

Spencer "Free Action" Support Brief for men

Spencer's revolutionary new concept of support in non-rubber, spandex elastic for back and abdomen.

Subtle in design to the degree of being mistaken for tailored, body-fitting underwear in the locker room, it actually provides powerful, functional support in elevating the viscera, thus relieving low back strain.

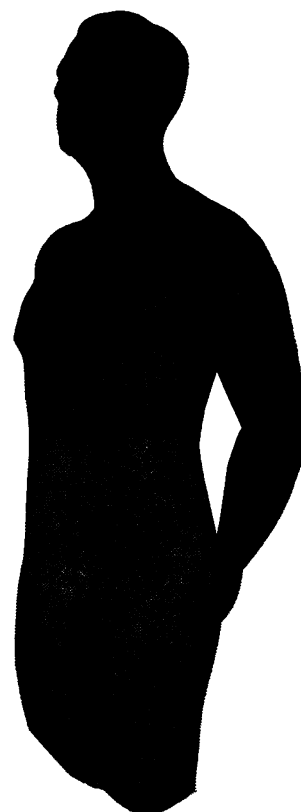

- ★ Front inner panels follow natural musculature.
- ★ Soft expansion areas at top edge and around legs allow motion and minimize bulging.
- ★ Comfortable, accommodating crotch section has easy access opening.

Patients have experienced relief from chronic low back pain while wearing the Support Brief.

We recommend this Brief for minor low back conditions and where it is considered beneficial to raise abdominal contents in aiding respiration, relieving ptosis, minimizing pooling of blood in lower abdomen, etc.

If she rejects support stockings

Supp-hose®
(they're sheer)

Only her face will show that she's wearing Supp-hose. Many women reject support stockings because they think that such a stocking is thick and unattractive. Consequently they are prepared to sacrifice their health for the sake of their appearance. But this is where Elbeo Supp-hose stockings have a tremendous advantage; they look scarcely any different from everyone else's nylon stockings. They are made in fashionable colours—seamed or seamfree. They are sheer, unbelievably sheer for the strong support they give. Yet they give as much relief as the thicker type of support stocking and are entirely acceptable from a medical point of view.

Medically beneficial. Made in nylon yarn, specially coiled, twisted and fixed before the stockings are knitted, Supp-hose stockings provide adequate compressive elastic support which is maintained over months of wear and washing. This makes them suitable for venous states of the lower extremities causing oedema and requiring elastic support. Supp-hose stockings will relieve, significantly, the symptoms associated with varicose veins, the post-phlebotic phenomenon or chronic venous insufficiency. Supp-hose can also be recommended to patients suffering from the condition termed 'tired legs', particularly during pregnancy.

Thousands of women are wearing Supp-hose stockings. Each year we receive dozens of enthusiastic testimonials. A report on clinical trials—and information about sizing—will gladly be sent on request. Write to Dept BM3, Elbeo House, Woodborough Road, Nottingham.

FURAMIDE provides the simplest safest and most effective treatment available at the present time for intestinal amoebiasis

Practical No injections, special diets or enemas are required. Furamide is suitable for ambulant patients.

Simple Dosage is simple—one tablet three times a day for ten days in patients of average weight.

Effective Cure rates of 75% to 80% in the acute stage and 90% to 100% in the chronic condition may be expected.

Safe Side-effects, apart from occasional flatulence, have not been reported, and the toxicity of Furamide is very low.

Inexpensive Furamide is less expensive than the drugs conventionally used in amoebiasis, and as hospitalisation is not normally necessary (unless the clinical condition of the patients warrants it) treatment with Furamide often shows a substantial saving compared with the older forms of therapy. Furamide has been the subject of extensive clinical trials in South America, South Africa and Asia. References and detailed literature will be gladly sent on request.

The problem of the dirty mouth

Even in 1966 the dangers, and the unpleasantness, of the dirty mouth are still present in the post-operative period, as well as in many fevers; the geriatric patient being especially prone to them. Careful attention to oral hygiene will usually, of course, keep the patient comfortable and prevent complications. Such attention, however, is very time-consuming to the nurse; and it is not often realised that for most patients it can be replaced or supplemented by the use of chewing gum.

