SEPTRIN* was rated top in a major British survey of urinary pathogen sensitivities.[1]
Six clinical bacteriology laboratories—in Glasgow, Liverpool, Hull, Cardiff, Guildford and Salisbury—tested widely used antibacterials against a total of 23,491 urinary isolates (all species). The results showed that SEPTRIN outscored all other oral preparations. This survey complements clinical findings reported elsewhere of the superiority of SEPTRIN over ampicillin in urinary infections.[2,3,4]

DALMANE

Getting to sleep

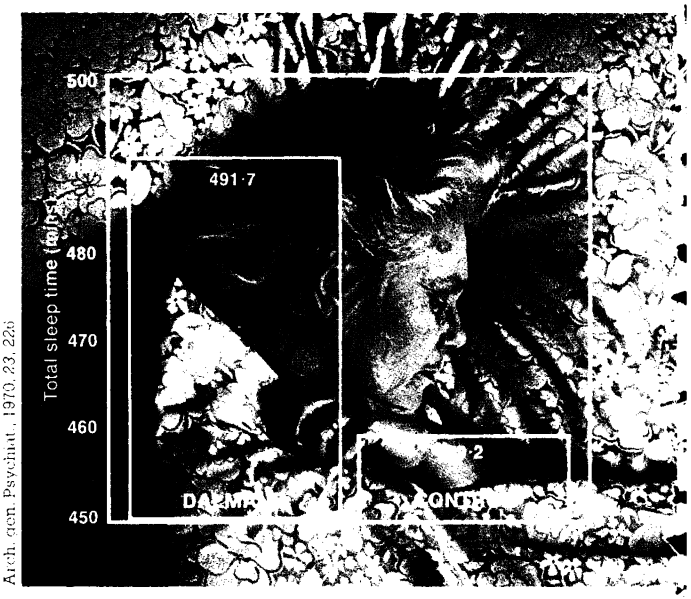

Arch. gen. Psychiat., 1970, 23, 226

Patients asleep in less than half the time

Clinical trials[1–3] have shown that Dalmane cuts sleep latency – the time taken to get to sleep – by half. In one study[3] Dalmane reduced the average sleep latency in a group of insomniacs from 36·2 minutes to 13·9 minutes.

Staying asleep

Arch. gen. Psychiat., 1970, 23, 226

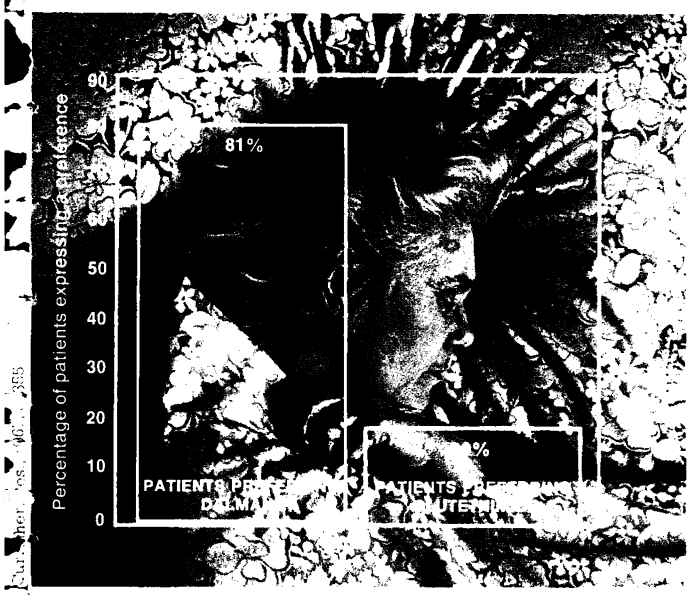

Average sleep of more than 8 hours

Dalmane increased the duration of sleep to – in one published study[3] – an average of 8 hours 11·7 minutes in patients who had previously suffered from insomnia. Dalmane also reduces the number of nocturnal awakenings[1,4] and the actual length of time spent awake during the night – from an average of 52·8 minutes to 24·3 minutes in one trial[4].

