Transvasin relieves muscular pain. It contains esters that possess a high degree of skin penetration, and produce erythema and analgesia. Transvasin induces deep hyperaemia which promotes the local repair of damaged tissues. Analgesic compounds are carried to the muscles and relieve pain. The basic NHS cost of Transvasin is 2/6d. and it is available on EC10. Whenever there is muscular pain prescribe TRANSVASIN

Heresy in flatworms

Arthur Koestler reports a series of new and puzzling experiments

"THE LATER theories of Darwin are at base the last expression in western science of those old, fond dreams of men—that in its largest aspect, beyond the misery, grime and cataclysms of earth, life is a 'striving towards a goal, a far circuit and a sure coming home'."

This week exclusively in The Observer, Arthur Koestler refers to an article by the American scientist, Professor James V. McConnell, who reports a number of experiments on flatworms which seem to support Darwin's later theories.

These are remarkable experiments with even more remarkable results. The lowly Planarian Dendrocoelum Tigrina, unabashed at years of theorising by sage and scientist, in Koestler's view seems to have cut to pieces the dogma that biological evolution is the outcome of random mutations preserved by natural selection. And theories, unlike flatworms, do not regenerate when cut in pieces.

At times in this article, Koestler shows no more respect for orthodox beliefs than Dendrocoelum Tigrina. But beneath his apparent flippancy there is a deep and serious purpose. For Koestler and his heretical flatworms suggest that the place of Man in the universe is more important than was supposed.

This Sunday and the following week Koestler looks at fresh and compelling evidence about the power of man's mind. His conclusions are challenging. Perhaps you may not find them acceptable. But we do urge you to read his articles, and consider them very carefully.

"has revolutionized the treatment of duodenal ulcer"

Nulacin tablets, dissolved slowly in the mouth, provide intragastric milk-alkali drip therapy, obviating the necessity for a tube. Treatment is easy and convenient for the ambulant as well as the bedridden patient. Nulacin may be relied on to provide an effective treatment for peptic ulcer as well as other conditions associated with gastric hyperacidity. No undesirable side effects occur and no cases of alkalosis or acid rebound due to Nulacin have ever been reported. The safety and effectiveness of Nulacin therapy has been proven by 'in vivo' clinical work carried out in many countries.

clears infected ears

The modern method of treatment in otitis externa, chronic suppurative otitis media, and infected mastoid cavities, is 'Otosporin' brand Drops. 'Otosporin' is an aqueous suspension containing both neomycin and polymyxin B sulphate which are together effective against practically all the bacteria found in ear infections. They are unlikely to induce bacterial resistance or skin sensitisation, and neither of them gives rise to cross-resistance or cross-sensitisation to penicillin and other antibiotics. Their effectiveness is visibly enhanced by the hydrocortisone in 'Otosporin'; this, by reducing inflammation, not only relieves pain, but provides greater access for the antibiotics

In any comparison of oral penicillins, 'V-Cil-K' is bound to take first place. Its introduction marked a milestone in penicillin therapy—it is still the favourite. 'V-Cil-K' provides the clinical response of parenteral penicillin with the convenience and safety of oral penicillin; blood levels are twice as high as those of penicillin-V acid; action is swift; side effects are few. These are the facts as confirmed by many clinical reports. Performance is the criterion for any drug, and on recorded performance 'V-Cil-K' is unsurpassed among oral penicillins.

BROXIL ACHIEVES MORE RAPID CLINICAL RESULTS IN ALL GRAM-POSITIVE INFECTIONS

Quickly absorbed from the gastro-intestinal tract, Broxil produces within a period of half to one hour peak serum concentrations higher than can be obtained with any other penicillin. Clinical response with Broxil has been noted to be more rapid than with penicillin V and in most cases recourse to injections is unnecessary.

Broxil, the high peak penicillin, is the potassium salt of 6-(alpha-phenoxypropionamido)-penicillanic acid. It is available in tablet or syrup form.

the restricted diet

Many patients are consuming diets restricted in one way or another

- the low calorie diet of the obese patient
- the low salt diet of the hypertensive
- the low fibre diet of the dyspeptic
- the low fat diet of the atheromatous

Others restrict their food intake because of domestic, psychological or financial stresses.