The regular use of chewing gum, by stimulating salivary flow, keeps the mouth clean in the most natural way possible. The patient is in a sense providing his own nursing care with the minimum of energy expenditure by himself.

Child patients, of course, need no encouragement to chew gum. The older patient may need encouraging—but not once he has appreciated the very obvious cleansing and refreshing effect that chewing gum has upon the mouth. Chewing gum is also of value to patients who are forbidden to smoke.

Chronic bronchitis PENBRITIN helps him put up a better fight

By swiftly reducing both the quantity and purulence of the sputum, routine dosage Penbritin brings a rapid clinical response in the majority of patients: moreover clinical trials have shown these benefits to be more marked than those observed in patients on tetracycline therapy. The success of this regimen (250mg. four times daily for one week or more) can be attributed to Penbritin's higher activity against the causative organisms, H. influenzae and pneumococci.

In addition, severely disabled patients, including those with extensive bronchiectasis and cases whose sputum is winter-long purulent despite other antibiotic therapy, may gain unprecedented relief from a short course of high dosage Penbritin. In published trials on this regimen (1 gram four times daily for one week or more) infection was cleared in the majority of patients, and subsequent freedom from exacerbation for up to 16 weeks was reported.

BECAUSE of its Specific Activity

Broxil is highly bactericidal to the majority of these organisms, destroying them without disrupting the normal intestinal flora.

BECAUSE of its High Blood Levels

Broxil gives blood levels double those achieved by penicillin V and at least as high as Intramuscular injections of penicillin G.

instant buffer antacid

AN OUTSTANDINGLY DIFFERENT AND MORE EFFECTIVE TREATMENT

Just two things interest the chronic sufferer. He wants the pain to go, and stay gone. And if both results can be achieved with an antacid that tastes pleasant and is needed in lesser quantity than he's used to, he's going to be very grateful indeed.

Glymaxil, the only soluble buffer antacid, can promise exactly this. In clinical practice Glymaxil has been shown 'significantly more effective' in relieving pain and 'significantly more palatable' than aluminium hydroxide. Glymaxil, the first antacid chelate, acts faster and buffers more acid for longer periods in the ideal pH range 3-5 than other commonly used antacids.

A very agreeable treatment

By suppressing pain promptly Glymaxil gives the nervously-inclined patient a sense of reassurance, itself highly beneficial. Taken in small doses (1-2 teaspoonfuls) and tasting pleasantly of peppermints it is also a most agreeable and convenient liquid antacid—one that will make his symptoms a great deal easier to live with.

Dosage One or two teaspoonfuls as required. Not more than 120ml. (one bottle) of Glymaxil should be consumed in any 24 hour period.

Presentation Bottles of 120ml. containing 40% w/v sodium glucaldrate.

are the main group considered for dialysis, but as the number of dialysis units increases other groups may be considered. From being just an interesting experiment, intermittent dialysis has now become an established advance in therapy in only a few years. The problem now is to find the money—and particularly the staff—to provide this service to the large group of patients who might benefit from it.

