The LD₅₀ of Mogadon in the mouse is 1800 mg/kg; this is equivalent to the huge dosage, in the mouse, of 360 tablets per kg body weight. The lethal dose in humans is unknown but clinical experience and extrapolation of experimental evidence in animals indicates that it is vastly greater than the normal clinical dose.

grounds for optimism

For the depressed patient, optimism about the chances of recovery begins with the first visit to the physician who shows an interest in his case. This optimism can be built upon with the aid of modern antidepressant drugs, enabling the physician to help his patient to a more speedy recovery.

In this respect, 'Concordin' often brings an initial elevation of mood within a week—the patient soon has grounds for greater optimism.

'Concordin' is available as tablets in two strengths:
'Concordin'-10 as white, film-coated tablets (marked 'C10') containing 10 mg protriptyline hydrochloride, in bottles of 100 and 500;
'Concordin'-5 as salmon-red, film-coated tablets (marked 'C5') containing 5 mg protriptyline hydrochloride, in bottles of 100 and 500.

'Concordin' offers many depressed patients these advantages:

- speed of action—
improvement often starts within a week
- virtual freedom from sedative activity—the patient on 'Concordin' can continue with normal activities since drowsiness is rare
- no dietary restrictions—
'Concordin' is not a MAOI and so the patient can enjoy full freedom in choice of food

15-second facts about

Onadox-118

The established anti-inflammatory and analgesic effects of soluble aspirin are combined with the powerful pain-relieving action of dihydrocodeine tartrate (DF 118). Thus Onadox-118 is especially effective in the long-term treatment of rheumatic conditions where adequate relief is not obtained from aspirin alone.

New oestrogen-free NORMENON

continuous-progestin conception regulator

the third dimension in conception control

Which patients are best suited to Normenon?

- (i) patients who have experienced unduly troublesome side-effects with currently available oral contraceptives.^{1, 2} e.g. nausea weight gain headache, migraine depression
- (ii) patients who have exhibited disorders in the past suggesting that the administration of oestrogen is undesirable.^{3, 4}
e.g. liver disorder varicose veins
- (iii) patients with 'anxieties' associated with
(a) the oestrogen component^{3, 5, 6} or (b) pituitary-ovarian suppression.^{3, 7}
- (iv) young married women of unproven fertility.⁸
- (v) the postpartum patient who wishes to breast-feed her baby.⁹

The contraceptive protection provided by Normenon is less than that of the combined oral contraceptive¹⁰ (e.g. Norinyl-1) and better than that of the I.U.D. (intra-uterine device).¹¹

- * For patients where maximum contraceptive protection is the uppermost consideration, a combination oral contraceptive (e.g. Norinyl-1) should be selected.
- * Patients with pre-existing menorrhagia may experience increased menstrual irregularity with Normenon and would be better suited to a "progestogenic" combination oral contraceptive (e.g. Norinyl-2)

A letter from the Committee on Safety of Drugs (Brit. med. J. 1968 4:120; Lancet 1968 2:828) requested doctors to report on the Committee's "yellow cards" any pregnancies occurring in women taking oral contraceptives. Please observe this procedure with any pregnancies occurring in patients taking Normenon.

The antisocial adolescent. The problem child. The difficult geriatric patient. Each a specific type of behaviour disturbance, calling for specific management methods.

Sedatives and tranquillizers can help, but more valuable still are compounds with greater specificity of action, particularly in controlling such symptoms as impulsiveness and aggressive tendencies. 'Neulactil' is such a compound.

'Neulactil' has been shown to be highly effective in the control of disordered behaviour in juvenile, adolescent and elderly patients, whether it is of the neurotic type, or associated with psychotic illness.

Intense irritation and an unpleasant discharge are the uncomfortable presenting symptoms of vaginitis and may be caused by monilia, trichomonas or a mixture of both.

Pimafucin relieves irritation and stops the discharge in these cases of vaginitis, because it is effective against both candida and trichomonas whether these present singly or in combination.

Indications: Vaginitis, whether due to monilial, trichomonal or a mixed infection. A differential diagnosis between these three states need not be made.

