A NEW JOURNAL

Though there are two journals published in English that are devoted to heredity in man, there is no journal confined to medical genetics, and papers on the subject have been scattered over a wide number of specialized medical journals. With the increasing interest in medical genetics it is felt that the time has come for a journal devoted to this new and growing specialty.

JOURNAL OF MEDICAL GENETICS

It is intended that this journal should be broadly based and that papers should appear not only on clinical studies but also on the statistical, pathological, cytological, and biochemical and other aspects. Although the journal will be mainly concerned with human genetics, occasional animal studies will be published where they are relevant. In addition, authoritative review articles will appear at fairly regular intervals.

The first quarterly number of this Journal will be published September, 1964. In the first volume there will be two numbers (September and December). In subsequent volumes, starting in 1965, there will be four numbers published in March, June, September and December. Each issue will contain some 70 pages of text.

In Asthma

The Alupent Metered Aerosol gives Five Hours' relief of wheezing Immediately. Recent spirometric studies have shown that Alupent in aerosol form relieves wheezing at once and that the duration of relief is up to eight times as long as that obtained by inhalation of Isoprenaline¹.

In this series the peak response following inhalation of Alupent 5% Solution was 33% greater than that produced by Isoprenaline 1% Solution by inhalation. The prompt and prolonged relief which patients obtain with the newer Alupent Metered Aerosol means effective, economical treatment of wheezing in asthma.

Manufacturer's Information for the long-term treatment of chronic urinary tract infections

Brand Name

MANDELAMINE

Active Ingredient

(Menthenamine mandelate)

Indications

Mandelamine is indicated in the treatment of chronic urinary tract infections. It is bactericidal and bacteriostatic for a wide range of pathogens, particularly B. coli and Strep. faecalis, two of the organisms most often responsible for urinary tract infections.

Advantages

Effective against the organisms commonly responsible for urinary tract infections. Can be used concurrently with Urolucosil, other sulphonamides or antibiotics in the acute infection, and continued prophylactically for several weeks after symptoms have subsided and the antibiotic or sulphonamide has been stopped. Does not give rise to resistant strains of pathogens. Action is confined to the urinary tract. No control of fluid intake is necessary. Mandelamine is not an antibiotic or sulphonamide; blood dyscrasias, monilial overgrowth and obstruction due to crystalluria do not occur.

Dosage

Adults: Two halfgrams four times a day or four 0.25 G tablets four times a day. Children: in proportion.

Side-effects

Extremely rare.

