

“ A new penicillin has been prepared which is active against the usual penicillin-sensitive microorganisms and yet resists staphylococcal penicillinase. This is a major event in chemotherapy. From the information given in the British Medical Journal¹ last week and in the three papers appearing in our present issue² there is good reason to hope that the new BRL 1241 ('Celbenin', Beecham Research Laboratories) will be a means of controlling the staphylococcal infections which have plagued hospitals throughout the world during the past ten years. ”

the foremost tetracycline of today

Of all the antibacterial agents used in the past in the fight against chronic bronchitis, the tetracyclines unquestionably rank the highest in the opinion of a growing number of doctors. Today, the newest of the tetracyclines — LEDERMYCIN demethylchlortetracycline—is rapidly taking pride of place among this group of drugs because of the many immediate advantages it exhibits over earlier tetracycline derivatives. More and more doctors are recognising LEDERMYCIN as the most active tetracycline yet. Logic therefore points to the use of LEDERMYCIN in chronic bronchitis as in all conditions where a tetracycline is called for.

when potassium intake
is suspect

Most patients on a moderate maintenance dosage of an oral diuretic do not usually require supplementary potassium because a mixed diet containing reasonable amounts of fruits and vegetables prevents hypopotassaemia. However, the possibility of potassium deficiency must be considered in debilitated patients with poor appetites, especially if digitalis therapy is also being employed.

The amount of potassium chloride included in 'HydroSALURIC'-K tablets will supply additional potassium (in a palatable form) to those patients who cannot include an adequate amount in their diet.

Each 'HydroSALURIC'-K tablet has a core containing more than half a gram of potassium chloride covered by a new and reliable type of enteric coating. The hydrochlorothiazide component is applied outside this coating, to ensure rapid absorption and effect.

DEEP SKIN PENETRATION IN ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM

NICOTINIC, SALICYLIC AND p-AMINOBENZOIC ACIDS in Ester form

IN CASES of soft-tissue rheumatism, and arthritic disorders, many doctors are tending more and more to regard Transvasin as an indispensable adjuvant to treatment.

For Transvasin is composed of the esters of nicotinic, salicylic and p-aminobenzoic acids. These esters readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities, and so enable an effective concentration of drugs to be built up where they are needed.*

Transvasin not only induces vasodilatation of the skin with a superficial erythema, but also brings about a deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues. It is non-irritant and can be safely used on delicate skins.

It is now being widely prescribed, with successful clinical results. Since a very small quantity is sufficient for each application, the cost of treatment is extremely low.

“BRITAIN’S DRUG BILL NOT EXCESSIVE” SAYS LORD BOOTHBY

PRICE OF MEDICAL CARE CONSTANT FOR FIFTY YEARS

Opening Winthrop House, the new Surbiton offices of Winthrop Group, Ltd., the Rt. Hon. Lord Boothby, K.B.E., LL.D., spoke trenchantly on the subject of British expenditure on pharmaceutical benefits. He pointed out that the proportion of income per head of population spent on pharmaceutical services in the majority of countries which do not have a free health service is higher than in Britain. “This is true,” said Lord Boothby, “not only of the total expenditure on pharmaceutical benefits, but, in addition, the expenditure by the State or private insurance in these countries is also a higher percentage of per capita income than in Britain.”

A MOST REMARKABLE FACT

Lord Boothby went on to discuss the question of drug costs. “We are told that it is necessary to curb the rising cost of drugs, yet in fact expenditure on drugs has always represented the same proportion of total National Health Service expenditure. This is true in spite of the enormous benefits from new, more complex, and therefore more costly drugs. At the present time about 3.7% of the national income is spent on the National Health Service. Going back over 50 years, to before the First World War, published figures show that this proportion has remained almost constant. This is a most remarkable fact when one considers the social and economic revolution which has occurred in the last half century.”

LORD BOOTHBY LAUNCHES VIRUGON

At the end of the opening ceremony, Lord Boothby pressed a remote control button which set into motion machinery at the Winthrop Newcastle factory for the manufacture of Virugon. A new preparation of the Bayer Products Division, Virugon is the first anti-viral synthetic. It will be available in Britain from November 1st, 1960.

Winthrop Chairman on "Obligation to Make Profits"

In welcoming Lord Boothby, the Chairman of Winthrop Group Ltd., Mr. L. M. Spalton, B.Pharm., M.P.S., said: "The pharmaceutical industry is a free enterprise institution which to survive has an obligation to make profits, and whose members compete strenuously one with another. They compete to find the next advance in therapeutics, and their fine record is so well known to you that I will not repeat it here. They compete to assist the medical profession in any and every way it is within their power or ingenuity to do. They compete to sell and to earn foreign currency for Britain. They compete continuously against themselves and obsolescence. For so dynamic is this industrial quest for knowledge that few drugs can anticipate widespread use for more than about five years."