Dosage: On retiring, one Pimafucin vaginal tablet is inserted high into the vagina using the plastic applicator. A course of Pimafucin lasts for 21 days, to give complete eradication of the underlying pathogen, and prevent recurrence of the original symptoms.

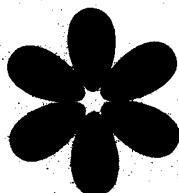

Side-Effects: Occasional local irritation has been reported.

Special Precautions: No special precautions or contra-indications have been indicated by clinical trials and investigations.

New stability for the hypertensive patient

Inderal-80 reduces high blood pressure without causing postural hypotension

These answers show how Inderal-80 can bring your hypertensive patients new stability

What special claim does 'Inderal' 80 have?
After all there are a number of effective antihypertensive drugs available.

It has been shown to be at least as effective in controlling all forms of hypertension as the most potent existing agents. With a difference. The blood pressure remains under stable control whether the patient is supine, standing or undertaking exercise.

How is this achieved?

Sympathetic nervous control of the peripheral vasculature, so important for postural regulation of blood pressure, is not impaired by 'Inderal' 80, since it blocks only β -adrenergic receptors.

How does it reduce blood pressure then?

Beta-adrenergic receptor blockade may act in two ways. First, it is known to protect the heart against inappropriate sympathetic stimulation. This includes transient pressor stimuli.

Sustained protection against these stimuli may result in a resetting of the baroreceptors to maintain blood pressure at a lower level. Secondly, β -receptor blockade causes a fall in cardiac output. This may also play a part.

Is control difficult to achieve?

Certainly not. Blood pressure is lowered gradually over a period of 6 to 8 weeks and there is no fear that an overshoot will cause hypotensive episodes.

This is because 'Inderal' 80 does not interfere with sympathetic control of arteriolar resistance. In fact, there is evidence that once the normotensive level is reached, disproportionately larger doses of the drug are needed to effect a further fall in blood pressure.

Why 'Inderal' 80?

'Inderal' 80 is an 80 mg. tablet, specially intended for maintenance therapy in hypertension. The dosage recommendations show how.

Inderal-80—Prescribing Information

INDICATIONS

1. For the control of all types of uncomplicated hypertension.

'Inderal' is especially effective in younger patients with labile hypertension in whom there is a high cardiac output, low peripheral resistance and a considerable risk of ultimate progression to a state of fixed hypertension.

2. As an alternative to the established potent hypotensive agents.

'Inderal' may be used alone, or in conjunction with a sympatholytic drug, a thiazide diuretic, or both, to control blood pressure, with minimum side effects.

DOSAGE

Ultimate requirements

As with any other potent anti-hypertensive agent, optimum dosage of 'Inderal' has to be determined for each patient. A daily maintenance dose of 240-320 mg. will control the diastolic pressure and keep it below 100 mm.Hg in most patients. In a few, however, much smaller doses (160 mg. per day or less) may suffice, whilst others may need up to 1 G. daily.

Basic regimen

The recommended dosage regimen begins with 20 mg. 'Inderal' four times daily for one week. Each dose should be taken before food.

Depending on the result of the weekly examination (see below) dosage is increased as indicated in the following table:—

	1st Week	2nd Week	3rd & 4th Weeks	5th & Subsequent Weeks
AM	1st Dose	20 mg.	40 mg.	80 mg.
	2nd Dose	20 mg.	40 mg.	80 mg.
PM	1st Dose	20 mg.	40 mg.	80 mg.
	2nd Dose	20 mg.	40 mg.	80 mg.

A convenient Starter Pack providing graduated dosage from 80 mg. to 240 mg. daily over the first four weeks is available.

Weekly examination and dosage increments

The patient should be examined weekly during the introductory period and his blood pressure and pulse rate recorded at each visit. If an increase in dosage is due for the following week, this may be adhered to provided that there has not been a fall in blood pressure and the pulse rate is not below 55-60 beats per minute.

If a fall in blood pressure is observed, dosage should not be increased until blood pressure is steady at its new level. If this level is still too high, further increases in dosage may be introduced.

