

Respiratory tract infections— Penbritin Territory

Penbritin is being used increasingly in the treatment of urinary tract infections because it

- kills rather than inhibits the main causative organisms,
- is active in renal tissue as well as in urine,
- has the safety of penicillin,
- offers a choice of presentations.

Penbritin's value in the treatment of urinary tract infection is confirmed by 8 years' published evidence which reveals a success rate of more than 80% in acute infections.

At the recommended dosage of 500 mg. three times a day Penbritin achieves high blood and urine levels and can attack and eradicate pathogens in all parts of the urinary tract. Having the safety of traditional penicillins, it may confidently be prescribed for children, for expectant mothers and even for patients with impaired renal function. Furthermore, Penbritin is available in a complete range of presentations: 500 mg. and 250 mg. capsules, syrups of 125 mg. and 250 mg./5 ml. strengths, 125 mg. paediatric tablets and three strengths of injectable.

Adult Dosage: 500 mg. three times daily.

Contra-indication: Penicillin allergy.

Side-effects: As with other penicillins.

Obesity

The case for continuing research

When there is already a great deal of very high quality published data on Ponderax (fenfluramine), and the glycoliptic activity in obesity, one may ask, 'Is there a need for further studies?'

Over the last ten years 128 publications have shown that Ponderax produces greater weight loss than previous drugs (up to 3.6 lbs. a week), rectifies defects in glucose and lipid metabolism, has a mild hypotensive action and does not stimulate the central nervous system.

However, the interest of Ponderax has extended into many fields and data already demonstrates that Ponderax has important activity in several disease areas. Currently, 203 experiments and trials are revealing that Ponderax, besides the valuable therapeutic properties in obesity, has other activities in diabetes, hypertension, anxiety and atheroma.

Our massive research programme is your safeguard to the continuing prescription of Ponderax for the basic treatment of the serious disease called obesity.

Studies in Neurology

SIR CHARLES SYMONDS, K.B.E., C.B.

Many of the papers written by Sir Charles Symonds during his distinguished career have been milestones in clinical neurology. Encouraged by many old pupils and friends he has selected a number of these papers for republication. An autobiographical introduction has been added and each paper is prefaced with a brief note giving background information and a few critical comments. Also included are two memorial addresses.

Primarily a critical review and reassessment of existing literature this book also includes some new data and re-analysis of old data. The first three chapters discuss the physiology of multiple pregnancy from conception to birth, the embryology of twinning and the length of gestation, birth weight, and mortality. The next three chapters, much of them based on the author's own work, discuss the factors affecting the frequencies of twins, triplets, and quadruplets. Another chapter deals with statistical methods for using twins as tools in genetic research, and the book ends by considering the possible evolutionary reasons why single births are the rule in man.

The Physiology of Bone

JANET M. VAUGHAN, D.B.E.

The possible hazards of bone-seeking radioactive isotopes and the effects of weightlessness on the bones of astronauts have stimulated an interest in the physiology of bone. The results of recent work, especially that on hormone control of mineral and skeletal homeostasis, involving many different disciplines, is reported in scattered journals and in the proceedings of symposia. This book reviews all aspects of bone physiology, laying particular stress on the more recent advances. It does not attempt to reach conclusions, but gives the references so that students and teachers may know where to look for themselves.

The Distribution of the Blood Groups in the United Kingdom

ADA C. KOPEĆ

*Statistician, Medical Research Council
Serological Population Genetics Laboratory*

with a Foreword by

A. E. MOURANT, F.R.S.

*Director, Medical Research Council
Serological Population Genetics Laboratory,
St. Bartholomew's Hospital, London*

The National Blood Transfusion Services of England and Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland have tested the blood groups of millions of donors; in this book Dr Kopeć analyses topographically the records of ABO and Rhesus groups of more than half a million of these. The work is by far the most thorough and complete one of its kind carried out in any country.

Blood groups have a medical significance which goes well beyond their routine use in matching transfusion recipients to donors. Some widespread diseases attack persons of one blood group more readily than those of another, and investigators in this field of medical research need to know the proportions of healthy people belonging to the different blood groups in the particular area they are studying. For some years such investigators have relied on the personal help of Dr Kopeć, but now they have all the information on record.

The book is a major contribution to the anthropology of the British people and will appeal to human geneticists and medical research workers as well as to anthropologists throughout the world.

Farmitalia

Reports and Accounts for 1969

On April 28, 1970, Farmitalia, Società Farmaceutici Italia Anonima per Azioni held its annual general meeting.

After the reports of the Board of Directors and the Workers' Representative Committee the meeting approved the statement of accounts at December 31, 1969 which showed a net profit of £900,000 (compared with £687,000 in 1968). £1,328,000 was voted to the technical installations sinking fund. Distribution of dividend was fixed at 3s. 8d. per share, gross.

