THACKERAY

Overeating is often an expression of inward uneasiness. Many fat people, despite their outward appearance of joviality, are anxious and unhappy and find in food a solace for their troubles. They try to hide themselves behind a 'wall of fat' and a façade of jolliness.

For this reason, 'Drinamyl' is often helpful in the treatment of many cases of overweight. Given before meals it curbs the appetite and, by relieving the emotional tension that may be at the back of the patient's habit of overeating, helps him to eat less.

IN THE CONTROL OF EPILEPSY

The first publication¹ on 'Mysoline' described the beneficial results achieved by this drug in long-standing cases of grand mal epilepsy which had resisted treatment with the established anti-convulsants.

Since that time 'Mysoline' has undergone clinical evaluation in many important neurological centres, both in Great Britain and in countries overseas. The earlier favourable results have been amply confirmed, and two outstanding features of the drug have been widely recognised, namely its ability to control the grand mal attack, and its low toxicity. Evidence is accumulating that 'Mysoline' is of value in other forms of epilepsy, notably the psychomotor type, and possibly also petit mal. In addition several workers² have noted a beneficial effect on the general well-being of patients, with improvement in behaviour, performance and sociability.

According to a recent British report³ on 58 grand mal cases which were not satisfactorily controlled by other anticonvulsants, 50% of the patients derived benefit from 'Mysoline'.

Further afield, Canadian workers⁴ at McGill University and the Montreal Neurosurgical Institute have assessed the value of 'Mysoline' in 61 cases which had responded poorly to other types of medication. Here 'Mysoline' reduced the number of attacks by 50% or more in 35% of the patients. Cases of major convulsion, petit mal, and automatism were included among those benefited.

'Mysoline' tablets (0.25 gramme) are now available in packings of 100 and 1,000.

A perfect source of Vitamin C

RIBENA (Syrupus Ribis Nigri B.P.C.)

HIGH CONCENTRATION OF VITAMIN C—REMARKABLE STABILITY

Four characteristics of Ribena make it a perfect source of Vitamin C:

- 1 It contains a high concentration of Vitamin C—and it is very stable.
- 2 The vitamin is in its natural state. *
- 3 Ribena is very well tolerated even by sensitive stomachs. It is completely free from all cellular structure. It is suitable for infants almost from birth, for peptic ulcer cases, and for women suffering from "morning sickness"; they can take it when almost everything else increases discomfort.
- 4 In addition to its therapeutic values, it is delicious in its own right as sweet blackcurrant syrup.

* Following reports of unsatisfactory response to the therapeutic use of synthetic ascorbic acid in peptic ulcer cases, controlled tests using Ribena were instituted at various large British hospitals, with striking results.

Clinical experience has also shown that in ulcerative gingivitis, the routine use of Ribena as an adjunct to local therapy has given more satisfactory results than that of the synthetic vitamin.

The superiority is presumably due to the presence of other factors of the Vitamin-C complex, possibly the Vitamin P, as well as mineral elements.

Therapeutic uses

Ribena is recommended for all conditions requiring Vitamin-C implementation: namely, as a natural and rapid restorative from fatigue; for increasing resistance to local infection and colds; for expectant and nursing mothers; for infants from birth; for children and adolescents; in many dental conditions; in peptic ulcer cases; in fractures and wounds; in blood dyscrasias and hæmorrhagic states; in infections and fevers; and in many skin disorders.

Reports for doctors overseas

The makers of Ribena co-operated extensively with the Ministries of Food and Health during the war, a co-operation which still goes on to some extent even now. The Royal Forest Factory has attached to it a series of very fine laboratories where research into fruit juices and vitamins is conducted to an academic level, under the direction of an expert, lately in charge of the Fruit Products Section of the University of Bristol Agricultural Research Station. Reports of much of the work done are available, on application, to doctors and scientists overseas. These are likely to be of particular interest now that Ribena is being extensively exported.

