The Climacteric

The association of methyltestosterone and ethinylœstradiol in Mepilin produces a more complete response in the treatment of menopausal disorders than can be obtained by the use of oestrogens alone. An increased feeling of confidence and well-being is produced which is both mental and physical.

The presence of methyltestosterone enables a reduction in oestrogen dosage to be made; thus undesirable side effects such as breast turgidity and pelvic congestion are avoided and the risk of withdrawal bleeding is reduced.

"... a mixture of the male and female hormones was more efficacious than œstrogen alone."

Transvasin

Contains skin-penetrating esters of salicylic, nicotinic, and p-aminobenzoic acids. It brings real relief to deep-seated muscular rheumatism by simple inunction.

TRANSVASIN, a new preparation developed by Hamol S.A., our Swiss associates, and now available for prescription in this country, contains polar esters of salicylic, p-aminobenzoic and nicotinic acids. These esters readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities and enable an effective concentration of the drugs to be built up where they are needed. Transvasin not only induces vasodilation of the skin with a superficial erythema, but also brings about a deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues. It is non-irritant, and can be safely used on the skin.

It is now being widely prescribed, with highly successful results. There is evidence, also, that since a very small quantity is sufficient for each application, the cost of treatment is extremely low.

Salicylic acid tetrahydrofurfuryl-ester	14%
Nicotinic acid ethyl-ester	2%
Nicotinic acid n-hexyl-ester	2%
p-Aminobenzoic acid ethyl-ester	2%
Water-miscible cream base ad	100%

Transvasin is available in 1 oz. tubes at 3/4 plus 7½d P.T., which are obtainable on form E.C.10, and is not advertised to the public.

Samples and literature will be gladly sent on application.

TABNET prevent NOCTURNAL PAIN

Nocturnal Pain very often interferes with the physical and mental rest so necessary to the patient suffering from peptic ulceration. TABNET Tablets taken with a glass of milk on retiring will control the pH of excessive acid secretion, nocturnal pain will be avoided and the patient will enjoy an asymptomatic night.

Cases of diagnosed peptic ulcer, treated with TABNET, have shown radiological evidence of healing after a month's treatment without strict dieting.

Treatment of the Streptococcal Throat

'PONDETS' Penicillin are a new and ingenious vehicle for local oral penicillin therapy that combine the striking advantages of extreme palatability with prolonged action. Each 'Pondet' contains 5,000 international units of crystalline potassium penicillin-G in a delicious hard, fruit, toffee-like base that completely masks the bitter taste of penicillin.

Because of the nature of their hard base, 'Pondets' dissolve slowly and uniformly, supplying an uninterrupted high concentration of penicillin to infected areas of the oro-pharyngeal mucosa.

INDICATED in minor superficial oral infections due to penicillin sensitive organisms ranging from the 'Streptococcal Throat' to the less common Vincent's infection and recommended for routine prophylactic use following Tonsillectomy.

Individually wrapped in bottles of 20.

Children accept 'Pondets' as readily as a sweet, and they are particularly useful in controlling throat infections in juvenile communities.

There are many good reasons why clinicians find Liver Injection U.S.P.-20 micrograms Lederle so outstandingly successful in the maintenance treatment of pernicious anaemia. The product is made solely from beef liver by a process which provides maximum concentration of the anti-pernicious anaemia factor and removes undesirable substances—resulting in reduction of solids and increased potency.

Injections cause a minimum of pain and allergic reactions yet exert optimum therapeutic effect, permitting the patient to lead an active working life and to enjoy his leisure hours.

Reported as "significantly more potent" than other extracts,* the Lederle preparation has a vitamin B₁₂ content of 20 micrograms per c.c. (assayed microbiologically). Apart from its specific use in pernicious anaemia, the extract is being increasingly adopted as a general hepatic and metabolic stimulant.

ORAL DOSAGE FORMS

Scored tablets of 1 mg. and 2 mg.

RAUWILOID + VERILOID

Each scored tablet contains 1 mg. of standardized alkaloids of Rauwolfia serpentina with 3 mg. of Veriloid. In this product the sedative, tranquilizing and hypotensive properties of Rauwolfia serpentina are advantageously combined with the veratrum alkaloids. Tolerance to Veriloid is notably increased so that in the majority of cases fully effective doses can be given without troublesome side-effects.

An outstanding feature of the hypotensive action of Veriloid is its central action, which effects vaso-relaxation by impulses transmitted to the arteriolar musculature. Ganglionic function is not disturbed, therefore there is no interference with the postural reflexes essential for normal activity.

Veriloid, a unique preparation of the ester alkaloids of Veratrum viride, is specifically indicated in all grades of essential hypertension. Because it is biologically standardized in dogs, its clinical effect is significant and dependable. If dosage is carefully adjusted, control of blood-pressure throughout the whole day is entirely possible.

Their hearts are in their mouths

Many fat people overeat because inwardly they are unhappy and ill at ease. In food they find solace, and a substitute for the affection their obesity denies them. Their hearts are in their mouths.

