Now you can add Schweppes 'Slimline' to low-carbohydrate diet sheets

The new low-calorie 'Slimline' drinks put a full range of Schweppes popular carbonated drinks and squashes on low-carbohydrate diet sheets for the very first time – at no extra cost.

To make this possible, Schweppes have introduced a new sweetening ingredient, sodium cyclamate, which has been used successfully in America for some time.

Fully approved

Sodium cyclamate has been approved as a safe food additive by the Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food and the Ministry of Health. It is also approved by the U.S. Department of Health Education and Welfare Food and Drug Administration; and by the Canadian Department of National Health and Welfare.

Instead of 'no sweet soft drinks' your patients can happily enjoy Schweppes 'Slimline'.

Obviously 'Slimline' drinks are not intended to replace a diet, but it does mean that your overweight patients can now safely enjoy a wide selection of highly palatable, low-calorie soft drinks by Schweppes. And they have the approval of the British Diabetic Association.

These drinks are advertised to the public, so they cannot be prescribed on form EC 10.

Alphosyl-today's most widely prescribed product used specifically for the treatment of Psoriasis

In case after case, Alphosyl's effectiveness in controlling psoriasis is repeatedly confirmed. Even in chronic and refractory cases outstanding results have been achieved despite the failure of all previous forms of therapy. Evidence of four recent clinical trials^{1,4,5,6} shows that from a total of 249 patients treated with Alphosyl, 111 were completely cleared, 80 were 75%–99% improved, 44 were 50%–74% improved and only 14 showed less than 50% improvement.

Why Alphosyl is so effective In Alphosyl, allantoin and a specially refined coal-tar extract were combined for the first time. Allantoin has been found to be particularly effective in loosening psoriatic scales,³ while the keratoplastic effect of coal-tar is well known.³ Alphosyl is non-greasy and non-staining and vanishes on application. It is notably safe,^{1,3} being free from the risks which are found in other forms of treatment such as arsenicals, mercury, corticosteroids, x-ray, etc. It certainly deserves a trial in all cases of psoriasis.

New Alphosyl Cream Following the success of Alphosyl Lotion, this coal-tar allantoin combination is now available in Britain as a lubricating cream. The cream base has proved a particularly effective vehicle for Alphosyl as it incorporates a combination of free fatty acids (saturated and unsaturated) naturally occurring triglycerides, sterols and esters to give the lipid phase of the base a significant resemblance to the lipid array of normal human skin.⁶

Alphosyl Lotion formula—allantoin 2% + 90% alcoholic extract of coal-tar (5=1) 5% in a smooth, non-greasy lotion base.

Alphosyl Cream formula—allantoin 2% + 90% alcoholic extract of coal-tar (5=1) 5% in a vanishing cream base.

a major discovery for rheumatic disorders

'...the first non-corticosteroid agent which produced a predictable and measurable reduction in joint-swelling in most cases of active rheumatoid arthritis.'

Brit. med. J., 1963, 2, 965 (19 Oct)

INDOCID

INDOMETHACIN REGD

'Indocid' is a new, non-steroid anti-inflammatory agent with analgesic and antipyretic properties, chemically unrelated to the corticosteroids, butazones or salicylates.

Widespread clinical experience has shown that 'Indocid' rapidly relieves pain and inflammation and allows the patient greater mobility. In osteoarthritis 'Indocid' is often effective where other agents are inadequate; it has given excellent results in osteoarthritis of the hip. In rheumatoid arthritis, objective evidence of effect may be seen as a measurable reduction of joint swelling. 'Indocid' has also proved effective in ankylosing spondylitis, gout, and certain soft-tissue disorders.

'Indocid' has been the subject of long and exhaustive controlled clinical trials. A number of British papers have already been published.

now available for general prescribing

THE WORLD'S DIABETICS AND HOECHST

One of the biggest breakthroughs in medical history was the discovery and isolation of insulin. But daily injections remained, at best, a gross inconvenience for all diabetics until a drug was discovered with which more than a third of the world's diabetics could be treated. Hoechst have played an important part in this story.