If no effect on blood pressure has been observed at 320 mg. per day, dosage should remain at that level for one month in case there is a delayed effect. If no such effect develops, dosage may be further increased until the required therapeutic effect is apparent. Alternatively it may be advantageous to add a diuretic to the regimen as described below.

Occasionally a resting pulse rate of less than 55-60 beats per minute may be observed. This is an indication for a slight reduction in dosage with review of the situation at the next weekly visit.

Further adjustments

Provided that the above recommendations are followed, the minimum daily maintenance dose of 'Inderal' for good control of blood pressure is easily determined. In a few patients, however, blood pressure may continue to fall slightly after a month or two on the maintenance dose. Should this unusual time lag occur, the patient will not experience classical episodes of postural or exercise hypotension, although he may complain of weakness and dizziness. These symptoms are relieved by a slight reduction in dosage.

USE WITH OTHER ANTI-HYPERTENSIVE DRUGS

As with other anti-hypertensive drugs, concomitant administration of a thiazide diuretic reinforces the action of 'Inderal' so that dosage requirements of the latter are reduced. Experience shows that when 'Inderal' is given together with a thiazide derivative, some 80% of patients can be controlled with a daily dose of 320 mg. 'Inderal' or less.

When combined therapy is desired, a thiazide (plus potassium) may be added to the regimen if 'Inderal' 80 alone has not achieved the required reduction in blood pressure. Alternatively, treatment may begin with the thiazide and 'Inderal' is then added to the regimen gradually, as recommended above, beginning with 20 mg. four times a day.

'Inderal' may also be used in combination with the potent sympatholytic drugs when side effects of the latter prevent satisfactory lowering of blood pressure. Under these circumstances, dosage of the sympatholytic drug is reduced to a level below that which causes side effects. 'Inderal' is then added incrementally as described above until a normotensive level is achieved.

It is doubtful, however, whether combination with another potent anti-hypertensive should be tried until the effects of 'Inderal' alone have been determined. When it is desirable to transfer a patient completely from a sympatholytic drug to 'Inderal', dosage of the former is gradually reduced while that of 'Inderal' is added incrementally to the regimen as previously described.

CONTRAINDICATIONS

Adrenergic β -receptor blockade with 'Inderal' is contraindicated in patients with heart block, and in those with bronchial asthma or bronchospasm associated with severe hay fever or chronic bronchitis.

'Inderal' is also contraindicated after prolonged fasting and in patients in a state of diabetic ketoacidosis, or metabolic acidosis from any cause.

PRECAUTIONS

Patients with incipient or established heart failure require cardiac sympathetic drive. 'Inderal' should not be given to such patients unless the heart failure has been controlled with digitalis and diuretics. In most cases the increased force of contraction achieved with digitalis will permit the administration of 'Inderal' without aggravating failure.

Caution is advised with the administration of 'Inderal' during pregnancy, or during ether or chloroform anaesthesia. When possible, 'Inderal' therapy should cease 24 hours before elective surgery.

ADVERSE REACTIONS

Very occasionally a patient may react to small doses of 'Inderal'. Even on the first dose of 20 mg., bradycardia with hypotension may develop, with subjective dizziness or weakness. In such patients, treatment should be discontinued. These cases are rare, but when they do occur it may be advisable to regard such hypersensitivity as idiosyncratic and to try some other form of treatment. Alternatively, the drug may be re-introduced at a lower dosage level and the dose increased more slowly.

'Inderal' is usually well tolerated and side effects are transient in nature, rarely necessitating withdrawal of treatment. Mild side effects such as nausea, insomnia, lassitude, muzziness and diarrhoea have been observed in approximately 2% of patients but are usually avoided by gradual introduction of treatment. Isolated reports of purpura, erythematous rash and paraesthesia of the hands have been recorded.

OVERDOSAGE

In case of excessive bradycardia with hypotension, atropine 1-2 mg. intravenously should be given immediately followed, if necessary, by a beta-receptor stimulating agent such as isoprenaline 25 mg. intravenously or orciprenaline 0.5 mg. intravenously.

