

Laxatives for Children

To aid the Physician in choosing a laxative for children, we give the chief characteristics of Andrews. The dosage is easily adjusted according to age. Andrews is pleasant tasting, and children accept it readily. Its laxative action is mild, and is due to the presence of magnesium sulphate and other salts in balanced proportion which increase the fluid content of the bowel by osmotic action and so lead to easy non-gripping evacuation. Andrews has a soothing effect on the stomach, stimulates the bile-flow and generally aids digestive processes. It is also useful as a gastric sedative in bilious attacks. Andrews has no costive reaction when discontinued.

Active constituents:

Tartaric Acid ..	24.600%
Sodium Bicarbonate ..	25.142%
Magnesium Sulphate (B.P.C. Exsicc.) ..	19.000%
Sugar ..	31.250%
Saccharin ..	0.008%

FOR THE PAEDIATRICIAN

Aureomycin

Paediatricians acclaim AUREOMYCIN to be of greatest value in the treatment of many of the infectious diseases of childhood . . . it is clinically effective in the control of infections of bacterial, protozoal, rickettsial, large viral and unknown aetiology. Its relatively low toxicity, its high potency, its wide range of action and its effectiveness when given orally combine to make it an antibiotic of wide acceptance in paediatric practice.

Abbott's selective antibiotic

Because . . .

it is a drug of choice for penicillin-resistant strains—for patients who are allergic to penicillin and other antibiotics.

Because . . .

it is orally effective against infections caused by staphylococci, streptococci and pneumococci.

Because . . .

of the increasing resistance of staphylococci to other antibiotics, ERYTHROCIN is a drug of choice against these organisms.

Because . . .

the special acid-resistant coating assures absorption in upper intestinal tract. Built-in disintegrator gives effective dispersal.

Because . . .

of low toxicity; little effect on normal intestinal flora; gastrointestinal disturbances rare; no serious side effects reported.

Erythrocin . . .

is indicated in pharyngitis, tonsillitis, scarlet fever, pneumonia, erysipelas, osteomyelitis, pyoderma and other conditions.

RAUWILOID

For the long term management of mild and labile
hypertension with control of associated symptoms

- Rauwiloid represents the alkaloids obtained from Rauwolfia serpentina.
- Each batch is tested in dogs for its effectiveness in producing hypotension, bradycardia and sedation.

- Clinically, Rauwiloid produces
 - (1) Moderate fall in blood pressure
 - (2) A desirable mild bradycardia
 - (3) A valuable calming influence
 - (4) Prompt relief of headaches, dizziness and other symptoms

• The hypotensive action of Rauwiloid is slow in developing, and may not attain its maximum for weeks or even months. However, the ability to lower blood pressure is limited, regardless of dose.

• Rauwiloid is not a ganglionic or adrenergic blocking agent and does not interfere with postural reflexes. Even at several times the therapeutic dosage, undesirable side effects are rarely seen with Rauwiloid.

• Initial dose 4 mg. (2 tablets) once daily until desired effect is achieved; thereafter one tablet daily.

when a more potent hypotensive action is needed...

RAUWILOID + VERILOID

• The characteristic effect of Rauwiloid is retained when a more potent hypotensive agent such as Veriloid is concurrently given. Clinical evidence suggests that synergistic potentiation results. In severe or resistant hypertension Rauwiloid+Veriloid produces outstanding objective and subjective improvement.

• The calming influence of Rauwiloid enhances tolerance for Veriloid, making it possible for patients to obtain a significant reduction of blood pressure from lower doses of Veriloid.

• The average dose of Rauwiloid+Veriloid is one tablet three times daily after meals, at intervals of not less than four hours. Each tablet contains 1 mg. of Rauwiloid and 3 mg. of Veriloid.*

Deferment of recruitment for fully registered "R" practitioners (i.e., fully registered practitioners liable for call-up under the National Service Acts) is granted at the discretion of the Central Medical Recruitment Committee and (in Scotland) the Scottish Central Medical Recruitment Committee. The Committees normally allow a fully registered "R" practitioner to hold a First House Officer post (N.H.S. salary £350 per annum) provided that it commences within three months of the end of his deferment by the Ministry of Labour and National Service as a whole-time medical student; and a Second House Officer post (N.H.S. salary £400 per annum) provided that it is secured before the end of his First House Officer post and commences within one month thereafter.

An "R" practitioner requires the special written permission of the C.M.R.C. or (in Scotland) the Scottish C.M.R.C. to proceed to any further post.

The position of provisionally registered "R" practitioners has been made clear in a notice sent to them by the University Joint Recruiting Boards.

Availability of Vitamins in Yeast

Deficiencies of single factors of the Vitamin B Group do not occur. Accordingly, even if a deficiency condition appears to result from the lack of an individual factor of the group and it is considered necessary to give intensive treatment with this factor, the entire Vitamin B complex should always be administered concurrently.

It is, however, extremely important, in view of suggestions in recent publications, that the vehicle selected as a source of the entire B Complex does not withhold its vitamin content from the patient.

Human experiments show that the rich, natural vitamin potency of Aluzyme is totally available to the human system.

- Aluzyme is not advertised to the public and may be prescribed on Form E.C.10
