

THE THERAPY OF ASTHMA

The treatment of asthma resolves itself into a consideration of underlying factors and causes. Often in ASTHMA the underlying cause is not discoverable or changes from time to time—now irritant dusts, now bacterial infection etc. The underlying factor is fortunately always the same—bronchospasm.

Thus sometimes causative agents can be removed or mitigated but always the underlying factor—bronchospasm—can be treated, successfully, with FELSOL.

Most cases of Asthma are chronic and demand patience in treatment—persistence with FELSOL will yield the highest possible percentage of successes.

Industrial Fatigue and Vitamin C deficiency

While the General Practitioner does not enjoy the opportunity, so freely available to industrial medical officers, to study the mass effect of vitamin C deficiency, he is frequently faced with the problem in individual cases.

Lassitude and fatigue, aggravated by communal meals from which the vitamin C has been cooked right out, are pointers to a condition of sub-optimal vitamin C which can be effectively countered by prescribing Ribena Blackcurrant Syrup.

Blackcurrant juice contains from 136 to 220 mg. vitamin C per 100 gm. as against 22 to 89 for orange juice. A course of Ribena is beneficial in attaining the optimum which paves the way to more vigorous health and increased output.

A SPENCER SUPPORT FOR SACRO-ILIAC AND LUMBO-SACRAL CONDITIONS

SPENCER SACRO-ILIAC SUPPORT.
Shadowgraph showing position of inner bandage and pad. The immobilising bandage is 3" wide and fits closely around the pelvis exactly between the trochanter and the iliac crest, and incorporates a wedge-shaped pad, which, bevelled at the edges, rests over the sacrum. The bandage can be adjusted to any degree of tightness required and is instantly adjustable (from OUTSIDE the support) by means of flat straps and self-locking slides.

Many women are now engaged in occupations which place a heavy strain upon the fascia and muscles of the back. The majority of women are found to hold their bodies abnormally or stand incorrectly. Many women suffer from the pelvic relaxation which takes place during pregnancy, as well as from lumbar curvature created by increased abdominal weight and strain on the muscles of the back.

For those cases among women which are diagnosed as sacro-iliac or lumbo-sacral affections, with their attendant painfulness, traumatic irritation and abnormal irritabilities, the Spencer Support designed especially for the individual patient for the specific condition is generally found most satisfactory in relieving the condition and in quickly alleviating the unpleasant accompanying symptoms.

It is important that the support prescribed for lumbo-sacral derangements be sufficiently high in the back to support the lumbar and lower dorsal regions, and adequately long to control and influence the pelvic inclination. A Spencer Sacro-iliac corset or belt with concealed lumbo-sacral pad provides definite relief.

The GAS INDUSTRY is helping the MEDICAL PROFESSION

One of the greatest medical developments of the century has been the discovery of the bacteria-killing properties of coal-tar. As a result, the medical profession has at its service a new group of drugs, the sulphonamides, which have effected many dramatic cures. And this is only the beginning. We do not yet know what other new weapons against disease coal-tar may give us.

While it might be an exaggeration to say that drugs such as these would never have existed but for the Gas Industry, it is certain that the making of gas accelerated their discovery. For coal-tar is one of the largest by-products of gas-making; and the modern development of the Gas Industry's by-product activities has afforded greater opportunities for research in this field.

The by-products of gas-making are also the source of many other substances. Such medical necessities as anaesthetics, antiseptics, salicylic acid, liquefied ice crystals for surgical work, naphthalene for preserving biological specimens, and simple everyday remedies like aspirin and ephedrine owe their origin to the gasworks. Synthetic Vitamins B₁ and K are now being produced from the organic chemicals extracted from coal in the process of gas-making.

In these ways, then, as well as the more obvious one of providing smokeless fuels — gas and coke — the Gas Industry is rendering service to human health.

BLOOD COLLECTION as a practical test of the ANTI-STAPHYLOCOCCAL POWER of antiseptics

When blood is collected for transfusion — particularly if it is to be stored for a time — the paramount importance of avoiding skin contamination is plain. Yet the collecting needle must pass through skin known to harbour micro-organisms in large numbers and the difficulty of rendering the skin sterile is an urgent and acute problem. The collection of blood and its subsequent culture can, therefore, be made a practical test of the value of an antiseptic in skin sterilisation. The following table sets out the comparative results obtained, using various procedures in parallel for the pre-operative treatment of the skin at the bend of the elbow of blood donors.

Comment on results obtained

Of the various procedures employed, only one yielded completely satisfactory results over a series of 50 tests — namely, O-syl Antiseptic in 5 per cent. aqueous solution.

The failure of other methods is marked unless spirit is added to the antiseptic solution, thus suggesting that the results obtained by these methods are due rather to the spirit content than to the antiseptic.