FOLIC ACID DEFICIENCY and ANAEMIA OF PREGNANCY

FOLEX-350

CONTAINING FOLIC ACID 350 MICROGRAMS WITH FERROUS FUMARATE 308 MILLIGRAMS IN EACH TABLET

DOSE

ONE TABLET DAILY THROUGHOUT PREGNANCY

It is now known beyond doubt that megaloblastic anaemia of pregnancy is caused by deficiency of folic acid.

From the very excellent results obtained over the years by the prophylactic use of folic acid and iron given orally from the beginning of pregnancy it is becoming more and more generally accepted that anaemia of pregnancy can be prevented. The question of the optimum dose of folic acid has not been easy to establish but recent work* suggests that not less than 300 mcg. and not more than 400 mcg. daily can be considered adequate.

In the light of this knowledge Folex-350 containing 350 mcg. of folic acid and 308 mg. of ferrous fumarate has been introduced.

"What's that?"

It's the new 'Ilosone' 500 mg tablet.

"Why 500 mg?"

Because it enables 'Ilosone', the everyday antibiotic, to be given in a simple twice a day dosage - an easy dosage for the patient to follow, and less risk of missed doses than with q.i.d. regimens.

"So?"

So your patient has a continuously effective blood level of 'Ilosone' - already well known for its bactericidal effect in infections of the respiratory tract - but with simple b.i.d. dosage.

Precaution: On rare occasions there have been reports of cholestatic jaundice, generally when treatment has been prolonged for ten days or more. All such cases have regressed, usually promptly, when 'Ilosone' was discontinued. However, 'Ilosone' should not be used in persons who have previously developed jaundice or other sensitivity reactions in association with its use, or in patients with pre-existing liver disease or dysfunction.

by a comfortable margin. In a recent report of a comparative trial* involving three antihypertensive agents satisfactory control of blood pressure was obtained with each drug.

With 'Esbatal' for instance, a standing diastolic pressure of 100 mm. Hg or less was achieved in 75% of cases. The authors pointed out that 'Esbatal', guanethidine and methyldopa are probably similar in their ability to control blood pressure. It was found, however, that 'Esbatal' produced fewer uncomfortable side-effects and was preferred by more patients than were the other agents. In contrast to the other drugs, all the patients on 'Esbatal' were able to complete the course of treatment.

Cetiprin[®]

is altering established habits of rising at night to pass water

The results of a recent double-blind crossover trial of Cetiprin suggest that "the drug may alter the established habit of rising at night to pass urine."¹

"This trial showed that emepronium bromide (Cetiprin) given in dosage of 150 mgs. on going to bed, effectively diminished nocturnal frequency of micturition in aged women. On the basis of a double-blind crossover trial an important difference emerged between those participants given the placebo before the drug, and those given the drug first. In the first case, there is little effect with the placebo but a moderate effect with the drug. In the latter case, there is a more marked effect with the drug – and this is carried over into the placebo period."²

"Nocturnal frequency of micturition is one of the trials of old age. In a previous paper we have shown it to be present in 64% of the total elderly population (70% of males and 61% of females of 65 years and over)."³

avoids the problems of conventional laxative treatment

With a faecal softener to prepare the way, and just a small dose of peristaltic stimulant completing evacuation, Dorbanex avoids the problems of conventional laxative treatment. What difference does the faecal softener make to treatment?

A soft but formed stool; the restoration of faecal bulk to normal; non-oily lubrication of the gut contents. By this comprehensive approach, Dorbanex provides easier and more predictable evacuation than conventional laxatives, reduces the need for enemas and suppositories, minimises the risk of straining at stool or faecal impaction, lessens apprehension about answering the call to stool, helps to break the laxative habit, gently restores neuromuscular sensitivity, and simplifies patient management.

Available in three forms to treat constipation in any patient of any age, Dorbanex provides the prospect of successful treatment that avoids the problems of conventional laxative therapy.

