Selsun®

Frank seborrhoeic dermatitis of the scalp is clearly recognised as a medical problem. For this doctors will prescribe Selsun suspension in the knowledge that eight out of ten cases will rapidly be improved and controlled. The much more common dandruff, too, is better treated as a medical than as a cosmetic problem: the same ethical preparation completely controls dandruff in an even larger proportion of cases.

Selsun suspension combines selenium sulphide with a powerful detergent. Its joint cleansing and therapeutic action quickly clears the scalp of debris and thereafter dandruff is easily controlled by the use of Selsun at two-monthly intervals. Selsun suspension is available in bottles of 1, 2 and 4 fl. oz.

66 Doctor,
I feel awful 99

Once she might have been diagnosed as "anxiety state". Today, you know she might be a depressive, but it doesn't seem as simple as all that. The truth of the matter is that patients don't always fit neatly into diagnostic categories. They may suffer from such diverse symptoms as depression, agitation, loss of appetite and tension-fatigue at the same time.

The great strength of 'Aventyl' is that its beneficial actions range widely over the symptoms which plague these problem patients. 'Aventyl' is not merely an antidepressant, nor is it a combination of drugs. It is a single substance which relieves a constellation of mental and emotional symptoms embracing depression, anxiety and their effects on awareness and mood.

'Aventyl' is not a monoamine oxidase inhibitor, and no serious side-effects have been reported at the recommended dosage.

'PRO-ACTIDIL'

a very versatile antihistamine

'Pro-Actidil' contains triprolidine hydrochloride, the most potent of the antihistamines. It is specially formulated to give continuous action for 19 to 24 hours in the allergic patient.

If given in the evening four to five hours before retiring, 'Pro-Actidil' will ensure a good night's sleep for the patient, free from sneezing, nasal congestion, irritation and restlessness. If drowsiness is induced, it will occur at bedtime.

A most interesting clinical observation has recently been reported indicating that 'Pro-Actidil' also provides excellent protection in various forms of solar dermatosis (Brit. J. Derm. (1963) 75, 254; Med. Proc. (1963), 9, 461). Wider clinical application is needed to confirm this specific action.

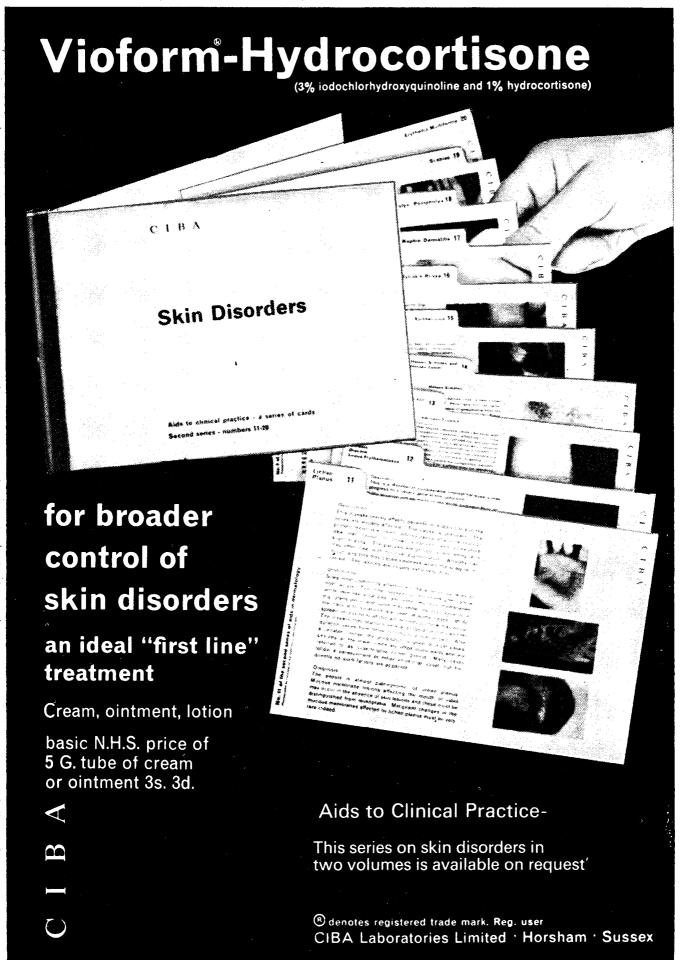

'Pro-Actidil' is recommended for adults and children over ten years.

Betamethasone in General Practice

Betnelan and Betnesol are Glaxo Trade marks

Indications

There are very many conditions met with in general practice in which corticosteroids are indicated—ranging from diseases of comparatively minor severity to major, lifethreatening conditions. Those in which systemic steroid treatment can be of definite value include:

Allergic states
(asthma, hay fever, angioneurotic oedema, serum sickness, drug sensitisation)
Inflammatory dermatoses
Rheumatoid arthritis
Shock and overwhelming infections
Chronic bronchitis
(complicated by circulatory collapse)

Betamethasone, introduced 5 years ago, represented the end of a long search by Glaxo Laboratories for a safer low-cost corticosteroid. The resulting products, Betnelan tablets and Betnesol solution tablets, may be used with confidence in hospital and in general practice.