In 1969 the company had a gross turnover of £29 million, an increase of 9% on the previous year.

The results might have been more favourable but for a number of price reductions in the speciality ranges and increases of labour costs as a consequence of new contracts negotiated collectively by the unions. Unfortunately a number of fundamental problems of the chemico-pharmaceutical industry remain unsolved; particularly important is that regarding legislation on patents on drugs. Specialities for human use have considerably contributed to the increased volume of business.

New preparations and new presentations have further augmented the pharmaceutical range. Pharmaceuticals, veterinary products and specialities, the production of which has particularly suffered through labour unrest, have maintained the same levels as in the previous year despite considerable competition at home and abroad; and despite new legislation concerning the production and the sale of feed additives. The range of veterinary preparations and animal nutrition products has been extended with the introduction of new specialities and vaccines and new formulations for feed additives.

In basic research interesting results have been achieved in the scientific and therapeutic field, particularly with the derivatives of lysergic acid and polypeptides.

Among biosynthesis products of special interest is the new anti-tumour drug, Adriamycin, the development of which has now entered the clinical trial phase. At the company's Nerviano Centre a new institute has been opened for the study of chronic toxicology problems and work is now nearing completion on extensive laboratories for the chemotherapeutic, diagnostic and parasitology departments. The manufacturing of basic substances for pharmaceutical use and of specialities have been continuously improved and their control extended. Combined with the installation of new machinery this has further enhanced the output and quality of the products.

In the virus section of the veterinary department new and advanced techniques for the production of cells in single layer have been developed. Sales abroad have proceeded at a lively pace thanks to new ventures and favourable commercial trends; as a consequence exports from Italy have increased by 19%. The development of subsidiaries in Italy and abroad has been healthy and on average they have achieved a considerable improvement of turnover.

Labour costs for the year amounted to £9,055,000, an increase of about 17.2% over the previous year. Technical and financial assets have absorbed £4,307,000.

The financial situation at December 31, 1969 is briefly as follows: net plant £5,783,000; stocks £3,794,000, debtors £11,773,000, securities, bank and cash £7,396,000; short-term liabilities £9,511,000; long-term liabilities £8,330,000; net capital £10,005,000.

The Board of Directors met after the general assembly to nominate the board. President: Dr. Carlo Faina; vice-presidents: Paolino Cantore, Louis Clouzeau, and Dr. Gino Sferza were re-elected. Dr. Giulio Bertini remains as Managing Director and General Director of the Company.

Road accidents are now acknowledged to be one of the major epidemics of our time. It has been estimated that as many as a quarter of accident deaths could be saved by skilled treatment at the site of the accident, and recently doctors in Britain and abroad have been playing an increasingly active part in this. This booklet, which reprints a series of articles which appeared in the B.M.J. last autumn, contains contributions on organization and medical equipment, the management of soft-tissue injuries, resuscitation, fractures of the spine, and extrication of persons trapped in a vehicle. The introduction is written by Mr. Norman Capener, Chairman of the Medical Commission on Accident Prevention.

Trends in Clinical Pathology

Essays in Honour of Gordon Signy

It is no pious collection of personal tributes but a survey of the old and the new disciplines in clinical pathology since the second world war—research in atherosclerosis and ischaemic heart disease, progress in medical virology, microbiology and cytology, the impact of antibiotics on medical bacteriology, chemical pathology and also molecular defence, haematology in mid-century, including haemostasis and blood transfusion. The place of fibrin in the story of hyalin is another modern study, so also is that on automation. The outlook on some members of the family Enterobacteriaceae is changing, and the 'old' forensic medicine is indeed new. And those pathologists working in the under-developed countries are not forgotten. The contributors are internationally renowned.

in bronchitis more effective than ampicillin or tetracycline

Compared with ampicillin

In a controlled single-blind trial involving 50 patients with chronic bronchitis SEPTRIN* was shown to be more effective than ampicillin, with reference to reduction of sputum volume and purulence.

Sputum volume reduction

There was a significantly greater reduction in mean sputum volume after treatment with SEPTRIN than after treatment with ampicillin.

Sputum purulence reduction

23 out of 24 cases with purulent sputum receiving SEPTRIN improved (using MRC sputum grading) as compared with 16 cases out of 22 cases with purulent sputum receiving ampicillin who improved in this respect. The success rate for SEPTRIN was significantly higher than for ampicillin.

Clinical improvement

Clinically, 24 out of 25 cases receiving SEPTRIN responded as compared with 19 out of 25 receiving ampicillin.

