A major new antihypertensive agent from Abbott

Eutonyl* is an important new drug for the treatment of moderate to severe essential hypertension. Most hypertensive patients respond to Eutonyl therapy with a reduction of both systolic and diastolic blood pressures in the standing position, and many also experience significant reductions in other positions.

Many hypertensive patients have been impressed by an improved sense of well-being; and while the use of Eutonyl in the treatment of depression is still being evaluated, in this respect alone it offers a useful advance over other antihypertensive agents.

Eutonyl is a unique non-hydrazine chemical substance with monoamine oxidase inhibiting properties. Extensive laboratory and clinical studies have so far shown no serious toxicities, though suitable precautions should be observed as with all new drugs. The side effects of Eutonyl therapy are relatively infrequent and mild if dosage is adjusted to prevent orthostatic hypotension. The combination of a thiazide diuretic such as Enduron* (methyclothiazide, Abbott) with a reduced dosage of Eutonyl further reduces side effects and also enhances the anti-hypertensive response in the sitting and lying positions.

Eutonyl is supplied in two strengths as Eutonyl (25 mg pargyline hydrochloride) and Eutonyl-Ten (10 mg pargyline hydrochloride) Filmtabs*, in bottles of 100.

Comprehensive literature is available on all aspects of this important new agent: dosage, side effects, precautions and the wide measure of agreement on its clinical efficacy even in the most difficult cases.

Penicillin G "is the least toxic, and against most species of pathogenic gram-positive and gram-negative cocci, including strains of Staphylococcus aureus which do not produce penicillinase, it is still the most effective antibiotic available, new penicillins notwithstanding. This is not only because it is active in high dilutions (0.03 µg/ml or less), but because it is one of the most actively bactericidal antibiotics."

Because early treatment will avoid possible pain, ear damage and deafness, there is a good case for at least starting therapy of otitis media with an injection of Crystapen, say one mega unit.

Either of these preparations is an ideal follow-up treatment to Crystapen Injection. No oral penicillin has been shown superior to oral penicillin G in adequate dosage—and penicillin G is a third cheaper than 'V'.

Local analgesics

DUNCAINE

Lignocaine and lignocaine with adrenaline.

Solutions of local analgesics are traditionally packed in 'multidose' vials. This is not a wholly satisfactory practice. Such vials have disadvantages: the rubber bung is not always easy to penetrate and blunts the needle; if the whole contents are wanted the cap is difficult to remove: the outside of the vial with its paper label is difficult to sterilize, and last but not least, despite the presence of bacteriostat, contamination from time to time of any residual solution seems inevitable.

Duncaine brand lignocaine solutions are therefore now packed in 10 ml. ampoules. The ampoules are of the 'snap ring' type and clearly and indelibly printed.

Lignocaine 0.5 per cent Plain.

Lignocaine 0.5 per cent with adrenaline 1 : 200,000.

Lignocaine 1.0 per cent Plain.

Lignocaine 1.0 per cent with adrenaline 1 : 200,000.

High concentrations of either lignocaine or adrenaline have been avoided in the conviction that they are rarely if ever needed and that their use is much more likely to lead to toxic effects. The solutions contain no additives apart from sodium chloride and, in the case of those with adrenaline, an antioxidant. The adrenaline will remain fully active for at least 3 years under normal conditions of storage. The ampoules may safely be autoclaved once or twice at normal pressures and times (15 lb. for 30 minutes).

In the asthmatic attack—profound relief in seconds

One or two inhalations from Medihaler-iso Forte can provide relief of broncho-spasm comparable in speed and degree to that achieved by injection. Yet for the patient there is nothing simpler or more convenient to use whenever required. Each dose (0.4mg.isoprenaline sulphate) contains over 80% by weight of particles between 2 and 5 microns in diameter—optimum for retention in the lungs. Treatment economy is assured because Robinson's Lemon Barley and Orange Barley provide a convenient form of natural, wholesome barley water freshened with lemon and orange and perfectly balanced for rapid absorption. Home brewed barley water is quickly made with Robinson's 'Patent' Barley.

It may be mixed with milk or flavoured with fruit juice.

Scientific Activities

● The foundation recently made awards totalling £181,000 to 34 research workers.

● The names of those selected to undertake programmes of scientific work were announced in the British Medical Journal (November 16th).

● These research projects cover a large part of the heart field including physiology, pathology and biochemistry in connection with arterial sclerosis, hypertension, pulmonary and congenital heart disease, "strokes" and cardiomyopathy.