Mr. Spalton went on to point out that it was time that the contributions of the pharmaceutical industry were more generally recognised and that the competitive circumstances with which it had to grapple—and incidentally the advantages that competition brought—were seen in proper perspective.

QUOTES

Answering the Prime Minister's call

"Four years ago we built in Newcastle-upon-Tyne the most highly mechanized pharmaceutical factory to be completed in post-war Britain. Today nearly 50% of the output of that factory goes overseas. Our pharmaceutical business in Britain is the fourth largest. The Prime Minister recently called for a great band of merchant adventurers to sell British goods overseas. I believe that we in Winthrop have already begun to act in the spirit and the letter of that call."

Transcending National Barriers

"Why do our international company of people find co-operation possible, where elsewhere it is so difficult to obtain? I believe this happy state is due to their possession of a common purpose which transcends national barriers, and the job satisfaction that comes from rendering a service of immense value to their fellow men."

Plaquenil breaks through the Iron Curtain

"Winthrop people know no barrier of nationality, race, creed, or colour, save the Iron Curtain. And whilst that barrier at present resists Winthrop people, it is not impervious to Winthrop products. Today Plaquenil, our latest contribution to the treatment of rheumatoid arthritis, is being exported to treat patients in Czechoslovakia and Poland, and is under clinical evaluation in Moscow."

THE WINTHROP GROUP

Winthrop Group Ltd. comprises companies and divisions operating throughout Western Europe which, individually and collectively, are concerned with the discovery, development, manufacture and distribution of pharmaceutical products. In this country the Group includes Bayer Products and Winthrop Laboratories. Winthrop House is the new British headquarters.

CONTROVERSIAL MEDICAL EXHIBITION EXTENDED

"Medicine Men of Today," the exhibition originally designed to mark the opening of Winthrop Group's new headquarters at Surbiton-upon-Thames, has aroused so much comment, and attendance is such that it is now being extended until Friday, the 25th of November. The hours of the exhibition are: Mon.-Thurs. and Sat.: 11-8.30. Fri.: 11-4. Travelling time from Waterloo station is about 15 minutes. Members of the medical profession and their friends are warmly invited to visit the exhibition.

EFFECTIVE AUXILIARY IN THE COMPLETE TREATMENT OF

BRONCHITIS

BAYER PRODUCTS, Division of Winthrop Group Ltd., SURBITON-UPON-THAMES, SURREY.

Is Symptomatic Treatment Sinful?

People do not usually consider themselves ill unless they have symptoms that cause them pain or discomfort. A heavy drinker, warned that his alcohol consumption will finally damage his liver, cannot imagine that this will happen to him until he begins to feel ill.

The patient who feels fine lying at rest in bed may feel that he is better until, against orders, he gets up—and discovers his doctor was right after all. From the patient's point of view, his symptoms are his disease.

Beyond the Symptoms

There was a time when symptomatic relief was all the doctor could offer a patient. One of the most important lines of progress in medicine within fairly recent years has been our increased ability to look beyond the symptoms to their pathological causes. With the increase in this knowledge has also come progress in development of specific therapeutic agents. Whereas at one time a high temperature would be removed by giving the patient an antipyretic only, nowadays we also give an antibiotic to eradicate the infection that caused the increased temperature.

Naughty Term

The development of more specific therapeutic agents has tended to create a situation in which symptomatic relief may be overlooked. And to the purist the phrase may even be considered as a rather naughty term. But the specific therapeutic agents, powerful though they may be in reducing the progress of a disease mechanism, do not always quickly provide the feeling of wellbeing that a patient associates with good health. An improved X-ray plate or a lower bacteriological count may not be very convincing evidence of progress to the patient who still feels as bad as ever.

Worse before better

Medical research is constantly evolving new and improved methods of bronchitis therapy, but even with the most advanced treatment it may be some weeks before the patient actually feels some symptomatic benefit. This is the reason for the use of a drug such as Franol in the treatment of bronchitis. Franol carries out the simple but important function of dilating the bronchioles and reducing mucous congestion, thus making the patient feel better as he gets better.

Clinical Efficacy

The acute bronchitic patient needs this kind of relief as quickly as possible, and the chronic bronchitic patient may require this relief continually. In providing this benefit, Franol may carry out the important function of ensuring the patient's co-operation during his often lengthy treatment. Franol is ideally suited for symptomatic treatment in terms of economical prescribing as well as in clinical efficacy. A week's treatment with Franol, 4 tablets daily, costs only 1s. 7d.

Not the least of the advantages of Franol is that it helps to give the patient unbroken rest at night. Besides helping to maintain the patient's general health and hence his resistance to attacks, this effect of Franol means that the doctor, too, is more likely to have a good night's sleep, undisturbed by calls to his bronchitic or asthmatic patients.

While the formula and potency of POLYBACTRIN remain unchanged, radical modification of the valve mechanism and design of the unit provides several advantages:— positive directional, wide-angle spray gives wider coverage of the area under treatment — all metal container provides additional safety — special valve eliminates impacting of powder and clogging of nozzle.