Send for further information. A booklet entitled "Blackcurrant Juice in Modern Therapy: Natural Vitamin C" will be forwarded to you with pleasure; also details of a number of controlled tests made on the use of Vitamin C, if you will write to:—

AN

BARBITURATE
COMPATIBILITY

THERAPEUTIC MARGIN

'DORMUPAX', a strong hypnotic agent whose high efficacy derives primarily from its inclusion of calcium n-butyl-allyl-barbiturate, provides per tablet—

Calcium n-butyl-allyl-barbiturate 3.75 grains
Carbromalum B.P.C. 1.5 grains

Advantages:

The therapeutic index of n-butyl-allyl-barbituric acid is superior to that of the majority of commonly used barbituric acid derivatives.

It has also been shown that the quotient DE/DL is even more favourable for the calcium salt than for the acid.

The molecule of n-butyl-allyl-barbituric acid reaches the sleep centre unchanged.

After an average sleep duration of 8 hours, it is completely degraded to an indifferent form.

The efficacy of 'Dormupax' is reinforced by carbromalum, a safe, prompt, medium-strength hypnotic which is free from after-effects.

'DORMUPAX' has been thoroughly investigated in several mental hospitals, with satisfactory results.

In senile, motor-restless patients efficacy is good on dosage of half a tablet in the afternoon and one tablet in the evening. After-effects are not observed.

Excited insane patients tolerate 4 tablets daily in a course of 2 to 4 days without deleterious after-effects. For hypertonics the concurrent administration of 'Hyperysin'-Hommel has proved effective.

VERILOID*

is particularly valuable when injected INTRAMUSCULARLY

There is good evidence of the value of Veriloid Intramuscular Solution for use when the relief of hypertensive symptoms presents unusual or increasing difficulties.

Veriloid reduces blood-pressure by a central action independent of ganglionic function and has no direct relaxing action on the blood vessels.

A single injection of Veriloid Intramuscular Solution produces a marked lowering of blood-pressure lasting from 3 to 6 hours. In many cases the concomitant symptomatic relief persists for considerably longer periods. By repeated injections the arterial tension may be depressed for many hours or even days. Thereafter, oral medication with Veriloid tablets may be employed with advantage.

Veriloid Intramuscular Solution is indicated in the following conditions:—

- Hypertensive states accompanying cerebral vascular disease
- Hypertensive crises (encephalopathy)
- Malignant hypertension
- Toxaemia of pregnancy
- Pre-eclampsia and eclampsia

Veriloid Intramuscular Solution is prepared in ampoules of 2 cc. and contains the equivalent of 1 mg. of standardized alkaloids of Veratrum viride per cc. It may be used to maintain the hypotensive response produced by intravenous veratrum or it may be employed as the primary hypotensive agent. It supplements the Veriloid dosage forms hitherto available, namely:—

Veriloid tablets (plain), Veriloid-VP tablets, Veriloid Intravenous Solution

The association of methyltestosterone and ethinylœstradiol in Mepilin produces a more complete response in the treatment of menopausal disorders than can be obtained by the use of œstrogens alone.

The presence of methyltestosterone enables a reduction in œstrogen dosage to be made; thus undesirable side effects such as breast turgidity and pelvic congestion are avoided and the risk of withdrawal bleeding is reduced. An increased feeling of confidence and well-being is produced which is both mental and physical.

DOSAGE: Menopause and geriatric conditions: average cases — 3 tablets or 3 teaspoonfuls daily. Premenstrual tension and dysmenorrhœa — 2 tablets or 2 teaspoonfuls daily from 10th to 22nd day of the menstrual cycle.

FORMULAC is a new and entirely original alkalised dried-milk compound representing a modern approach to peptic-ulcer therapy. It is designed to supplement the various forms of specific treatment with which it does not conflict in any way. It is accepted that the gastric-acid neutralising effect of after-meal alkalis is at the best transient and does not persist from one meal to the next. The use of FORMULAC as a "between-meal" drink bridges this gap and extends the neutralising action so essential in ulcer therapy.