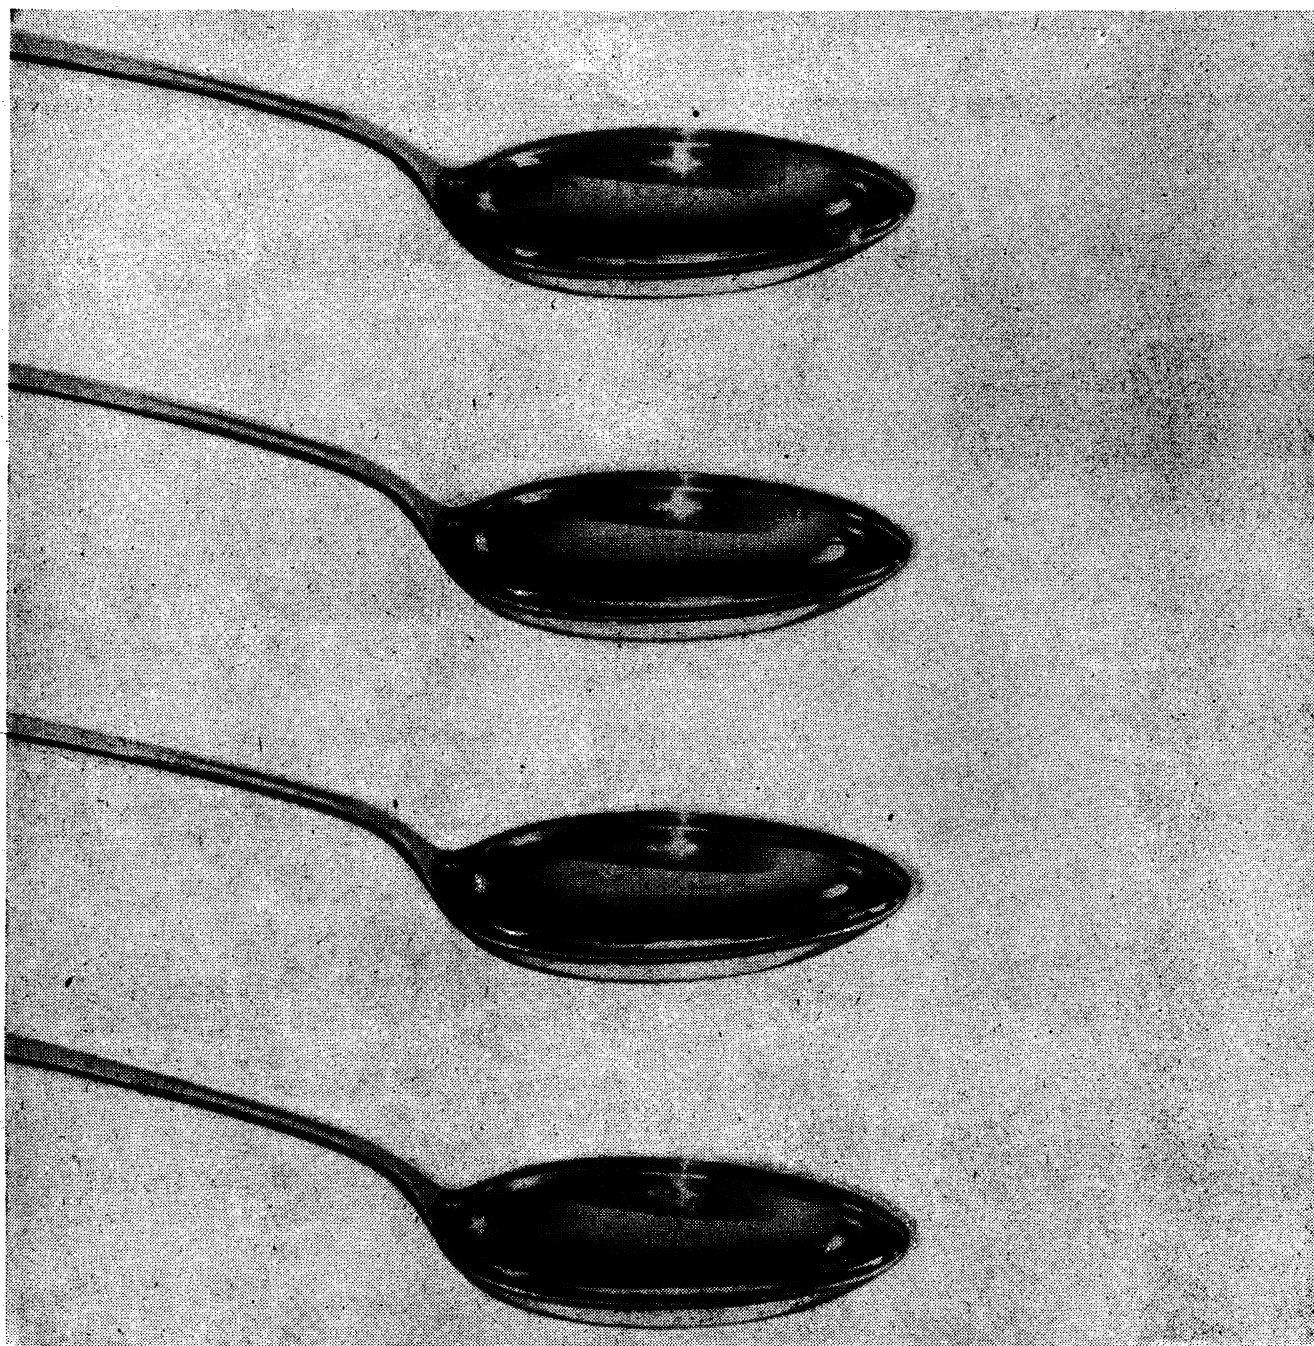

Availability

Mandelamine halfgrams 0.5 G. in bottles of 30, 250 and 500. Mandelamine tablets 0.25 G. in bottles of 60, 500 and 1,000. The basic N.H.S. cost for one week's treatment is: Mandelamine halfgrams 3s. 8½d. for 42 (exc. p.t.). Mandelamine tablets 1s. 0½d. for 21 (exc. p.t.).

Four tablespoons of corn oil and the reduction of high serum cholesterol levels

A recent article in the medical press¹ published the results of a study in the use of corn oil with a low animal fat diet in the reduction of high serum cholesterol levels.

The article ended: 'It is concluded that corn oil, together with a diet low in animal fat, is feasible as a long-term measure for the lowering of serum cholesterol, being safe, acceptable to the great majority of patients, and having virtually no clinical contraindications.'

The oil used in the study, corn oil, linoleic acid content 56%—was added to diets of 1,630 and 2,080 calories, and comprised 41·5% of the total in the former, 40·0% in the latter. The quantity of oil added to each diet was 57 ml; just four tablespoons of corn oil a day.

Mazola Pure Corn Oil has a fatty-acid composition (56·2% linoleic) identical to that of the oil used in this experiment. In addition, Mazola is palatable; it is widely used as a cooking oil. Thus Mazola, available from grocers throughout the country, is probably the most accessible and appetising source of supplementary dietary oil.

80-85% antihypertensive response

Eutonyl is a major advance in the control of hypertension. Mood elevation may occur, due to MAO inhibition. Side effects are not common, and are rarely intolerable. The simple dosage gives positive control.

Eutonyl (pargyline hydrochloride, Abbott) treats severe essential hypertension by reducing peripheral resistance, without significantly affecting cardiac output. It has been shown to produce an antihypertensive response in some 80—85% of cases, and it is as successful against the more severe as against the moderately severe cases. In clinical trials, 90% of patients remained on Eutonyl, for side effects are rarely sufficiently severe to require the withdrawal of therapy. Eutonyl gives significant reductions in the blood pressure—especially the diastolic pressure—in the sitting and lying positions, as well as standing.

The concurrent use of Enduron® (methyclothiazide, Abbott) permits the use of a lower dosage of Eutonyl, thus further reducing the likelihood of side effects. Enduron particularly enhances the sitting and lying response to Eutonyl.

Information on these points is more fully covered in the physician's reference book, which contains a bibliography of 74 published references. This book should be consulted on dosage, side effects and precautions.

Instruction cards are available advising patients of the dietary restrictions (notably cheese and alcohol) and other precautions which they should observe while taking Eutonyl, which is an MAO inhibitor.