All these are subject to the risk of malnutrition in its various aspects and the sequelae often bring such patients for medical advice.

JUVEL was designed to meet the vitamin needs of patients in any of the above categories. It contains both fat-soluble and water-soluble vitamins in concentrations high enough to counterbalance dietary shortages and to have a definite therapeutic effect. How painful is influenza?

Just how much of the general misery and discomfort of your influenzal patients is due to aches and pains or to weakness or to any of the other symptoms of this debilitating disease would be difficult to say. But there's no doubt that relief of the constitutional symptoms with a simple antipyretic and an analgesic can do much to ease your patients' recovery and hasten convalescence.

When you prescribe Zactirin you not only provide effective symptomatic treatment, you also ensure that you do not add to your patients' distress with troublesome side-effects such as constipation and dizziness. Zactirin contains Wyeth's new analgesic discovery—ethoheptazine—plus soluble aspirin.

New literature on family planning

A recent survey has shown that over 70% of married women under 45 years of age are in favour of Family Planning, which explains why Doctors are receiving more and more requests for information.

These new booklets and leaflets give the latest information on conception control and will save Doctors' time when dealing with these enquiries.

The Condom as a Contraceptive. Written by the Director of Research at the National Committee on Maternal Health Inc., New York. This authority on the statistical evaluation of family planning analyses the effectiveness and acceptability of the condom in detail.

Modern Family Planning. A new booklet discussing the various methods of family planning written in simple language suitable for distribution to interested patients.

Diaphragm or Protective
A comparison of the two leading methods of conception control.

The case against Coitus Interruptus

An indictment of this method of conception control—its failure rate and its physical and mental effects.

The married woman's views on contraception. A survey based on facts revealed by a recent investigation of the opinions of married women about family planning.

Contraception—the facts about recent developments. An enquiry into the stage reached in the development of oral contraception—the advances to date, the interest of the general public, the known disadvantages and the long-term dangers.

Some criticism has, in the past, been levelled at Protectives on the grounds that they reduce sensitivity. A recent development by the London Rubber Company almost entirely overcomes such objections.

Professional samples of this new product, Durex Gossamer and copies of the leaflets listed above, will be sent on request, from

A unique antacid.....

insoluble, non-alkaline ion-exchange resin

Of the antacids at present available for the treatment of peptic ulcer, 'Transid' most nearly approaches the ideal, defined ("The Pharmacological Basis of Therapeutics", 1955) as

"that which does not cause systemic alkalosis, does not cause 'rebound' stimulation of the secretion of acid, interferes least with digestive processes, does not cause diarrhoea or constipation, is not irritative to the stomach, does not release carbon dioxide upon reacting with hydrochloric acid and, lastly, is efficient in neutralising gastric juices."

'Transid' is active only against excess acid; it also reduces pepsin activity. Otherwise, 'Transid' is completely inert; it does not interfere with digestion or absorption and cannot cause alkalosis, constipation or diarrhoea. Clinical experience suggests that 'Transid' may succeed in cases of peptic ulcer in which medical treatment with orthodox antacids has failed.

INDICATIONS:

Peptic ulcer; gastric hyperacidity from whatever cause; dyspepsia of pregnancy.

No ill-effect can come from too much polyaminostyrene and the correct dose is that required to control the symptoms (initially, usually two to four tablets every two or three hours).

PACK AND PRICE:

100 tablets in foil pack, basic NHS cost, 10s.

