msd research discovers the diuretics...

...YOU HAVE THE CHOICE

'Saluric' and 'HydroSaluric'

when a plain thiazide is required

In the long-term oral treatment of oedema, 'Saluric' and 'HydroSaluric' hold notable records of effectiveness and reliability. Acting smoothly and predictably, these standard thiazides have been prescribed with confidence in hospital and general practice for a number of years.

'HydroSaluric'-K

when a potassium supplement is indicated

'HydroSaluric'-K provides smooth, predictable diuresis and also a measure of insurance against hypopotassaemia—of particular importance where the diet may be inadequate, or where the patient is on digitalis therapy.

'Edecrin' the most recent advance in diuretic therapy

when a more potent diuretic is required

The most recent discovery is 'Edecrin', representing an entirely new class of oral diuretic. 'Edecrin' often produces a diuresis in patients refractory to all other diuretics, and in some cases has been life-saving.

'In most cases the increased potency of ethacrynic acid ['Edecrin'] was reflected in a response from previously resistant patients or by a better response without troublesome side-effects.' Brit.med.J., 1965, 2, 732 (25 Sep)

Slow-K

potassium chloride 600 mg

the evidence summarised

Slow-K tablets, introduced to meet the demand for an acceptable and reliable means of administering a separate supplement of potassium, have recently been described as 'the only satisfactory method of giving potassium by mouth.'<sup>1</sup> Examination of the evidence available relating to the acceptability, efficacy and relative safety of current methods of supplementation certainly seems to substantiate this claim.

A moderate degree of natural supplementation is of course possible by the incorporation of additional potassium-rich foods in the diet, but most patients at risk, and especially those undergoing prolonged or intensive diuretic therapy, require a more positive safeguard—the administration of supplementary potassium as the chloride. Although effervescent potassium tablets may be palatable and well tolerated, the use of salts such as citrate, tartrate and bicarbonate tends to intensify any alkalosis caused by chloride loss during thiazide diuresis, and so to perpetuate potassium loss.<sup>2</sup> The value of any potassium gained from oral intake is thus lost through immediate wastage in the urine. Except where there is a deficiency of bicarbonate ion, as in renal tubular acidosis, or hyperchloraemic or other metabolic acidosis, the logical and most appropriate salt to use is potassium chloride.<sup>3</sup>

Plain potassium chloride, in tablet or solution form, is unfortunately not only extremely unpalatable, but irritant, and causes nausea and gastro-intestinal disturbances. While enteric-coated tablets may avoid irritation in the stomach, not only is the subsequent release of the contents from such formulations extremely variable<sup>4</sup>, but their use may introduce a grave risk of causing intestinal ulceration* if rapid disintegration of the coat should suddenly expose a small area of mucosa to a high concentration of irritant salt.<sup>5</sup>

release core within a sugar coating, developed five years ago and designed to release the salt gradually from an inert wax matrix during transit through the alimentary tract. Laboratory studies have shown that complete release from these tablets takes place over a period of 4–5 hours, in contrast to some 15–20 minutes for enteric-coated tablets.<sup>6</sup> The risk of producing a localised high concentration of potassium chloride in the gut is thus avoided. (In animal studies, whereas intestinal ulceration similar to that occurring in man was rapidly provoked by enteric-coated potassium chloride tablets, none was demonstrable following administration of a Slow-K formulation.)<sup>7</sup>

Moreover, clinical metabolic studies have shown that all the potassium chloride released from Slow-K tablets is absorbed from the gut—changes in faecal potassium content following administration are negligible, demonstrating that no faecal wastage occurs.<sup>8</sup>

To summarise—Slow-K seems to have all the properties of the ideal potassium supplement, judged by the criteria of ease of administration, acceptability, good toleration, efficacy and relative safety; a cogent reason for preferring this formulation to any other now available, and sufficient justification for stating, 'Slow-K is the only satisfactory method of giving potassium by mouth'.

Slow-K may be administered whenever potassium supplementation is necessary. During diuretic therapy a ratio of one 600mg tablet to each diuretic tablet will usually suffice, but requirements will vary according to individual needs. In general 2–5 Slow-K tablets (16–40 mEq K+) daily or on alternate days will be adequate.

Slow-K is also available combined with the standard diuretic hydrochlorothiazide as Esidrex K, and with the potent and economical diuretic cyclopenthiiazide as Navidrex K.

*Symptoms or signs which might indicate ulceration or obstruction of the small bowel in patients taking tablets or capsules containing potassium salts are indications for stopping treatment with such preparations immediately.