Compared with tetracycline

In a trial designed to compare the effect of SEPTRIN with that of tetracycline in the treatment of chronic bronchitis, it was found that a week's course with SEPTRIN was more beneficial than a week's course of tetracycline.

24 patients received SEPTRIN and 22 received tetracycline, and objective data was collected from the two groups at the beginning and at the end of treatment.

Sputum volume

The decrease in mean sputum volume after treatment, as a fraction of the initial measurements, was significantly larger for the SEPTRIN group.

Sputum purulence

Objective grading of reduction in purulence of the sputum showed better results with SEPTRIN than with tetracycline at the end of treatment.

in cerebral ischaemia duvadilan helps arteries to help themselves

When cerebral arteries begin to lose their elasticity through sclerosis and atheroma, or vascular tone gives way to vasospasm, impaired blood flow may give rise to symptoms like dizziness, headache, forgetfulness, disorientation and irritability.

Although little can be done for an artery which has completely sclerosed, treatment with

DUVADILAN in the early stage of the disease can delay the further deterioration of the clinical condition and reduce the number of ischaemic attacks.^{1,2,7}

DUVADILAN (isoxsuprine hydrochloride) has a unique mode of action.^{1,3,4,5,6} It stimulates the β receptors of vascular smooth muscle which relieves vasospasm^{2,9} and simultaneously blocks the α receptors to prevent rebound vasoconstriction^{4,5,8} which can be a problem with some vasodilators.

DUVADILAN fully exploits collateral vessels threatened by spasm and any remaining elasticity in a partially sclerosed artery, increasing the supply of oxygen and nourishment to starved tissues before they become irreversibly damaged.

It is important that patients should be kept on DUVADILAN for at least 6 weeks to allow time for clinical improvement to become apparent.

A broad spectrum for UTI

Clinical reports show that a satisfactory clinical response is obtained in 93% of patients with acute infections and 80% of patients with chronic infections due to frequently encountered urinary pathogens such as E. coli, Proteus mirabilis, and Klebsiella.

A broad spectrum for bronchitis

In this condition where the infection is frequently of mixed aetiology, 'Keflex' clears purulent sputum and clinical improvement has been shown in over 90% of patients studied. Susceptible organisms include Haemophilus influenzae, Streptococcus pneumoniae, and Staphylococcus aureus.

K Dosage

The usual adult dose is 250 mg every six hours. For more severe infections or those caused by less susceptible organisms, 500 mg every six hours may be needed. In appropriate cases up to 4G per day may be given.

Precautions Any patient who has demonstrated some form of allergy, particularly to drugs, should receive antibiotics, including cephalixin, cautiously and then only when necessary. If severe reaction, individual idiosyncrasy, or allergy should occur, treatment should be discontinued.

The safety of cephalixin for use in pregnancy has not been established.

In patients being treated with cephalixin, a false positive reaction may occur with Benedict's or Fehling's solutions or with copper sulphate test tablets.

Adverse Reactions have been infrequent and mild. The most frequent was mild diarrhoea reported in slightly over 2% of 1230 patients studied. Nausea occurred in 1 per cent. Skin reactions, including pruritus and dermatitis were observed in 1 per cent of patients. Vaginitis was reported more rarely. Headache, monilial vaginitis, dizziness, and abdominal pain.

Contra-indication 'Keflex' is contra-indicated in persons who have shown hypersensitivity to cephalosporins.

'Keflex' is available in green and white capsules containing 250 mg cephalixin monohydrate. Further information is available on request.

when ageing arteries need a helping hand

DUVADILAN can improve blood flow through an artery even though it may be partly sclerosed.^{1,2} It fully exploits collateral vessels threatened by spasm and any remaining elasticity in a partially sclerosed artery, increasing the supply of oxygen and nourishment to starved tissues before they become irreversibly damaged. DUVADILAN (isoxsuprine hydrochloride) is unique in the treatment of cerebral insufficiency.^{1,2} CLINICAL EVIDENCE shows that, rather than indiscriminately dilating arteries and causing generalised hypotension, DUVADILAN acts primarily by relaxing vascular smooth muscle and relieving vasospasm.^{1,3,5,8,9} Furthermore, the arteriole tone is reduced, blood flow through the capillaries is dramatically increased, oxygen and nourishment to 'starved' brain tissue is improved and patients begin to show a marked improvement in outlook and emotional stability.^{2,4,6,7}

Isoprenaline content is low because P.I.B. fully utilises the pronounced enhancement of effect of this agent when it is used in combination with atropine methonitrate.

This enhancement was clearly shown in a trial¹ which compared this mixture with both drugs when used alone. The authors stated: "The combined inhalation of isoprenaline and atropine methonitrate showed substantial advantages over the other drugs."
