THE OUTCAST

'The fairest things in life
are Death and Birth

And of these two
the fairer thing is death.'

Ode to the Setting Sun Francis Thompson

Was Francis Thompson a depressive?

One strongly suspects so. Certainly he was a mystic and predisposed to bouts of severe melancholy. He saw himself as an outcast, alone—he felt that life was not worth living; he was preoccupied with death. Many of your patients may show just such a morbid thought-pattern. For these modern-day sufferers effective therapy is possible: the treatment is NARDIL.

IN MILD TO MODERATE DEPRESSION

NARDIL is safe and is effective at low dosage levels. Toxic effects on blood or liver are extremely rare. NARDIL acts quickly. Response is usually seen within the first weeks or even days of treatment. NARDIL provides reliable treatment for depressives—often the problem patients of a busy practice.

Fighting a losing battle?

To the obese, dieting is often a distasteful and painful undertaking. Many patients, wavering between the good advice of their doctor and their desire for food, find the greatest difficulty in sticking to their diet. They are, in fact, fighting a losing battle. They need 'Dexedrine'.

'Dexedrine' is a safe and well-established anorectic agent that provides constant assistance to the dieting patient. In addition to its specific anorectic effect, 'Dexedrine' has a beneficial mood-elevating action which eliminates depression and irritability during dieting.

'Dexedrine' is presented in 'Spansule' sustained-release capsules to provide an all day long anorectic effect—on one capsule taken first thing in the morning.

Important New Evidence on the place of GLUCOPHAGE in the therapy of Diabetes Mellitus

NON-TOXIC

The diguanides are non-toxic on human subjects in doses which can be tolerated without digestive upsets (1).

IN NEWLY DIAGNOSED DIABETICS

Of 13 patients treated the only definite failure was a case of carcinoma of the pancreas with diabetes mellitus (2).

IN SULPHONYLUREA FAILURES

The most potent form of oral therapy for diabetes at present available is a diguanide in combination with chlorpropamide. Patients who fail to respond to chlorpropamide, or become resistant to it can be controlled by combined treatment.—Gastro-intestinal side-effects are unusual (3).

IN BRITTLE DIABETICS

The diguanides may be used to supplement insulin treatment in patients where diabetes is difficult to control on insulin alone. In some cases big variations of blood sugar are eliminated and hypoglycaemic episodes reduced (3).

PROGRESS WITH BETAMETHASONE

a new product for the treatment of

HAY FEVER

Betnesol-N nasal spray

This latest addition to the Betnesol range of topical corticosteroids contains betamethasone phosphate, neomycin, and a vasoconstrictor.

The betamethasone is presented as the disodium phosphate, which is soluble, and can therefore reach the inflamed tissues more readily. Thus it provides most efficient local therapy.

The anti-inflammatory action of the corticosteroid is supplemented by the decongestive effect of naphazoline. A lower than usual concentration minimises any risk of the 'rebound phenomenon' which may sometimes follow too intensive use of vasoconstrictors.

The antibiotic neomycin is included to control infection that may be associated with the primary condition. It has a wide range of activity and very low risk of sensitisation. Mild attacks of hay fever can often be controlled by the use of this new spray alone. Severe cases, however, may need systemic corticosteroid treatment in addition, and for this purpose Betnelan tablets are particularly well suited. The tablets, recently introduced by Glaxo, contain betamethasone alcohol. A few days' treatment will usually control the condition rapidly, but local application of the spray should normally be continued.

BETNESOL-N NASAL SPRAY 0.02% betamethasone phosphate 0.5% neomycin sulphate 0.02% naphazoline nitrate. 15 ml plastic squeeze bottles.

NULACIN TABLETS have been developed so that when allowed to dissolve slowly in the mouth, they give continuous milk-alkali drip therapy and provide a treatment of peptic ulcer and other conditions associated with hyperacidity. romotalromorphal

Tetrahydroaminacrine (Tacrine) Hydrochloride, Romotal is an adjuvant to morphine and produces morphine analgesia without side-effects.

A 1:1 mixture of morphine Hydrochloride and 'Romotal'.

Tacrine has two groups of properties :

Central : stimulant to the central nervous system and respiratory centre.