Such patients find dieting particularly hard, for it involves the removal of the psychological prop that supports them in their daily life, besides the ordinary difficulties.

For them 'Drinamyl' is often very helpful. Given before meals it curbs the appetite, and because it produces a feeling of calm and cheerfulness, helps to relieve the emotional tension that lies behind the patient's excessive appetite.

A NEW ANTISPASMODIC AGENT

It has been demonstrated in animal experiments that the new compound bentyl hydrochloride* (beta-diethyl-aminoethyl 1-cyclohexylcyclohexanecarboxylate hydrochloride) possesses both a parasympathetic depressant (atropine-like) and musculotropic (papaverine-like) action on the smooth musculature of the gastrointestinal tract. This drug was administered to 67 patients with such gastrointestinal complaints as functional bowel distress, peptic ulcer, chronic pancreatitis and gastroenteritis. The usual dosage was 10 or 20 mg. three or four times daily, with or without 15 to 30 mg. of phenobarbital. The drug was well tolerated in 66 of 67 patients and was stopped in only one patient who showed intolerance to other drugs also. Bentyl hydrochloride appears to be more effective than the belladonna group of antispasmodics and has the advantage of virtual freedom from cycloplegia, mydriasis and xerostomia.

From an abstract in The Journal of the American Medical Association, Vol. 145, No. 17.

Regular use helps to reduce the incidence of cellulitis and folliculitis, and prevents secondary infections of minor cuts and abrasions. And this same protective action makes CIDAL an important factor in preventing unpleasant body odours at source.

CIDAL CREAM SHAMPOO also contains Hexachlorophene and shares CIDAL soap's germicidal powers. It protects hair follicles against infection by staphylococci and is helpful in treating dandruff.

Terramycin

BRAND OF OXYTETRACYCLINE

in URINARY TRACT INFECTIONS

Terramycin is effective in the treatment of infections due to mixed bacterial flora, infections resistant to other chemotherapeutic and antibiotic agents and infections due to some strains of Ps. pyocyanea (1).

in RESPIRATORY TRACT INFECTIONS

the particular value of Terramycin lies in its efficacy against the variety of aetiological agents involved. It is effective in such conditions as laryngotracheobronchitis (2), a typical pneumonia (3), and staphylococcal empyema (4).

in OPHTHALMOLOGY

the particular value of Terramycin lies in the low incidence of sensitivity following topical application (5). It was found in a series of one hundred and sixteen cases of ocular infection that only one patient developed the least sign of allergy (6). Terramycin ophthalmic ointment is useful in epidemic keratoconjunctivitis (7).

in SURGICAL INFECTIONS

Terramycin is the broad-spectrum antibiotic of choice in peritonitis (8), pre-operative prophylaxis, and soft tissue infections. It is also effective in other conditions due to the broad range of Terramycin-sensitive organisms.

in VENEREOLOGY

It was considered that Terramycin is the first choice for gonorrhœal patients who are allergic to penicillin, who cannot with convenience be injected or who fear the needle. The same author found Terramycin to be unsurpassed in the treatment of non-specific urethritis (9).

in PÆDIATRICS and the general field of infective medicine, the value of Terramycin is due to its very wide antibacterial range, its versatility and ease of administration, the rapidity of its action and its remarkably low toxicity. British investigators have stressed its particular value in pædiatric practice (10).

in EAR, NOSE & THROAT INFECTIONS

the broad spectrum of Terramycin is of particular value owing to the mixed nature of many of these conditions. It was found in a series of cases with chronic suppuration of the middle ear and mastoid that Terramycin gave the most satisfactory results (11). A satisfactory oral treatment of acute otitis media has again been recently reported (12).

in DERMATOLOGY

the particular value of Terramycin lies in the rapidity of its action and the low incidence of sensitization (13).

"GRAM FOR GRAM TERRAMYCIN IS UNEXCELLED AMONG BROAD-SPECTRUM ANTIBIOTICS"

A perfect source of Vitamin C

RIBENA (Syrupus Ribis Nigri B.P.C.)

HIGH CONCENTRATION OF VITAMIN C—REMARKABLE STABILITY

Four characteristics of Ribena make it
a perfect source of Vitamin C:

- 1 It contains a high concentration of Vitamin C—and it is very stable.
- 2 The vitamin is in its natural state. *
- 3 Ribena is very well tolerated even by sensitive stomachs. It is completely free from all cellular structure. It is suitable for infants almost from birth, for peptic ulcer cases, and for women suffering from "morning sickness"; they can take it when almost everything else increases discomfort.
- 4 In addition to its therapeutic values, it is delicious in its own right as sweet blackcurrant syrup.

* Following reports of unsatisfactory response to the therapeutic use of synthetic ascorbic acid in peptic ulcer cases, controlled tests using Ribena were instituted at various large British hospitals, with striking results. Clinical experience has also shown that in ulcerative gingivitis, the routine use of Ribena as an adjunct to local therapy has given more satisfactory results than that of the synthetic vitamin. The superiority is presumably due to the presence of other factors of the Vitamin C complex, possibly the Vitamin P, as well as mineral elements.

