PENICILLAMINE

as the D(-)isomer

the clinically preferred form of this orally-active chelating agent manufactured by DISTA for the treatment of hepatolenticular degeneration (Wilson's Disease) and management or investigation of other types of metallic intoxications.

Penicillamine is an amino acid containing a sulphydryl group (—SH) and is so named because it was first identified following hydrolysis of penicillin.

The observation that patients suffering from liver disease excreted penicillamine in the urine after the administration of penicillin and the presence of the sulphydryl group in the substance, some seven years ago led to our making penicillamine available as an oral chelating agent for experimental use.

Initially, it was employed in the clinical investigation of Wilson's Disease to remove excess of copper resulting from disturbed metabolism, and to-day penicillamine is recognised as the drug of choice in the management of this rare disease. The D(-)isomeric form is preferred, both with regard to clinical efficacy and lack of side-effects.

Experience is now being gained in other fields, the most significant progress being made in the treatment of lead poisoning. Investigations have also been reported in mercury poisoning, macroglobulinaemia, cystinosis and cystinuria. A final evaluation cannot yet be made, but this unusually interesting drug, as a research tool, is worthy of trial in all divalent heavy metal intoxications.

Further details on these and other clinical conditions in which experience has been gained will be gladly supplied upon request.

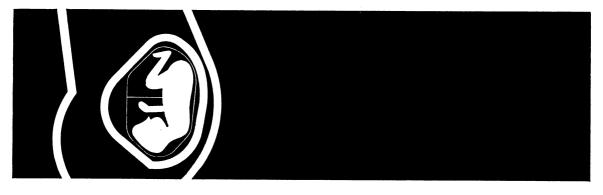

D (-) Penicillamine hydrochloride is available as capsules containing 150 mg. in packs of 100.

News and views on Glaxo products in Britain including new products Pregamal and Betnovate-C the Jexin syringe unit new pack for Ceporin progress with Glaxo baby foods

new product to prevent megaloblastic anaemia of pregnancy

Pregamal is carefully formulated to follow the widely accepted principle that pregnant women should receive folic acid supplements at physiological dose levels along with prophylactic iron. The folic acid content—100 micrograms per tablet—is calculated to provide adequate protection for the great majority of women without obscuring the blood picture of Addisonian pernicious anaemia. The ferrous iron content—65 mg per tablet—makes generous provision for the extra iron requirements of pregnancy; as ferrous fumarate it is very well tolerated. Pregamal Tablets are small and easy to swallow. At less than $1\frac{1}{2}$ d per patient per day—on the maximum recommended dosage—they provide a very valuable protection at a very economic cost.

wide-scope Betnovate

Chinoform adds to the range

You may have seen for yourself instances of the dramatic response that can be obtained with Betnovate (betamethasone 17-valerate) in all steroid-responsive dermatoses. You may also have used the preparations containing neomycin (Betnovate-N) whenever you saw or suspected the presence of bacterial infection. But sometimes you may have looked for a Betnovate preparation containing a chemical anti-infective agent rather than an antibiotic. If so, Betnovate-C was made for you.

Now available as Ointment and Cream, Betnovate-C contains 3% chinoform (iodochlorhydroxyquinoline) in addition to 0.1% betamethasone as 17-valerate. Besides providing you with an alternative to Betnovate-N, the new combination offers mild antifungal properties when required.

The Jexin syringe unit

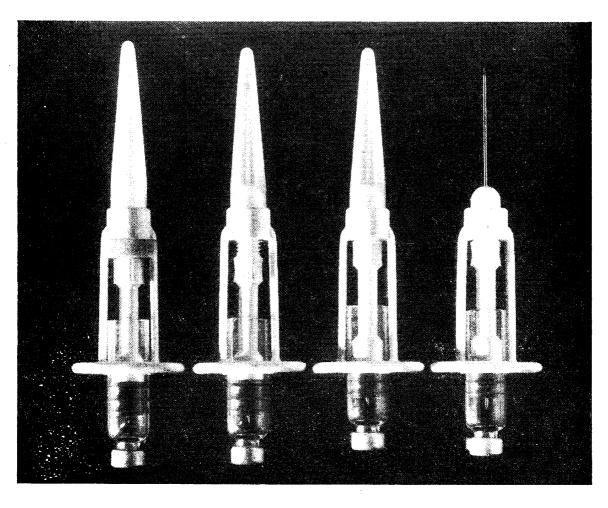

Have you seen the Jexin unit yet? It is a sterilised, ready-loaded and disposable syringe, developed by Glaxo to help make influenza vaccination as convenient, as quick and as safe as possible. Each unit holds one dose of Invirin, this year's Glaxo 'flu vaccine. Briefly, this is how it works (and it's very simple):—