The dominant factor — STAPHYLOCOCCI

Of the many micro-organisms found on and in the human skin, streptococci and staphylococci take pride of place. In fact, in the tests reported here, staphylococci proved to be the principal organism grown in 50 of the 56 cases (i.e. 89 per cent. of the positive cultures obtained) in which sterilisation of the skin appeared defective. As already reported in this journal, O-syl has been proved to be highly effective against staphylococci and it is undoubtedly this fact which leads to the results reported here. The failure of other procedures to give the desired result is due largely to their inability to kill staphylococci on and in the human skin.

Milk Sensitivity

It is tragic that in a number of the allergic conditions in infancy one has hitherto been compelled to omit milk altogether from the diet. The entire omission of milk—an infant's natural food—is extremely difficult on account of its high food value, particularly with reference to its calcium and phosphorus content. The substitution of "synthetic milks" is unsatisfactory, and infants generally refuse them.

Allergilac now solves the problem by altering the essential milk in such a way that the allergy producing principles are no longer effective.

In Allergilac the greater part of the offending lactalbumen has been removed, the casein has been denaturised and the milk acidified with lactic acid.

Recent work has shown that Pholedrine is a most satisfactory drug for restoring and maintaining the blood pressure at major operations. Intramuscular injections of Pholedrine 0.75 c.c. to 1 c.c. act in three to five minutes, restoring the blood pressure to normal for twenty to forty minutes. When the blood pressure fall is extreme 0.25 c.c. intravenously plus 0.75 c.c. intramuscularly gives an instantaneous rise lasting from thirty to forty minutes.

A POTENT ECONOMICAL LIVER EXTRACT FOR INJECTION

● 'Examen' liver injection restores the blood picture to normal in pernicious anaemia.

Each 2 cc. ampoule, derived from 100 grams liver, contains the anti-anaemic principle in high concentration, and a minimum quantity of inert matter. Intramuscular injection is therefore not accompanied by local irritation. Allergic reactions are rare.

Each batch of 'Examen' is tested clinically before issue. An optimal reticulocyte response and a rapid increase in the red blood cell count are the standards set by the investigators.

Dosage is usually 4 cc. initially, followed by 2 cc. every two weeks till the blood picture is normal; thereafter a maintenance dose of 2 cc. every 3-5 weeks ordinarily suffices.

The potency and economy of 'Examen,' the tolerable spacing of dosage, aid patients to follow an otherwise irksome maintenance routine.

DEHYDROCHOLIN B.D.H.

The powerful non-toxic cholagogue

Dehydrocholin B.D.H. possesses a two-fold action. Firstly it causes a profuse flow of bile which encourages removal of inspissated material from the biliary passages and ducts, and thereby promotes drainage of the biliary tree. This action renders Dehydrocholin B.D.H. of value in the treatment of all disorders of the biliary tract in which absolute occlusion is not present; these include cholangitis, acute and chronic cholecystitis and cholelithiasis.

Secondly Dehydrocholin B.D.H. produces a marked stimulus of liver function associated with hepatic hyperæmia causing increased oxygenation of liver cells. Thus Dehydrocholin B.D.H. is employed with advantage in the treatment of all conditions associated with liver insufficiency generally, including hepatitis, hepatosis, latent and catarrhal jaundice, cirrhosis and congestion of the liver secondary to cardiac failure.

Dehydrocholin B.D.H. is available for oral administration in tablets of dehydrocholic acid, and for intravenous injection in ampoules containing a solution of sodium dehydrocholate.

FUNGOUS INFECTIONS OF THE FEET

Every medical practitioner has experienced the extreme difficulty of adequately controlling epidermophytosis of the feet with the medicaments ordinarily advocated. A new method which gives rapid and consistently satisfactory results must therefore be of wide interest.

Ample clinical experience has shown that Azochloramid in Triacetin 1:500 quickly and thoroughly eradicates epidermophytosis. Its remarkable effect is due to the fact that the basis, triacetin, which wets both the hydrous and lipid phases of tissue, penetrates some distance into the tissues, thus enabling the active germicide Azochloramid to deal with deeply-situated filaments, and so prevent reinfection. Further information on request to: The Medical Dept., Wallace & Tiernan, Ltd., Power Road, London, W.4.

For Sick Room Hygiene

With increasing restrictions on supply, the practitioner will want to recommend an antiseptic which he has found to be efficient, and which, at the same time, he knows is readily available.

Milton Antiseptic as a general sterilising agent has stood the test of time, and, despite present-day shortages, is still available in any quantity.

For the general sterilisation of china, glassware, feeding bottles and non-metallic instruments use Milton antiseptic in the proportion of 3 teaspoonsful to a pint of cold water. Articles sterilised in this solution should be left to dry without further rinsing.