Research work is now being carried out in London, Birmingham, Bristol, Cardiff, Dundee, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Leeds, Portsmouth, Stoke-on-Trent, and Lagos (Nigeria).

● Further awards will be made in the Spring of 1964.

● The above research activities depend entirely upon the success of the Heart Appeal for which an initial target of three and a half million pounds has been set. The eventual aim is to provide for expenditure of half a million pounds per annum—the minimum required to finance an adequate research programme.

Life Membership of the Foundation is open for a single payment of £100 (or more), (or £10 per annum on a seven-year Covenant). Ordinary Members are welcome at 5 gns. per year (£3.5.0d on a seven-year Covenant).

Information and forms of application for research grants may be obtained from the Secretary, Appeal Office, (BM) British Heart Foundation, Tavistock House, Tavistock Square, London WC99.

FURAMIDE is the simplest treatment for amoebiasis, requiring no injections, enemas or special diets. Cure rates are high—75% to 80% in the acute stage and up to 100% in the chronic condition. Side effects are unlikely, and hospitalization is not normally required, making treatment cheaper than the older forms of therapy. Extensive clinical trials in many tropical and sub-tropical countries have borne out these claims.

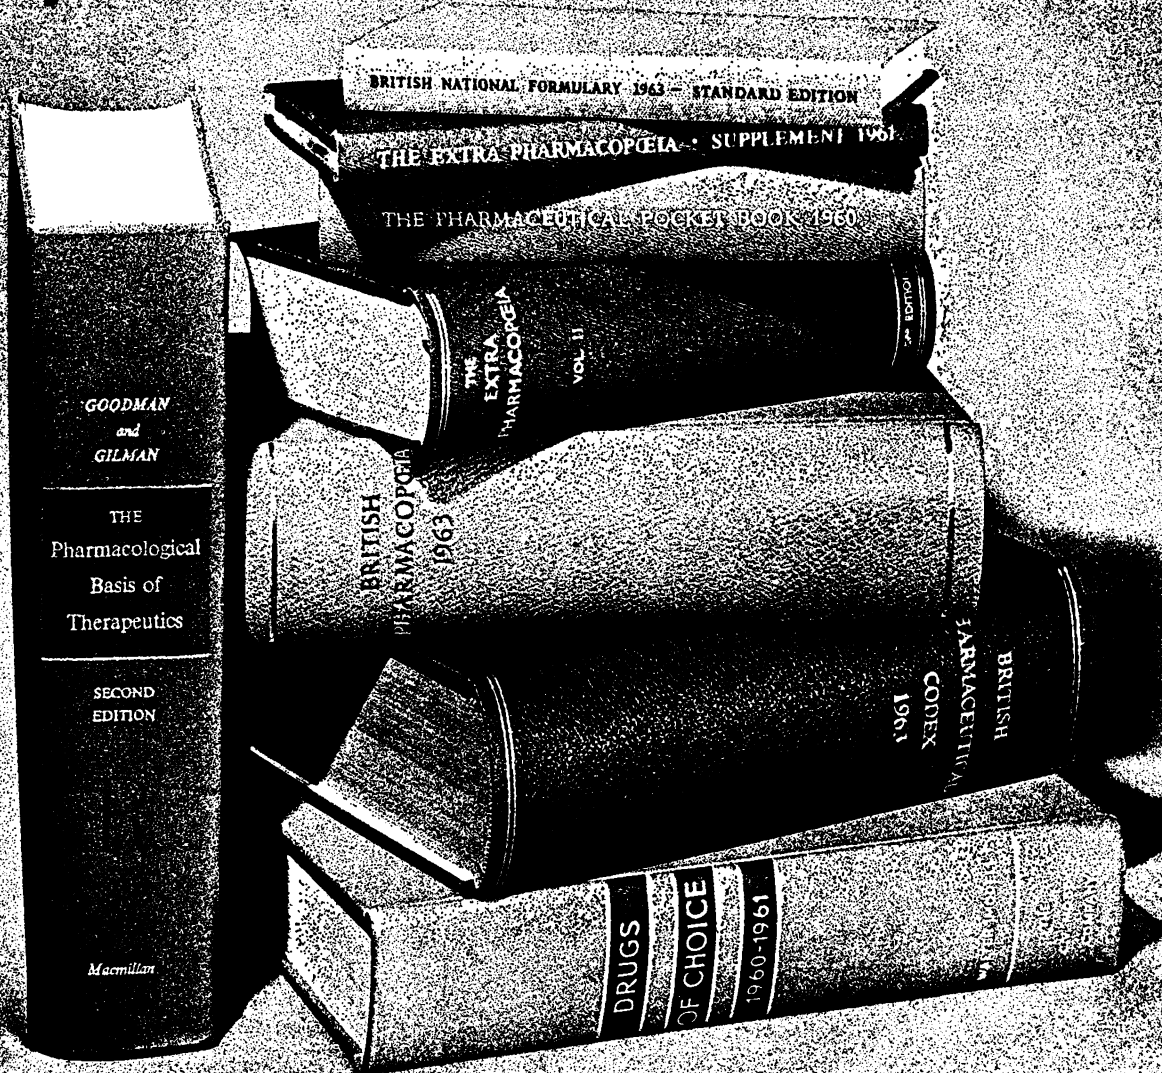

Dosage is simple—1 tablet three times daily for ten days in patients of average weight.

Each Furamide tablet contains 0.5G of Entamide (diloxanide) furoate B.P. Both Entamide and Furamide are products of Boots research. Packed in bottles of 15 and 250 tablets.

for more normal blood pressure throughout the 24 hours—at work, at ease or asleep

The advantages of 'Aldomet' allow the hypertensive patient many benefits

ADVANTAGES

Blood pressure is usually controlled in the lying (and sitting) as well as the standing position.

Postural hypotension is less of a problem than is the case with other potent antihypertensive agents. Exertional hypotension is rare.

Diurnal variation in blood pressure is rare. Morning hypotension can usually be avoided without loss of control of afternoon blood pressure, by dosage adjustment.

Dosage is simple, flexible and easily established. Side effects are seldom a serious problem.

BENEFITS FOR THE PATIENT

'Aldomet' controls hypertension throughout day and night, whether the patient is awake or asleep.

'Aldomet' allows the patient to undertake more normal activities, with a low risk of dizziness.