Over the years diabetes has changed from an incurable and virtually untreatable disease almost to a problem of social education. Today, finding diabetics is as important as treating them: and for many of them that treatment is as simple as a couple of tablets a day. Once they are found it is difficult to get it across to diabetics that their condition is serious and that they must take certain precautions even though they may not feel ill. On the other hand, it is vital to reassure the patient already ill that treatment is possible and not as unpleasant as it used to be.

PANCREATIC EXTRACT

Hoechst have been associated with the diabetic problem since the beginning of the century. Discovery of the relationship between diabetes and the pancreas in 1889 prompted the search for an effective pancreatic extract. In 1910 Hoechst started to develop Zulzer's process for pancreatic extraction, but it was 1921 before the first high purity preparations were ready for clinical trial. In the same year Banting and Best made their famous discovery and isolated insulin.

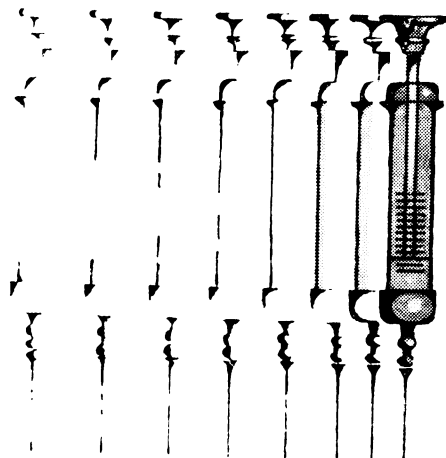

1923

FIRST EUROPEAN INSULIN PRODUCERS

By 1923 Hoechst had developed their own technique for manufacturing insulin, and because of this they were also licensed to use the Canadian process developed by Banting and Best. Hoechst were the first producers of insulin in Europe.

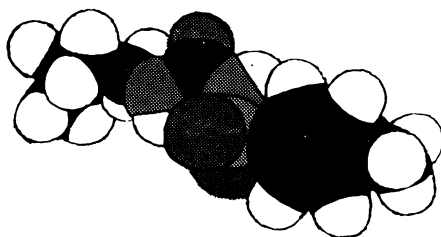

1938- 1953

INSULIN PRESENTATION REFINED

In the succeeding years Hoechst continued their research on insulin. With the preparation of pure crystalline insulin, exact standardization became possible, and between 1938 and 1953 all the variants in insulin presentation so familiar to today's medical profession were developed: short-acting, long-acting, depot preparations, combinations of all sorts to suit all purposes and make life as easy as possible for the diabetic. But still the curse of the daily injection had to be borne, and concurrently with insulin development research had been pursued to find a synthetic compound that could be taken orally.

Although the hypoglycaemic action of some sulphonamides had been known for years, all compounds tested proved too toxic until, in 1955, D 860 was synthesized in the research laboratories at Hoechst. Eight hundred and fifty-nine compounds had already been investigated and found wanting, mostly on grounds of toxicity. A drug which was to be taken by a patient every day for years had to be virtually harmless, and all the promising compounds were subjected to strict and extensive tests for safety. D 860, now known as tolbutamide and marketed as Rastinon by Hoechst, emerged as one truly safe drug.

1965

RASTINON—ORAL ANTIDIABETIC

There was, inevitably, initial scepticism when Rastinon was first introduced. Now, after more than two thousand clinical papers have been published and three million patients are being treated, tolbutamide is the standard oral treatment for diabetes. More than a third of the world's diabetics can be satisfactorily treated with tolbutamide and relieved of the difficulties of daily insulin injections.

That isn't the end of the story. Since Rastinon was discovered, three thousand compounds have been synthesized in the incessant search to find even safer, even more useful drugs to help sufferers from diabetes. So far none of them has shown any significant advantage, and Rastinon is still going strong. But who knows what tomorrow will bring?

Glaxo announce a new type of tablet for diuretic and anti-hypertensive treatment

Prompt anti-hypertensive/diuretic effect

Gradual, sustained potassium release and absorption

Glaxo's new two-layer tablet helps to counter the problem of potassium depletion during prolonged treatment. It is designed for gradual, sustained potassium release and absorption and to minimise gastric irritation.

This unique tablet design has been applied to two new products :

Neo-NaClex-K

Bendrofluazide 2.5 mg, potassium chloride 630 mg—pink and white. In bottles of 25, 100 and 500.