A NEW JOURNAL

Though there are two journals published in English that are devoted to heredity in man, there is no journal confined to medical genetics, and papers on the subject have been scattered over a wide number of specialized medical journals. With the increasing interest in medical genetics it is felt that the time has come for a journal devoted to this new and growing specialty.

JOURNAL OF

MEDICAL GENETICS

It is intended that this journal should be broadly based and that papers should appear not only on clinical studies but also on the statistical, pathological, cytological, and biochemical and other aspects. Although the journal will be mainly concerned with human genetics, occasional animal studies will be published where they are relevant. In addition, authoritative review articles will appear at fairly regular intervals.

The first quarterly number of this Journal will be published September, 1964. In the first volume there will be two numbers (September and December). In subsequent volumes, starting in 1965, there will be four numbers published in March, June, September and December. Each issue will contain some 70 pages of text.

Surgery contd. on p. xlvi

Is this your pre-registration year?

BEFORE YOU COMMIT YOURSELF TO A PRACTICE WORK 3 OR 5 YEARS IN THE R.A.F.

When is the right time for you to make the big, once-and-for-always decisions about the way it's best for you to work and live your life? Straight away, now, at once? Or when you have had the chance to do a little out-of-hospital doctoring 'on your own', seen some common ailments and got a bit of capital together? Many people feel that it is only prudent not to be in too much of a hurry. If you are one of them, here is a thought for you:

You don't, now, have to choose either an R.A.F. career or a civilian one. You can have both. And there are good reasons why you should—not only for your own sake and your family's, but in the interests of the profession and the public generally.

Interesting, out-of-the-rut medicine

Your first job in the R.A.F. (which you'll get three months after you join) will probably be Junior M.O. at a Station—rather like being an "Assistant with a view". In a typical case, you'd be one of two doctors, with, between you, 1500 to 2500 people to take care of. These would be the officers and men serving with you on the Station, and their families, plus any civilians who might be working there.

You'd have a much shorter list than you would as a civilian G.P., and to this extent you would live a less strenuous life. To compensate, you would give much more comprehensive care. It is this—and the variety of your work—that makes practice in the R.A.F. so interesting.

In the R.A.F., you combine several functions. You are in medical care not only of people, but of the environment they live in, and of the work they do. In proportion, you do less curative work, and more preventive work than most civilian doctors.

A lot of people hold the view that this is the way all medicine should be practised: with the closest possible intermingling of the doctor and his patients.

You see a bit of the world

Think of two doctors, both aged 40. One went to his practice straight from his teaching hospital, and has been there ever since. The other went from hospital into the R.A.F. on a 5-year commission. He lived —and lived well—in the tropics with his family for $2\frac{1}{2}$ years, and visited 7 countries on leave or duty, two European, three Asian, and two Australasian. All this, of course, was some time ago—he's been in civilian practice 10 years now; he's as well established as the other doctor. But which of the two has got more out of life, and has the richer memories to look back upon?

In many ways, the transition from hospital into the R.A.F. seems much more 'natural' than the movement to civilian practice. The two communities have much more in common: both are young, cheerful, energetic, rather self-contained—and at the same time very professional, with a marked sense of purpose about what they do. If you can feel, now, that you are going to miss Medical School when you leave it, think about going into the R.A.F.: Service life would probably be 'right' for you.

'Retire' with up to £3,000, tax-free

Next year, if you were in the R.A.F. as a married officer, your pay and allowances could be over £2,000. You would get regular 'rises' and regular promotion. In hard cash terms you would be literally hundreds of pounds better off than your civilian opposite-numbers. Besides which, your cost-of-living would be lower: if you were single, living in the Mess, you would get the equivalent of first-class hotel accommodation for, perhaps, 2/- a day out of your pay; if you were married, and the R.A.F. provided you with a house furnished right down to the last coffee cup, and they probably would—the rent would be £192 p.a.

Leave the Service after 3 years, and you get a gratuity of £1,500, tax-free; stay on for 5, and you get £3,000. With this, you could put down a deposit on a house and furnish it very well indeed, attic to cellar.

Five years from now. You'd probably still be the right side of thirty. What a start to a career!

In all your life, when will you have a chance like this again?

Today, because you are young and at the beginning of your career, you can take a short time out from the main stream of civilian practice just by deciding to do it.

Now, you are free to go. In a few years time, you probably won't be. At this stage in life, you have none of the commitments that might make an older man hold back; things like a practice that has your name on it; obligations to a community that you have become a part of; the ownership of property . . . and suchlike hostages to fortune.

All these things will, quite properly, come along in due time. Meanwhile, you have this chance and now is the time to find out about it. If you can't write off straight away, tear this advertisement out and put it in your pocket to remind you.

Do not let this chance go by default

For full information, please write giving your age and qualifications to Wing Commander D. G. M. HILLS, M.B., B.S., D.P.H., R.A.F., Ministry of Defence (MAI/HN143), 1-6 Tavistock Square, London WC1.
