Lucofen

Pycraft, "the fattest clubman in London", was particularly fond of "eavy vittles"—pork, sausages and hot, buttered teacakes. Yet, "like all excessively fat people he fancied he ate nothing." After swallowing an old Hindu concoction for loss of weight he floated on his ceiling like a balloon. Loss of weight was almost complete though obesity was unaffected.

Lucofen is both a less exotic and a more successful treatment for obesity. A new drug for the limitation of appetite, Lucofen acts without interfering with normal meal anticipation. It thus helps to gain the active co-operation of the patient, so essential in the treatment of obesity. Eating sensibly, and taking Lucofen, the co-operative patient is more ready to help the doctor and himself.

Lucofen, 1-(p-chlorophenyl)-2-methyl-2-aminopropane hydrochloride (chlorphentermine) acts without the frustration and irritability caused by many weight-reducing programmes.

The resultant weight loss is gradual, safe and dependable. Lucofen is free from the disadvantages of the usual amphetamine-like drugs, and thus causes no restlessness, sleeplessness or addiction. It is especially useful in combating the evening hunger felt by many patients. There is evidence of fat mobilisation.

Dosage: The recommended dose is one tablet (25 mg.) three times a day with meals, or three tablets with breakfast. This dosage normally results in an average loss of 1 lb. to 1½ lbs. per week.

Presentation: Bottles of 50 and 500 tablets.

for the patient with Angina

FOR THE ANGINA

Peritrate is an established coronary vasodilator, increasing coronary blood flow and maintaining its effect for 4 to 5 hours. Nardil, perhaps by virtue of its MAO inhibitory action, also increases coronary blood flow and cardiac output.

FOR THE PATIENT

Nardil, the exemplar of the newer anti-depressants, relieves the depressive or psychosomatic element seen in many anginal patients.

(Note: Patients receiving Perifenil should be warned against strenuous exercise.)

Both the constituents of Perifenil have just received the cachet of official approval, for it is proposed to include monographs on both substances in the 1963 British Pharmacopoeia.

Each Perifenil tablet contains:—

Peritrate (pentaerythritol tetranitrate) 20 mg.

Nardil (phenelzine) 7.5 mg.

ANNOUNCING
the forthcoming
New 10th Edition of
THE
of diagnosis and therapy

The new MERCK MANUAL incorporates and describes recent diagnostic and therapeutic developments. It offers broadened coverage with the addition of 20 new subjects. Each of its 21 main sections has been revised to include the most recent authoritative information. As in previous editions, dating back 60 years, the book's objective is to provide the medical and allied professions with a current reference in order to facilitate accurate diagnosis and effective treatment.

Much new material added

A wide variety of disorders, not covered previously, appears in the new Tenth Edition. Disturbances of inorganic metabolism, dental and oral developmental defects, the malabsorption syndrome, group A streptococcal infections, toxoplasmosis, pulmonary granulomatoses, newly recognised viral diseases, and genetic metabolic anomalies are all included.

Other revisions deal with the care of normal infants and pre-school children; antihistamine, thrombolytic, diuretic, and psychopharmacological therapy; the dermatitides; resuscitation methods; tubeless gastric analysis, rheumatoid arthritis tests, identification of tumour cells in body fluids, the diagnostic use of radio isotopes, and many others.