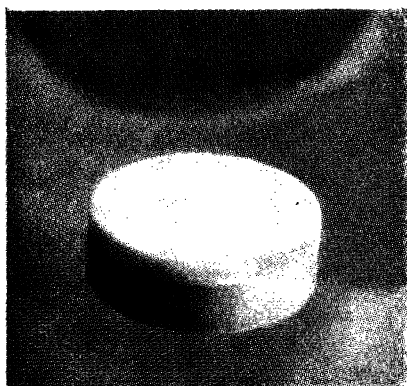

Serplex

Reserpine 0.125 mg, bendrofluazide 2.5 mg, potassium chloride 630 mg—blue and white. In bottles of 25, 100 and 500.

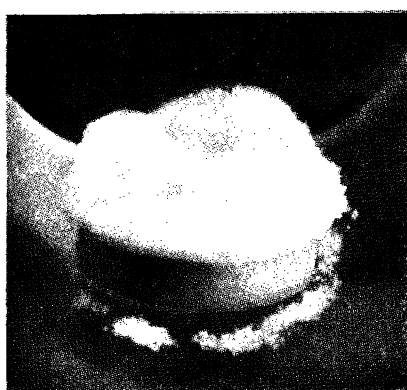

Neo-NaClex-K and Serplex are Glaxo trade marks

Detailed literature is available from Glaxo Laboratories Limited

How Neo-NaClex-K and Serplex tablets work

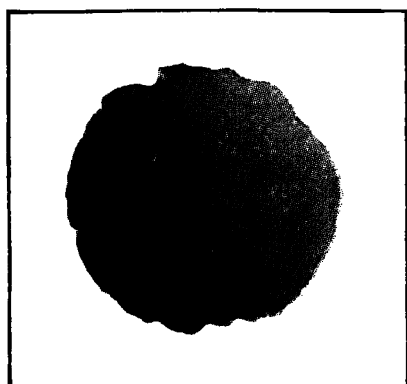

The film-coated tablets are tasteless and easily swallowed.

Very shortly after the tablet is swallowed, the white layer disintegrates and the diuretic/anti-hypertensive dose is available for absorption.

