Why?

There are probably few days in the professional life of a doctor when the question of diet does not arise, whether it be diet for the expectant mother, diet for the infant or diet for the invalid. And so we see no incongruity in placing an article of diet so well known to the medical profession as Robinson's Groats next to that familiar and — to the layman perhaps — somewhat awe inspiring item of his equipment, a sphygmomanometer.

A copy of the leaflet 'Cereals in Infant Feeding' will be sent on request. Keen, Robinson, Dept. MH.215, Carrow, Norwich.