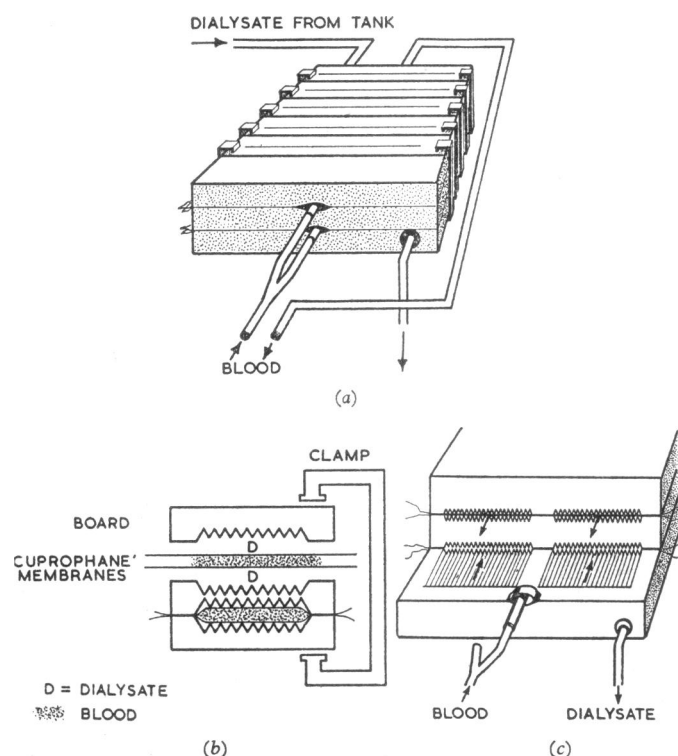

FIG. 6 (a).—A two-layer Kiil artificial kidney. This is a "flat plate" type of kidney, which is assembled sterile before use from the boards and membranes. These are clamped together in a stack. (b) The surface area is 1.2 sq. metre but it needs only 75 ml. of saline for priming the boards. Blood flows along the membrane through the kidney while the dialysate flows in the opposite direction in grooves in the kidney boards (c).

Development in this field has been rapid and will continue. The Kiil kidney is very clumsy, and more compact models can be expected. Home dialysis is under investigation and is promising for some patients. Chronic peritoneal dialysis is being tried at the moment, but the problem of repeated access to the peritoneum has not yet been solved.

Renal Transplantation

At present a mood of cautious optimism is reasserting itself in transplantation, which is potentially the most useful treatment for chronic renal failure. The surgical problems of transplanting the kidney, though not small, have now been solved. The problem is the body's violent rejection of any tissue recognizable as foreign. Two sources of kidneys are available.

(1) Live donors, who may be divided into close relatives (father, mother, brother, or sister), and distant relatives or non-relatives.

(2) Cadaver kidneys, removed as soon as possible after death. To these may be added the possibility of heterotransplanted kidneys from other species—for example, apes.

The patient's condition must be rendered normal by dialysis before transplantation; he may be very ill and will require a minimum of 4–6 dialyses. During and after the operation an attempt is made to suppress the rejection of the transplanted kidney. This usually takes the form of continuous immunosuppressive therapy by drugs—the ones most commonly used being azathioprine ("Imuran") and prednisolone. If rejection is likely or actual immunosuppression is reinforced with more prednisolone or actinomycin. Other methods include splenectomy and thymectomy at the time of transplantation and irradiation. It is very important to recognize the signs of clinical rejection early: perhaps the most useful is an increased excretion of white cells in the urine.

Analysis of survivors from renal transplantation, and of tissue antibodies developed in persons who have been transfused or received a graft, indicates that the major antigens by which tissue is "recognized" and rejected are small in number—probably only two or three. The major problem in transplantation is how to develop techniques by which individual donors and recipients can be "matched" with respect to their antigens to increase the chances of a successful graft. If the major antigen groups are compatible then immunosuppression can cope with the weaker antibodies.

This is illustrated by the much better survival of live-donor grafts from close relatives than grafts from others. Up to 75% of grafts from close relatives survive for one year, and 60% for two years or more after operation and will probably continue. Survival of grafts from other live donors is no better than that of cadaver grafts (40%), and hence the former type of graft is probably no longer justified in view of the sacrifice involved.

The second major problem in transplantation is the preservation of organs. At the moment transplantation of a cadaver kidney is followed by a variable period of acute renal failure before the graft begins to function. In contrast a liver-donor kidney should begin to work immediately. Techniques are needed to preserve organs in a fresh viable state for subsequent use at a time determined by the surgeon and not by the fortuitous death of a donor.

At the moment it is impossible to say what the relation between chronic dialysis and transplantation as alternative treatments will be. A small proportion of patients are unsuitable for transplantation and will probably remain so—for example, those with renal failure due to malformed urinary tracts or to severe autoimmune disease such as systemic lupus erythematosus.

Though the advances made in the treatment and palliation of terminal renal failure are impressive, it must not be overlooked that we are dealing with the end results of prolonged and often silent renal disease. The satisfaction of maintaining life in a small number of patients with renal failure should not distract us from the ultimate problems: the early diagnosis and prevention of juvenile pyelonephritis and the nature of glomerulonephritis in all its forms.

CORTROPHIN-ZN LONG ACTING ACTH

Incorporating a NEW Phosphate Modification for maximum duration of effect with greatest ease of administration

It is a fine aqueous suspension with an even distribution of particles to ensure even dosage.

The suspension is free-running at room temperature and can easily be injected through the finest needles.

