BRONSON CROTHERS, and R. S. PAINE

A study, based on the re-examination of 1,821 children with cerebral palsy, in which particular attention was paid to the problems created by abnormal development and to the treatment given by medical and auxiliary services. It shows that medical attention is devoted too exclusively to motor disorders, that general management is seldom related to the child's state of development, and that the problems of adolescence are often completely ignored.

5TH OF A SERIES ON THE PROBLEMS OF DOMICILIARY
CHEMOTHERAPY IN TUBERCULOSIS
PUBLISHED BY SMITH & NEPHEW
PHARMACEUTICALS LIMITED

it may not be last night's oyster

After the tuberculous patient has been told of the benefits of PAS and INAH, he should be warned discreetly of the possibility of untoward reactions. Although the incidence is very small, the risk is real, because the patient may ascribe these reactions to some other source, such as food.

Nausea, vomiting, dizziness and skin rashes have been reported and it is well that the patient should be aware of these. If the patient is unfortunate enough to suffer any of these reactions, he should be encouraged to report immediately to his doctor who will decide the right action to take.

Investigation will reveal whether the reaction is really due to the drugs taken and whether the drug need be stopped. Change to a more palatable preparation, such as a granule formulation of sodium PAS, may be indicated or, where appropriate, a process of desensitization carried out.

Discussing drug treatment with the patient stimulates his interest and co-operation, and helps to avoid interruption of therapy.

PYCAMISAN B.D. is the special new presentation of cachets of PAS and INAH in tubes of 8 for one day's supply. It is specially designed for twice-daily dosage eliminating the awkward and often missed midday dose. The tube is marked 'morning' and 'evening' to help the patient remember his doses. The total daily dose is 12 grammes PAS and 300 mg. INAH, the most widely used and recommended combination in current use.

highly effective in infantile diarrhoea

NEW ENTERFRAM

kaolin with Framycetin

ENTERFRAM, combining the adsorbent, demulcent action of Kaolin with the bactericidal effect of Framycetin, is highly effective in infectious diarrhoea. Framycetin is active against all the bacterial pathogens normally found in gut infections—including staphylococci resistant to other antibiotics. Available evidence shows that it is not absorbed from the gut, so that its action is purely local. Bacterial resistance to Framycetin is rare indeed, and patient sensitivity unknown. Whenever diarrhoea poses clinical problems, ENTERFRAM will be found to be rapidly, safely effective. The pleasantly flavoured vehicle and the safe, local action of the antibiotic make ENTERFRAM especially suitable for children.

DEEP SKIN PENETRATION IN ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM

NICOTINIC, SALICYLIC AND
p-AMINO BENZOIC ACIDS in Ester form

IN CASES of soft-tissue rheumatism, and arthritic disorders, many doctors are tending more and more to regard Transvasin as an indispensable adjuvant to treatment.

For Transvasin is composed of the esters of nicotinic, salicylic and p-aminobenzoic acids. These esters readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities, and so enable an effective concentration of drugs to be built up where they are needed.*

Transvasin not only induces vasodilatation of the skin with a superficial erythema, but also brings about a deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues. It is non-irritant and can be safely used on delicate skins.

It is now being widely prescribed, with successful clinical results. Since a very small quantity is sufficient for each application, the cost of treatment is extremely low.

EASY TO TAKE

It is generally recognised that methyl cellulose is one of today's safest and most reliable aids to weight reduction, since it can be used in cases where drugs might adversely affect co-existing heart or nervous conditions. In prescriptive form, however, it is often found difficult to take, and this may increase the patient's natural resistance to dieting. Formula 21 is a methyl cellulose product in granular form. It has a pleasant lemon flavour and is readily acceptable. It contains no drugs or harmful ingredients, and may be safely recommended in cases of obesity or slight overweight. See page 1135 of "The Lancet" (19th December issue).

Technique for the treatment of stubborn varicose ulcers with ICHTHOPASTE bandages and ELASTOPLAST compression bandages

ICHTHOPASTE applied to the skin beneath Elastoplast permits uninterrupted compression bandaging in cases of recalcitrant ulcers requiring long-term ambulatory treatment.

Make three slabs of Ichthopaste about 12 inches long by lapping the bandage backwards and forwards to give two or three thicknesses. Apply these to the anterior, lateral and medial aspects of the leg. Commencing just behind the toes, apply a complete Ichthopaste bandage, enclosing the heel and extending to a point immediately below the bend of the knee. Allow the bandage to follow its own course without pleating, and cut where necessary. Recommence bandaging to build up a uniform thickness of paste. Mould bandage carefully to conform evenly to the shape of the leg.

A complete Elastoplast bandage not less than 3" wide is now applied over the Ichthopaste, under firm compression from toes to knee including the heel.

In cases of copiously discharging ulcers and oedema, it may be necessary to change the bandages weekly at first, then at longer intervals as the ulcer dries and the oedema subsides.

