BRITISH PHARMACEUTICAL CODEX 1954

The rapid advances that are being made in medical and pharmaceutical knowledge have emphasized the need to issue revised editions of the British Pharmaceutical Codex at more frequent intervals than in the past and it has therefore been decided to publish the book every five years.

In the present revision nearly one hundred experts have collaborated on committees and sub-committees to provide an authoritative account of the chemical, physical and therapeutic properties of all drugs of importance.

In addition, there are sections on antisera and vaccines, on preparations of human blood, sutures and surgical dressings, all of which have been subjected to detailed revision.

There is a comprehensive formulary section of tested pharmaceutical preparations, many of them new to the British Pharmaceutical Codex.

Appendices provide details of reagents, quantitative tests, and the preparation of isotonic solutions.

The book has been drastically revised and it portrays the major advances that have been made in pharmaceutical chemistry and in the practice of therapeutics over the past five years.

The Treatment of Protein Deficiency States

Quartz spectrophotometer

1 Utilisation by the body of protein hydrolysates is deficient in the absence of vitamins which act as co-enzymes in the synthesis of tissue proteins. In the treatment of hypoproteinæmia, therefore, administration of protein hydrolysates should be accompanied by administration of vitamins.

2 In hypoproteinæmia part of any protein hydrolysates administered may be used as fuel for energy purposes and thus diverted from their specific role in rebuilding tissue protein, unless carbohydrates are simultaneously given. Administration of carbohydrates with hydrolysates prevents 'squandering' of the amino acids.

3 Where a protein deficiency state exists there is frequently a co-existing anæmia present. To counteract this hæmatopoietic stimulants are required and are best provided by administration of the anti-anæmia factors of proteolysed liver.

HEPOVITE contains protein hydrolysates and hæmatopoietic principles from liver, vitamins and carbohydrates. It is palatable and acceptable to invalids. Available in hermetically sealed tins of 5 oz. (140 gm.).

Again the price of I.C.I. penicillin is reduced, and the most useful and the least toxic of the antibiotics costs still less. The basic cost to the Health Service for 1 mega unit of crystalline penicillin G is now only 1/6d.

From the surge of claims made for newer and better antibiotics, it is easy to lose one's perspective and forget the plain fact that penicillin continues to be the antibiotic of choice for all Gram-positive infections due to staphylococci, haemolytic streptococci and pneumococci and for all cases of gonorrhoea and syphilis.

VERILOID

a unique alkaloidal extract of Veratrum viride

- lowers blood pressure by vasorelaxation independent of vagomotor effect
- no ganglionic or adrenergic blocking
- no danger of postural hypotension
- cardiac output is not reduced
- no compromise of renal function
- no decrease of cerebral blood flow
- tolerance or sensitivity rarely develops
- can be given over long periods without loss of efficacy

now in a new and highly advantageous dosage form . . .

WHAT RAUWILOID IS
Rauwiloid represents the standardized alkaloids of Rauwolfia serpentina, each batch being tested in dogs for hypotensive, bradycardic and sedative effects.

RAUWILOID + VERILOID

The addition of Rauwiloid (1 mg.) to Veriloid (3 mg.) in one tablet presents unique advantages. Rauwiloid, a mild hypotensive producing virtually no side-effects, leads to desirable moderate bradycardia, a feeling of calm tranquillity, and rapid remission of symptoms. It apparently potentiates the powerful hypotensive action of Veriloid, thus making it possible to obtain marked reduction of blood pressure from lower doses of Veriloid with less likelihood of side-effects.

The initial dose is one tablet taken three times daily at intervals of not less than four hours, preferably after meals. Once the effect of Rauwiloid is established the dosage should be increased according to the individual's response. Whereas some patients may require as many as two tablets four times a day, the average requirement of Rauwiloid + Veriloid is one tablet four times daily.

MILK-ALKALI DRIP THERAPY WITHOUT DISCOMFORT

GASTRIC ACIDITY can now be controlled effectively, and without the inconvenience of intragastric milk-alkali drip therapy. This is made possible with the help of NULACIN.

Before NULACIN was evolved, a continuous antacid effect could only be achieved under hospital conditions, and with discomfort to the patient.

INDICATIONS

NULACIN tablets are indicated whenever neutralization of the gastric contents is required: in active and quiescent peptic ulcer, gastritis, gastric hyperacidity.

Beginning half-an-hour after food, a NULACIN tablet should be placed in the mouth and allowed to dissolve slowly. During the stage of ulcer activity, up to three tablets an hour may be required. For follow-up treatment, the suggested dosage is one or two tablets between meals.

NULACIN tablets are not advertised to the public and have no B.P. equivalent. May be prescribed on E.C.10. The dispensing pack of 25 tablets is free of Purchase Tax. (Price to pharmacists is 2/-.) Also available in tubes of 12.

NULACIN tablets are prepared from whole milk combined with dextrins and maltose, and incorporate Magnesium Trisilicate 3.5 grs.; Magnesium Oxide 2.0 grs.; Calcium Carbonate 2.0 grs.; Magnesium Carbonate 0.5 grs.; Ol. Menth. Pip. q.s.

Superimposed gruel fractional test-meal curves of five cases of duodenal ulcer.

Same patients as in Fig. 1, two days later, showing the striking neutralizing effect of sucking Nulacin tablets (3 an hour). Note the return of acidity when Nulacin is discontinued.

CETYL PYRIDINIUM CHLORIDE
NOW INCORPORATED INTO PROCIDETS

Cetyl pyridinium chloride (C.P.C.) is one of the most outstanding bactericidal compounds introduced into medicine. Procids* make a perfect vehicle for this powerful bactericide. Its addition to the sodium propionate in Procids Lozenges arms the practitioner with a double-barrelled weapon against many bacterial and fungal infections of the throat, mouth and gums. By reducing surface tension, C.P.C. carries the germicidal action of Procids deeply into the folds and crevices of the mouth and pharynx. The germicidal value of Procids is such that $\frac{1}{4}$ of a Lozenge rapidly kills Streptococcus pyogenes in a 10 c.c. saliva solution. Procids are non-toxic, non-irritating and, containing benzocaine, give immediate relief from soreness in the throat and mouth. Indicated for preventing and treating numerous infections, such as tonsillitis, pharyngitis, laryngitis, etc., and other inflammatory conditions of the mouth and throat.

Issued in cartons of 18 Lozenges—metal-foil sealed. Clinical samples and technical literature available on request.