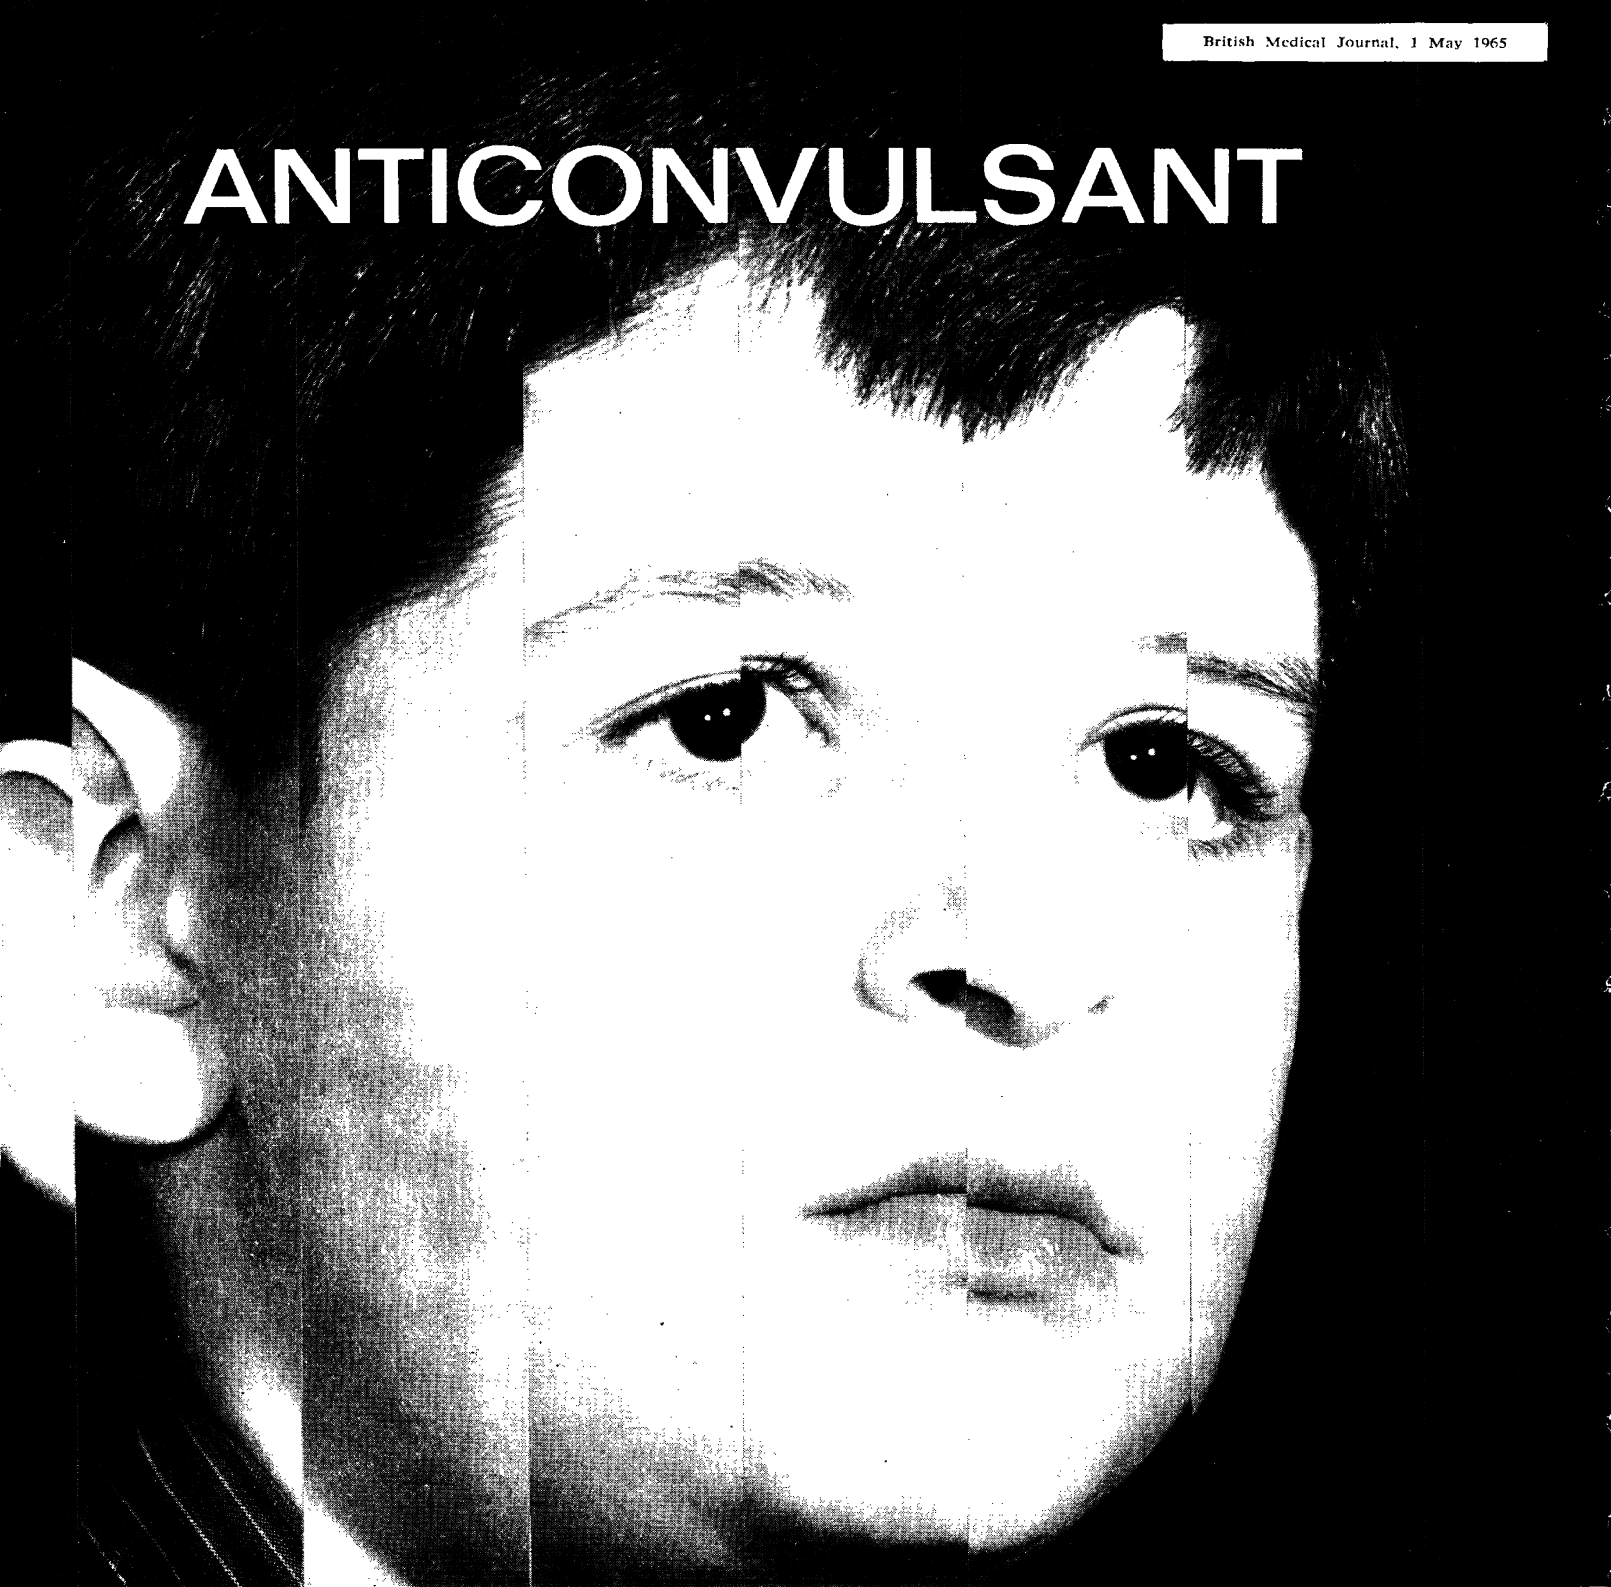

The coloured layer, containing potassium chloride crystals, is designed to give a gradual release of the potassium to minimise gastric irritation. Reliable absorption of this material from the intestine has been demonstrated.

This layer dissolves slowly, exposing and releasing the crystals of potassium chloride very slowly so that no great concentration is reached at one time. The final photograph shows (after magnification) what remains of the coloured matrix after the potassium chloride has leached out steadily and completely for absorption.

This should be in every doctor's car

When resuscitation equipment is needed it is needed at once. It must be light and portable enough to be kept permanently at hand. And it must be utterly reliable and safe and the simpler the better.

The Ambu resuscitator developed by Dr. Henning Ruben of the Finsen Institute at Copenhagen is all these things. A clear indication of its pre-eminence in the field is that it has been chosen as the standard resuscitator for Nato forces. Yet it is not expensive.

It is light, compact and extremely simple and robust. Supplementary oxygen from a cylinder can be mixed with the air pumped into the lungs—a great advantage when dealing with poisoning from noxious gases. It is inherently safe if, for one reason or another, its operation has to be left to an inexperienced person. The specially designed thin latex bag has a foam rubber lining which provides excellent "feel" and makes it impossible to apply dangerously high pressure to the lungs. This is an inexpensive piece of equipment—but without price in an emergency.

The cast-iron Galton Bridge at Smethwick was designed by Thomas Telford, and built in 1829. It carries the road over the Birmingham Canal.

SIDROS—FOR THE PATIENT DEFICIENT IN IRON well tolerated iron compound plus reducing agent to aid absorption

In the treatment of iron-deficiency anaemia many iron salts can produce the desired increase in haemoglobin level. Some also have a tendency to produce side-effects, and there can be a great deal of wastage through non-absorption.

SIDROS is designed to overcome these disadvantages, and provides a reliable treatment for iron-deficiency anaemia.

Ferrous gluconate Each Sidros tablet contains 300 mg of ferrous gluconate which produces a highly satisfactory clinical response and is very well tolerated.

Ascorbic acid Sidros also contains stabilized ascorbic acid (30 mg per tablet) which is known to aid absorption by maintaining iron in the reduced state.

The basic NHS price of 100 Sidros tablets is 2/8 as dispensed from 1000 tablet bottle. Samples of Sidros are available on request.