a new and powerful treatment for insomnia

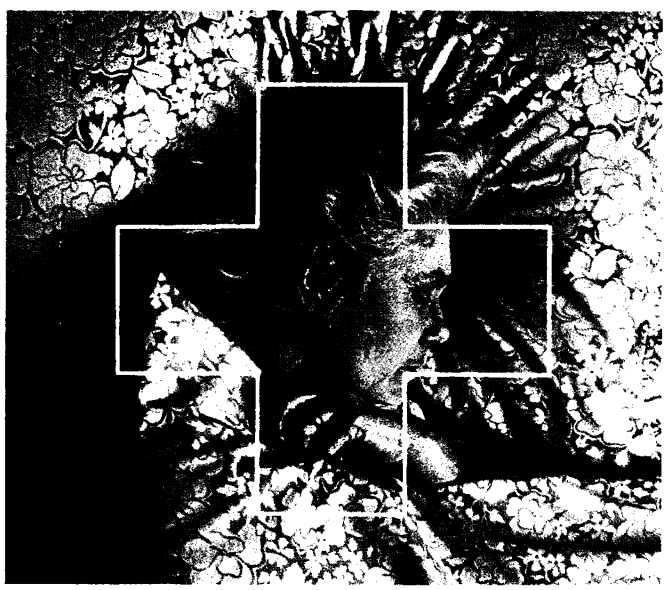

Patient Preference

Preferred by a greater number of patients[5] – low incidence of side-effects

In one trial in which Dalmane was compared with glutethimide, of those patients who expressed a preference 81 per cent did so in favour of Dalmane, whilst only 19 per cent preferred glutethimide. This high level of patient preference is due to the ability of Dalmane to produce sound sleep with a low incidence of side-effects. Dalmane has been shown to produce less hangover than glutethimide in another trial[6], than a barbiturate[7], and, in one trial even a placebo – 9 cases with Dalmane, 25 with placebo[8].

Safety

A non-barbiturate treatment for insomnia with a wide margin of safety

Dalmane has an extremely high mean lethal dose in mice and rats[9], thus suggesting that overdosage would be unlikely to present undue problems of management or threat to life. Human toxicity studies[10] in which healthy men were given large doses of Dalmane for some time confirmed that it is well tolerated and produces no unwanted systemic effects.

Herpid for Zoster–

First effective topical antiviral developed for general practice

Herpid is 5% idoxuridine, an agent effective against DNA viruses, in dimethyl sulphoxide, a penetrating solvent.

Herpid, brushed on to the vesicles by the patient regularly for 4 days, rapidly reduces pain and resolves lesions.

Eradicates pain

Herpid halves the duration of pain (otherwise often severe and long lasting) in most zoster patients. In one series the median duration of pain was only 3 days.

Less postherpetic neuralgia

Herpid greatly reduces the incidence and severity of postherpetic neuralgia.

Resolves lesions quickly

Herpid cuts the average healing time of lesions by almost a third.