1. Remove the coloured safety clip.

- 2. Screw central shaft towards the needle. (This will break the seal between the vaccine and the needle.)
- 3. Remove the needle cover.
- 4. Vaccinate. Presentation

New pack for Ceporin

Now available—a new 1 gram vial pack of Ceporin, the important bactericidal, broad-spectrum antibiotic from Glaxo. The introduction of this new pack means there are now three strengths available—Ceporin vials, each containing either 250 mg, 500 mg or 1 gram of cephaloridine. It will also mean of course greater convenience for all concerned, particularly when treating the more severe infections.

Progress with Glaxo baby foods

Glaxo baby foods have long been famous for the balanced nourishment they provide; and Ostermilk and Farex are names well known to mothers all over the world. Now this year, progressing with the times, Glaxo have made some important changes to their baby food range.

The Ostermilk formula has been improved, so that it now contains extra iron and the vitamins A and C in addition to D. Also with new Ostermilk, the fat separation has been reduced to the minimum so that a whole day's feeds may be mixed at one time, provided the bottles are kept in a refrigerator.

There's a new Farex cereal too, called Farex Rice Cereal. It has a delicious creamy flavour and provides the nourishment to be expected in Glaxo foods, with protein, carbohydrate, vitamins and minerals in nutritionally correct proportions.

Worried about serum cholesterol?

The association between elevated serum cholesterol levels and an increased liability to ischaemic heart disease is widely recognised. Yet serum cholesterol is but one facet in a highly complex disorder, and there are other factors no less important such as elevated triglyceride levels, increased platelet stickiness and plasma fibrinogen levels, and reduced fibrinolytic activity.

'ATROMID'-s has the ability to rectify these lipid and thrombotic deviations and for that reason it is gaining increasing attention as a valuable aid in an entirely new approach to the problems of coronary heart disease.

'ATROMID'—S is presented as red, soft gelatin capsules each containing 250 mg. clofibrate (ethyl 2-(p-chlorophenoxy)-2-methylpropionate). Average dosage is 8 capsules per day after meals.

PRODEXIN tablets give all the benefits of continuous intragastric drip therapy ¹ without any of its disadvantages.

The slow suck down tablets are specially formulated to give prolonged antacid buffer effect, unaffected by stomach emptying rate.₂

Immediate relief of pain is achieved by rapidly raising pH to 2 neutralising excess acid and controlling the acid secretion by slowly building up the pH to a desirable level of pH3.5 and pH4.5

DOSAGE:

For continuous therapeutic effect one tablet at a time should be sucked slowly. For peptic ulcer one or more tablets an hour.

Heinz Baby Foods provide an unequalled variety for baby's daily diet

An obvious advantage of Heinz Baby Foods—quite apart from their high nutritive value—is the extremely varied diet they offer.

Broths and soups, meat, fish, chicken, and cheese dishes; breakfast dishes; vegetables; fruits and puddings—69 varieties in all. It would be impossible for most mothers to provide such a varied diet.

Moreover, many fruits and vegetables are out of season for months at a time. Heinz have the added advantage that their fruit and vegetable dishes are available all the year round.

Thus that essential ingredient, variety, (often sketchy with home-prepared meals) is well provided for with Heinz.

In addition, Heinz high standards of cooking, quality, and hygiene are constant.

So in prescribing these infant foods, you are advising the mother a course of action which not only makes life easier for her, but is more nutritionally satisfactory for her child.

The Baby Foods come in two categories: Strained and Junior.

Strained, the first solids, are forced through a fine mesh sieve to remove any harsh fibres and to ensure easy digestibility.

The more advanced Junior Foods, finely chopped or minced, prepare the child for the coarser texture of adult foods.

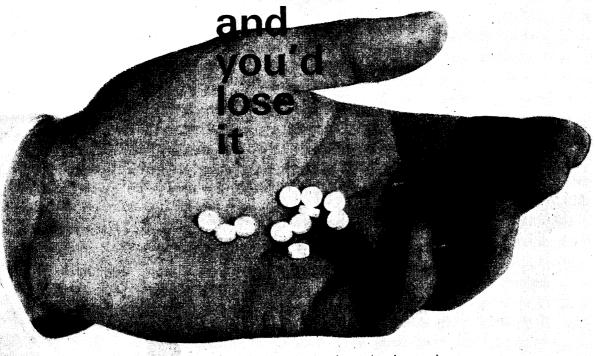

If you would like further information about

Heinz Strained and Junior Foods please write to: Foods Science, Advisory Service, H. J. Heinz Co. Ltd., Hayes Park, Hayes, Middlesex.