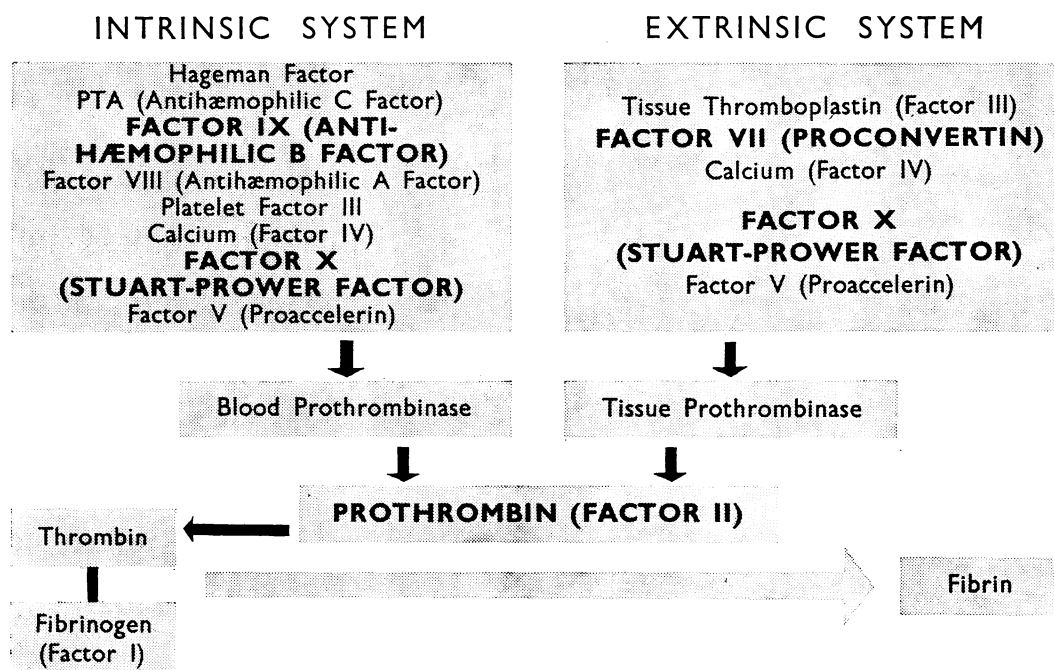

May we send you a copy of our Standard Publication on 'Transid'? It contains much more information than can be included in a journal advertisement.

As opposed to other methods of control, Thrombotest offers the advantages of easy evaluation of all four factors depressed by oral anticoagulants.

Thrombotest provides uniformity in the technique, the reagent and the expression of results, thus achieving reproducibility.

Stabilization will be smoother, control will be simpler and more rapid, and maintenance more predictable with Thrombotest.

Thrombotest has been specially designed for use as a whole blood method with capillary or venous blood. It can, however, be satisfactorily used with plasma.

Important news for users of Parenteral Iron renewed interest in intravenous iron

Since Richmond (1957-1959) reported the induction of sarcomas in rats by iron dextran and these findings were confirmed by Haddow and Horning (1960) in mice, there has been a great deal of discussion and speculation as to how far this carcinogenic activity is applicable to man. Undoubtedly, out of this has arisen a renewed interest in intravenous iron, for when oral iron fails as a treatment for simple iron deficiency anaemias, parenteral iron becomes an almost irreplaceable therapy. Poor intestinal tolerance, malabsorption, and late pregnancy when time does not allow a trial of oral iron; all are indications for the parenteral route.

early work

Earlier workers investigated the intravenous route and Nissim (1947) established that saccharated iron oxide was effective intravenously, but it did have the disadvantages of lack of stability in the plasma, the risk of severe and painful reactions when injected outside a vein and a moderate incidence of toxic reactions. Useful as such a preparation was at that time it was not considered completely satisfactory. There was a need for a preparation which was free from general toxic reactions, stable in the plasma, did not cause severe reaction if accidentally injected outside a vein and was effectively utilised.

Astrafer I.V.* a preparation developed by Astra in their research laboratories is now available and does fulfil these requirements. It has been extensively tested and Anderson, Lucas and Hagedorn all report on its effectiveness and freedom from toxic reactions. This has been confirmed in this country in a report to be published.