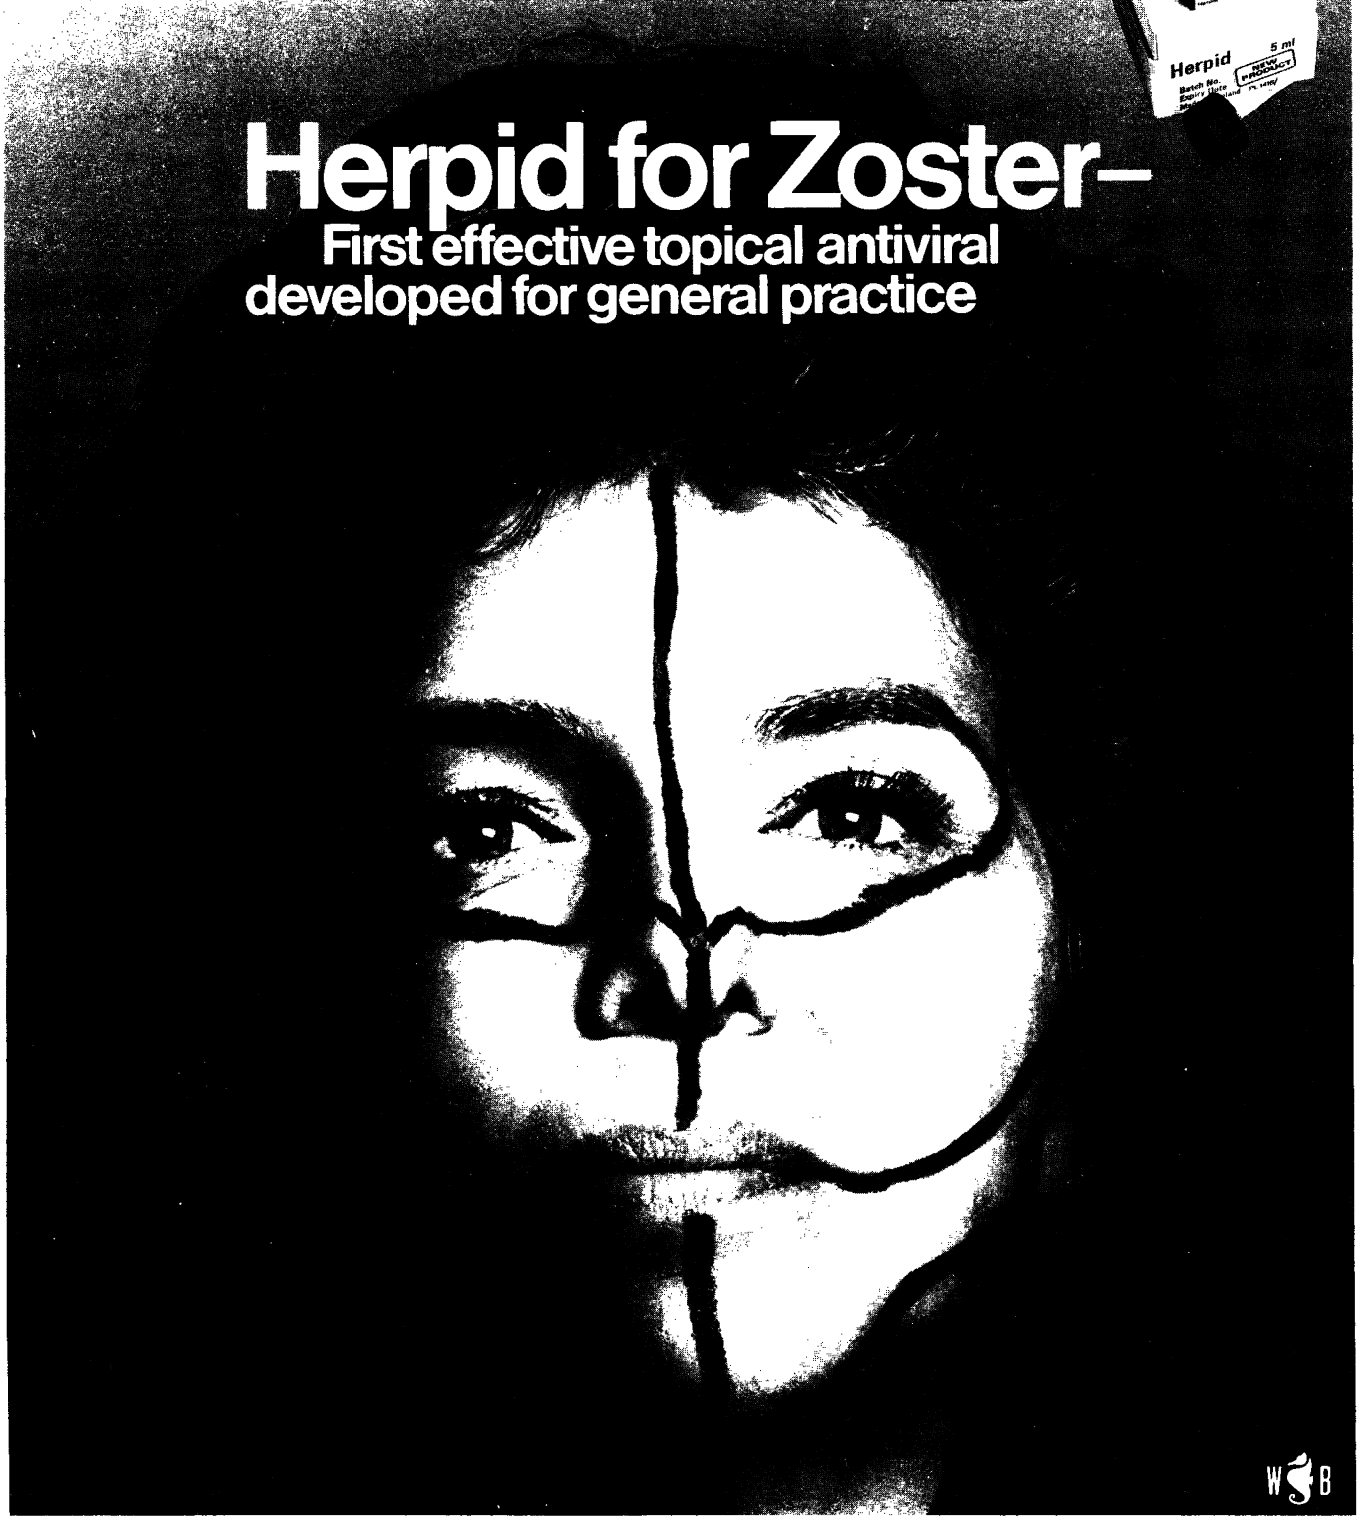

Herpid is most effective when used early in the course of the disease. So consider zoster in any patient presenting with unilateral root pain and prescribe Herpid.

