A STATEMENT OF POLICY

In his latest report the Chief Medical Officer of the Ministry of Health makes the following comment on present-day blood transfusion.

"Certain surgical operations and techniques of supportive treatment now involve the transfusion of very large amounts of blood, but the number of these seems unlikely to account for more than a part of the increase in the amount of blood used during the past few years. It seems possible that part at least of the increase is caused by a less discriminating use of transfusion, and it is difficult not to conclude that some transfusions are given unnecessarily. It is, for example, doubtful whether a "one-bottle transfusion" in an adult is often of significant benefit. Likewise the use of transfusion to correct moderate or slight degrees of anaemia which could be overcome as effectively, if more slowly, by other means seems unjustifiable, unless some cogent reason for speed of recovery exists; in some of these instances failure to institute simpler but equally effective treatment soon enough leads to the use of blood transfusion. Transfusion is frequently used to speed convalescence, when simpler measures would attain the same ends. It may be argued that this use of transfusion is justifiable so long as there is a lack of hospital beds or because it enables the patient to begin work again in a shorter time, but it should be remembered that all these patients are thus exposed to a potential hazard. . . ." Moreover, the Chief Medical Officer states: "as consumption mounts the provision of blood tends to become more expensive due to the progressively greater efforts needed to recruit donors."

This Company has, in the past few years, supplied over half a million bottles of Dextraven which have been used by clinicians in more than a dozen countries. This blood volume restorer is, as such, at least as effective as blood or plasma.

The inherent qualities of Dextraven present many advantages, whereas the disadvantages peculiar to blood and plasma are obviated. The criteria of restoring and supporting the circulation without delay in hypovolaemic shock are fulfilled immediately, and more safely by infusion of 500-1,000 ml. of Dextraven than by similar quantities of blood or plasma.

The hazards encountered in giving blood or plasma are such that their use, when small quantities will suffice, is never justified, as simpler, safer and cheaper alternatives are available. When the replacement of red cells is also indicated, immediate infusion of Dextraven may be employed until compatible blood of assured quality is available. In the treatment of burns the hazards of plasma infusions similarly may be avoided.

The anaemia of iron deficiency may be corrected by the timely use of Imferon (iron dextran complex). Its use in British hospitals pre- and postoperatively is increasing yearly. It is safer and more effective than a pint of blood.

The use of Dextraven to spare blood is, however, greater abroad than it is here in the United Kingdom. A major factor, both in the abuse of blood and plasma and in the restricted use of Dextraven, is the present supply arrangement which makes blood and plasma a "free issue" to hospitals, but requires payment for Dextraven. We are convinced that if hospitals were charged with the real cost of their blood or plasma usage, more frequent resort to as efficient but cheaper products would be made. Unlike blood and plasma, the more Dextraven produced the cheaper it is.

If the Ministry, therefore, will make arrangements to charge hospitals with the real cost of their blood and plasma requirements, we are sure that there will be an increase in the proper use of Dextraven. In these circumstances we are prepared to pass on to the Ministry, by lowering prices, the benefit from such cheaper production costs.

It may be of interest that this proposal, if accepted, would enable us to earn yet more foreign currency in the overseas markets, where lowered prices, based on greater home production, would encourage greater use.

This statement is issued in the National Interest and in the interests of British Industry by

The esters of NICOTINIC, SALICYLIC and p-AMINO BENZOIC acids bring relief to cases of arthritis and rheumatism

IN CASES of soft-tissue rheumatism, and arthritic disorders, many doctors are tending more and more to regard Transvasin as an indispensable adjuvant to treatment.

For Transvasin is composed of the esters of nicotinic, salicylic and p-aminobenzoic acids. These esters readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities, and so enable an effective concentration of drugs to be built up where they are needed.*

Transvasin not only induces vasodilation of the skin with a superficial erythema, but also brings about a deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues. It is non-irritant and can be safely used on delicate skins.

It is now being widely prescribed, with successful clinical results. Since a very small quantity is sufficient for each application, the cost of treatment is extremely low.

provides milk-alkali drip therapy without a tube

Maintains continuous control of gastric acidity

Until a few years ago, maintained continuous control of gastric acidity was impossible without hospitalization and discomfort to the patient.

Then a unique treatment in the form of Nulacin tablets was evolved to achieve this desirable state—simply, effectively and without attendant disadvantages. In the ensuing period Nulacin therapy has been amply tried and proved by numerous clinical studies and by therapeutic use in many countries.