The bloodless revolution in hypovolaemic shock therapy

It would appear on first sight that shock, following blood loss, is best remedied by equivalent blood replacement. Of course, we now know that this concept is by no means true. Blood transfusions always carry risks—disease transmission, infection, incompatibility. The use of blood in nearly every minor haemorrhage is unnecessary and wasteful. Even with gross blood loss and shock, the need for immediate, adequate volume replacement cannot await blood grouping and crossmatching. 'The routine use of blood during anaesthetic and surgical procedures cannot be justified'.<sup>1</sup>

But how satisfactory are the alternatives, plasma, crystalloids or colloids?

Plasma requires to be mixed and is even more liable to transmit disease especially hepatitis ('The quantity of infected plasma that can transmit hepatitis may be as little as one millionth of a millilitre<sup>2</sup>'). Its volume effect is often lacking. Crystalloids have virtually no value as volume expanders. A macromolecular colloid for volume replacement, dextran, is preferable—if it is of the correct molecular weight; neither so small that it is below the renal threshold and excreted too swiftly, nor so large that it may cause unwanted side effects, e.g. bleeding complications, interference with blood typing and crossmatching.

MACRODEX is the macromolecular colloid of choice. It has the correct molecular weight. Its specific and meticulously checked average molecular weight of 70,000 corresponds closely to that of albumin, the protein responsible for 80% of the colloid osmotic pressure of the human plasma. MACRODEX allows immediate therapy by providing adequate and lasting volume replacement.

'The infusion of macromolecular solutions does not involve as many hazards as blood transfusion. They should be selected for volume replacement when there is no clear indication that the oxygen transport of the blood is being compromised by lack of red cells'.<sup>1</sup> Naturally, where there is a need for an increase in red cells, the patient will be given a blood transfusion. However, MACRODEX will support the circulation and maintain the blood volume until the blood arrives. In most cases of hypovolaemic shock, the volume deficit is not so severe. MACRODEX provides the swiftest and often the only therapy necessary—sparing precious blood for patients whose lives may be at stake for the want of it and also as the initial replacement reducing the hazards and costs of blood transfusion to the lowest level possible.

...Medihaler-iso Forte gives relief in seconds

Fast profound relief of bronchospasm is within reach of the patient with Medihaler-iso Forte—in bronchitis as in asthma. Two recent reports have confirmed its exceptional speed and degree of relief. In one trial<sup>1</sup>, Medihaler-iso Forte gave faster and greater relief than the two other pocket aerosols with which it was compared: at 3 to 5 minutes after inhalation Medihaler-iso Forte produced an average improvement in peak expiratory flow rate of 47 per cent, 18 per cent higher than the next best preparation. In the second trial<sup>2</sup> it was the fastest-acting of six pocket aerosols. In yet another trial<sup>3</sup> a single inhalation from Medihaler-iso Forte had greater effect than 5 mg. of isoprenaline inhaled over three minutes from an oxygen-powered nebuliser.

These reports confirm that fast profound relief of bronchospasm is within reach of the patient with Medihaler-iso Forte. In the acute attack it is a most effective and convenient treatment. ## you need 'Ilosone' in the forward line

'Ilosone' excels as a first-line treatment for acute upper respiratory tract and bronchopulmonary infections of bacterial origin.

'Ilosone' is effective against a wide range of infections, but it is much more active than the tetracyclines against Gram-positive cocci – by far the commonest pathogens of the respiratory tract. Unlike the tetracyclines, however, 'Ilosone' has extremely low toxicity, virtually no sensitising potential – and it has negligible effect on the normal bacteria of the gut.

By selecting 'Ilosone' as your first-line treatment you ensure a rapid response in most cases – with much less risk of complications.

The first penicinate

After world-wide evaluation, Bristol Laboratories introduces a new advanced bactericidal broad-spectrum antibiotic—hetacillin, Versapen.

For the first time, the basic 6-aminopenicillanic acid has been substituted in such a way as to produce a new chemical entity—the first penicinate. In such a drug, the amino nitrogen of 6-APA has been incorporated into a ring structure. Hetacillin is called a penicinate whether in the form of a salt such as the potassium salt or in the form of its free acid. More precisely, a penicinate is a 6- (5-oxo-1-imidazolidinyl) penicillanate.

Initially, Versapen was proved in the laboratory to possess bactericidal activity against a wide range of Gram-positive and Gram-negative organisms while the potential for toxicity remained very low. Now, in the hands of practising physicians, Versapen has been shown to be effective in patients with a wide variety of common infections. The low incidence of side-effects favours Versapen over many other broad-spectrum antibiotics.

Versapen is clinically outstanding:
93.4% cured or improved

Among more than 1500 patients with infections caused by beta-haemolytic streptococci, the frequently resistant enterococci, Escherichia coli, Diplococcus pneumoniae, Proteus mirabilis, Haemophilus influenzae and many other Gram-positive and Gram-negative organisms, clinical results of oral Versapen therapy were excellent.