Further information and dermatone maps are available on request. Please write or phone:

ADJU-FLUAX®

Influenza Virus Vaccine

A major breakthrough in influenza immunisation

Introduction
'Adju-Fluax' [Oil adjuvant influenza virus vaccine (inactivated), bivalent, types A (Port Chalmers) & B (Hong Kong), with adjuvant 65, MSD] is a purified adjuvant vaccine for single-dose primary immunisation and as a booster in persons previously vaccinated. 'Adju-Fluax' contains the recommended contemporary strains of killed influenza virus in an adjuvant consisting of 90 per cent peanut oil USP, 6 per cent isomannide mono-oleate CP (chemically pure), and 4 per cent aluminium monostearate CP. Each 0.5 ml dose of vaccine consists of 0.25 ml aqueous influenza vaccine and 0.25 ml adjuvant 65.

'Adju-Fluax' contains 400 IU of A/Port Chalmers/1/73 (H3N2) and 200 IU of B/Hong Kong/5/72. The inactivating agent is formaldehyde (5 mcg/ml) and the preservative, thiomersal (100 ppm). Other inactive ingredients are sodium phosphate, sodium chloride, sucrose, and sodium metabisulphite.

Influenza virus is remarkably capricious antigenically and significant changes may occur from time to time. It is known definitely that influenza virus vaccine, as now constituted, is not effective against all possible strains of influenza virus.

As with aqueous vaccine, protection is afforded primarily against those strains of virus from which the vaccine is prepared or against closely related strains. However, because 'Adju-Fluax' elicits antibody against heterologous strains in a high proportion of subjects, it is reasonable to assume that such subjects will be wholly or partially protected against infection by newer, antigenically different strains of influenza virus; clinical confirmation of this broad protection awaits emergence of the next influenza virus variant.

Indications
For primary immunisation against type A and type B strains of influenza virus, and as a booster in persons previously vaccinated.

Prophylaxis is desirable especially in persons of any age with certain chronic debilitating conditions: rheumatic heart disease, especially mitral stenosis; such cardiovascular disorders as arteriosclerotic heart disease and hypertension, particularly with evidence of cardiac insufficiency; chronic bronchopulmonary diseases such as asthma, chronic bronchitis, pulmonary fibrosis, pulmonary emphysema, and advanced pulmonary tuberculosis; diabetes mellitus or Addison's disease.

Older persons who may have incipient or potential chronic disease, particularly cardiovascular and bronchopulmonary, also should be considered candidates for vaccination.

Dosage and administration
'Adju-Fluax' must be given only by deep intramuscular injection into the deltoid muscle or mid-thigh; it must not be given subcutaneously or intravascularly. Precautions should be taken to prevent injection into a blood vessel.

The vaccine should be administered in summer or autumn to achieve peak antibody levels prior to the influenza season (winter and spring).

Adults, and children 10 years old and over
The entire contents (0.5 ml) of the prefilled syringe should be injected into the deltoid muscle or mid-thigh.

Children under 10 years of age
Recommendations for younger children cannot be made, owing to limited clinical data.

The sterile disposable syringe, aseptically prefilled with 0.5 ml of 'Adju-Fluax', should be removed from refrigeration about five to ten minutes before administration. The preparation is highly viscous when cold and flows more easily at room temperature. It must not be warmed above room temperature. 'Adju-Fluax' should be stored at 2 to 8 °C (35.6 to 46.4 °F). It must not be frozen.

Contra-indications
A history of hypersensitivity to egg, chicken, or chicken feathers.
Sensitivity to the adjuvant components (peanut oil, isomannide mono-oleate, aluminium monostearate).

Precautions
Adrenaline should always be ready for immediate use in case an anaphylactoid reaction occurs.

'Adju-Fluax' is for deep intramuscular injection only. It must not be given subcutaneously or intravascularly. If not given by deep intramuscular injection, it may cause sterile abscess. The necessary precautions should be taken to avoid intravascular injections.

Any febrile respiratory illness or any active infection is reason for delaying use of influenza virus vaccine, except when in the opinion of the physician, withholding the vaccine entails even greater risk.

Side effects
Local reactions showing varying degrees of tenderness, induration, erythema, or pea-sized nodule formation were occasionally observed during the clinical trials and were reversible. When a nodule occurred at the injection site, it typically disappeared in one to four weeks; rarely, it persisted for several months.

Mild fever of short duration has occurred with low frequency following vaccination, and fever above 101 °F (38.3 °C) has occurred less commonly.