A Nulacin tablet placed in the mouth between the cheek and the gum dissolves slowly and releases its contained medicaments at a rate that gives continuous neutralization of the acid gastric juice. Nulacin accomplishes this without any danger of causing alkalosis or other side-effects. The results are comparable with those of intragastric milk-alkali drip therapy.

INDICATIONS: NULACIN tablets are indicated whenever neutralization of the acid gastric contents is required: in active and quiescent peptic ulcer, gastritis and other conditions of gastric hyperacidity.

Dosage: Beginning half-an-hour after food, a Nulacin tablet should be placed in the mouth between the cheek and the gum and allowed to dissolve.

During the stage of ulcer activity, up to three tablets an hour may be required. During quiescent periods, for prophylaxis in peptic ulcer and for the relief of discomfort due to gastric hyperacidity, the dose of Nulacin is one or two tablets between meals.

NULACIN tablets are not advertised to the public and have no B.P. equivalent. They may be prescribed on E.C.10. The dispensing unit of 25 tablets is free of purchase tax. (Basic price to N.H.S. . . . 2/-). Also available in tubes of 12.

NULACIN tablets are prepared from whole milk combined with dextrins and maltose, and incorporate magnesium trisilicate 3.5 grs.; magnesium oxide 2.0 grs.; calcium carbonate 2.0 grs.; magnesium carbonate 0.5 grs.; Ol. Menth. Pip. q.s.

GASTRIC ANALYSIS Superimposed gruel fractional test-meal curves of five cases of duodenal ulcer.

GASTRIC ANALYSIS Same patients as in Fig. 1, two days later, showing the striking neutralizing effect of sucking Nulacin tablets (3 an hour). Note the return of acidity when Nulacin is discontinued.

Insomnia in the aged

Not only for its valuable properties as a daytime sedative has MILTOWN meprobamate become so universally prescribed. Doctors have come to recognise its special virtues as a safe reliable dormifacient—particularly in the ageing patient. MILTOWN brings a release from worry and tension that prevent the natural onset of sleep. It induces a composure of mind and body that enables the patient to drift naturally into sleep. After two tablets of MILTOWN—one hour before retiring, sleep is restful and usually dreamless. It is also free from the narcosis that often follows other conventional sedatives.

future is in your hands because malaria can be controlled.

Five years' experience has shown 'Daraprim' to be a highly effective agent in the control of the disease. Moreover, when administered to an entire community, it is capable of breaking the malarial cycle since it interrupts the development of the parasite in the mosquito.

'Daraprim' is highly potent but tasteless and has proved an excellent suppressant in a weekly adult dosage of only 25 mgm. It is supplied in the form of 25 mgm. tablets in strip-packs of 6 and 30 for individual use, and in tins of 1,000 for larger users.

In the French Union,
Tunisia and Morocco
pyrimethamine is available
under the trade name

It contains ACHROMYCIN tetracycline in combination with sodium metaphosphate for greater clinical response. The Syrup is presented in a particularly acceptable orange-flavoured form that enables effective dosage to be given in small volume. a safe way back for the woman who worries too much—

brand of hydroxyzine

Atarax offers this woman a safe way back to a balanced, well-adjusted life. Without clouding her consciousness or impairing her ability to 'cope', Atarax restores her peace of mind, gives her an interlude when she can see her real situation, assess her troubles accurately, and apportion her energies accordingly. Above all, Atarax is safe. Even when high dosage is needed it can be given without the risk of uncomfortable or distressing side effects which, so far from helping the patient, merely leave her more anxious.

DOSAGE AND ADMINISTRATION. The dosage of Atarax may be varied widely, depending on the condition of the patient. Atarax should be administered in divided doses throughout the day with meals.

ADULTS. One 25 mg. tablet three or four times daily at appropriate intervals. More serious cases under psychiatric supervision may require doses of 150 mg. to 300 mg. daily. The dosage may be gradually decreased until the minimum effective maintenance dosage for the individual is reached.

CHILDREN. From 3 to 10 years of age, one or two 10 mg. tablets, or teaspoonfuls of Syrup two to four times daily.

Atarax tablets, 10 mg. and 25 mg., in bottles of 20 and 100.

'RAUWILOID'

is essential for Hypertension

'Rauwiloid', a purified and standardised fraction of Rauwolfia serpentina alkaloids, can be considered a basic treatment for hypertension. It lowers blood pressure more effectively than phenobarbitone or its combinations with theobromine and is less likely to cause depression than reserpine.

IMPORTANT

'Rauwiloid' may require more than a week for a significant anti-hypertensive effect to develop. Any previous treatment, particularly barbiturate, should be gradually reduced over this period.