'Aldomet' gives smooth and even control of hypertension without excessive swings of blood pressure.

'Aldomet' is generally well tolerated and the patient is therefore fully cooperative.

'Aldomet' is supplied as yellow, film-coated tablets containing 250 mg methyldopa. For the treatment of acute hypertensive crises, 'Aldomet' is also available as an injection, supplied in 5 ml ampoules containing, per ml, 50 mg methyldopate hydrochloride. Detailed information on indications, dosage, administration, precautions and the very extensive bibliography is available on request.

Even in the more serious behaviour disturbances—whether marked by depression or anxiety, or both—'Aventyl', with its unusually wide spectrum of action, broadens the doctor's power to relieve the troubled mind swiftly.

'Aventyl' has an inherent beneficial effect on anxiety and hostility—it is not a combination of an anti-depressant with a tranquillizer, but a single entity going beyond mere antidepressant action as such. Four out of five patients with symptoms referable to anxiety and depression (including psychosomatic disturbances) are likely to respond favourably to 'Aventyl', many of them within a week.

'Aventyl' is not a monoamine oxidase inhibitor.

POLES APART

Rickets is prevented by cod liver oil. But rickets is an expression of hypovitaminosis D. It is sometimes argued, hypervitaminosis D must be a hazard of cod liver oil therapy. In fact, in the context of such therapy the two conditions are poles apart; and no unequivocal case of hypervitaminosis due to cod liver oil has ever been reported. Hypervitaminosis A or D is due to massive overdosage of these vitamins: the regular ingestion of 25 fluid ounces of cod liver oil daily in the case of hypervitaminosis A—4 fluid ounces daily for hypervitaminosis D. It is highly improbable that anyone would drink such an amount over a long period, even of the hermetic and very acceptable cod liver oil we now produce.

Perhaps the most relevant comments on this matter are provided by a leading British text on nutrition*.

This says (p. 205) of hypervitaminosis A: "Some concentrated preparation, such as halibut-liver oil, has usually been given in doses appropriate for cod-liver oil."

And of hypervitaminosis D (p. 209): "the mother of an infant mistakes her instructions and gives some concentrated calciferol preparation by the teaspoonful—in the mistaken belief that it is similar to cod-liver oil—without realising that it may be fifty times more potent."