Peripheral : anticholinesterase and anticholineacetylase actions, making Tacrine (1) a curare antagonist and (2) able to potentiate and prolong succinylcholine neuromuscular block.

In advanced malignant disease, Morphine + Tacrine ('Romorphal') provides freedom from pain without mental sluggishness or respiratory depression; and morphine habituation and addiction develop more slowly, withdrawal symptoms are absent.

INDICATIONS :

1. 'Romorphal' for protracted administration of a potent analgesic, e.g. painful malignant disease, painful advanced arthritis.
2. 'Romorphal' when respiratory depression or suppression of the cough reflex are undesirable, e.g. post-operative pain, especially after thoracotomy and upper abdominal operations.
3. 'Romotal' as a respiratory stimulant in cases of poisoning by barbiturates or narcotics.
4. 'Romotal' as a decurarising agent and succinylcholine potentiator.

The initial dose of 'Romorphal' is 0.75 to 1.0 ml., the aim being to produce complete relief from pain for about six hours; increments of 0.25 to 0.5 ml. are suggested.

Alternatively, 'Romotal' and morphine may be mixed from their separate solutions into one syringe to obtain a proportion of the two drugs different from the ratio in 'Romorphal' 1 : 1.

Betnesol Injection is a ready-prepared solution containing soluble betamethasone phosphate for intravenous or intramuscular injection when a rapid, intensive response is required. Each 1 ml ampoule provides 4 mg of the very potent steroid, so that the volume to be injected may be comparatively small. Betnesol Injection is economical compared with other steroid injections.

LIFE-SUSTAINING MEASURE FOR MANY EMERGENCIES

Traumatic Shock When replacement of the blood volume and administration of a pressor drug fail to restore blood pressure to an acceptable level, Betnesol Injection can provide a dramatic complementary effect.

Overwhelming Infection If large doses of a corticosteroid are given at the same time as antibiotics, the chance of survival can be greatly improved.

Status Asthmaticus Corticosteroids are highly effective in the treatment of asthma, and can complement the effect of adrenaline.

Allergic Emergencies In anaphylaxis, corticosteroids are often of value when given with adrenaline.

BETNESOL INJECTION

1 ml ampoules singly and in boxes of six.

Betnelan intra-articular injection

This newly-developed injection contains 4 mg sparingly soluble betamethasone alcohol and 1 mg betamethasone as soluble phosphate per ml. Betnelan Intra-articular Injection is indicated for inflammatory conditions of the joints and for soft tissue lesions.

SWIFT AND SUSTAINED EFFECT FROM A SINGLE INJECTION

Injections of corticosteroids for intra-articular use commonly contain the steroid in a sparingly-soluble form which gives a relatively prolonged effect. Commencement of relief may be a little delayed, however, and sometimes an exacerbation occurs in the first day or so following injection. This tendency can be lessened by using a soluble corticosteroid, which gives benefit in a matter of a few hours.

Because Intra-articular Injection of Betnelan contains both soluble and sparingly-soluble corticosteroids, it has the advantage both of swift action and of sustained effect.

BETNELAN Intra-articular INJECTION

In 5 ml vials and in boxes of 6 x 1 ml ampoules.

The names Betnesol and Betnelan are Glaxo trade marks

Antibiotic Research ●

griseofulvin for ● greater absorption ●

Glaxo research, which first developed large-scale manufacture of griseofulvin, has produced a new fine particle form of the antibiotic. This is now marketed as GRISOVIN-FP. Griseofulvin is relatively insoluble. By reducing the particle size its absorption is substantially increased. Grisovin-FP taken orally produces blood levels equal to those obtained with the original material but in half the dosage. For this reason Grisovin-FP is issued in a tablet of 125 mg which is equivalent to the original 250 mg tablet in the production of griseofulvin blood levels. The reduced particle size is purely a physical change and in all other respects but one Grisovin-FP is identical with the griseofulvin so extensively, and so successfully, used for the treatment of fungal skin infections. The exception is the price—Grisovin-FP costs much less.