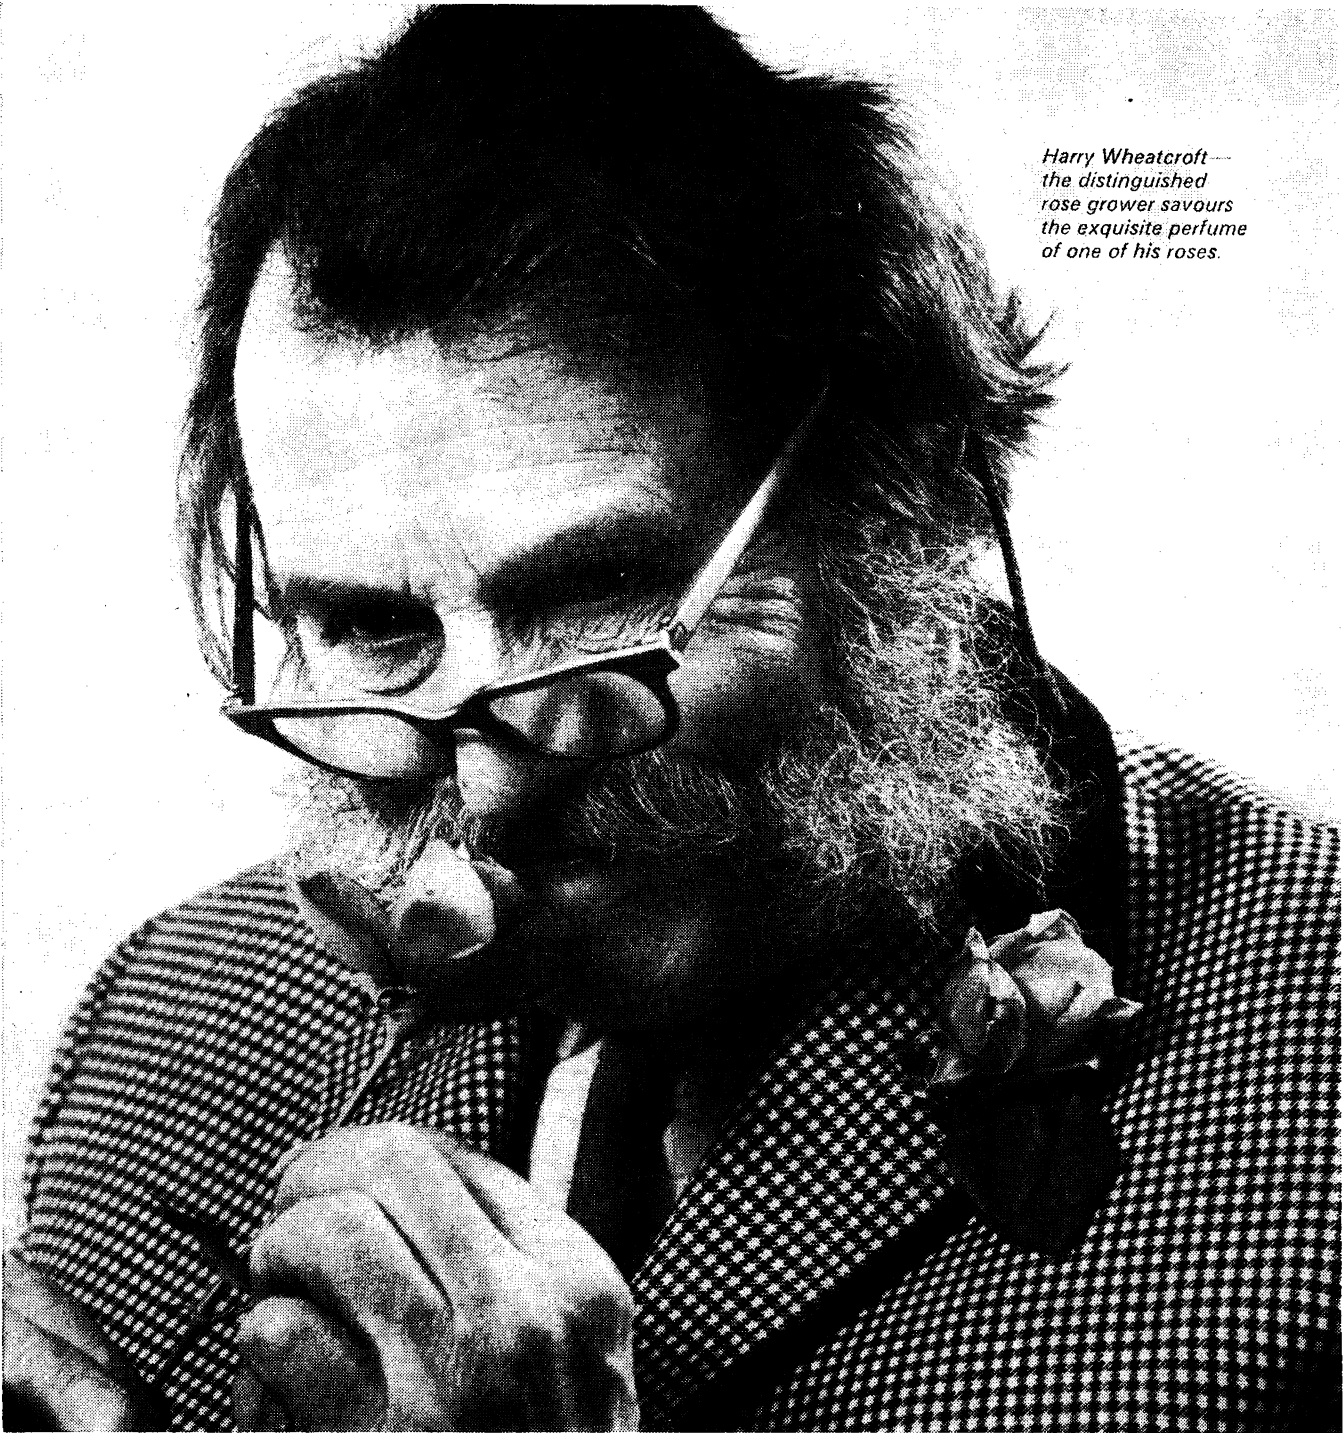

Eutonyl (pargyline hydrochloride, Abbott) is supplied in Filmtab® tablets under the names Eutonyl (25 mg, orange) and Eutonyl-Ten (10 mg, pink). Enduron (methyclothiazide, Abbott) is supplied in square grooved tablets of 5 mg.

INVIRIN-OL, the latest oil-adjuvant influenza vaccine is dispensed in the new JEXIN disposable unit. This completely sterile unit consists of a ready-assembled syringe, loaded with one dose of INVIRIN-OL. The unit is simple to use—twist the central barrel to break the seal, remove cap, inject and then throw away. In this time saving manner vaccination sessions end sooner and are less tiring, at no extra cost.

The vaccine itself is the oil-adjuvant type that has been shown to be the influenza vaccine of choice. A high antibody response is produced after two to three weeks; and with a small 0.25 ml dose, the chance of reaction is minimal. Four strains of killed virus are included: A/Singapore/1/57, A/England/1/61, B/England/939/59, and B/Taiwan/4/62.

INVIRIN-OL, like all Glaxo vaccines, is backed by twenty-eight years of human vaccine research and development.

a selective oestrogen for the post-menopausal patient