Idiopathic hypercalcaemia is a separate issue. It is not a simple hypervitaminosis—though it may be due to hypersensitivity to vitamin D—and it is not common. It seems usually to have been associated with an intake of vitamin D coming from a number of sources, especially those fortified with synthetic vitamin D<sub>2</sub>, whereas pure cod liver oil contains mainly the naturally occurring vitamin D<sub>3</sub>. Further, the recent drop in the degree of food fortification in this country has apparently been followed by a corresponding fall in the incidence of idiopathic hypercalcaemia. And finally, there is no report of this condition ever having been caused simply by ingestion of pure cod liver oil.

The danger of hypervitaminosis from cod liver oil is thus a largely theoretical one, and needs to be seen as such because of the increasing daily consumption of the oil by adults for its cholesterol-lowering action. At the opposite pole of cod liver oil therapy, rickets is now getting commoner again. We had thought that the disease was a thing of the past, but recently no less than 19 cases were reported in South East London. This is not surprising in view of the continuing apathy towards the uptake of welfare foods; but it is ironical that we should, in trying to avoid one unreal danger, be courting another that is very real indeed. Cod liver oil will certainly prevent rickets; and a speculative hazard should never be allowed to outweigh an established benefit.

Conquered: a common fear in early marriage

All too frequently the underlying cause of numerous anxiety symptoms in married patients is the fear of an unwanted pregnancy. This is often brought about by the use of unreliable contraceptive methods. Even today, for example, eleven and a half million people still practice coitus interruptus.

Fortunately, today, married people are less inhibited in their attitudes towards family planning. More and more they turn to you for advice.

To assist you with enquiries of this sort, there are a number of specially edited publications available. Among them are "Modern Family Planning", an informative reference book for patients, which is available in quantity, and a series of leaflets for professional reading. Professional discounts are available on London Rubber Industries products. For booklets (please state quantity required), leaflets and special price list, write to:—

The Nutritional Properties of Bovril

Bovril is far more than a pleasantly-flavoured drink. Its unique mixture of meat extract, hydrolysed beef, whole lean beef, beef stock and yeast extract makes it a highly nutritious food from the point of view of vitamins and protein.

1. Vitamins of the B-complex. One cup of Bovril supplies 20% of the daily requirement of the normal adult for vitamin B<sub>2</sub> (riboflavin) and 20% of the nicotinic acid (vitamin PP).

2. Haematinic Factors. Of all the factors required for blood formation, only three are likely to be limited in the diet - iron, vitamin B<sub>12</sub> and folic acid. One cup of Bovril will supply 35% of the adult's daily requirement of vitamin B<sub>12</sub> (cyanocobalamin) and 20% of the folic acid.

3. Gastric Secretion. Bovril is a well-known stimulant of gastric secretion—even more powerful than meat extract itself. It is, therefore, particularly useful for elderly patients and convalescents.

4. Appetite. A major factor in the rapid recovery from serious illness or major surgery is a good intake of protein foods. Poor appetite can delay recovery. Bovril is a great help in promoting good appetite while stimulating gastric secretion.

Every ounce of Bovril contains: 1.02 mg riboflavin, 6.8 mg niacin, 1.1 µg vitamin B<sub>12</sub>, 68 µg folic acid.

The following are extracts from an article on car shape by C.A. Curtis (Autocar, 13 December, 1963)

"... the important thing is the effect of aerodynamic efficiency upon performance and economy. In the case of the Porsche this effect is marked."

D R A G

"My own personal view is that the proper shape for a car is a smooth, rounded one like the Porsche... (it) is stronger... and in many ways safer."

"Clearly, the aerodynamic efficiency of cars is a matter of profound importance to us all. Equally clearly manufacturers do not pay nearly enough attention to this aspect of design."

"The real league-winner, pace-setter and standard by which all the others should be judged is the Porsche Super 75 with its drag coefficient of 0.32. Here is a car which not only is aerodynamically efficient but which looks aerodynamically efficient as well!"

Our occasional advertisements in the B.M.J. have always evoked a worth-while, and even world-wide, response. We have a limited number of a lavishly illustrated booklet, "The Porsche Story," written by Ken W. Purdy, published in America. # WHAT IT'S LIKE TO BE AN ARMY DOCTOR

Extracts from an article by Major K.N. Murray, RAMC

WHEN SERVING WITH THE BRITISH ARMY OF THE RHINE

If a soldier knows that no matter where he may be posted on duty, his wife and children will soon join him, or indeed travel with him, he is a happy man. The British, however, have an inborn distrust of 'natives,' be they Germans, Indians, Malaysians or Chinese, so that it can be a great source of confidence to a travelling family to know that anywhere in the world they will have the backing of typical British services, not least of all doctors, nurses and hospitals.

