FURAMIDE provides the simplest safest and most effective treatment available at the present time for intestinal amoebiasis

Practical No injections, special diets or enemas are required. Furamide is suitable for ambulant patients.

Simple Dosage is simple—one tablet three times a day for ten days in patients of average weight.

Effective Cure rates of 75% to 80% in the acute stage and 90% to 100% in the chronic condition may be expected.

Safe Side-effects, apart from occasional flatulence, have not been reported, and the toxicity of Furamide is very low.

Inexpensive Furamide is less expensive than the drugs conventionally used in amoebiasis, and as hospitalisation is not normally necessary (unless the clinical condition of the patients warrants it) treatment with Furamide often shows a substantial saving compared with the older forms of therapy. Furamide has been the subject of extensive clinical trials in South America, South Africa and Asia. References and detailed literature will be gladly sent on request.

Single-dose Pripsen breaks the threadworm life cycle

Threadworms often infect families, one child can infect the others.

A single dose of Pripsen, taken by each member of the family, can eradicate threadworm infection. Pripsen treats the affected child and protects others against infection. As a precaution against possible re-infection a second dose of Pripsen should be repeated after two weeks.

Pripsen (piperazine phosphate and standardized senna) is also effective against roundworms.

a case for 'Stelazine'

Anxiety neurosis with low threshold for stress

The following case narrative is one of a series prepared by a consultant psychiatrist, based on actual patient records.

This is the case of a 39-year-old solicitor who might have pursued a brilliant career at the Bar. Instead, seeking more immediate security for his wife and child, he became a junior partner in an old-established local firm of solicitors.

There, it soon became clear to him that the main burden of the firm's work was being carried by the Senior Clerk. The senior partner's son spent most of his time at the golf course, and the old man himself was nearly senile and past playing an active role in his profession. The other partner tried hard to keep things going but, by nature inefficient, he always seemed to create more problems for his colleagues than he ever managed to solve.

So, as the months passed into years, the junior partner found himself carrying an ever-increasing weight of the firm's legal affairs. And matters at home didn't help to ease his worries. His wife, very conscious of their social position, had insisted on their living in the most select part of the town and the house mortgage, on top of his other financial commitments, was a heavy burden. And he had been persuaded to give in, too, on his wife's choice of the best private school for their daughter.

The situation came to a head with the break in their marital relations when his wife slipped a disc, and insisted on his moving into the spare room.

He began to suffer severe bouts of headache and vomiting which threatened on Friday night, developed on Saturday, and kept him in bed all day Sunday. He thought it was a tumour and became even more acutely worried until his doctor and a consultant neurologist succeeded in convincing him that his fears were without foundation.

The consultations did, however, throw light on the true aetiology of his week-end attacks. It came out that he had suffered similarly when he had changed schools at eleven plus and had missed half a term with undiagnosed sickness, although the pain was abdominal then.

Some years later the attacks had occurred again, this time during his finals.

The doctor explained how constant stress and anxiety can sometimes produce acute and distressing physical symptoms. The solution lay in making his firm realize that he must stop trying to do three men's work, and in persuading his wife that realistic adjustments must be made in their financial expenditure.

'Stelazine' controlled his symptoms and helped him cope with difficult situations both at home and in the office. His wife has responded to treatment, too, and he's now moved back out of the spare room.

More to overweight than meets the eye?

How many cases of obesity have emotional stress as a major underlying factor? Many authorities hold that in most cases, overeating is rooted in anxiety, boredom, frustration or similar emotional tensions^{1,2,3,4}. Merely curbing the appetite in these cases is unlikely to be of more than limited value^{1,2}—treatment of the obese patient must also compensate for the solace formerly obtained from eating. Durophet-M provides this treatment.

Durophet-M contains two constituents—a calmativ, methaqualone, to counter underlying tensions, and a highly effective appetite depressant, laevo- and dextro-amphetamine, ratio 1:3. Durophet-M provides better treatment for the compulsive overeater than simple appetite depressants because it both controls the appetite and combats the emotional factors present in nearly all cases of obesity^{1,2}.

BECAUSE of its Specific Activity

Broxil is highly bactericidal to the majority of these organisms, destroying them without disrupting the normal intestinal flora.

BECAUSE of its High Blood Levels

Broxil gives blood levels double those achieved by penicillin V and at least as high as intramuscular injections of penicillin G.

