RYOTOL is lethal to Ps. pyocyanea, Staphylococcus aureus, Proteus vulgaris and Streptococcus pyogenes found in C.S.O.M. and Otitis Externa.

The presence of Ps. pyocyanea has been demonstrated in 90% of cases of chronically discharging ears. This gram-negative, highly resistant organism is unaffected by penicillin, sulphonamides and many other bactericides. It produces abundant pus and is therefore extremely troublesome.

RYOTOL Ear Drops are the outcome of clinical work on humans, following outstanding results obtained in the veterinary field.

TARCORTIN FOR ECZEMA

Face Eczema March 24

A HEALING COMBINATION — TAR + HYDROCORTISONE

In Tarcortin cream the combination of tar with hydrocortisone has provided a preparation with spectacular results in cases of eczema and other dermatic affections — both sub-acute and chronic. Clinical trials have shown that the combination of tar with hydrocortisone is more effective than either preparation alone. The photographs show the response of a case of eczema to only two days' treatment with Tarcortin.

Tarcortin is supplied in 7gm and 15gm tubes containing 0.5% hydrocortisone and 5% special coal tar extract in a vanishing type base. Literature and samples are available on request.

In practice, patients do seem to get better quicker with BROXIL

and there are facts which could explain this. For one thing, Broxil compared with oral penicillin V has a very high absorption rate² and gives very high tissue levels. It is therefore quickly and effectively bactericidal at the site of infection.

Broxil is also bactericidal to some penicillin G and V resistant staphylococci³, which of course means greater certainty in therapy.

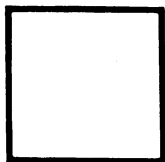

It is not surprising that these advantages produce measurable advances in clinical efficiency. For example, it has been possible to count in days the saving of recovery time achieved by using Broxil in upper respiratory tract infections¹, while many physicians have recorded its effectiveness in other indications.^{4,5,6,7,8}

Long-term control readily maintained

In wide clinical use for over three years

Named the drug of choice by many authorities

With a single dose daily Ismelin has been reported to give satisfactory control of blood pressure in nearly 90% of patients. From the patient's point of view, therefore, treatment is very simple. Furthermore, the dosage level does not require frequent adjustment and once the patient is stabilized the response can usually be maintained for long periods.

Because of its superior control and ease of use, Ismelin is now widely prescribed in general practice. Alone or in combination with a thiazide diuretic such as Navidrex, Ismelin will maintain effective, long-term control of hypertension in a majority of cases, without undue inconvenience to the patient and with reasonable economy.

Lichen Planus 11

Description
This disease mainly affects patients in middle life and the sexes are equally affected. The cause is unknown. The primary lesion is a clearly defined papule of a violaceous or pale lilac colour. It shows striations, and sometimes slight scaling. The papules are polygonal and shiny, and they often heal with residual pigmentation. Atrophy can occur, and this may cause baldness when the scalp is involved. The lesions are usually extremely itchy.

Distribution
Sites most commonly affected are the anterior surfaces of both wrists. The inner aspects of the cheek often show white lace-like striations, and other mucous membranes, e.g. glans penis and vulva may show lesions. Opacity of the nails with striations are seen in some cases. Widespread involvement of the whole body surface may occur. The disease may produce several crops of lesions and the duration varies from three months to a year or two. After a variable course, the prognosis is good in most cases. Lesions on the lower limbs are often more warty and are referred to as hypertrophic lichen planus. Many cases follow a bereavement or other emotional upset, but frequently no such factors are apparent.

Diagnosis
The papule is almost pathognomic of lichen planus. Mucous membrane lesions affecting the mouth or vulva may occur in the absence of skin lesions and these must be distinguished from leukoplakia. Malignant changes in the mucous membranes affected by lichen planus must be very rare indeed.

Where BLOOD PRESSURE climbs, keep it under control with ENDURONYL

With Enduronyl, once daily is the dose for hypertension. Blood pressure starts down steadily: improvement usually is substantial within 10 days. Further reduction may continue over following weeks. At the same time, excess sodium and water are consistently eliminated. Giving Enduronyl just once a day means fewer forgotten doses. A smoothly sustained therapeutic response, too. Enduronyl combines two well-established anti-hypertensive agents: (1) Enduron, Abbott's long-acting thiazide diuretic, and (2) Harmony, a rauwolfia derivative of low side effects. Together they provide greater anti-hypertensive action than with either alone.