SIDROS is effective, well absorbed, well tolerated and economical

NORMAX

PROMOTES REGULARITY

It contains dioctyl-sodium sulphosuccinate 60 mg, and 1-8 dihydroxyanthraquinone 50mg.

Normax acts by softening the faeces and gently stimulating the colonic peristalsis. It is indicated especially during pregnancy and for the elderly patient, when its gentle action in restoring regularity is most appreciated.

1-8 dihydroxyanthraquinone acts on the lower bowel and has no irritant actions. Dioctyl-sodium sulphosuccinate is not absorbed and does not break down during its passage through the intestine.

Dioctyl-sodium sulphosuccinate acts by lowering the surface tension of the impacted faecal mass and in association with the mild peristaltic movement induced by the 1-8 dihydroxyanthraquinone, leads to facilitated passage of soft stools. Animal experiments and extensive clinical observations have failed to reveal evidence of toxicity.^{1,2}

Because of this the therapeutic effect of Normax can be obtained without the danger of toxicity. Normax has a wide application in the treatment of constipation and it retains its effectiveness even when used regularly over long periods.¹ Normax restores regularity and is a rational approach to the treatment of constipation.

Normax capsules are available in bottles of 30 and 250 at basic NHS price of 4/10d. and 26/10d. respectively. Normax is subject to purchase tax.

Very few aerosol sprays work efficiently upside down: Remiderm spray does. Whatever the angle of the canister, an even coverage of triamcinolone acetonide and halquinol is ensured, so that the patient can apply effective treatment even to hard-to-reach areas.

Because of the small particle size of the aerosol, Remiderm spray penetrates to the skin over excessively hairy sites and the patient is spared the discomfort of applying ointments or creams to a painful lesion. Moreover, the even coverage provided by Remiderm spray makes it extremely economical in use, especially over extensive areas or widely scattered lesions.

'MIGRIL' MASTERS MIGRAINE

It is paradoxical that ergotamine, accepted as the most effective drug against the headache of migraine, may cause nausea and vomiting—two of the very symptoms of a migraine attack.

'Migril' successfully overcomes these symptoms by the inclusion of cyclizine hydrochloride, the rapid-acting and effective anti-emetic.

Each 'Migril' tablet contains:

Ergotamine tartrate, B.P.	2 mg.

Guanimycin is indicated in all common bacterial infections of the gastrointestinal tract. The two-pronged attack of dihydrostreptomycin and sulphaguanidine minimizes the risk of bacterial resistance often encountered when streptomycin alone is given. The wide spectrum of Guanimycin suggests that treatment should begin at once, even before precise diagnosis has been reached. iron before breakfast

FERRO-GRADUMET®

To prescribe iron before breakfast would be asking for trouble with ordinary ferrous sulphate tablets. Even taken after meals and in divided doses, such tablets cause irritation and unpleasant side effects in many patients, often leading to the abandonment of therapy. But "One Ferro-Gradumet tablet before breakfast" is right. This once-daily haematinic is designed to be taken on an empty stomach. Because iron absorption is in inverse proportion to the amount of food present, just one tablet daily, taken before breakfast, gives steady, trouble-free assimilation of ample amounts of iron. Instead of a corrosively large dose of ferrous sulphate being released in the stomach, the contents of the Gradumet—a unique controlled-release vehicle which is independent of gastro-intestinal chemistry and motility—are slowly leached out over a period of hours throughout the gastro-intestinal tract.

Presentation Each red Ferro-Gradumet Filmtab® (film-coated tablet, Abbott) contains the exsiccated equivalent of 525 mg ferrous sulphate B P, providing 105 mg elemental iron—a sufficient daily dose for all cases of iron deficiency.

® Filmtab and Gradumet are registered trade marks of

ELECTRONICS
FOR THE PRACTITIONER

The increasing number of applications of electronics to present day medicine makes knowledge of this subject of great practical importance.

In response to many enquiries from practitioners and others in the medical field, we have produced a special "home-study" PRACTICAL course in Basic Electronics. No previous knowledge is assumed and no mathematical analysis is used. The course starts with the building of a simple miniature cathode ray oscilloscope and this is then used to carry out some 25 experiments on all the basic electronic circuits. Apart from the useful knowledge obtained, in a simple practical way, this course will bring much interest and enjoyment from the study of a fascinating subject.