EFFECTIVE AND ECONOMICAL TREATMENT

RYBARVIN Inhalant used in the hand-operated RYBAR INHALER, having stood the test of time, continues to be most effective in the treatment of bronchial spasm.

The very small amount of inhalant often necessary to relieve an attack is worthy of note. Therapeutically this is of benefit to the patient in avoiding any side effects which might be brought about by taking too frequently a full measured dose. ECONOMICALLY the very low cost of treatment by Rybarvin, over 1500 average doses (½ minute) for 7/2d (1oz. bottle) i.e. 1/17d per dose, must be of interest to both patient and doctor.

and 'Eaton Agent' pneumonia

Enter the Mycoplasma pneumoniae

There was a story about a scientist who discovered a cure for which there was no known disease. Though it was only meant for a laugh, this is not wholly incongruous. Something quite similar has actually happened.

When LEDERMYCIN Demethylchlortetracycline was introduced in 1959, we had full confidence it would prove extremely effective in a host of acute and chronic infections due to a wide range of Grampositive and Gram-negative organisms. And it did. What we did not anticipate was that it would prove effective in pneumonia due to Mycoplasma pneumoniae.

The reason is simple: the disease itself was not invented—rather, it was not clearly defined—for another four years. Not until 1963 was enough known about it that the causative agent could be assigned a taxonomic designation.

Here are the principal links in the chain of events

1942 'Primary atypical pneumonia' officially established by the Surgeon General of the U.S. Army to distinguish nonbacterial pneumonias of unknown aetiology.

1944 'Eaton agent' isolated from pleural secretions of patients with nonbacterial pneumonia.

1957 'Eaton agent' definitely implicated as the cause of much primary atypical pneumonia.

1961 LEDERMYCIN Demethylchlortetracycline shown highly effective in "Eaton agent' pneumonia.

1962 'Eaton agent' identified as one of the so-called pleuropneumonia-like organisms (PPLO), already assigned the generic name Mycoplasma.

1963 Mycoplasma pneumoniae proposed as species name for 'Eaton agent'.

So, enter Mycoplasma pneumoniae.

And, as a corollary, exit 'Eaton agent'? Not necessarily. Familiar names often die hard.

Mycoplasma pneumoniae has ceased to be merely a clinical conversation piece. It is estimated that the newly-named organism may be responsible for as many as half of all hospitalized adult cases of pneumonia. It easily qualifies as a public health problem of some importance.

The recommended dosage for LEDERMYCIN in 'Eaton agent' pneumonia is 900 mg daily given as one 300 mg tablet T.I.D.

THE WORLD'S DIABETICS AND HOECHST

One of the biggest breakthroughs in medical history was the discovery and isolation of insulin. But daily injections remained, at best, a gross inconvenience for all diabetics until a drug was discovered with which more than a third of the world's diabetics could be treated. Hoechst have played an important part in this story.

Over the years diabetes has changed from an incurable and virtually untreatable disease almost to a problem of social education. Today, finding diabetics is as important as treating them: and for many of them that treatment is as simple as a couple of tablets a day. Once they are found it is difficult to get it across to diabetics that their condition is serious and that they must take certain precautions even though they may not feel ill. On the other hand, it is vital to reassure the patient already ill that treatment is possible and not as unpleasant as it used to be.

PANCREATIC EXTRACT

Hoechst have been associated with the diabetic problem since the beginning of the century. Discovery of the relationship between diabetes and the pancreas in 1889 prompted the search for an effective pancreatic extract. In 1910 Hoechst started to develop Zulzer's process for pancreatic extraction, but it was 1921 before the first high purity preparations were ready for clinical trial. In the same year Banting and Best made their famous discovery and isolated insulin.

1923

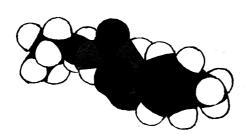

INSULIN PRESENTATION REFINED

In the succeeding years Hoechst continued their research on insulin. With the preparation of pure crystalline insulin, exact standardization became possible, and between 1938 and 1953 all the variants in insulin presentation so familiar to today's medical profession were developed: short-acting, long-acting, depot preparations, combinations of all sorts to suit all purposes and make life as easy as possible for the diabetic.