The period of effective adrenal stimulation is prolonged by absorbing the ACTH on to colloidal zinc hydroxide—now with the addition of colloidal zinc phosphate. The duration of activity bears a direct relationship to dosage, the higher doses of Cortrophin-ZN producing adrenocortical activity into the third day.

Indications (1) Rheumatoid arthritis.
(2) Bronchial asthma.
(3) Other conditions requiring an anti-inflammatory effect.
(4) To facilitate withdrawal of corticosteroid therapy.

Dosage Initially 40-80 i.u. daily, subcutaneously or intramuscularly. When symptoms are controlled frequency of injection should be reduced to twice or three times weekly, according to individual requirements.

Packing Vials of 5 ml. containing either 20 i.u. or 40 i.u. per ml. Cortrophin-ZN complies with the specifications for Corticotrophin Zinc Hydroxide Injection B.P.

"don't worry"

Such simple reassurance is often tendered to the chronic sick, but the doctor knows that patients do worry about chronic illness and its uncertainties, about the possibility of protracted invalidism. This pre-occupation can lead to frank depression, and the depression requires treatment.

'Tryptizol' has been shown to be valuable in all forms of depression. In addition, it has an intrinsic tranquillising effect on the anxiety and tension so often associated with depression.

Why do Heinz pack baby foods in cans and jars ?

It is entirely a question of mother's convenience. Some mothers prefer jars because they allow the contents to be seen and are easier to open.

Jars also have the advantage that lids can be replaced when only a portion of the food has been used, though this does not mean that the contents will keep any longer than in an opened can.

Most mothers prefer the cans because they are more economical and there is no risk of breakage, nor of the contents deteriorating through exposure to light.

Choice in packs, choice in sizes and choice of 75 varieties—these are just some of the ways Heinz answer mothers' varied needs.

BRONCHITIS-ASTHMA-EMPHYSEMA

Clinical evidence confirms that this new theophylline-niacinamide complex achieves rapid therapeutic blood levels for faster dilation of the bronchioles and substantial improvement in vital capacity in most cases of chronic bronchitis, asthma and emphysema.

Significant Treatment Advantages:

The unique Anaphylline complex is a loose bonding of theophylline and niacinamide which affords a soluble theophylline through all pH ranges. No more ionization of theophylline salts with precipitation of the theophylline in the acid of the stomach. Now direct immediate absorption of the theophylline complex for faster, higher and longer blood levels.

* MORE RAPID ABSORPTION FOR QUICKER PATIENT RESPONSE

Evidence from clinical trials indicates that Anaphylline achieves therapeutic blood levels faster than theophylline salts and within 15 minutes of oral administration.

* MORE PROLONGED BLOOD LEVELS FOR SUSTAINED RELIEF

Rapid, initial blood levels achieved are followed by a steady, sustained rise reaching peak achievement at 60 minutes, with gradual, but uniform decline thereafter.

* SUPERIOR PATIENT TOLERANCE

Achievement of these blood levels is not accompanied by any increase in the side-effects normally associated with theophylline treatment.

INDICATIONS

For use as a bronchodilator to control the symptoms of chronic bronchitis, chronic asthma, emphysema and other pulmonary disorders.

DOSAGE:

Adults 1 to 2 tablets to be taken 3 or 4 times daily, preferably after meals. (Children 6-12 yrs., half to 1 tablet.)

FORMULA

Theophylline-Niacinamide complex containing 100 mg. theophylline and 150 mg. niacinamide in single tablet form.

Galaton and Delexin

These two new Wander products give effective relief in the cough and bronchospasm common to many acute and chronic respiratory disorders.

GALATON combines a time-proved cough suppressant (codeine phosphate) with an effective bronchodilator (phenylpropanolamine). It relieves dry, unproductive cough and wheezing in many respiratory disorders—including acute bronchitis, chronic bronchitis and emphysema, bronchial asthma and pertussis. Galaton is particularly helpful in relieving the distressing night-time cough that disturbs sleep.

DELEXIN combines a powerful expectorant (guaiphenesin)—which liquefies tenacious, viscous sputum—with the bronchodilator and vasoconstrictor effects of phenylpropanolamine. Indications include acute tracheitis, acute bronchitis, chronic bronchitis and emphysema, and the respiratory complications of infectious diseases.