Astrafer I.V. is a high molecular weight iron carbohydrate complex, containing 20 mgm of trivalent iron per ml. in an isotonic solution. It has a pH of 7.3 and it is stable in plasma. A completely new form of intravenous iron not to be confused with the earlier saccharated iron oxide and iron dextran preparations.

freedom from toxic reactions

Haemolysis is often regarded as a useful guide to the toxicity of iron complexes—Astrafer I.V. has negligible haemolytic activity and is extremely stable in the plasma. It clears rapidly from the circulation. Clearance is virtually complete within 24 hours following injection. This rapid rate of clearance is maintained throughout the course of treatment and repeated injections of Astrafer produce no accumulation of iron in the circulation; unlike earlier preparations where clearance is slow and serum iron values tend to increase as repeated doses are given. No cases of thrombophlebitis or pain along the course of the vein have been observed, and even when there has been accidental injection outside the vein local toxic reaction has been confined to a mild inflammation which rapidly disappeared and did not interfere with further injections. General reactions are very rare and mild in nature.

Astrafer I.V.* is a new, stable and effective form of intravenous iron of low toxicity which gives almost 100% utilisation of the iron. Available in sterile ampoules of 5 ml. packed in boxes of five and twenty-five.

NATIONAL HEART FOUNDATION OF AUSTRALIA*FELLOWSHIPS AND GRANTS FOR RESEARCH

Applications, closing July 1, 1961, are invited for Research Fellowships and Grants-in-Aid for investigation into problems broadly related to cardiovascular function and disease. The work may be pursued in any of the basic medical sciences or as a clinical investigation.

Fellowships are available to University graduates in Medicine or Science to engage in full-time research in approved places of work and under adequate supervision.

Junior Research Fellowships: for graduates up to 35 years of age who have shown promise of capacity for research; tenable in the first instance for one or two years; commencing salary not less than £1,800 for medical and £1,500 for science graduates.

Senior Research Fellowships: for graduates with substantial experience and proven ability in research; tenable for three to five years; commencing salary not less than £2,750.

Overseas Research Fellowships: for graduates with at least two years' experience and significant achievement in research; tenable for three years, of which the first two will usually be spent overseas and the third in Australia; commencing salary as for Senior Research Fellows, but will be adjusted in accordance with the cost of living in the country in which the work is to be undertaken. Fares and adequate travelling allowances will be paid for Fellows and their families.

Grants-in-Aid are available only to non-profit institutions which possess the requisite basic research facilities. Grants are made for one to three years to support a particular research programme, normally under the supervision of a full-time responsible investigator and with the approval of the Head of the relevant department. A grant may cover salaries for full-time or part-time research assistants and technical assistants, equipment and supplies, and will not normally exceed £5,000 in any one year.

REFRESHER COURSE FOR GENERAL PRACTITIONERS

Third Collection with classified contents list to volumes 1, 2 and 3
Price 25s. (by post 26s. 9d.)

Each book contains a collection of sixty Refresher Course articles from the British Medical Journal. Each article, written by an acknowledged expert, has been revised by its author. The articles cover a wide range. Their object is to refresh the reader's memory of what is old and well-established and to tell him about new developments. They are invaluable to general practitioners and residents as practical reference books, to specialists as a means of keeping in touch with developments outside their own field, and to final-year students as up-to-date and reliable text-books.

The Third Collection has a cumulative classified contents list to the three volumes of "Refresher Course for General Practitioners."

THREADWORMS AND ROUNDWORMS

SINGLE-DOSE TREATMENT

1. A single dose of Pripsen is effective for both threadworms and roundworms.
2. The palatable granules are readily accepted by children.
3. For threadworms, Pripsen in a single dose replaces the usual seven-day treatment.
4. The dose can be given under supervision, thus avoiding any risk of treatment not being carried out.
5. No extra laxative is required.
6. Pripsen is not a dye, and therefore is non-staining.

"With its high cure-rate, lack of toxicity, ease of administration, and simplicity of dosage, we regard Pripsen as, at present, the remedy of choice for enterobiasis."—Lancet, 1960, I, 256.

The fact that the walls of the dishes made by the most up-to-date manufacturing processes are free from bubbles, streaks, rings and discoloration guarantees undisturbed examination and accurate counting of the microbe colonies.

Its material, in accordance with the use to which the dish is put, resists perfectly to chemical and thermal effects.

The glass does not contain any harmful internal tension detectable with an optical stress tester, and this circumstance guarantees the high breaking strength necessary during sterilization in an autoclave.