Dorbanex Capsules:

each capsule contains 1:8-dihydroxyanthraquinone 25 mg., poloxalkol 200 mg. Dosage: Adults, one or two capsules. Children, one capsule. Before or after surgery: two to four capsules. Treatment should be taken at bedtime.

Dorbanex Forte:

each 5 ml. teaspoonful contains 1:8-dihydroxyanthraquinone, 75 mg., poloxalkol 1000 mg. Dosage: One teaspoonful or as directed by the physician. Treatment should be taken at bedtime.

Dorbanex Liquid:

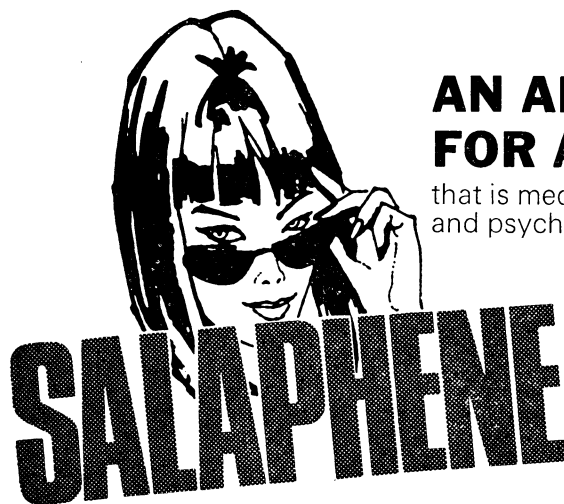

each 5 ml. teaspoonful contains 1:8-dihydroxyanthraquinone 25 mg. poloxalkol 200 mg. Dosage: Adults, one or two teaspoonfuls. Children, half to one teaspoonful, as required. Before or after surgery two to four teaspoonfuls. Treatment should be taken at bedtime.

Contra-indications In common with other gastro-intestinal evacuants, Dorbanex should not be given when acute, painful conditions of the abdomen are present, or the cause of constipation is suspected to be obstruction of the small or large intestine. Side-effects Dihydroxyanthraquinone may cause a temporary harmless, pink or red colouring of the urine and, in prolonged use or high dosage, of the mucosa of the large intestine. Doses larger than two teaspoonfuls may cause slight gastro-intestinal discomfort in a few patients. Basic NHS Prices Dorbanex Capsules: bottles of 30 capsules 8/8; bottles of 300 capsules 78/-; Dorbanex Liquid: bottles of 60 ml. 4/-; bottles of 500 ml. 30/-; Dorbanex Forte: bottles of 60 ml. 6/-; bottles of 500 ml. 45/-.

John Elworthy much prefers his second wife

So does the re-vitalized Mrs. Elworthy herself, her family and her friends.

Taking a new look at the menopause, doctors are questioning the desirability—and even the logic—of suppressing with sedatives and tranquillizers an essentially metabolic condition.

Mixogen gives complete mastery of the whole menopausal condition.

They have it on authority that today '... when the average woman can expect to reach her threescore years and ten, it would seem unrealistic to deny hormone treatment, which not only alleviates all the troublesome and antisocial symptoms of the menopausal and postmenopausal phases but is also a prophylactic measure against osteoporosis, senile vaginitis, hypertension, and coronary heart disease, to mention but a few hazards of oestrogen depletion.'¹

Plain oestrogen therapy, which may give endometrial bleeding and nausea, is surpassed by Mixogen.

'Perhaps the best way of avoiding oestrogenic bleeding is to use one of the oestrogen-testosterone combinations, of which the original—Mixogen—is the best.'²

MSL MANAGEMENT SELECTION

Please state briefly, in writing, how each requirement is met. Nothing will be disclosed, unless you give permission after a confidential interview.

Clinical Research

ethical pharmaceuticals

U.K. and Europe

The company is a leading international pharmaceutical company whose rapid European growth has been stimulated by an impressive record of new product development. The importance of clinical research and of the thorough evaluation of potential new drugs is recognized in the establishment of a separate Research & Development Division, which has its own statistical unit and close links with hospitals and universities. The Division organizes and controls clinical trials of new drugs, often undertaking collaborative research with clinicians; its doctors are concerned with the development and application of drugs throughout Europe; and it deals with the Dunlop Committee and similar European regulatory bodies. A new unit with attendant analytical laboratories will be operational by the end of 1969, allowing scope for clinical pharmacological studies. Publication and presentation of research findings together with attendance at local and international symposia, is encouraged.