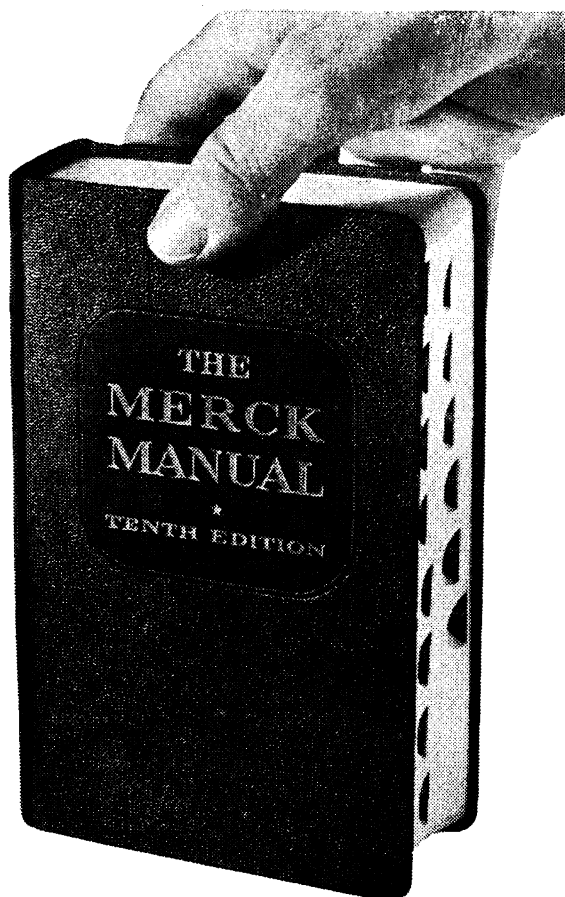

More than 100 authorities in various fields of medicine served as authors or consultants in the handbook's preparation. Replete with indispensable prescriptions, along with nine special therapy chapters—conveniently grouped in one section and classified according to indications and mode of action.

Published by MERCK SHARP & DOHME RESEARCH LABORATORIES as part of a programme of service to the medical and allied professions.

a fresh start for the treatment of

ASTHMA

the new anti-inflammatory steroid

Betnelan, the new oral steroid (betamethasone) developed by Glaxo, is particularly suitable for use with other measures in the treatment of severe asthma. Betnelan is not suggested for milder cases which are adequately controlled by other measures.

PERIODIC ACUTE ATTACK

Betnelan is indicated when the conventional management of asthma is interrupted by acute attacks. Short-term therapy with Betnelan should control the exacerbation and allow conventional measures to be resumed.

SEVERE ATTACK

In attacks of extreme severity (status asthmaticus) all recognised measures must be taken. Corticosteroid injections (Efcortelan Soluble or Predsol Injection) should be given initially, while at the same time oral treatment with Betnelan should be started. When there is no immediate threat to life, Betnelan alone will be found adequate.

SEVERE CHRONIC ASTHMA

When existing treatment gives only slight relief and the patient's activities remain restricted, Betnelan can be of special help. Continuous administration may be necessary and is well justified by enabling a reasonably useful life to be followed. Treatment should begin with a short, intensive course of Betnelan, using bronchodilators and other measures. Dosage of Betnelan should be decreased gradually until the minimum level is found for reducing symptoms to tolerable limits. Often this may be no more than half a tablet twice daily.

HAY FEVER

In severe attacks, uncontrolled by normal therapy, the condition usually responds rapidly to short-term Betnelan therapy.

BETNELAN is presented as scored tablets containing 0.5 milligrams betamethasone in bottles of 30, 100 and 500.

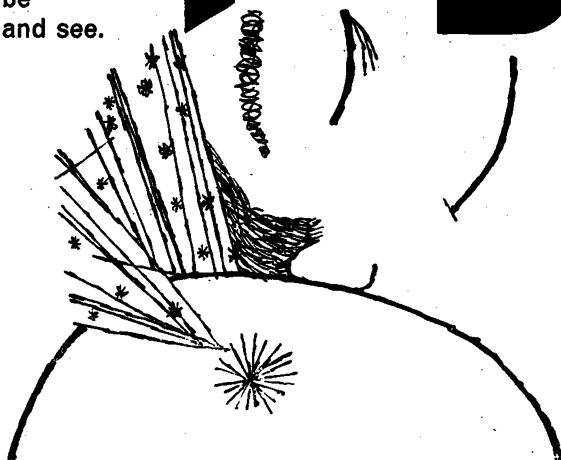

and Betnelan is inexpensive

DEEP SKIN PENETRATION IN ARTHRITIS AND RHEUMATISM

NICOTINIC, SALICYLIC AND p-AMINOBENZOIC ACIDS in Ester form

IN CASES of soft-tissue rheumatism, and arthritic disorders, many doctors are tending more and more to regard Transvasin as an indispensable adjuvant to treatment.

For Transvasin is composed of the esters of nicotinic, salicylic and p-aminobenzoic acids. These esters readily pass the skin barrier in therapeutic quantities, and so enable an effective concentration of drugs to be built up where they are needed.*

Transvasin not only induces vasodilatation of the skin with a superficial erythema, but also brings about deep hyperaemia of the underlying tissues. It is non-irritant and can be safely used on delicate skins.