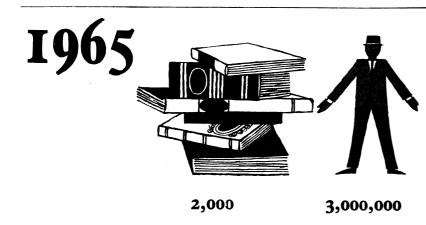

But still the curse of the daily injection had to be borne, and concurrently with insulin development research had been pursued to find a synthetic compound that could be taken orally.

Although the hypoglycaemic action of some sulphonamides had been known for years, all compounds tested proved too toxic until, in 1955, D 860 was synthesized in the research laboratories at Hoechst. Eight hundred and fifty-nine compounds had already been investigated and found wanting, mostly on grounds of toxicity. A drug which was to be taken by a patient every day for years had to be virtually harmless, and all the promising compounds were subjected to strict and extensive tests for safety. D 860, now known as tolbutamide and marketed as Rastinon by Hoechst, emerged as one truly safe drug.

RASTINON—ORAL ANTIDIABETIC

There was, inevitably, initial scepticism when Rastinon was first introduced. Now, after more than two thousand clinical papers have been published and three million patients are being treated, tolbutamide is the standard oral treatment for diabetes. More than a third of the world's diabetics can be satisfactorily treated with tolbutamide and relieved of the difficulties of daily insulin injections.

That isn't the end of the story. Since Rastinon was discovered, three thousand compounds have been synthesized in the incessant search to find even safer, even more useful drugs to help sufferers from diabetes. So far none of them has shown any significant advantage, and Rastinon is still going strong. But who knows what tomorrow will bring?

Ceporin injection of cephaloridine

antibiotic of choice for urinary tract infections

Ceporin is the antibiotic of choice in the treatment of urinary tract infections caused by most strains of both gram-positive and gram-negative organisms. It is almost entirely excreted by the kidneys and appears in the urine in high concentrations. In acute conditions the urine can be rendered sterile quickly and symptoms often subside rapidly. Ceporin is also valuable as cover before and after urinary tract surgery.

Other conditions Ceporin is the primary choice antibiotic for mixed infections and for organisms likely to be resistant to penicillin. Since there is no cross-sensitisation with penicillin or its derivatives, it is also indicated for patients allergic to penicillin. Other conditions include respiratory tract infections (excluding tuberculosis), meningitis, septicaemia, bacterial endocarditis and soft tissue infections.

Ceporin injections are remarkably painless and make the whole dose of the antibiotic available to the body.

Many acute infections will clear rapidly within 2 to 5 days. More chronic infections require longer treatment.

TO HELP YOUR PATIENT

The "Sidros Absorption Bridge" illustrates today's views on iron absorption. Iron is absorbed from the intestine only in its ferrous state. INDOCID

'Indocid' is a new, non-steroid antiinflammatory agent with analysesic and antipyretic properties, chemically unrelated to the corticosteroids, phenylbutazone-like compounds or salicylates.

Widespread clinical experience has shown that 'Indocid' rapidly relieves pain and inflammation, and allows greater mobility. In osteoarthritis, 'Indocid' is often effective where other agents are inadequate; it has given excellent results in osteoarthritis of the hip. In rheumatoid arthritis, objective evidence of effect may be seen as a measurable reduction of joint swelling. 'Indocid' has also proved effective in ankylosing spondylitis, gout and certain soft-tissue disorders.

ERYTHROCIN (erythromycin, Abbott) is the logical first-line treatment for most bacterial infections encountered in practice. It provides powerful yet safe coverage against the majority of causative organisms, leaving the broad spectrum antibiotics free for the specific cases in which they alone are effective.

POWER The potency of Erythrocin against the cocci is considerably more than that of tetracyclines or chloramphenicol.

SAFETY Erythrocin combines this effectiveness with a remarkable degree of safety. It is, in fact, the least toxic and least allergenic antibiotic currently in use.

COVERAGE Erythrocin is effective in over 80% of the common bacterial infections. Its wide clinical spectrum of activity covers: Most Gram-positive organisms—especially Staphylococci, Streptococci, Pneumococci, Clostridia and Corynebacteria. Gram-negative organisms such as Neisseria and most strains of Haemophilus influenzae.

By prescribing Erythrocin preparations by name you ensure that your patients receive erythromycin in safe, well-absorbed forms that produce effective blood levels rapidly.