The use of Polybactrin during surgical procedures is a positive method of inhibiting wound pathogens which may become implanted in the tissues.

Comment from three important papers in the Lancet, 20th August.

"Patients are spared constipation, impotence, dryness of the mouth, and iridoplegia, and there is no risk of paralytic ileus."

"Life need no longer be made a misery by the parasympathetic effects of the ganglion blocking agents."

"Its action is apparently steady; tolerance does not develop; and outpatient care of cases is relatively easy."

"If our present experience is confirmed, and if our survival-rates are as good as those with pentolinium, guanethidine or some similar drug should almost entirely replace the older ganglion blocking agents."

"Guanethidine was much more satisfactory in outpatient control. A single daily dose was adequate, and there was only 1 outpatient failure in 16 patients, in contrast to 16 failures in 25 patients treated with bretylium tosylate."

Strepsils

in the local treatment of mouth and throat infections because they have been specially formulated to overcome the disadvantages of many conventional antiseptic lozenges. Strepsils do not have the sensitizing potential of preparations containing antibiotics and/or local anaesthetics. Perfectly safe for both adults and children, Strepsils combine rapid bactericidal action against most of the common pathogens found in the mouth with a prolonged and soothing effect. Unique-formula Strepsils are packed in vacuum-sealed tins to reach your patients laboratory-fresh.

Each lozenge contains 1.2 mg. of Dybenal and 0.6 mg. of Amyl-meta-cresol.

WHICH MAN IS AFRAID?

It could be any one of these three—angina is no respecter of persons. Stockbroker, shop assistant or university professor, although following vastly different ways of life, each may have something in common—the fear of angina pectoris.

Peritrate will maintain steady, long-acting coronary vasodilation. After a coronary, Peritrate helps to establish and sustain collateral circulation, to reduce the extent of myocardial damage, to encourage natural healing and repair, and to minimize ensuing anginal attacks safely with no significant drop in blood pressure or pulse rate.

For patients who are extremely apprehensive, especially during the period of initial therapy, the combination of Peritrate with phenobarbitone in one tablet not only provides long-acting coronary vasodilation, but the calming action of a trustworthy sedative.

The basic prophylactic dose of Peritrate is 2 tablets four times a day before meals, but 1 tablet taken half-an-hour before exertion gives extra protection for stair climbing, walking and the daily rush to and from work. Up to 10 extra Peritrate tablets may safely be taken in 24 hours.

The basic N.H.S. cost of Peritrate and Peritrate with phenobarbitone is 11d. for 50 tablets. Peritrate is pentaerythritol tetranitrate.

To simplify home treatment of
ULCERATIVE COLITIS

PREDSOL ENEMA

THE FIRST PRESENTATION OF A CORTICOID IN A DISPOSABLE PLASTIC BAG

A water-soluble corticoid given as a rectal infusion has produced complete symptomatic relief and considerable improvement, as judged by sigmoidoscopic and histological findings,¹ in a high proportion of patients with ulcerative colitis. This technique has now been further simplified² by presenting a small quantity of Predsol (water-soluble prednisolone) in solution as an enema to avoid the inconvenience of prolonged administration by rectal drip.

The course of treatment is one Predsol Enema contained in a disposable plastic bag, self administered nightly for about a month ... a course to which the majority of patients will respond.

1. British Medical J. 1958, 2, 1072.

2. Lancet 1960, 1, 517.

Predsol Enema is available in boxes holding a week's supply of seven plastic tubes each containing 100 ml. Instructions to the patient are enclosed.

In the dietary control of obesity, diabetes or other conditions a reduced intake of vitamins may lead to complications. Addition of Marmite to these restricted diets supplements their content of B vitamins and adds flavour to meals which are apt to be dull and uninteresting.

in Preventive Medicine

The prominent part played by diet in preventive medicine is now fully recognised. A well-balanced diet can contribute markedly to general good health and, conversely, a faulty diet can precipitate illness and hinder recovery. Do you consider the vehicle when you prescribe steroid therapy with hydrocortisone cream?

Some vehicles have been implicated on grounds of sensitisation risk. Lacto-Calamine, the excipient in Cortoderm and Cortoderm-N, has an unblemished reputation in this respect.

Soothing, bland, cosmetically acceptable, it also contributes its own anti-inflammatory action to successful treatment of infected and non-infected dermatosis.

'Clinical experience in dermatology indicates that the vehicle employed for topical applications may be as important as, or even more important than, the medicaments they contain.'

DISPOSABLE HOSPITAL UNDERPADS

More efficient—with less risk of cross-infection

Johnson's HOSPITAL UNDERPADS are quicker and easier to use than ordinary draw sheets. They are disposable, and so minimise the risk of cross-infection. They mean less unpleasant work for the nurse, more comfort for the patient. They save linen storage space, laundry charges, and expensive linen replacements. Absorbing at least 12 times their own weight of water, with moisture-proof backing, they have many uses in hospitals and home nursing.