Therapeutic uses

Ribena is recommended for all conditions requiring Vitamin C implementation: namely, as a natural and rapid restorative from fatigue; for increasing resistance to local infection and colds; for expectant and nursing mothers; for infants from birth; for children and adolescents; in many dental conditions; in peptic ulcer cases; in fractures and wounds; in blood dyscrasias and hæmorrhagic states; in infections and fevers; and in many skin disorders.

Reports for doctors overseas

The makers of Ribena co-operated extensively with the Ministries of Food and Health during the war, a co-operation which still goes on to some extent even now. The Royal Forest Factory has attached to it a series of very fine laboratories where research into fruit juices and vitamins is conducted to an academic level, under the direction of an expert, lately in charge of the Fruit Products Section of the University of Bristol Agricultural Research Station. Reports of much of the work done are available, on application, to doctors and scientists overseas. These are likely to be of particular interest now that Ribena is being extensively exported.

Send for further information. A booklet entitled "Blackcurrant Juice in Modern Therapy: Natural Vitamin C" will be forwarded to you with pleasure; also details of a number of controlled tests made on the use of Vitamin C, if you will write to:—

Inadequate Nutrition in Elderly People

Old people living on a restricted income often exist on an inadequate diet, and amongst the nutrients that have been found to be lacking in such diets are vitamins of the B₂ complex.

Marmite yeast extract is a useful source of these vitamins that can readily be taken by elderly patients, who seem to appreciate its piquant flavour. It supplies riboflavin, nicotinic acid, folic acid, pyridoxin, pantothenic acid, biotin, choline, inositol and α -aminobenzoic acid.

A New Anti-Tussive based on PHOLCODINE (Morpholinylethylmorphine) formulated especially for Children

Pholcodine, the principal constituent of INFANTUSSIN, is a newly-discovered morphine derivative 5 to 7 times less toxic than codeine yet more effective as a cough suppressant. It is non-constipating, does not cause gastric upset and is well-tolerated by children.

INFANTUSSIN combines pholcodine with terpin hydrate and liquor of tolu to protect the irritated mucous membrane and to allay excessive coughing. It is presented in a fruit syrup which is readily acceptable to infants and children. INFANTUSSIN is thus indicated for children's coughs of an unproductive or exhausting character or where it is desirable to promote undisturbed sleep. It is also indicated in the symptomatic treatment of pertussis. INFANTUSSIN may be prescribed on E.C.10 forms.

Overseas (Vacant)—contd.COLONIAL MEDICAL SERVICE

Vacancies occur from time to time in territories covered by the Colonial Medical Service for

MEDICAL OFFICERS

for general duties, including hospital and district work. These appointments offer great scope for the practice of many branches of medicine and surgery with a considerable measure of independence and personal responsibility. Appointments can usually be made on a permanent basis with pension (non-contributory) at age 50 or 55; on a temporary basis, with gratuity; or by appointment from the National Health Service for periods not exceeding six years, with continuation of National Health Service superannuation contributions and the payment of a resettlement grant of 20 per cent of the aggregate of colonial salary on leaving the colony. Salaries of Medical Officers are varied: for example from £950 to £1,850 per annum in Nigeria; from £865 to £1,590 per annum in Kenya (with a cost-of-living allowance in addition); and from £1,555 to £2,044 per annum in Malaya (with a cost-of-living allowance in addition). Starting salaries depend on age and experience, and officers holding certain higher qualifications are granted four additional increments on the salary scale. There are many specialist and administrative posts yielding higher pensionable salaries than those quoted above to which medical officers would expect to be appointed on promotion in the course of a normal career. Free passages are granted. Income tax is low. Tours of service vary from ten months in parts of West Africa to three or four years in, for example, Kenya. Houses with heavy furniture are provided in most territories at a rental of about 10 per cent of basic salary. Annual local leave is permissible and generous home leave is granted after each tour. Study leave on full pay is granted, subject to the needs of the service, to those who wish to acquire higher qualifications and so equip themselves for promotion to specialist posts. Officers serving in East and Central Africa often prefer to educate their children within that area, where schooling is available, or in South Africa. The short tours in West Africa enable frequent visits to be made to children being educated at home. Many officers have their children with them in West Africa until they reach school age. Application forms can be obtained from the Director of Recruitment (Colonial Service), Colonial Office, Sanctuary Buildings, Great Smith Street, London, S.W.1 (quoting CDE.121/01).

SPOONFOODS

Strained and Homogenised Meats, Fruits and Vegetables—in GLASS JARS

Weaning is always a perplexing process for the mother. What to give is comparatively simple. How to give it — or more important still, how to prepare it — is more difficult because of the small quantities involved and the need for strict hygiene. Spoonfoods are the solution to this problem.

Twelve varieties are available and they are packed in convenient quantities in glass jars. The foods are sterilised in the jars and vacuum sealed, so ensuring very high protection from bacterial infection. Because the foods are packed in glass jars, they are likely to overcome the objections which so many mothers have to "tinned foods" for babies.