In addition to recognised alkalis, FORMULAC contains :—

Methyl Cellulose—provides a protective film in the stomach and duodenum

Ascorbic Acid—essential for the healing of peptic ulcer

Sodium Lauryl Sulphate—inhibits peptic enzymes which retard ulcer healing

Dried Milk—the ideal buffering agent for gastric hydrochloric acid.

A FORMULAC "in-between" drink is simple to make and pleasant to take. It requires only the addition of hot water—an advantage in occupations where it is difficult to prepare an ordinary milk drink. FORMULAC can be instituted at the commencement, and continued as may be required, after withdrawal, of specific treatment. It may also be prescribed with benefit in the treatment of milder forms of gastritis and duodenitis, "nervous dyspepsias" and related conditions where hyperchlorhydria is present.

A new and logical therapy for Rheumatic conditions

Water-soluble esters of salicylic, p-aminobenzoic and nicotinic acids,
that readily pass the skin barrier

The local treatment of rheumatic conditions has hitherto presented certain difficulties; drugs which penetrated the skin often caused intense irritation and their use was of doubtful value.

Transvasin, a new preparation developed by Hamol, S.A., our Swiss associates, and now available for prescription in this country, contains esters of salicylic, p-aminobenzoic and nicotinic acid. These esters, being both water- and fat-soluble, readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities without causing irritation, and enable an adequate concentration of the drugs to be built up where they are needed. Transvasin not only induces vasodilation of the skin with a superficial erythema but also brings about a deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues.

“In fact, canned strained foods are more nourishing!”

WHEN DOCTORS AND NURSES advise the early feeding of strained foods, they are often asked if canned strained foods are really as nutritious as those cooked at home.

And mothers are glad to be assured that the answer is definitely ‘Yes.’ In fact, at every stage of preparation, Heinz Strained Foods are actually better than those made under normal home conditions.

First, Heinz choose the most suitable varieties of fruits and vegetables. They supervise their growth from sowing to harvesting and when they reach perfect maturity, take them direct from the fields to the factory. There, they wash, clean, cook and strain them within a few hours. This means that the loss of vitamins which starts as soon as vegetables leave the ground is reduced to the minimum. In their laboratories, Heinz check the quality before the foods are sterilized—and after too, by testing cans from every batch.

How much better this is than the usual home method where vegetables are often days old before they are bought, and cooking in ordinary saucepans with too much water further depletes their store of vitamins.

Deferment of recruitment for fully registered "R" practitioners (i.e., fully registered practitioners liable for call-up under the National Service Acts) is granted at the discretion of the Central Medical Recruitment Committee and (in Scotland) the Scottish Central Medical Recruitment Committee. The Committees normally allow a fully registered "R" practitioner to hold a First House Officer post (N.H.S. salary £350 per annum) provided that it commences within three months of the end of his deferment by the Ministry of Labour and National Service as a whole-time medical student; and a Second House Officer post (N.H.S. salary £400 per annum) provided that it is secured before the end of his First House Officer post and commences within one month thereafter.

An "R" practitioner requires the special written permission of the C.M.R.C. or (in Scotland) the Scottish C.M.R.C. to proceed to any further post.

The position of provisionally registered "R" practitioners has been made clear in a notice sent to them by the University Joint Recruiting Boards.

CIDAL

THE TOILET SOAP

THAT CONTAINS

2% HEXACHLOROPHENE

Because CIDAL soap contains Hexachlorophene (G-11) it has remarkable germicidal properties which help it to purify the skin as no ordinary toilet soap can do.

CIDAL attacks bacteria that settle in pores and folds of skin, and forms an anti-bacteria barrier which gives protection between washes. By destroying the bacteria that ferment perspiration, CIDAL eliminates unpleasant body odours at source.

CIDAL is useful in treating all skin ailments where soap and water are part of the therapy. Regular use helps to reduce the incidence of cellulitis and folliculitis, and prevents secondary infections of minor cuts and abrasions.

CIDAL CREAM SHAMPOO also contains Hexachlorophene and shares CIDAL soap's germicidal powers. It protects hair follicles against infection by staphylococci and is helpful in treating dandruff.