Suitable candidates will be British registered doctors, probably 27 to 35, of Registrar status, with interest and preferably some experience in experimental work; men and women are equally acceptable. Alternatively, they may be in the pharmaceutical industry and be seeking a position with more research responsibility. Starting salaries will be at least £3,500, and can be higher for doctors already in the industry or with special clinical trial experience; a company car is provided, relocation expenses will be paid, and other benefits are good. The Division is London based, but there may be the opportunity for an interested candidate to work in the North of England or in Scandinavia. Please write to R. A. Owen quoting AM.21036.

MANAGEMENT SELECTION LIMITED • 17 STRATTON STREET, LONDON W1

(18418)

An invitation

For the medical man (or woman) whose interests lie in research, theoretical and experimental medicine, pharmacology or science management, rather than in practice, the idea of a medical career within the international pharmaceutical industry is seriously worth considering. The rapid expansion of drug research - at Organon our scientific staff has doubled to 600 in the past five years - means that new medical posts are continually being created. These are serious positions for capable people; they offer responsibility, much independence, and a good income. Most of these jobs are located in the Netherlands, where Organon is based, but there are certain positions in Britain and elsewhere.

The new medical posts opening up at Organon in 1969 fall broadly into three groups:

a. RESEARCH

The medical man in "Basic Human Research" provides an essential element in the interdisciplinary teams (chemist, pharmacologist, pharmacist, physician) which plan and carry out projects. He helps to select substances for clinical study, and he designs and evaluates these initial studies worldwide. A sound background in pharmacology or experimental therapy is an important asset for this job. A fair amount of travel may be involved, but there are no long periods away from home.

b. DEVELOPMENT

Potential new drugs identified by Research are thoroughly tested in international therapeutic trials set up by the medical staff engaged in "Clinical Evaluation". Other physicians advise on research policy, evaluate data on experimental compounds coming from other industrial and university centres, or represent our group in contacts with Government authorities. All these jobs demand some years of practical medical experience and a proven interest in drug therapy and evaluation.

c. MEDICAL SERVICES

After a new pharmaceutical has been introduced, it still requires medical supervision. New data becoming available (particularly when the drug is used under very different conditions in various parts of the world) must be studied and conclusions drawn; some of the questions which arise will demand new clinical studies to obtain an answer. The Medical Services physician builds up in this way a fund of expert knowledge on the drug, and he can advise both practitioners and our own marketing staff as to what a drug will - and will not - do.

Requirements: sound clinical judgement, a lively interest in the work of marketing and promotional staff, and fluency in at least one foreign language.

If you feel that your interests and experience tie in with one of these fields we shall be glad to give you more information and, if possible, to meet you (in Britain or Holland) to exchange thoughts. These contacts will remain strictly personal and confidential unless you subsequently decide to apply formally for a medical post with our companies.

If you live in U.K. we suggest that you write or telephone:

UNIVERSITY OF EXETER
Postgraduate Medical Institute

A full-time postgraduate course lasting ten weeks will begin on October 6, 1969. These courses are held three times a year starting in October, January, and April. Each course includes instruction in general medicine, paediatrics, preventive medicine, pathology, psychiatry, orthopaedics and general surgery. The programme is planned so that students wishing to specialize in a particular clinical subject are given facilities to do so, while other students are taught in each of the main clinical departments. Unpaid clinical attachments can be arranged at the end of the course for students requiring a longer period of training, but these are normally reserved for students sponsored by some official body.

It is sometimes possible to accept general practitioners for one or two weeks of a course, and attendance for this period is recognized under section 63 of the Health Services and Public Health Act, 1968. These courses are also recognized under the special scheme for the re-training for general practice of doctors who have been out of the Health Service for at least five years.