For Sterilising the New Waterproof Dressings

The new alternative materials for Jaconet, Battiste and Oiled Silk, now approved as waterproof dressings, must not be subjected to steam or heat sterilisation. Organic solvents and phenolic substances likewise have a deleterious action.

Milton Antiseptic is in no way harmful to these materials and is recommended as the sterilising agent.

Efficient sterilisation is obtained when the waterproof dressings are left for five minutes in a solution prepared by adding four ounces of 'Milton' to thirty-six ounces of cold water.

MILTON

Milton Antiseptic is the stable brand of electrolytic sodium hypochlorite which is non-caustic, mildly alkaline, and of standard strength.

NOTICE—Applications for vacancies advertised should, except where otherwise specified, state name, address, age, nationality, qualifications with dates, and be accompanied by copies of three recent testimonials with short statement of experience and appointments held. Unless closing date is stated applications should be sent at once.

HIS MAJESTY'S COLONIAL SERVICE. The Colonial Medical Service. Vacancies for Medical Officers.—The maintenance of an efficient Colonial Medical Service constitutes a vital part of the national war effort, and it is most important that the Service should be assured of an adequate supply of doctors. The Secretary of State for the Colonies therefore invites applications from doctors possessing a medical qualification registrable in the United Kingdom who are British subjects and who are under 35 years of age. Medical Officers are appointed in the first instance for general service. But there are ample opportunities for work in special branches of medicine and surgery, in public health, and in medical research. The normal salary scale is from £600 to between £1,000 to £1,120. There are large numbers of super-scale posts, to which promotion is made on merit and which carry higher salaries. Government quarters, in many cases free of rent, and first-class passages to and from the Colonies, are provided, and an adequate pension scheme is in force. Selected candidates are normally required to attend a course of instruction in Tropical Medicine and Hygiene either before proceeding overseas or during their first period of leave. Further particulars, including the regulations governing admission to the Colonial Medical Service, may be obtained from the Director of Recruitment (Colonial Service), 2, Park Street, London, W.1.

INDIAN MEDICAL SERVICE. Recruitment of Women Medical Officers.—The Government of India are prepared to recruit a limited number of women medical officers for service with the Indian Medical Service for the duration of the war. Applicants must be British subjects, of not more than 45 years of age, and those selected will be appointed in the rank of Lieutenants. Antedate of seniority may be granted up to a maximum period of 64 years in respect of resident hospital appointments, higher qualifications, and/or professional experience. The antedate will count for pay and promotion, but, in the case of candidates recruited in this country, higher rank will not be assumed until the date of disembarkation in India. On termination of service, a minimum gratuity is guaranteed to those officers who complete one year of service, viz., Rs. 2,000 to officers whose registrable medical qualification is dated before January 1, 1940, and Rs. 1,000 to those who qualified after that date, plus one month's pay for each further completed year of Army service. Further particulars regarding rates of pay, etc., may be obtained from the Medical Adviser, India Office, London, S.W.1, or from the Secretary, Military Department, India Office, to whom all inquiries should be addressed.

Pharyngitis and Tonsillitis effective therapy with ARGYROL

BRAND SILVER VITELLIN

ARGYROL has proved its value for controlling infections of the nose and throat. Many eminent authorities have noted that the best results are obtained when ARGYROL is specified in all prescriptions. There are sound chemical and physical reasons for this. The silver in ARGYROL is in a much finer state of colloidal dispersion, also there is a far greater degree of Brownian movement, which logically must result in greater therapeutic activity. This is not true of ordinary mild silver proteins, for ARGYROL is the only silver salt that does not tend to become irritating with increased concentration. SPECIFY ARGYROL IN ALL PRESCRIPTIONS.

ARGYROL is issued in bottles of 1 oz. crystals

← Pain thoroughly with twenty per cent. ARGYROL. It often brings great relief to the "sore throat" patient. ARGYROL alleviates the symptoms and helps control the infection.

The fauces and palatine tonsils are first systematically swabbed with the ARGYROL - soaked swab. Then the dorsum of the tongue and the lingual tonsil and the lower part of the pharynx.

THE APPLICATOR is next rotated with the concavity upwards and the ARGYROL is carried up behind the uvula to the nasopharynx and adenoid region.

Spirella

SURGICAL CORSETRY SERVICE

SPIRELLA Surgical Corsets are created from exact measurements and figure details provided by the Patented Modelling Garment which can be fitted if necessary in the presence of the practitioner. By this means, the figure is properly supported and controlled and any displacement which has taken place in the abdominal organs cared for before measurements are taken for the Garment which is to follow. All Spirella Garments are thus made to conform with the natural supporting and controlling muscles of the patient. This is of particular value in conditions of prolapsed abdominal organs, spinal curvature, post-operative, post-natal and certain forms of hernia.

The name and address of nearest qualified Corsetiere who will wait upon Doctor or patients as directed, will gladly be sent on request.
