

Dyspepsia

If antacids were the complete answer, would he return to your surgery so often?

Antacids deal with excess acid. But, in many cases, dyspepsia involves more than this.

Unpleasant symptoms such as dyspepsia, heart-burn and gastritis can frequently be traced back to disturbed gastric motility. Recent research has shown that in many patients food is retained for too long in the stomach, gastric contents enter the oesophagus, and bile refluxes from the duodenum.<sup>1</sup>

With Maxolon, you can resolve this underlying problem. Maxolon restores gastric motility to normal, so that symptoms of dyspepsia are prevented.

Prescribe Maxolon (tablets or syrup) for your dyspepsia patients. They—and you—will appreciate the difference.

Full information on Maxolon in gastroduodenal conditions is available on request.

THE MOST SIGNIFICANT ADVANCE IN THE TREATMENT OF PARKINSONISM SINCE LEVODOPA

SINEMET®

IN THE TREATMENT OF PARKINSON'S DISEASE

now available

SINEMET®

'Sinemet' contains levodopa, and carbidopa—a new agent discovered by the Merck Sharp & Dohme Research Laboratories. Carbidopa inhibits only the extracerebral decarboxylation of levodopa, making more levodopa available for transport to the brain and subsequent conversion to dopamine.

'Sinemet' reduces or eliminates many of the adverse reactions seen in treatment with plain levodopa. With 'Sinemet,' quicker control can be achieved—usually within one week.

● HIGHLY EFFECTIVE

'Sinemet' is highly effective at doses approximately one quarter of those needed with plain levodopa.

● RAPID RESPONSE

'Sinemet' offers prompt relief of many of the major symptoms of Parkinson's disease—fully effective doses are usually reached within seven days.

● FEWER SIDE EFFECTS

'Sinemet' usually reduces and in some patients completely avoids certain distressing side effects caused by plain levodopa.

● EASY TO TRANSFER

Patients maintained on levodopa can be easily and quickly transferred to 'Sinemet' with expectation of better results.

IN THE TREATMENT OF PARKINSON'S DISEASE

'... 90 per cent of patients responded with a degree of improvement above 50 per cent. This compares favorably with the results obtained from the administration of L-Dopa alone. In fact, these results obtained within the first week of treatment were similar to those which one finds after six months or a year of treatment with L-Dopa alone.'

Trans. Amer. neurol. Ass., 1971, 96, 55

'Rapid induction of therapy, better diurnal symptomatic control and a new capability to administer pyridoxine to patients receiving levodopa constituted advantages of adding inhibitor [carbidopa] to levodopa.'

New Engl. J. Med., 1972, 286, 8 (6 Jan)

'The advantages include rapid improvement in functional capacity, more stable responses through the day in many patients, reduction in maintenance L-DOPA dosage requirements, elimination of the need to restrict pyridoxine intake, and decrease in those side effects attributable to extracerebral dopamine, particularly nausea, vomiting, and cardiac irregularity.'

'... the response of nearly all patients, including some who had no measurable response to L-DOPA is improved; and certain adverse reactions are reduced.'

Advances in Neurology, Vol 2, Raven Press, New York, 1973, p 161

'Patients treated with the combined therapy improved more rapidly, had less nausea and vomiting, and required a much smaller dose of levodopa than patients treated with levodopa by itself.'

J. Neurol. Neurosurg. Psychiat., 1973, 36, 10 (Feb)

'In summary, the combination of levodopa with alpha-methyldopa hydrazine [carbidopa] is an effective, rapid, and efficient means of reversing the parkinsonian state.'

FUNDAMENTALS OF CLINICAL ENDOCRINOLOGY

R. HALL, J. ANDERSON, G. A. SMART and G. M. BESSER

A new second edition of this book which was extremely well received on first publication. Aimed at a wide audience, it fills the need for a standard textbook on the subject. Contains sufficient information to allow diagnosis and treatment of all but the most obscure endocrine diseases. Practical details of investigations allow them to be carried out without reference to other sources. The full index is a source of material in its own right. Throughout, emphasis is placed on early diagnosis and treatment.

TUTORIALS IN DIFFERENTIAL DIAGNOSIS

E. R. BECK, J. L. FRANCIS and R. L. SOUHAMI

Aimed at the postgraduate, this exciting new book adopts a method of teaching quite different from other textbooks. It has been most carefully planned on the case-study, problem-orientated approach, and follows the same lines as the MRCP (UK) examination. 32 clinical situations are identified. Each discusses a common symptom or sign which is related to normal or abnormal function. The clinical features in the differential diagnosis are emphasized, and there is a discussion on investigations. An illustrative case-study, with questions, is given and this is followed by a suggested model answer.

edited by W. Ferguson Anderson and T. G. Judge

Department of Geriatric Medicine

Stobhill General Hospital, Glasgow, Scotland

March 1974, x+328pp., £4.80/$12.50 0.12.057250.8

This book is based on papers presented at an International Conference on Recent Advances in Geriatric Medicine held in Glasgow in 1972.

The carefully edited papers cover the five fields of geriatric medicine—teaching, research techniques, medicine of old age, nutrition and sociology. The resultant text represents a very up-to-date account of current thinking in geriatric medicine.