Because of the wide range of bacteria involved, these results indicate that Versapen will be useful in almost all types of general and hospital practice.

Broad-spectrum and bactericidal

The range of antibacterial activity of Versapen is comparable to other broad-spectrum antibiotics, including chloramphenicol and the tetracyclines. But, unlike these essentially bacteriostatic agents, Versapen is bactericidal. Common bacterial invaders are eradicated not just inhibited.

Well tolerated and rarely causes side-effects

Haematopoietic and hepatic investigations reveal that Versapen is safe: no significant reactions have been reported. Note: Hetacillin shares with the penicillins a potential for producing allergic reactions.

Extended blood levels

Antibacterial serum levels of Versapen are unusually prolonged. After a 250 mg. dose, bactericidal blood concentrations are preserved up to 6 hours and levels are detectable up to 8 hours. The patient benefits from constant bactericidal action. Usual adult dosage is 1 or 2 capsules four times per day.

Versapen is best given before or between meals. Presentation: 250 mg. capsules, bottles of 20, 100 and 500.

needs in general practice

With the introduction of HAVAPEN* (penamecillin) Wyeth research in Britain has now made t.d.s. penicillin therapy a reality. HAVAPEN is resistant to inactivation by gastric acid and just one tablet every eight hours ensures reliably effective blood levels of penicillin G—still the most effective antibiotic against the majority of infections you see in General Practice. Thus HAVAPEN ensures real overnight protection for your patients and minimises the risks of missed or forgotten doses. Each HAVAPEN tablet contains 350 mg. penamecillin equivalent to 510,000 units penicillin G. In bottles of 100.

CANDEPTIN specific therapy for vaginitis caused by Candida albicans.

Swift symptomatic relief<sup>1</sup> and decisive resolution of infection<sup>2</sup>—these are proven benefits of Candeptin in the treatment of monilial vaginitis. Candida albicans—the usual cause of infection—is particularly sensitive to this new fungicidal antibiotic.

Laboratory studies<sup>3</sup> have shown that Candeptin inhibits Candida albicans—even after two days incubation—at the remarkably low concentration of 0.05 mcg/ml. Under the same circumstances nystatin had to be used at 5 mcg/ml to achieve inhibition.

Equally remarkable results have been achieved in clinical practice.<sup>1,2,3</sup> Of 190 women, both pregnant and non-pregnant, 173 were cured after a single course of treatment. A further 14 responded to a second course.

THE QUEEN'S AWARD TO INDUSTRY

It is with a sense of honest pride of achievement that The British Drug Houses Limited, the main subsidiary of B.D.H. Group Limited, announces that The Queen's Award to Industry, 1967, has been conferred on the company.

This distinction has been earned, not on one, but on both the basic criteria laid down for the Award.

* First the company was granted the Award in the area of technological innovation for the discovery and exploitation, at home and overseas, of its products Dimethisterone and Megestrol Acetate. These progestational steroid compounds are the bases of the B.D.H. oral contraceptives, Volidan* and Serial 28,* and are of material benefit to mankind in providing effective methods of population control. They are, moreover, the only steroid compounds discovered in Britain for use in oral contraceptives.

* Secondly, and in parallel, the company gained the Award for its exports of B.D.H. laboratory chemicals across the world.

In announcing its success, the company is at the same time very sensitive of the constant co-operation it receives from members of the medical and pharmaceutical professions who are in the forefront in the service of humanity.

helps preserve vital function through protection at the cellular level

Inflammatory reaction at the cellular level. Cells die, disintegrate, release cytotoxins, initiating a self-perpetuating wave of cell injury and death.

Inhibition of inflammation at the cellular level by corticosteroids. Cells assume a stable, morphological form—a form resistant to cytotoxins. The wave of cell injury and death is halted.

Chronic inflammation may proceed through a self-perpetuating wave of cell injury and death to granulation, fibrosis, scarring and loss of vital tissue function. Medrone, by suppressing basic inflammatory mechanisms at the cellular level, is capable of preserving vital tissue function.

Lyndiol 2-5

is only marginally better than other oral contraceptives...

The physician, trained to make rational choices, faces a problem when he comes to The Pill, for he knows that as far as the combined oral contraceptives are concerned all are virtually 100% effective.

He looks then for other significant differences. First of these is the incidence of side-effects. (The latest data from the F.P.A. show that Lyndiol 2.5 is substantially free from side-effects).

Price is another factor, especially as the acceptability of the oral contraceptive idea spreads down the socio-economic scale to those families who perhaps need contraception most and can afford it least. (Lyndiol 2.5 offers the most reasonable price-to-patient).