A TYPICAL DAY

My day began with what has long been termed the sick parade. This is, in fact, not a parade of any kind, but a normal surgery, in this case at 8.30 in the morning with the patients all men. The soldiers sit comfortably in the waiting room, reading magazines, until the sign goes on and it is their turn to see the doctor in the privacy of his consulting room.

Following this, there were usually three or four men to see each day for brief general medical examinations. In this way, the overall health of a regiment is under constant review, and men are given a chance to live the type of Army life for which they are most physically suited. The Army institution of injections still exists; but, after all, the modern soldier may travel anywhere in the world at very short notice, and it is greatly to the benefit of him and his family, that we should be able to give them protection against so many diseases which used to be fearful scourges.

Half an hour on one or two mornings a week are often set aside for this, when the protection of a few men would be brought up to date and so, in this way, the whole regiment is kept as immune as possible to disease. As in all good professions, there was then a suitable break for coffee and biscuits.

The rest of my morning was then normally taken up with calls to visit families in their quarters. All the normal childhood ailments were there in abundance, and with a close-living community there were seasons of spots. While there is nothing like the same proportion of old people, who tend to take up so much of a civilian doctor's time in Britain, families often have older friends or parents staying with them on holiday, who present the doctor with a medical surprise in the way of a complicated or interesting diagnosis.

With the visits finished, I could then have a peaceful hour and a half at home for lunch with my wife and children, though it wasn't unheard of for the phone to go in the middle of it and to be told, 'come quick, Trooper Jones has dropped a tank on his fingers.' But this is a doctor's lot, or privilege, in all walks of life, and I soon became quite an expert at the minor surgery of everyday cuts and bruises.

FAMILY CLINICS

Four afternoons a week I had a family clinic in the Medical Centre from two to four o'clock. For this we had a separate consulting room and waiting room for families only. Assisting at those clinics were a SSAFA sister, who is a combination of sister, midwife and health visitor, and a German qualified sister.

One of those afternoon clinics was usually set aside for babies only, and in this it was rather I who assisted the SSAFA sister, and a vast number of infants were duly weighed and filled up with their triple antigens, polio inoculations and vaccinations, according to age.

This particular clinic always seems to be the greatest attraction abroad, and the mothers find a great moral boost in Sister's encouraging words as the infants go off until next time. One morning each week a gynaecologist visited the Medical Centre from the nearby Military Hospital to hold an ante-natal clinic, where an expert eye was kept on the well-being of all expectant mothers.

The tie-up with the Army Hospital Services is indeed close in all aspects. The hospitals have staffs of physicians and gynaecologists, specialists in skin diseases, eyes and ENT, and even psychiatrists, all RAMC personnel. When I wished to make a specialist appointment for a patient, a letter quickly arranged it, and when the day came around, the journey to hospital was made free by army car or bus.

Drugs, too, are free. Each medical centre contains a completely stocked dispensary—the old joke of the number 9 is dead now; in fact, I've never been quite sure what it was. The doctor has available the drugs of his choice, and presentation of his prescriptions to the dispensary brings them to the patient free of charge.

ARMY LIFE ABROAD

Beyond my medical duties, I have found great attraction in the Army life out here. In any unit or regiment, the doctor is a valued and honoured citizen and attempts are always made to keep him a happy one. Most important is a good house and garden to live in, and I may say that never in civilian life could I hope to live in a house so good and so well equipped as that provided for me by the Army. You may gather I like it, both the work and the play. I like to travel abroad, not just to see a place, but to live there and find out what it is really like.

If you wish to know more about service as an Army Doctor, a booklet, 'A Career for Doctors in the RAMC,' may be obtained from the Director-General, Army Medical Services, The War Office, (HNR/35/H), London S.W.1. Tel: GRO 8040, Ext. 602. Or you may care to come in and discuss your particular case with us personally; if so, please write or telephone for an appointment.

Effervescent Tablets

of postmenopausal

or senile origin

“Studies are reported here which suggest that calcium deficiency is an important factor in many cases of postmenopausal and senile osteoporosis. Many patients with these forms of osteoporosis absorb and retain calcium abnormally avidly when on a high calcium intake in the form of supplements (calcium gluconate Sandoz), and moreover may continue to retain it avidly for at least three and a half years.

Symptoms of the disease are relieved and no further fractures take place.”
