Availability of Vitamins in Yeast

Deficiencies of single factors of the Vitamin B Group do not occur. Accordingly, even if a deficiency condition appears to result from the lack of an individual factor of the group and it is considered necessary to give intensive treatment with this factor, the entire Vitamin B complex should always be administered concurrently.

It is, however, extremely important, in view of suggestions in recent publications, that the vehicle selected as a source of the entire B Complex does not withhold its vitamin content from the patient.

Human experiments show that the rich, natural vitamin potency of Aluzyme is totally available to the human system.

- Aluzyme is not advertised to the public and may be prescribed on Form E.C.10

Transvasin

brings the esters of NICOTINIC ACID
SALICYLIC ACID
p-AMINO BENZOIC ACID to the focal point of soft-tissue rheumatism

The esters in Transvasin, a new preparation developed by Hamol S.A., our Swiss associates, readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities and enable an effective concentration of the drugs to be built up where they are needed. Transvasin not only induces vasodilation of the skin with a superficial erythema, but also brings about a deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues. It is non-irritant, and can be safely used on delicate skins.

It is now being widely prescribed, with successful clinical results. Since a very small quantity is sufficient for each application, the cost of treatment is extremely low.

Salicylic acid tetrahydrofurfuryl-ester	14%
Nicotinic acid ethyl-ester	2%
Nicotinic acid n-hexyl-ester	2%

Water-miscible cream base ad.	100%

Transvasin is available in 1 oz. tubes, basic price 2/6 plus 7½d P.T., and is not advertised to the public. Samples and literature will be gladly sent on application.

'Pragmatar'

— the outstanding tar-sulphur-salicylic-acid ointment — is effective in many common skin disorders. The cetyl-alcohol-coal-tar distillate retains the therapeutic activity of crude coal-tar but is less likely to irritate and does not stain.

The effectiveness of all the active components is enhanced by the special oil-in-water emulsion base. 'Pragmatar' is convenient to use on both glabrous and hairy surfaces, and is therefore particularly useful in the general care and hygiene of the seborrhoeic scalp.

Nervous dyspepsia has become a problem to be reckoned with, provoking investigation and research and suggestions for remedies . . .

'Merbentyl' is one of the newest and most effective. It is an antispasmodic with both neurotropic and muscletropic effect upon smooth muscle of the gastro-intestinal and genito-urinary tracts, producing excellent results in the relief of painful spasm associated with functional and organic gastro-intestinal disease. Compared with other antispasmodics both natural and synthetic, 'Merbentyl' is strikingly free from side-effects.

15 years of clinical opinion supports the use of vaginal tampons

the healing of infected conditions is unimpaired

Clinical observation over the past 15 years makes it clear that the widespread and increasing use of vaginal tampons for the absorption of the menstrual flow is justified and healthy (1-5). To the healthy woman they offer many physical and psychological benefits and give greater freedom for work, social activities and sport (1-5). Furthermore, their use is by no means contra-indicated in the presence of unhealthy vaginal conditions. Many observers agree that, even where there is a pelvic abnormality, tampons cause no harm and sometimes accelerate healing. One (2) found that the progress of cervical erosions compared favourably with a control series using the perineal pad. Another (4) deliberately uses tampons as an aid to treatment in vaginal infections to hasten the cure. A further research worker (5), studying a series of women with cervical erosions, found that 60 per cent of the cases improved after changing over from external to internal protection, and that none were made worse. Intelligently used, vaginal tampons represent a decided advance in feminine hygiene. They may be recommended with confidence.