And he considers patient reliability – which dosage scheme will be easiest to follow? (Lyndiol 2.5's 'fixed day' routine means simply that if a patient starts on, say, a Friday, she finishes three weeks later on a Friday and begins her new course on the following Friday).

Pack : wallet of 22 tablets (one month's supply).

Formula : each tablet contains 2.5 mg lynestrenol,

LONDON BOROUGH OF CAMDEN

STAFF HEALTH SERVICE

SENIOR MEDICAL OFFICER
(OCCUPATIONAL MEDICINE)

This progressive local health authority requires a senior medical officer to organize and run a staff health service under general direction of the Medical Officer of Health.

The service is to be designed to protect and promote the health of 5,000 persons employed by the Borough Council. The doctor appointed will also be expected to advise the Medical Officer of Health on problems in the field of occupational medicine occurring anywhere in the Borough. This post offers good opportunities for research in the field of occupational medicine because of the wide range of occupations that will be covered by the service, and also because the medical department has close links with nearby teaching hospitals and medical schools. Possession of D.P.H. or D.I.H. desirable but the main considerations in making this appointment will be previous experience and future interests. Salary scale, £2,090 to £2,855. Starting point depends on experience. Essential car user allowance. Application forms (quoting reference STA), obtainable from Town Clerk (B.M.), Town Hall, Euston Road, N.W.1. Closing date May 31. (15312)

Ministry of Health PRINCIPAL MEDICAL OFFICER (International Health)

The Principal Medical Officer will take charge of a section responsible for international health matters, including the health aspects of port and airport control. The appointment is London based but will involve some travel abroad.

Candidates (men or women) must be registered medical practitioners with experience in international health either in field work or in central administration. Experience in epidemiology (including that of diseases not normally found in the U.K.) or in the operation of International Sanitary Regulations or in the organization of medical care in the U.K. or abroad would be of particular value. Ability to speak one or more European languages is highly desirable.

Salary £4,910: non-contributory pension scheme.

Fuller details of this appointment may be obtained, without obligation, by writing to the Civil Service Commission, 23 Savile Row, London W.1, quoting 6668/AM/2. Closing date May 10, 1967. (15140)

Straight or Rotating Internship in Queen's University teaching hospital, 300 beds, with all major services represented. Salary of $3,400 with $720 living allowance. Start June through to September, 1967. Apply the Internship Committee. (H.5453)

ZAMBIA FLYING DOCTOR SERVICE

Based on Ndola in the Copperbelt this service operates to remote areas of Zambia, using professionally flown twin-engined aircraft and a ground radio network. Each airstrip clinic is visited regularly several times a week.

Applications are invited from doctors.

- Duties:
1. To carry out regular clinics at Bush airstrips. This is much the greater portion of the work.
  2. To accompany the aircraft on emergency patient evacuation flights.
  3. To give assistance and advice over the radio network when appropriate.

Seriously ill patients with medical complaints are treated at the clinics where there is provision for their accommodation. Patients with serious surgical diagnoses are flown to hospital so that the doctors with the service are not required to do major surgery. Of the patients attending the clinics 49% are children.

Research: This is an essential part of the service and funds are available for this purpose. The opportunities are great as the service operates in areas which have not previously had any medical facilities.

Terms: Six-month appointments with return air fare for one person paid by the service. Salary of £1,000 for the six months period paid in six equal monthly instalments of approximately £166. Fully furnished accommodation provided in Ndola at economic rental.

A second return fare could be loaned to applicant and deducted from salary. Fourteen days holiday.

The posts may interest doctors who have just finished their pre-registration year, or more senior people who would like the opportunity to do some work and research in Zambia, possibly on the basis of leave of absence from their existing U.K. appointments.

Anyone interested is asked to write to:

Dr. James Lawless,
Flying Doctor Service,
P.O. Box 1856, NDOLA,
Zambia.

Interviews will be arranged in Britain or Zambia.

Nulacin and only Nulacin provides intragastric milk-alkali drip therapy for the ambulant patient

"In view of the ineffectiveness of most of the tableted antacids, the milk-alkali tablet (Nulacin) would appear to be the antacid of choice for ambulatory therapy."

Safe, Simple, Effective

NULACIN TABLETS provide a safe, simple and effective treatment of peptic ulcer.

In treating peptic ulcer a Ryle's tube may be passed through the nose and into the oesophagus and a mixture of milk and antacid allowed to flow continuously over the affected area. This form of therapy can only be employed in those patients who are in bed and for the ambulant patient Nulacin tablets are preferable. Nulacin tablets are prepared from whole milk combined with dextrans and maltose, together with the trisilicate, oxide and carbonate of magnesium and calcium carbonate. Nulacin tablets when allowed to dissolve slowly in the mouth provide milk-alkali drip therapy. In fact, Nulacin tablets have revolutionized the treatment of peptic ulcer.