BECAUSE in its syrup form, it is particularly suitable for children

Broxil is readily accepted and tolerated by children, and side effects are minimal.

antidepressant and tranquilliser

combined treatment for depression and anxiety

Two British Trials Confirm the Value of Triptafen-DA in the Treatment of Depression

The first of two new published papers (Brit. J. Psychiat., 1967, 113, 195) describes a double-blind controlled trial of Triptafen-DA against placebo in the treatment of 129 patients suffering from depressive illness. This trial was undertaken firstly to establish that Triptafen-DA is an effective treatment for depression and secondly because of the Author's conviction that for the best results an antidepressant should be accompanied by an effective tranquilliser to control the anxiety or agitation that "so often form part of a depressive illness and sometimes cause as much difficulty as the depressed mood itself."

After 3 weeks' treatment 79 per cent of patients treated with Triptafen-DA showed moderate to marked improvement, compared with 30 per cent of patients treated with placebo.

The second paper (Brit. J. Psychiat., 1967, 113, 201) is a retrospective study of depressed patients treated with Triptafen-DA or with amitriptyline alone. The Authors had previously found amitriptyline to be the antidepressant of choice, but since Triptafen-DA became available they had increasingly used it in preference to amitriptyline alone. In order to compare the effectiveness of the two preparations, they had carried out a review of the records of patients treated with amitriptyline alone and those treated with Triptafen-DA. Patients included in the review were all those who had been seen during 1965 on account of depressive illness and treated with one or other of the two preparations. The review confirmed that amitriptyline is a predictable antidepressant in that response usually occurs within the first two weeks of treatment or not at all. There was, however, a highly significant difference in the effectiveness of the two preparations; thus while 45 out of 71 patients treated with amitriptyline alone showed satisfactory improvement, 40 out of 42 treated with Triptafen-DA did so. The response rate for amitriptyline alone, 63.4 per cent, is in agreement with reports from other investigators; the rate for Triptafen-DA, 95.2 per cent, is by any standards exceptionally high.

Indications

Depression Anxiety

Psychoneurosis
Psychosomatic illness

A combined antidepressant-tranquillising action, such as that provided by Triptafen-DA, is established as the treatment of first choice in depressive illness and in psychoneurotic conditions such as anxiety states and menopausal disorders associated with anxiety and depression; also for the relief of the withdrawal syndrome in chronic alcoholism. Most psychoneurotic patients encountered in general practice exhibit symptoms of both depression and anxiety or agitation. The same is usually true of patients suffering from depressive illness regarded as endogenous in origin. In the treatment of such patients it has been stated that "if either the tranquilliser or the antidepressant is used alone, the possibility that the opposite symptom will be exacerbated is a definite risk of treatment." (Curr. ther. Res., 1963, 5, 310).

Contraindications. Glaucoma; urinary retention; severely-impaired liver function; the concurrent administration of other antidepressant drugs, particularly MAO inhibitors.

Precautions. Triptafen-DA should not be used in conjunction with MAO inhibitors and because of the persistent action of the latter at least 7 days should intervene between their withdrawal and the introduction of Triptafen-DA. Although Triptafen-DA has been shown to be free from teratogenic effects in laboratory animals, it should be used in pregnancy only after consideration of the risks involved in giving any drug to the pregnant patient.

Side effects. Side effects with Triptafen-DA are mild and of the type to be expected of the atropine-like action of amitriptyline (e.g. drowsiness, dizziness or blurred vision, tachycardia and insomnia) or characteristic of the safest of the phenothiazine derivatives (e.g. slight fall in blood pressure, mild tremor or in elevated dosage, Parkinsonian symptoms). In most cases these side effects disappear on continued therapy or reduction of the dosage. Idiosyncratic side effects (e.g. pruritus, nausea diarrhoea and indigestion) have also been reported on rare occasions.

Dosage. In most cases a dose of one Triptafen-DA Tablet or two teaspoonfuls (10 ml) of Triptafen-DA Suspension 3 times a day is recommended. If necessary a fourth similar dose may be prescribed at night.

Presentation. Triptafen-DA Tablets each contain amitriptyline hydrochloride BP 25 mg and perphenazine BP 2 mg; they are available in bottles of 50 and 500. The basic NHS cost of treatment with Triptafen-DA is 4/6d per week. Triptafen-DA Suspension contains 37.5 mg amitriptyline embonate (equivalent to 25 mg amitriptyline hydrochloride BP) and 2 mg perphenazine BP in each 10 ml. It is available in bottles of 142 ml (5 fl oz) and 500 ml. Basic NHS cost for a bottle of 142 ml suspension is 7/6d.