Existing oestrogens influence several target organs. A new oral oestrogen, Pentovis, has been used clinically in post-menopausal vaginitis with very good results. Biopsies before and after treatment repeatedly showed that, while Pentovis has a beneficial effect on vaginal epithelium, endometrial changes do not take place and therefore withdrawal bleeding does not occur.

Pentovis provides oral treatment for Atrophic vaginitis

The side effects common to other oestrogens with multiple sites of action have not been seen with Pentovis. Nausea and gastric disturbances are very uncommon. The great strength of ‘Aventyl’ is that its beneficial actions range widely over the symptoms which plague these

YOUR OWN 'COTTAGE HOSPITAL'

Squadron Leader Martin Constant is Senior M.O. of a V-Bomber Station in Northamptonshire—"a typical Service doctor". His 'cottage hospital' is also typical: it has two consulting rooms, two waiting rooms, its own fully equipped Theatre, treatment room and dispensary, and four wards containing 20 beds. There is a staff of 12 (secretarial as well as nursing), three ambulances and a car. He and his assistant M.O. are in complete medical care of the Station: they act as G.P.'s to some 3,000 men, women and children, as M.O.H.'s and as medical advisers (for instance on Health Physics: Martin Constant is a Command lecturer on this). "My professional freedom," he says, "is absolute."

Is this your pre-registration year?

BEFORE YOU COMMIT YOURSELF TO A PRACTICE
WORK 3 OR 5 YEARS IN THE R.A.F.