ELASTOPLAST elastic adhesive bandages B.P.C. (porous) provide efficient compression and support, while permitting ambulation.

ICHTHOPASTE Zinc Paste and Ichthammol Bandages B.P.C. protect the hypersensitive skin and reduce oedema.

Corn Oil and Heart Disorders

ESSENTIAL UNSATURATED FATTY ACIDS

All fats and oils, whether animal or vegetable, can be defined as "natural blends of the glycerides of fatty acids".

Fatty acids are of two types—saturated and unsaturated. Three of the latter type are of particular importance in everyday diet and are known as the essential unsaturated fatty acids. It is established beyond all reasonable doubt that they are vital to the well-being of man, as they have been proved to be for certain animals. Some experts, indeed, consider that our present-day intake of them is dangerously low.

CORONARY THROMBOSIS

Of late, interest has been further stimulated by research and treatment of patients suffering from coronary thrombosis and other vascular disorders. The incidence of these disorders has been shown to be closely correlated with a high dietary "fat" intake. There is also a correlation between the incidence of vascular disease and a high level of cholesterol in the blood. It has been found, though, that this cholesterol level is effectively lowered by reducing the intake of saturated fatty acids (present in all fats) and increasing the consumption of essential unsaturated fatty acids. Many doctors treating heart patients now consider this advisable—and even imperative.

MAZOLA CORN OIL

MAZOLA Corn Oil comes from specially selected maize, which gives an oil rich in the most important of the essential unsaturated fatty acids—linoleic acid. Apart therefore from its own intrinsic merit as a cooking oil (it has long been popular for this purpose both in Canada and America) MAZOLA can be helpful in reducing blood cholesterol when this is unduly high.

MAZOLA is specially packed to eliminate the possibility of rancidity, oxidation and reversion to saturated fats. Also, existing evidence supports the belief that MAZOLA loses none of its therapeutic properties after cooking. It can therefore be strongly recommended as a substitute for all kinds of fat used in frying, baking or grilling. Salad dressings made with MAZOLA are in every way as good as those made with other oils—such as olive oil or ground nut oil. Finally, MAZOLA can if desired be taken "medicinally"—that is to say neat, in prescribed quantity.

NULACIN "has revolutionized the treatment of duodenal ulcer"

"This new method of the administration of antacids (Nulacin) has revolutionized the treatment of duodenal ulcer... milk drip is no longer part of our therapeutic stock in trade."

PROC. ROY. SOC. MED., December, 1958, 51, 1063

NULACIN tablets, when allowed to dissolve slowly in the mouth, provide intragastric milk-alkali drip therapy safely and effectively for both the bed-ridden and ambulant patient. They may be relied on to provide a treatment for peptic ulcer as well as other conditions associated with gastric hyperacidity.

The safety and effectiveness of Nulacin therapy has been proven by "in vivo" clinical work carried out in many countries. References to this work include:—

DROXALIN

ACID ADSORBENT

Palatability—plus remarkable initial speed of action

As a consequence of the wide and successful prescribing of DROXALIN TABLETS in gastric ulcer, hyperacidity and sickness of pregnancy, a demand arose for a liquid version of the DROXALIN formula.

Introduced in 1958 as DROXALIN GEL this liquid formulation already has made a high reputation and is now widely prescribed.

DROXALIN GEL is remarkable in its initial speed of action. Over the first two minutes, it is as much as three times as effective as the most prescribed acid adsorbents—Aluminium-Hydroxide or a well prescribed mixture of Magnesium Trisilicate and Aluminium Hydroxide.

This initial speed of action is a potent factor in the management of gastric pain.

DROXALIN produces no acid rebound or other harmful side effects. The well known palatability of DROXALIN tablets is maintained in the Gel.

PARENTROVITE IN GENERAL PRACTICE

Parentrovite, a high potency injectable preparation of the vitamin B complex with vitamin C, is being found of increasing usefulness in general practice. Introduced originally for the treatment of acute psychiatric emergencies such as coma or delirium from alcohol or drug overdosage, it has since been found to be of much wider application for conditions not uncommonly met in patients being nursed in their own homes. Many a patient can now, with appropriate dosage, be kept at home instead of having to be admitted to a general or a mental hospital.

The formula is based on the fact that normal cerebral function depends on the oxidation of glucose and that any interference with the underlying biochemical mechanisms can cause symptoms of mental disturbance. Severe infections, burns, trauma, cerebral vascular accidents, surgical operations and "stresses" of all kinds can be as potent as drugs and alcohol in causing interference with the enzyme systems responsible for glucose oxidation and resultant failure of return to health.

To reverse such changes and to restore normal cerebral function, massive doses of the B vitamins and ascorbic acid are needed—doses out of all proportion to normal nutritional needs. The vitamins are used here not as nutrients but as potent drugs employed pharmacologically.