ISONIAZID RESISTANT BCG VACCINE

available for export protects tuberculosis contacts without need for segregation

The Glaxo research team that originally produced Freeze-dried BCG Vaccine have now made another major advance. They have made a new, and much needed, BCG vaccine in which the organisms have been treated to make them resistant to isoniazid. Clinical trial of the vaccine has shown it to be very effective in protecting tuberculosis contacts who are receiving isoniazid.¹

For two reasons the introduction of Isoniazid Resistant BCG Vaccine Glaxo represents a big step forward in the world-wide struggle to control the spread of tuberculosis:

(1) Tuberculosis contacts receiving isoniazid may now be vaccinated without the need for segregation until Mantoux conversion is established. This is obviously of great importance where new-born babies are concerned.

(2) BCG vaccination can proceed concurrently with isoniazid treatment and the drug need only be given until the post-tuberculin test becomes positive.

Apart from its ability to resist isoniazid, the new Glaxo BCG Vaccine has identical properties to those of the intradermal vaccine now in use. It is heat stable, readily transported, and can be stored for up to one year.

The dose of Isoniazid Resistant BCG Vaccine Glaxo is 0.1 ml by intradermal injection. It is supplied as a freeze-dried powder in a multi-dose ampoule, the contents of which make 1 ml liquid BCG vaccine.

Its composition and its purpose

The British Heart Foundation launches an appeal to industry, commerce and individuals. Direct approaches already made to certain leading organisations and generous friends have raised the sum of over £1,000,000—a magnificent start towards the goal of £3,500,000.

The British Heart Foundation, under the Patronage of H. R. H. Prince Philip, and with Field-Marshal the Rt. Hon. Earl Alexander of Tunis as its President, has been created through the efforts of physicians and surgeons specialising in diseases affecting the heart and circulation. It has the support of the Royal College of Physicians of England, the Royal College of Surgeons of England, the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh, the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Glasgow, the British Post-graduate Medical Federation and the College of General Practitioners. The Foundation is the first, and only, body of its kind in this country to concern itself exclusively with the problem of heart disease. The funds of the Foundation will be used, through grants, fellowships and other such channels, to support and originate research in Great Britain into every aspect of the causes and treatment of diseases of the heart and circulation.

We appeal for your support, not only in donations or subscriptions, but also in bringing the Foundation to the notice of all those who are especially interested in the problem of heart diseases.

In advanced Mammary Cancer

The beneficial effects of Deca-Durabolin already reported in cases of advanced mammary cancer have recently been further confirmed by the results of 175 patient-studies*.

Nearly all the patients treated with Deca-Durabolin experienced improvement in general well-being with increased appetite. Regression and control for periods up to two years were obtained.
The report concludes—"The low incidence of side effects coupled with the well-marked general tonic effect suggest the wider use of this preparation as ancillary treatment in stage III carcinoma of the breast"*.

vaccinating with multiple antigens

The use of separate antigens for immunisation procedures has largely been superseded by that of combined vaccines. A widely used way of conferring immunity against diphtheria, pertussis, tetanus and poliomyelitis, is to give Triple Antigen (a combined vaccine containing diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus antigens) and an oral poliomyelitis vaccine. Initially the Triple Antigen is administered in a course of three injections, and the poliomyelitis vaccine is recommended to be given separately on three different occasions, either before the Triple Antigen (using schedule Q) or afterwards (using schedule P). Recently another, more simplified, way of giving four-way protection has been made available by Glaxo, in the form of Quadrilin—Britain's first quadruple vaccine—which contains diphtheria, pertussis and tetanus antigens together with a killed and standardized poliomyelitis component. Five years of research by Glaxo workers preceded the introduction of Quadrilin. The result is a vaccine exceptionally stable in all its components and which can produce high levels of immunity against all four diseases. Quadrilin may be given as early as three months of age, thus fitting in with the Ministry of Health's immunisation schedules, and it is given by either intramuscular or subcutaneous injection; a course of three injections provides effective primary immunisation. Either of these immunisation procedures, whether employing Triple Antigen (Glaxo) together with an oral attenuated poliomyelitis vaccine, or Quadrilin, with its killed poliomyelitis component, is able to provide effective protection. Glaxo is the only British Company which is able to offer all these products for four-way immunisation.

The dramatic increase in survival rate—together with angiograms of all animals in this study—provided the first evidence that a specific drug can encourage the development of vital collateral circulation after occlusion of a major coronary artery.

In a departure from customary cardiac research techniques, the investigator used the pig as his experimental animal. He based his decision on an earlier series of studies^{1 to 4} that made it clear that in the pig—more than in the dog and other experimental animals—coronary artery distribution resembles that of man.