... is based on the variation with temperature of the pressure of hydrogen gas kept at constant volume. In practice, certain reference temperatures are obtained by means of physical changes which take place under well-defined conditions at exactly repeatable temperatures, such as the freezing points of gold or silver, or the crystallization points of certain pure compounds.

The two fundamental points of the temperature scale are the temperatures of melting ice (0°) and of boiling water at standard pressure (100°). The interval between these two temperatures is divided into 100 parts; each part is called a Celsius degree (°C). By international decision made in 1948, the name Celsius replaced the centigrade.

Psoriasis...rapid response to Alphosyl... even in previously intractable cases. A patient of 48 who had a generalised psoriasis for 20 years was essentially clear in six weeks.² A girl of 10 with a strong familial history of psoriasis, cleared almost completely after three weeks' application of Alphosyl Cream.² These are just two typical cases from the extensive clinical records underlining Alphosyl's outstanding effectiveness in bringing psoriasis under control.

New Alphosyl lubricating cream. A new waterin-oil dosage form, Alphosyl Lubricating Cream is particularly significant in the treatment of the dry, extremely scaly psoriatic lesion confined to the small site and the intertriginous area. Alphosyl cream is especially helpful in clearing psoriatic plaques exposed to constant friction. By enhancing lubrication of the skin folds, it serves to lessen irritation and facilitate healing. Clearing is prompt, even in previously resistant cases. The effectiveness of Alphosyl in this form is attributable in large measure to its unique cream base. This consists of a combination of saturated and unsaturated free fatty acids, naturally occurring triglycerides and esters that resemble the lipoid constituents of normal healthy skin. The vehicle also contains hydrophylic-lipophilic bipolar substances which enhance the moisture uptake and retention of the amphoteric proteins of the stratum corneum. Significantly, it has been shown that squalane, one of the components of the base, is most effective in dissolving a cement substance in psoriatic scales.

Formula: Allantoin 2%+90% alcoholic extract of coal-tar (5=1) 5% in a vanishing type cream base or a smooth, non-greasy lotion base.

Vaginal infections are usually of mixed aetiology. For monilial vaginitis local Penotrane therapy is effective.

When trichomonas is the predominant organism an oral trichomonacide is indicated-

But if treatment ends there, coexistent monilial infection may flourish as the trichomonal infection fades.

Local measures are a necessary part of complete treatment.

STRONG PENOTRANE PESSARIES are effective against trichomonas, against monilia and against both gram-positive and gram-negative organisms.

The problem of the dirty mouth

Even in 1965 the dangers, and the unpleasantness, of the dirty mouth are still present in the post-operative period, as well as in many fevers; the geriatric patient being especially prone to them. Careful attention to oral hygiene will usually, of course, keep the patient comfortable and prevent complications. Such attention, however, is very time-consuming to the nurse; and it is not often realised that for most patients it can be replaced or supplemented by the use of chewing gum.

The regular use of chewing gum, by stimulating salivary flow, keeps the mouth clean in the most natural way possible. The patient is in a sense providing his own nursing care with the minimum of energy expenditure by himself.

Child patients, of course, need no encouragement to chew gum. The older patient may need encouraging—but not once he has appreciated the very obvious cleansing and refreshing effect that chewing gum has upon the mouth. Chewing gum is also of value to patients who are forbidden to smoke.

ANTIBIOTICS AND THE INTESTINAL FLORA

Treatment with broad spectrum antibiotics suppresses the normal flora, which may be replaced by abnormal resistant organisms causing diarrhoea.

This change can be prevented or reversed by the implantation of Lactobacillus acidophilus which has been rendered antibiotic-resistant, and is thus able to multiply freely under these abnormal conditions. The products of growth of the organism are inimical to that of many other bacteria¹² and thus contribute to its rapid preponderance over other species.

oral treatment with antibiotic-resistant L. acidophilus in the form of ENPAC has been shown to eliminate Candida from the faeces of infants with antibiotic-induced diarrhoea, with relief of symptoms succeeded by rapid gain in weight³ and greatly to reduce the numbers of staphylococci in the faeces of patients treated with tetracyclines.³

"an effective drug for treating angina pectoris"

Synadrin reduces the incidence of anginal attacks during long-term treatment by producing a prolonged improvement in the coronary blood supply. Its effectiveness is shown by a number of double blind studies,¹⁻⁷ and it is indicated in all forms of ischaemic heart disease.⁸⁻¹⁰ Synadrin tablets contain 15 mg. prenylamine lactate. Treatment is initiated with two tablets three times a day and this dose may be reduced as beneficial effects become apparent.