St. Mary's General Hospital, Portsmouth

and University of Southampton, England

April 1974, xiv+454pp., £9.00/$23.25 0.12.441750.7

Here is an up-to-date account of the pharmacological, biochemical and clinical advances in the field of parenteral nutrition, which will be of prime importance to everyone involved in the management of "intensive care" patients. Total parenteral nutrition regimes over prolonged periods, special applications in paediatrics and the developments in the solutions and techniques used, are all considered in detail.

Sub-Clinical Lead Poisoning

H. A. Waldron

Birmingham, England

and D. Stöfen

Montabaur, West Germany

April 1974, x+223pp., £5.50/$15.50 0.12.671650.1

During this century deaths from clinical lead poisoning have declined, but the use of lead is increasing and greater amounts are being released into the environment. There has been speculation that these increasing levels of lead pose a threat to the health of the community and especially to that of children. This book aims to provide a broad objective assessment of this new and somewhat controversial topic.

The Vibration Syndrome

edited by W. Taylor

Department of Social and Occupational Medicine

University of Dundee, Scotland

May 1974, xii+226pp., approx £5.00 0.12.684760.6

This volume contains the proceedings of an interdisciplinary conference on the medical, legal and engineering aspects of hand-arm vibration held at the University of Dundee in 1972. "Vibration-induced white finger" (VWF) results from prolonged exposure to vibrations transmitted through the hands from pneumatic drills and hammers, chain saws and similar tools. One of the aims of the conference was to correlate the physical parameters of the vibration with the resulting VWF in order to develop a safety standard for the future.

fast

decisive

SEPTRIN crushes bacterial resistance with a bactericidal action which differs essentially from that of the antibiotics.

"Clearly superior" to ampicillin.<sup>1</sup>

Rated top oral treatment in major British survey of urinary pathogen sensitivities.<sup>2</sup>

"Of the easily administered primary treatments for urinary tract infection, this combination is probably the best."<sup>3</sup>

used when the attack is under way, thus do not prevent damage to lung tissue. This can result in loss of elasticity of the bronchioles and lay the lungs open to chronic infection.

Only benefit areas which they can reach. Cannot always penetrate to areas in spasm, thus hyperventilation of the unaffected areas can occur while the obstructed areas get little or no relief.

Diminution of therapeutic effect can result in habituation and misuse.

"While a causal relationship between increased use of pressurised aerosol preparations and the epidemic of asthma deaths has not been conclusively established, the circumstantial evidence is so strong that every care should be taken to avoid excessive use of pressurised aerosols for the treatment of asthma in the future."<sup>1</sup>

“...spironolactone was more effective both as a diuretic and in conserving potassium”

“The effects of amiloride (5mg. daily) (as “Moduretic”) and spironolactone (25mg. twice daily) were compared in hypertensive patients with thiazide-induced hypokalaemia. On spironolactone, mean plasma-potassium rose from 3.08 to 3.52 meq. per litre ( $P < 0.01$ ) and the effect was sustained throughout the 6 months of treatment. Mean plasma-potassium rose from 3.01 to 3.46 meq. per litre after 1 month on moduretic but thereafter declined, averaging 3.27 meq. per litre over the 6 months. Although both treatments produced a further reduction in blood-pressure, spironolactone caused a greater fall in mean weight and plasma-sodium. It is concluded that, in the doses used, spironolactone was more effective both as a diuretic and in conserving potassium.”

There's now considerable evidence to show that Amoxil is more effective than other broad spectrum antibiotics in the treatment of chest infections.<sup>1,2,3,4</sup>

There are some good reasons for this:

Firstly, Amoxil is extremely well absorbed by the oral route,<sup>5</sup> attaining high bactericidal concentrations.

And secondly, the overall absorption is unaffected by the presence of food<sup>5</sup> which means your patient doesn't have to remember to take Amoxil half an hour or whatever before meals.

Couple this with Amoxil's apparently excellent ability to penetrate into bronchial secretions<sup>3,6</sup>, and you've probably explained why Amoxil out-performs other broad spectrums.<sup>1,2,3,4</sup> for an interesting and challenging range of work at its modern and well equipped hospital and health centre at Dhahran. The hospital, completed in 1956 at a cost of £3½ million has 132 beds, a staff of 100 and is accredited by the Joint Commission of American Hospitals. We are interested in hearing from qualified men, graduates of an approved medical school who have both completed their time as a houseman and had specialised in-hospital training in ophthalmology. They must have practised ophthalmology exclusively for 2 or more years since qualifying. Candidates must have a valid licence to practise medicine and be certified by an acceptable body of ophthalmologists. Active membership of an

Any similarity between Burinex and other diuretics is purely beneficial (and so are the differences.)

Different in Chemistry

Burinex* is a new chemical entity, being derived from metanilamide; it is quite distinct from any available diuretic. Despite careful search by such techniques as autoradiography, it has not been possible to detect any metabolite in the human.

Different in Pharmacology

Burinex differs in pharmacological potency, with a dose about one-fortieth that of any other short-acting diuretic. After oral administration, diuresis normally begins at 30 minutes – "peaks" at 90 minutes and is largely complete within three hours.

Beneficial in Effect

Burinex has been shown to be of value in clinical practice, not only for the seriously ill patient where a rapid diuresis is required but also for maintenance, where the predictable effect can be utilised to fit the patient's domestic circumstances and work routine. During long term treatment Burinex has proved to be very well tolerated.

Beneficial in Price

The price of Burinex is significantly less than any comparable diuretic. The long term use of Burinex would therefore represent a considerable saving in cost.