Surgery—contd. on p. xlv

Before you commit yourself to a practice, work 3 or 5 years in the R.A.F.

You'll do some interesting, out-of-the-rut medicine, see a bit of the world, live well, and 'retire' with up to £3,000, tax free.

Your first job in the R.A.F. would probably be junior M.O. at a Station: rather like being an 'Assistant with a view'. In a typical case you could be one of two doctors with, between you, 1500 to 2500 people to take care of, and your own 'cottage hospital' with wards, theatre and laboratory, and secretarial as well as nursing staff.

You'd have a shorter list than a civilian G.P., and to this extent you would live a less strenuous life. To compensate, you would give much more comprehensive care. It is this—and the variety of your work—that makes practice in the R.A.F. so interesting.

In the R.A.F. you combine several functions. You are in medical care not only of people, but of the environment they live in, and of the work they do. In proportion you do less curative work and more preventive work than is even possible for most civilian doctors.

A lot of people hold the view that this is the way all medicine should be practised—with the closest possible integration of the doctor and the community.

This is the choice you face

Think of two doctors, both aged 40. One went to his practice straight from his teaching hospital, and has been there ever since. The other went into the R.A.F. on a 5-year commission. He lived —and lived well—in the tropics with his family for 2½ years and, on leave or on duty, visited 7 countries: two European, three Asiatic, and two Australasian. By now he's been in civilian practice for 10 years; he's as well established as the other doctor. But which of the two has got more out of life, and has the richer memories to look back upon?

In many ways, the transition from hospital into the R.A.F. seems more 'natural' than the movement to civilian practice. You go from one community to another—and they have much in common: both are young, cheerful, energetic, rather self-contained—and at the same time very professional, with a marked sense of purpose. If you can feel, now, that you are going to miss Medical School—think about the R.A.F. Service life would probably be 'right' for you.

The time for bold decisions is when you are young and free

Today, because you are at the beginning of your career, you can take a short time out from the main stream of civilian practice just by deciding to do it.

Now, you are free to go. In a few years time, you probably won't be.

You'll have a practice 'with your name on it'; children who want a permanent home to strike root in; and soon. It will be time for you to settle down.

Meanwhile, at the parting of the ways, you have this chance. Now is the time to find out about it.

The address to write to is: Wing Commander D. G. M. Hills, O.B.E., M.B., B.S., D.P.H., R.A.F., Ministry of Defence (M.A.I./724EE10), 1-6 Tavistock Square, London, W.C.1. Please give your age and qualifications.

Medical cadetships. Commissions as a cadet are available to students who have passed second M.B. (or equivalent). Initially your basic pay would be £630 p.a. Appropriate R.A.F. allowances, examination and tuition fees are paid in addition. You would continue to live and work as a medical student and when fully registered you would start work in the R.A.F. as a doctor in the rank of Flight Lieutenant on a five year short service commission. Further information may be obtained from the above address.

Remove the fear of painful defaecation

Pain caused by hard, dry stools can be a distressing aspect of constipation. Discomfort leads to retention and, in turn, overloading of the rectum. But if—as with Dorbanex—treatment is directed at softening the stool and stimulating colonic peristalsis, the cycle of pain-retention-accumulation is broken. Defaecation is comfortable; anxiety is allayed; and the bowel is helped back to normal function.

Because Dorbanex contains the laxative 1:8 dihydroxyanthraquinone, plus a new faecal softening agent, poloxalkol, it both softens and mobilises the stool. This dual action is invaluable in patients with anal fissures or haemorrhoids, and in obviating straining—an important consideration in elderly or cardiac patients.

Disadvantages of laxative treatment, such as unpredictability, griping, leakage, or interference with gastro-intestinal function, do not arise with Dorbanex. Especially appreciated by patients old, young or pregnant are its advantages of small dosage (1 or 2 teaspoonfuls at bedtime,  $\frac{1}{2}$  to 1 teaspoonful for children) and palatability.

Each teaspoonful (5ml.) of Dorbanex contains 25mg. 1:8 dihydroxyanthraquinone and 200mg. poloxalkol.

Basic NHS prices: 60ml. bottle, 4/-; 500ml. bottle, 30/-.

dual-acting DORBANEX softens the stool then gently evacuates the constipated bowel
