A SYNOPSIS OF SURGERY (Hey Groves')

Edited by SIR CECIL WAKELEY, Bt., K.B.E., C.B. 14th Edition. 7½ × 4½ in. 660 pp. 208 illustrations, 13 in colour. 208 illustrations, 30s., post 1s. 3d.

This compact volume presents an epitome of the salient facts in surgical practice in such a manner that they may be easily referred to or revised. The latest revision has been very thoroughly carried out, and due weight has been given to the rapid advances made in surgery in recent years, whilst obsolete and out-of-date material has been ruthlessly deleted.

"Hey Groves's Synopsis of Surgery is a household name amongst students and practitioners alike. . . We have nothing but praise for this book and it will still continue to be a great favourite amongst students and practitioners."—Medical Press.

PHYSICAL SIGNS IN CLINICAL SURGERY

By HAMILTON BAILEY, assisted by ALLAN CLAIN 12th Edition. $8\frac{3}{4} \times 5\frac{1}{2}$ in. 466 pp. 681 illustrations, many in colour. 38s. 61., post 1s. 3d.

A thorough revision has again been made, with a new chapter on Supplementary Physical Signs added. Mr. Allan Clain has rearranged the material so as to include a chapter on the Orbit, has combined the chapters on the Spine and Sacro-iliac Joints to include new matter, and has revised those concerning Fractures and Blood Vessels.

"This excellent book has already received such a measure of praise from reviewers and such obvious welcome from readers, that to extol it further would be a work of supererogation. Letterpress and illustrations together make the book one of the very best of its kind in the English language."—British Medical Journal.

MANUAL OF MEDICAL HELMINTHOLOGY

By C. J. HACKETT, M.D., F.R.C.P., with the co-operation of Professor J. J. C. BUCKLEY, D.Sc., and the late Professor J. MURGATROYD, M.D., F.R.C.P.

This practical new book, which is based on the helminth exhibits of the Wellcome Museum of Medical Science, is designed especially for doctors in the tropics. It contains detailed descriptions of the important helminths -Trematoda, Cestoda, and Nematoda. Some thirty parasites are described in full together with the illnesses they cause in man. Each is discussed under the headings: morphology, life-cycle, epidemiology, pathology, clinical manifestations, dlagnosis, treatment, prognosis and prevention.

This forms the main body of the text, but there is in addition a general introduction to helminthic diseases; and general sections on the Trematoda, Cestoda and Nematoda are followed by a discussion of the clinical manifestations of helminthiasis, clinical and laboratory diagnosis, and general remarks on treatment, prognosis and prevention.

Special attention has been paid to the preparation of the illustrations, which aim at simplifying the problems of identification which confront the worker in this Illustrated. 18s. 6d. net.

Dissolve VARIDASE in 5 ml. sterile distilled water.

Mix into 15 cc. jar of CMC Jelly.

Apply to dressing.

VARIDASE* Streptokinase—Streptodornase Lederle has been aptly described as a biological curette. By an intensive twofold enzymatic action, it dissolves fibrin and blood clots and lyses pus which are so often a serious hindrance to the treatment of infected lesions. And now, by the simple combination of VARIDASE with Carboxymethylcellulose (CMC) Jelly, this enzymatic activity can be maintained for a full 24 hours—eliminating the need for wet dressing.

In the topical treatment of varicose ulcer, suppurating wounds, infected burns and similar lesions, the use of VARIDASE in CMC Jelly secures a new measure of efficiency and convenience. The preparation is spread on a suitable dressing and applied to the site of infection . . . a measure so simple that the ambulant patient can safely be left to continue treatment at home.

ST. DUNSTAN'S CLOCK

On the wall of St. Dunstan-in-the-West in Fleet Street is the first clock showing minutes ever to be made. It was also the first clock to have two dials. It was made in 1671.

CLOCKWORK REGULARITY.

Normal bowel action is a fine thing to possess. It is, perhaps, the most sought after talisman against ill-health in the world. No wonder, then, if its temporary suspension leads from a mild despondency even to black despair. But in such a crisis panic measures are to be avoided—the taking of harsh purgatives eschewed.

Success in the restoration of the much-cherished habit lies in the regular persuasive stimulus of soft bulk—such as is provided by 'Petrolagar.' Gently and unobtrusively, 'Petrolagar' arranges for normal physiological evacuations and secures the return of 'clockwork regularity.'

FOR SUPPRESSION OF

SOVET Cough

'PHYSEPTONE' LINCTUS has many advantages as a suppressant of unproductive cough. Though comparable in effectiveness to diamorphine linctus, it is free from the drawbacks of the latter—it carries negligible risk of addiction, does not constipate and seldom causes other side-reactions.

'PHYSEPTONE' LINCTUS has a direct suppressive action on the cough reflex. It is especially valuable in such conditions as bronchiectasis, pertussis, post-influenzal tracheitis, chronic passive pulmonary congestion and pulmonary tuberculosis.

'PHYSEPTONE' LINCTUS contains 2 mgm. of methadone hydrochloride in each fluid drachm (the recommended adult dose). For children it should be diluted with simple syrup in the proportion of one part linctus and seven parts syrup—one to two teaspoonfuls (0.25—0.5 mgm.) of this diluted linctus to be given according to the age of the child.

A physiological method of treating constipation

Senna is a neuro-muscular stimulant of peristalsis and produces a good imitation of normal defaecation. Such a physiological effect is of great value in restoring natural rhythm.

This is in marked contrast to the actions of salines and of liquid paraffin which have serious disadvantages for prolonged administration.

Through the production of Senokot, the first stable, standardised preparation of senna, the full therapeutic activity of the drug has been made available and its re-educative value demonstrated.

I5 years of clinical opinion supports the use of vaginal tampons the menstrual flow is unobstructed and completely absorbed

There is a growing volume of clinical evidence to show that, because of the way in which tampons are made, they do not obstruct the menstrual flow and yet give complete protection and an improved sense of security (1-4). Two research workers (3) observed that any discomfort experienced was due to the use of the wrong size. With a tampon of the proper size, absolute comfort and complete absorption of the flow is obtained. Another (4) found that there was no evidence of the irritation, congestion, discomfort or pain that would follow from blocking of the flow. He agreed with other observers that, where there was initial fear of incomplete absorption, actual trial brought reassurance. Most women having tried tampons, decided not to return to the use of external pads.

Intelligently used, vaginal tampons represent a decided advance in feminine hygiene. They may be recommended with confidence.