It is now being widely prescribed, with successful clinical results. Since a very small quantity is sufficient for each application, the cost of treatment is extremely low. Transvasin can be prescribed on Form E.C.10.

Persistence of infection in external otitis or middle ear disease may be due to gram-negative bacteria or fungi—especially Aspergillus and Monilia—resistant to conventional topical antiseptics and antibiotics.

Penotrane is active against these organisms and by combining this with prednisolone and alcohol in a special viscous vehicle, a highly effective, easily applied and economical method of treating such cases has been evolved.

THIS IS OTOTRANE* an acceptable, rational and time-saving approach to the problem of the chronic ear. Applied to the surgically cleansed meatus OTOTRANE forms a film on the meatal walls and other parts of the ear with which it comes into contact and need not be replaced for a week or more. During this time the antibacterial and anti-inflammatory action of OTOTRANE, even in the presence of pus, is maintained.

REFRESHER COURSE FOR GENERAL PRACTITIONERS

Third Collection with classified contents list to volumes 1, 2 and 3
Price 25s. (by post 26s. 9d.)

Each book contains a collection of sixty Refresher Course articles from the British Medical Journal. Each article, written by an acknowledged expert, has been revised by its author. The articles cover a wide range. Their object is to refresh the reader's memory of what is old and well-established and to tell him about new developments. They are invaluable to general practitioners and residents as practical reference books, to specialists as a means of keeping in touch with developments outside their own field, and to final-year students as up-to-date and reliable text-books.

The Third Collection has a cumulative classified contents list to the three volumes of "Refresher Course for General Practitioners."

ROYAL PERTH HOSPITAL Western Australia

HEAD OF THE DEPARTMENT OF HAEMATOLOGY

Applications for the above post are invited from suitably qualified medical practitioners with considerable experience in Haematology. As at present established this post involves both clinical and laboratory responsibilities.

The successful candidate will be required to maintain a diagnostic haematology service and supervise the operation of the Hospital Blood Bank. If the selected candidate has had wide clinical experience, he would be responsible for the investigation and management of certain patients with haematological disorders (for which beds are available). Alternatively, the Board may consider appointing a candidate whose major interests lie in the laboratory aspects of haematology, in which case he would work in co-operation with the Physicians in charge of such patients as described above.

Royal Perth Hospital is the main teaching hospital of the Medical School of the University of Western Australia. At the invitation of the University Departments of Medicine and Pathology, the present occupant of the post has accepted teaching responsibilities.

The Department of Haematology is also well equipped and adequately staffed for the performance of all modern haematological techniques. The head of the department is a member of the Laboratory Services Advisory Committee which advises the Board of Management on the Hospital's Laboratory Services as a whole, and is also a full member of the clinical staff.

Salary: Within the range £A.3,558 to £A.4,038 per annum, according to qualifications and experience.

Conditions of Service: Include long service leave (three months on full pay after each seven years' service), sick leave, etc. Study leave may be granted as a privilege for some special purpose approved by the Board. Contribution to the State Superannuation Scheme is required, or alternatively, the hospital will consider subsidizing the appointed officer's existing commitments under an approved scheme or endowment policy.

Transport Expenses: A travel grant equivalent to minimum first-class sea passages will be provided for successful applicant and family (under 16 years of age), together with an allowance up to £A.300 for the cost of removal of personal effects, etc., subject to a bond to remain in the hospital's service for a minimum period of three years.

A Memorandum of Information (including further details of the Department of Haematology) is available upon request.

Further information concerning Royal Perth Hospital and the State of Western Australia may be obtained from the Agent-General for Western Australia, Savoy House, 115 Strand, London, W.C.2.

Applications in writing, which must be addressed to the undersigned, should include date of birth, qualifications, experience, present and previous appointments, a list of publications, a recent photograph, and the names and addresses of three referees.

Applications close on October 31, 1961.—Joseph Griffith, Administrator. (8975)

Pre-packed dressings

Dressing—not addressing—problems become so simple with Johnson's established range of sterile Pre-packed Dressings.

They are packed in paper tested for sterility maintenance and rigorously autoclaved.

Opened only when required, the dressings reach the patient sterile. This ensures total asepsis and minimises the risk of cross-infection.

Pre-packed Dressings also assist in the ordering and control of stock. They save nurses' time, waste of dressings and sterilizing and laundry costs.
