An effective and non-irritating DIURETIC

MERSALYL, a highly complex and non-irritating compound of mercury, is one of the most effective and least toxic of the mercurial diuretics for the treatment of ascites and oedema of cardiac origin. In such cases, Mersalyl frequently succeeds when digitalis and other diuretics fail.

Mersalyl-Boots is supplied as a solution containing 10 per cent. Mersalyl with 5 per cent. Theophylline for injection. As a supplement, Mersalyl Compound Tablets-Boots may be given. The tablets are well tolerated, and are of value in mild cases and those where injections are undesirable.

AMPOULES: 1 c.c. and 2 c.c., each available in boxes of 6 and 100. COMPOUND TABLETS: in bottles of 25 and 100.

A SPENCER Support as an Aid to Treatment of Poliomyelitis

Spencer copyright designs are original and distinctive and for more than 20 years have been recognized by the Medical Profession as a symbol of effective control for abdomen, back and breasts.

Suppliers to Hospitals throughout the Kingdom under the National Health Service Act of 1946.

This female child, age 6 years, suffered acute poliomyelitis September, 1946. In March, 1947, she was flexible but had extreme weakness in all four extremities and back. In July, 1947, it was found that strength had increased in all extremities and she was able to crawl on hands and knees. At this time a Spencer Support was applied in order to protect the weak back. In August, 1947, it was discovered that the left leg was  $\frac{1}{2}$  inch shorter than the right, and examination in November of that year indicated a beginning of left dorsal scoliosis and all weight bearing was discontinued.

At the time the photographs were taken (February, 1948) the child had been under treatment at her home for several months during which time she was freely ambulatory because of lack of supervision. The Spencer Support shewn was applied shortly before she returned to the hospital for further physiotherapy. The support has elastic gores top and bottom to assist in respiration and freedom of lower extremities. The lacers shewn allow for necessary changes in the growing body.

The correction of the postural line obtained by the Spencer is evident in the photograph. Improvement in body mechanics is similarly satisfactory.

ASTHMA

— aborting
the night attack

In a new paper (Practitioner, June, 1948, p. 468-9) the author attributes to 'Franol' the power of suppressing nocturnal asthmatic attacks in patients who otherwise are awakened regularly in the early hours. Under 'Franol' treatment they gain in weight and appetite and are much better fitted to lead a normal life.

The author states that, of the many preparations tested, 'Franol' gives the best results, through the actions of theophylline (on bronchial musculature), ephedrine (on nerve endings), and 'Luminal' (centrally); there is probably some potentiation since the dose of each component is small.

One tablet at night and one on rising appears to meet most needs, and by-effects are rare; the 'Luminal' in 'Franol' mitigates nervous tension and overcomes any individual intolerance to ephedrine.

PROLONGED ACTION. Following a 1cc. injection, blood levels of penicillin are maintained for twenty-four hours in the majority of cases. HIGH EFFICACY. Of the total procaine penicillin content, not less than 90 per cent by weight is present as the procaine salt of penicillin G. UNIFORMITY. Very little deposition of particles occurs during storage. Shaking of the vial rapidly disperses the particles uniformly throughout the vehicle. MANAGEABILITY. Remains fluid at room temperatures; refrigeration is unnecessary, indeed undesirable.