What the medical journals say about the NEW Martindale

EXTRACTS FROM REVIEWS

The popularity of the Extra Pharmacopoeia depends in the first place on its wide coverage. . . . The second reason for the popularity of the Extra Pharmacopoeia is that it is not just a pharmacopoeia but a compendium of information on the uses of drugs. The monographs, as the descriptions of the individual drugs are called, are a mine of instruction in therapeutics. . . . For each drug the dose, toxic effects, antidotes, contraindications, uses, references to the literature, and preparations are given. Under the antithyroid drugs there is a full description of the use of potassium perchlorate in thyrotoxicosis, the mechanism of action and the occasional production of aplastic anaemia such as it would be difficult for the ordinary prescriber to find elsewhere. . . . Above all, it is a book and not just a print-out from a computer, and it will be regarded with affection by all who use it . . . this new Martindale is a great contribution to medical science and scholarship.—Professor L. J. Witts in "The British Medical Journal."

Since a new Martindale must serve for several years, it is clearly important that it should be up to date at the time of its publication, and Mr. Todd and his colleagues are to be congratulated on achieving this in the 25th edition. Of the 10,000 references, the majority are to papers published since the 1958 edition, and the editor has included some material that was not available until late in 1966.—"The Lancet."

* * *

This is indeed value for money, and the practitioner who fails to have a copy on his desk does so at his peril.—"The Practitioner."

What makes this antibiotic so valuable to the hospital physician?

Spectrum ?

Exceptionally broad. It covers most gram-positive organisms — including the penicillin-resistant staphylococci — and many gram-negative organisms.

Action ?

Intensely bactericidal. It gives a rapid kill of bacteria at or near the minimum inhibitory concentration.

Safety ?

Wide clinical usage has confirmed the laboratory evidence of Ceporin's low toxicity — a particularly valuable attribute in the treatment of the very young or the very old — and it is usually well tolerated by patients allergic to penicillin.

This combination of attributes is invaluable in many situations where other antibiotics — including penicillin — might prove ineffective or dangerous. A recent analysis of results from over 2000 cases has shown high success rates in a wide variety of infections — including urinary and respiratory tract infections, septicaemias and soft tissue infections. Many reports mention the rapid clinical response obtained with Ceporin after other antibiotics had failed.

Presentation

Ceporin is issued in vials containing 250 mg, 500 mg and 1 gram of cephaloridine, packed singly and in boxes of five.

The woman who uses an oral contraceptive during her later potential child-bearing years need not fear menopausal problems. But for those not 'on The Pill' when reaching the menopause, a hormone problem remains. At the menopause three out of four women require hormone replacement.

Mixogen fulfils their need. The preparation, a finely balanced combination of oestrogen and androgen, acts synergistically to ensure complete relief of all menopausal symptoms. And it does so without recourse to sedatives which—apart from other considerations—fail to deal with the underlying cause of the symptoms.

Plus Alphosyl psoriasis curiae praescribitur quam quidquid aliud medicamentum.

It's the truth. Alphosyl is the most widely prescribed product used specifically for the treatment of psoriasis. Alphosyl Lubricating Cream is the newer form of Alphosyl, clinically proven for psoriasis — especially in the intertriginous areas.

In these areas where dry, scaly lesions cause constant friction and continuous irritation, Alphosyl Lubricating Cream not only removes scales and crusts, but enhances lubrication of the skin folds to lessen irritation. It has proved effective even in resistant cases.

Alphosyl therapy (either Lotion or Cream) can now be adjusted to fit the patient's individual needs... or preference.

Women at risk

'... The highest infection rate was in women of childbearing age, particularly between twenty and twenty-nine.'

Lancet, (1962), ii, 1246

In young adult women, urinary tract infections such as 'honeymoon cystitis' or 'pyelitis of pregnancy' may often be acute episodes in an infection which has smouldered sub-clinically since childhood, perhaps following inadequate symptomatic treatment. Whether the infection is new or old, and however apparently mild, eradication of the infecting organisms is essential to reduce the risk of chronic renal disease in later life.

Haelan is a new preparation for steroid-responsive skin conditions.

Its advantages are strictly practical.

Haelan contains a proven steroid, flurandrenolone, in a concentration sufficient to treat all but the most severe dermatoses.

It comes in a realistic 60 gramme tube—enough for routine treatment without the need for repeat prescriptions.

Because of the pack size, and because the steroid content has not been needlessly increased, Haelan is far more economical than comparable preparations: the Basic N.H.S. Price for the 60 G. tube is 11/1d.

And now Exolan Cream in response to the needs of the ambulant patient in the treatment of psoriasis

New Exolan Cream has been prepared in a cosmetically acceptable vanishing cream base, and is ideal for the treatment of psoriasis of the scalp. In general cases of psoriasis it may also be prescribed for the ambulant patient who prefers to use a cream formulation.