Conditions Reported Responsive to Parentrovite

The after-effects of influenza, pneumonia and other severe infections,
Post-operative depression and confusion,
Physical and mental disability after cerebral vascular disorders,
Alcoholism, acute and chronic,
Habituation to barbiturates,

"The immediate clinical results were assessed after the first month's treatment (with Roter Tablets) . . . 81% of cases became symptom-free—70% of them during the first week and 30% during the second week; a further 9% were relieved of the majority of their symptoms. Thus there was a satisfactory response in 90% of cases . . . In 75% of cases the patients found they were able to take foods which they had avoided for years."

'Mysoline' opens prison doors

TO THE EPILEPTIC CHILD, 'Mysoline' can bring new-found confidence and alertness. It enables the child to enjoy normal activity in a safe and healthy environment. 'Mysoline' can often be used with advantage in cases already controlled with other drugs but where freedom from hypnotic effect would be desirable.

The place of 'Mysoline' in juvenile epilepsy is now well documented in the literature.

Available in tablets of 0.25 G. and as a palatable oral suspension. Basic N.H.S. costs: 4/4d. for 30 tablets dispensed from packs of 1,000, and 5/8d. for 100 ml. of suspension.

This is a persistent patient

Open the surgery door and look at your patients. How many are 'regulars' – persistent neurotics who continually return despite your efforts to allay their nebulous fears and irrational fancies?

Prozine allows you a more satisfactory and comprehensive control of such patients because it has a dual action. It relaxes underlying emotional tensions; it quickly curbs mental disturbances. Moreover, you can achieve your patient's response with low, safe dosage. Prescribe Prozine for your next persistent neurotic patient.

STAPHYLOCOCCAL CROSS-INFECTION AMONG INFANTS

Extended trials in a maternity hospital have shown a significant reduction in staphylococcal sepsis and cross-infection in infants, following the routine application of STER-ZAC Powder.

Incidence cut from 5.2% to 0.9%

Over a period of 7 months (February 26 until August 17, 1958), when STER-ZAC was applied to the umbilicus and front of the abdomen to every infant admitted and repeated at each napkin change until the cord separated, the incidence of staphylococcus lesions of the skin fell from 19/365 (5.2%) to 7/343 (2.0%)¹.

In the following 10 months (August 18, 1958 to June 15, 1959) the infants were first powdered in the labour room before going to the nursery and STER-ZAC Powder was applied repeatedly to the whole trunk, including the buttocks, perineum, axillae and groins, as well as the umbilicus, until the infants left hospital and the incidence of sepsis fell again to 5/554 (0.9%)².

The reduction in staphylococcal infection amongst infants since the new routine use of STER-ZAC Powder in most maternity hospitals in the area, for over 12 months, has been followed by remarkable reductions in the number of breast abscesses recorded by the hospitals and health departments of the city³.

In a period of 18 months more than 1,000 infants have been treated with STER-ZAC Powder without irritation of the skin or other harmful effects².

Ekammon-soluble makes possible the administration of aspirin in full analgesic, antipyretic and antirheumatic doses.

Composition

Each tablet is tangerine-flavoured and contains: Soluble Aspirin equivalent to acetylsalicylic acid 330 mgm (5 grains), Acetomenaphthone (Vitamin K) 0.49 mgm, Ascorbic Acid (Vitamin C) 20 mgm.

Advantages

Gastric irritation due to the use of insoluble aspirin is considerably reduced or abolished when replaced by soluble aspirin in Ekammon-soluble, avoiding erosive gastritis and its potentially lethal complications. The inclusion of Vitamin K counteracts the prothrombin-reducing action of aspirin, averting haemorrhagic tendencies; and Vitamin C prevents the depressant effects usually associated with the administration of salicylate medication.

RADIOLOGY AS A DIAGNOSTIC AID IN CLINICAL SURGERY

Howard Middlemiss, M.D., F.F.R., D.M.R.D.

The author's aim is to assist the surgeon to a better understanding of the scope and limitations of radiology so that he may obtain all the help that can be made available and avoid the pitfalls that too implicit a faith in its power may produce. He has selected his subjects from those on which surgical colleagues have consulted him in daily practice in a busy teaching hospital. Special care has been taken to produce paper and blocks which will give the finest possible reproduction of the illustrations, each of which shows some definite lesion and has been chosen because of its clarity or the rare condition it delineates.

have pronounced
advantages over either medicament alone

The established germicidal, stimulating and anti-pruritic properties of tar, in the treatment of sub-acute and refractory skin affections, can now be considerably enhanced by its incorporation with hydrocortisone. * Clinical trials have shown that the two medicaments together exert a powerful synergistic action that is far more rapid, more pronounced and complete than the action of either alone. These two valuable therapeutic agents are presented in a non-greasy, stainless, hydrophilic cream known as TARCORTIN.

TARCORTIN CREAM

is supplied in 7 gm. and 15 gm. tubes, containing 0.5%

Hydrocortisone in a special coal-tar extract.
