slowly.

During the stage of ulcer activity up to three tablets an hour may be required. For follow-up treatment the suggested dosage is one or two tablets between meals.

NULACIN TABLETS are not advertised to the public and there is no B.P. equivalent. NULACIN is supplied in tubes of 25 and 12 tablets. The dispensing pack of 25 tablets is free of Purchase Tax. (Price to Pharmacists . . . 2/-.)