When is the right time for you to make the big, once-and-for-always decisions about the way it's best for you to work and live your life? Straight away, now, at once? Or when you have had the chance to do a little out-of-hospital doctoring 'on your own', seen some common ailments and got a bit of capital together? Many people feel that it is only prudent not to be in too much of a hurry. If you are one of them, here is a thought for you:

You don't, now, have to choose either an R.A.F. career or a civilian one. You can have both. And there are good reasons why you should—not only for your own sake and your family's, but in the interests of the profession and the public generally.

Interesting, out-of-the-rut medicine

Your first job in the R.A.F. (which you'll get three months after you join) will probably be Junior M.O. at a Station—rather like being an "Assistant with a view". In a typical case, you'd be one of two doctors, with, between you, 1500 to 2500 people to take care of. These would be the officers and men serving with you on the Station, and their families, plus any civilians who might be working there.

You'd have a much shorter list than you would as a civilian G.P., and to this extent you would live a less strenuous life. To compensate, you would give much more comprehensive care. It is this—and the variety of your work—that makes practice in the R.A.F. so interesting.

In the R.A.F., you combine several functions. You are in medical care not only of people, but of the environment they live in, and of the work they do. In proportion, you do less curative work, and more preventive work than most civilian doctors.

A lot of people hold the view that this is the way all medicine should be practised: with the closest possible intermingling of the doctor and his patients.

You see a bit of the world

Think of two doctors, both aged 40. One went to his practice straight from his teaching hospital, and has been there ever since. The other went from hospital into the R.A.F. on a 5-year commission. He lived—and lived well—in the tropics with his family for 2½ years, and visited 7 countries on leave or duty, two European, three Asian, and two Australasian. All this, of course, was some time ago—he's been in civilian practice 10 years now; he's as well established as the other doctor. But which of the two has got more out of life, and has the richer memories to look back upon?

In many ways, the transition from hospital into the R.A.F. seems much more 'natural' than the movement to civilian practice. The two communities have much more in common: both are young, cheerful, energetic, rather self-contained—and at the same time very professional, with a marked sense of purpose about what they do. If you can feel, now, that you are going to miss Medical School when you leave it, think about going into the R.A.F.: Service life would probably be 'right' for you.

'Retire' with up to £3,000, tax-free

Next year, if you were in the R.A.F. as a married officer, your pay and allowances could be over £2,000. You would get regular 'rises' and regular promotion. In hard cash terms you would be literally hundreds of pounds better off than your civilian opposite-numbers. Besides which, your cost-of-living would be lower: if you were single, living in the Mess, you would get the equivalent of first-class hotel accommodation for, perhaps, 2/- a day out of your pay; if you were married, and the R.A.F. provided you with a house furnished right down to the last coffee cup, and they probably would—the rent would be £192 p.a.

Leave the Service after 3 years, and you get a gratuity of £1,500, tax-free; stay on for 5, and you get £3,000. With this, you could put down a deposit on a house and furnish it very well indeed, attic to cellar.

Five years from now. You'd probably still be the right side of thirty. What a start to a career!

In all your life, when will you have a chance like this again?

Today, because you are young and at the beginning of your career, you can take a short time out from the main stream of civilian practice just by deciding to do it.

Now, you are free to go. In a few years time, you probably won't be.

At this stage in life, you have none of the commitments that might make an older man hold back; things like a practice that has your name on it; obligations to a community that you have become a part of; the ownership of property . . . and suchlike hostages to fortune.

All these things will, quite properly, come along in due time.

Meanwhile, you have this chance and now is the time to find out about it. If you can't write off straight away, tear this advertisement out and put it in your pocket to remind you.

Do not let this chance go by default

For full information, please write giving your age and qualifications to Wing Commander D. G. M. HILLS, M.B., B.S., D.P.H., R.A.F., Ministry of Defence MA1/HN143D, 1-6 Tavistock Square, London WC1.