In Mild to Moderate Hypertension

In most cases 'Rauwiloid' will provide adequate control by itself. Combination therapy is not necessary.

In Moderate to Severe Hypertension

When a greater hypotensive effect is required, 'Rauwiloid' should be combined with veratrum in the form of 'Rauwiloid + Veriloid'. 'Veriloid' is a biologically standardised alkaloidal extract of Veratrum viride. Such a combination with 'Rauwiloid' enables adequate doses of veratrum to be given for a satisfactory hypotensive response.
(See detailed literature).

In Severe or Malignant Hypertension

'Rauwiloid' used in conjunction with ganglionic blocking agents enables a smaller dose of the more potent medicament to be used, thereby minimising side-effects and decreasing the tendency for tolerance to develop.

'Rauwiloid' is available in 2 mg. tablets in bottles of 60 and 500.
Dosage, two tablets at night.

'Rauwiloid' and 'Veriloid' are registered trade marks

The original easy-to-take, two-in-one tablet

for the prompt and prolonged relief of ASTHMA

ISO-BRONCHISAN was first produced in 1953 and offers a fresh approach to the problem of effective asthma control. The tablets, which are pleasant to take, have a coating containing easily dissolved Isopropyl-Nor-Adrenaline, a most potent bronchodilator, which, when absorbed by the sublingual route, produces the prompt relief of bronchospasm. The rest of the tablet, when swallowed, releases Ephedrine and Theophylline in balanced proportions and these, slowly absorbed along the alimentary tract, ensure long sustained antispasmodic action on the bronchial smooth muscle.

A practical reference manual on contraception available free to all doctors

The Report of the Royal Commission on Population (1949) states:
"... there is nothing inherently wrong in the use of mechanical methods of contraception... public policy should be based on acceptance of voluntary parenthood and contraception."

These words give authoritative support to the use of conception control methods as a means of planning the size of the family.

MODERN CONTRACEPTIVE TECHNIQUE presents a concise and compact survey of methods commonly used. There are notes on methods which have medical approval, and also on others which are medically contra-indicated.

TO GET YOUR COPY

simply write "Modern Contraceptive Technique" and "Planned Families" on your letter-heading, and post it to the address below.

FOR THE USE OF PATIENTS

PLANNED FAMILIES contains an explanation of contraceptive techniques, written in non-technical terms. Any number of copies will be supplied to doctors for distribution to their patients.

ANTIBIOTIC HAZARDS

"If lactobacilli can be established, they will certainly make it hard for staphylococci to take charge". Lancet Leading Article i (1954) 968

Enpac also a trade mark, produced after years of research, establishes lactobacilli of solely human origin in the intestine.

Restoring the balanced gut flora

ENPAC is a new and unique preparation of antibiotic-resistant strains of Lactobacillus acidophilus in a vehicle of the vital growth factors necessary for the strains to become established and multiply in the human gut. When administered during oral antibiotic therapy, these strains replace the intestinal strains of L. acidophilus, and an important part of the bacterial flora is maintained intact. There is substantial evidence which has proved that ENPAC can also be highly beneficial in certain intestinal disorders.

Extract from Lancet article on clinical trials at Bristol :

Enpac

ENPAC which is a registered trade mark is prescribable on Form E.C.10. Basic N.H.S. Price 14/5 per 60 gramme tin.

"It was found that the staphylococci increased in both groups at the beginning of antibiotic therapy. Staphylococci continued to increase in the patients taking the antibiotic alone, but in those taking Enpac there was a pronounced drop in numbers following the initial rise. Simultaneously, in this latter group the lactobacilli were rapidly established and continued to multiply. This followed the elimination of the normally non-resistant lactobacilli by the antibiotic during the early days of treatment." (Lancet, 1957, i, 899)

EMERGENCIES IN GENERAL PRACTICE from the British Medical Journal

470 Pages (cloth bound), with full index

This book deals with medical emergencies in a wide sense; acute clinical emergencies requiring prompt and skilful treatment; conditions such as faints and fits and giddy turns, the careful elucidation of which may mean the difference to a patient between a life of activity and one of restriction; acute psychiatric states; accidents of treatment, such as dangerous reactions to drugs or collapse during anaesthesia; and emergency calls when the doctor is isolated, as on a ship.

It comprises 57 specially commissioned articles which appeared originally in the British Medical Journal.

The author of each is an acknowledged authority. This collection, now revised by the authors, will be of value not only to general practitioners but also to senior students, house-physicians, house-surgeons, and to those supervising their work in hospitals.