In the treatment of psoriasis, triacetoxanthracene has been shown to exhibit the healing properties of dithranol while displaying none of the side effects of burning or staining the skin. It therefore may be used by the patient in his own home without fear that any harm will result if it accidentally comes into contact with normal skin.

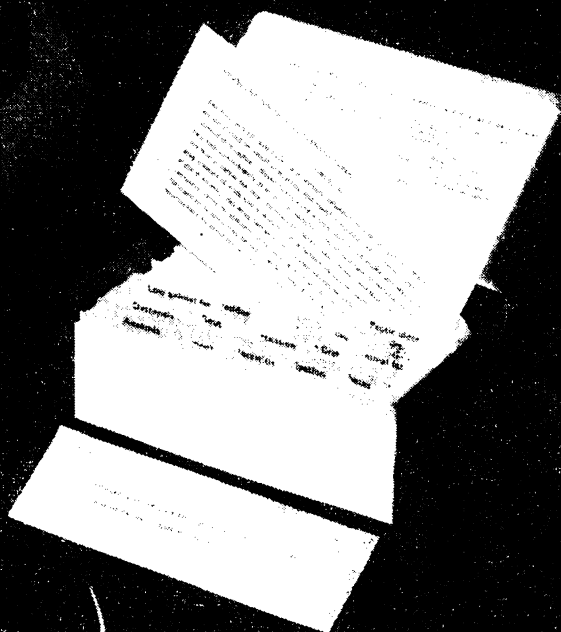

After examining various formulations of triacetoxanthracene the most clinically effective was found to be the one which corresponds to EXOLAN PASTE. This preparation is similar in constitution to the dithranol/Lassars Paste combination which has been recommended by Consultant Dermatologists for many years.

Unfortunately some patients do not like applying pastes, especially during the day time. Also their use is precluded on the scalp and other hairy regions of the body. EXOLAN CREAM has therefore been formulated for use in these cases and contains 1% triacetoxanthracene in a vanishing cream base.

years, for a post in their London headquarters office concerned with administrative aspects of medical research.

The Council, who receive a Parlia-

medical staff, which covers the whole range of the Council's activities, is important, interesting and varied.

Nulacin and Nulacin provides intragastric milk-alkali drip therapy for the ambulant patient

"In view of the ineffectiveness of most of the tableted antacids, the milk-alkali tablet (Nulacin) would appear to be the antacid of choice for ambulatory therapy."

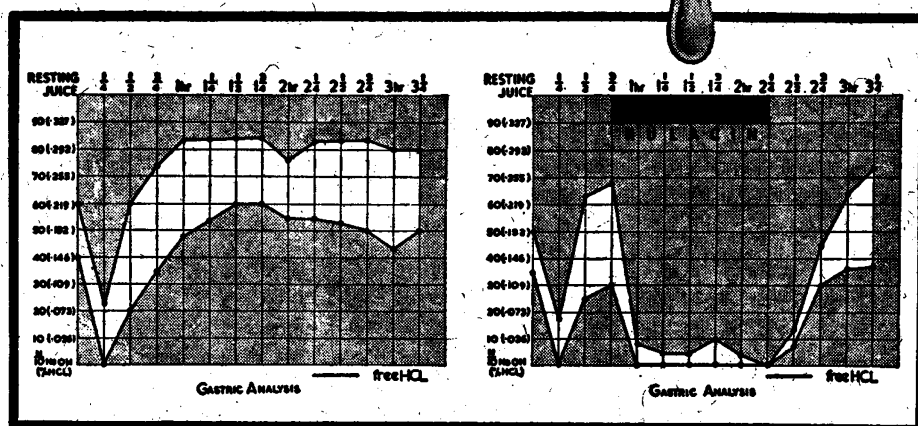

Safe, Simple, Effective

NULACIN TABLETS provide a safe, simple and effective treatment of peptic ulcer.

In treating peptic ulcer a Ryle's tube may be passed through the nose and into the oesophagus and a mixture of milk and antacid allowed to flow continuously over the affected area. This form of therapy can only be employed in those patients who are in bed and for the ambulant patient Nulacin tablets are preferable. Nulacin tablets are prepared from whole milk combined with dextrans and maltose, together with the trisilicate, oxide and carbonate of magnesium and calcium carbonate. Nulacin tablets when allowed to dissolve slowly in the mouth provide milk-alkali drip therapy. In fact, Nulacin tablets have revolutionized the treatment of peptic ulcer.