BRONCHITIS

The well established formula for chronic bronchitis is TERCOLIX. This dislodges the habitual mucoid sputum; relieves wheeziness, breathlessness and distressing fits of coughing; makes expectoration easy by liquifying tenacious mucus. Each teaspoonful contains Codein Phosph. $\frac{1}{4}$ grain combined with Terpin Hydrate, Menthol, Pine and Eucalyptus oils to provide a warm, soothing, sedative effect. Dosage: Two teaspoonfuls in warm water, before retiring—sipped slowly—free the air passages of accumulated mucus and ensure a good night's sleep. Where the critical point has been reached and the bronchial tubes are swollen, soggy and unduly sensitive, daily maintenance doses are strongly recommended. Samples for clinical trial are available on request.

Dear Doctor,

Effective immediately we are withdrawing the anti-depressant product, Monase (Etryptamine Acetate), from the market.

Despite the fact that extensive animal and clinical studies, prior to marketing, indicated a wide margin of safety, agranulocytosis has now been reported in rare instances in association with the administration of Monase. These reports have come from areas of the world where this drug has been on the market for a longer period of time than in this country. Because of this unforeseen and unpredictable occurrence, Upjohn Limited is withdrawing Monase in compliance with its worldwide policy of providing only preparations which are effective, efficient and properly safe.

In this situation it is pertinent and important to review briefly our experience with Monase, as well as the events that precipitated the decision to discontinue the product.

For more than two years prior to its release, Monase had been administered to over 3,500 patients by many competent investigators associated with major institutions all over the world. In many instances the dosage used was greatly in excess of that recommended when the drug eventually was released. During this extensive and intensive period of investigation there were no reports of blood dyscrasias, liver toxicity or other serious untoward effects.

During the fourteen months of clinical evaluation in the United Kingdom and during the subsequent six months of commercial availability not a single case of a serious side effect has been reported.

It has not been possible to establish definitely that Monase was the causative agent in the reported cases of agranulocytosis. The available evidence indicates that it may have been implicated, but it is worthy of note that other drugs were administered concurrently and that these included some which are known to cause blood dyscrasias. However, it is our desire to maintain the highest possible standard of integrity and of quality in our products; we are therefore withdrawing Monase without hesitation.

We are extremely sorry if this action inconveniences you in the treatment of your patients but you will realize that this is for their protection as well as your own

Yours faithfully,

CAN YOU TRUST HIM?

Can you trust your patient's child not to get hold of his mother's iron tablets? Can you a/ways rely on your anaemic patient to observe the necessary care and watchfulness?

Ferrodic virtually removes the toxic risks from iron therapy. It is 100 times less toxic than ferrous sulphate, 30 times less toxic than ferrous gluconate.* Yet, because it is stabilised, this unique form of ferrous carbonate is readily absorbed to give maximum haemoglobin response . . . And, in keeping with its low toxicity, Ferrodic is exceptionally well tolerated and free from unpleasant side effects.

The advantage of choice . . .

In family planning for responsible parenthood, the choice of a contraceptive must depend on individual circumstances. Many doctors find that the combination of spermicidal efficiency and aesthetic acceptability both in GYNOMIN TABLETS and ANTEMIN CREAM enables them to recommend either of these modern preparations, with confidence, to their patients.

GYNOMIN

Formula:
Sodium Bicarbonate B.P. 12.7%
Tartaric Acid B.P. 11.1%
Chloramine B.P. 1.1%

ANTEMIN

Formula:
Sodium Dioctyl
sulphosuccinate 0.25%
Ricinoleic Acid B.P. 1.00%
Paraformaldehyde B.P.C. 0.15%

The Family Planning Association advise that for maximum safety, any chemical contraceptive should be used with a mechanical barrier.

Availability of Vitamins in Yeast

Deficiencies of single factors of the Vitamin B Group do not occur. Accordingly, even if a deficiency condition appears to result from the lack of an individual factor of the group and it is considered necessary to give intensive treatment with this factor, the entire Vitamin B Complex should always be administered concurrently.

It is, however, extremely important, in view of suggestions in recent publications, that the vehicle selected as a source of the entire B Complex does not withhold its vitamin content from the patient.

Human experiments show that the rich, natural vitamin potency of Aluzyme is totally available to the human system.

- Aluzyme is not advertised to the public and may be prescribed under J.S.C. Classification Category "S."