Sterile abscess may occur if the vaccine is given subcutaneously rather than by deep intramuscular injection.

Encephalitis following administration of influenza vaccine has occurred rarely.

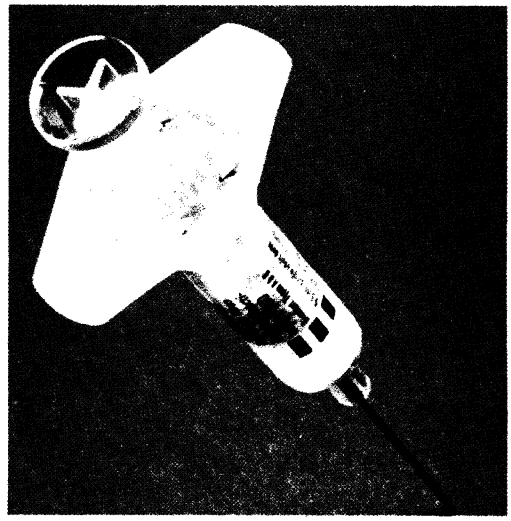

Presentation
'Adju-Fluax' is available in prefilled disposable syringes containing 0.5 ml of vaccine. Each 0.5 ml contains 400 IU of A/Port Chalmers/1/73 (H3N2) and 200 IU of B/Hong Kong/5/72. 'Adju-Fluax' is supplied as single syringes, or in cartons containing 10 individually packed syringes, or in outers of 100 containing 10 trays of 10 syringes.

The United Kingdom basic NHS cost is £1.45 per syringe. Quantity discount terms are available.

Product licence number: 0025/0083.

More detailed information is available to physicians on request.

One dose produces antibody levels that are longer-lasting and higher than two doses of standard aqueous vaccine

Merck Sharp & Dohme, world leaders in viral immunology, have developed a new type of vaccine that is a breakthrough in influenza immunisation. One dose produces antibody levels that are longer-lasting and higher than two doses of equivalent aqueous vaccine. Also, 'Adju-Fluax' gives greater protection by providing higher levels of nasal secretory and circulatory antibodies. 'Adju-Fluax' produces antibodies against heterologous strains in a high proportion of vaccinees. Thus, it may provide partial or total protection against infection by newer antigenically different strains of influenza virus.

Over the last ten years, 'Adju-Fluax' has been tested in more than 22,000 people. Follow-up studies have so far failed to detect evidence of long-term adverse effects, and local or systemic reactions were not significantly different from those seen after vaccination with aqueous vaccine.

- More comprehensive relief.

Mucodyne creates conditions conducive to the removal of sticky mucus, by acting upon the fibrillar protein-polysaccharide network basic to pathologically viscous mucus. In so doing Mucodyne brings about a reduction in the size and number of mucus producing cells.

- More effective relief.

By restoring more normal conditions, Mucodyne removes sticky mucus without the problem of rebound secretion seen with expectorants.

- More rapid relief

Mucodyne removes sticky mucus fast–response is seen often within 48 hours.*

Your requests for 400,000 booklets indicate they do.

Ignorance isn't bliss for many young girls when the changes of puberty occur. They want facts – and they're very likely to ask you for them.

To help you give them the facts about menstruation, we provide free booklets and charts. The booklets – one for beginning menstruants and one for older girls – also answer their social questions on menstruation.

The coloured charts, prepared by R. L. Dickinson, M.D., depict the physiology of menstruation. Laminated in plastic for permanence, they are suitable for grease pencil marking and erasure.

Do they help? Your response indicates they do. In five years, we've received over 28,000 requests for the charts – and we've sent you more than 400,000 booklets. Many of these are reorders – a good indication that you and your young patients appreciate them.

Users appreciate the distinctive features of the Tampax tampon, too. Designed for intravaginal use, it is softly compressed for efficient absorption and maximum comfort. It's placed in correct position hygienically by means of a satin-smooth container-applicator, prelubricated to facilitate insertion. It expands in three dimensions for complete protection. Its removal cord is chain stitched, for safety, to the entire length of the tampon. Both tampon and applicator are readily disposable in the toilet.

Because Tampax tampons are worn internally, there's no irritation, no chafing, no embarrassing menstrual odour. And for sports-active girls, particularly swimmers, tampons are a must.

Tampax tampons are available in Regular and Super absorbencies, with explicit directions for insertion and use enclosed in each package.

Please order your charts and booklets by writing to the address below.

Gastritis

If antacids were the complete answer, would he return to your surgery so often?

Antacids deal with excess acid. But, in many cases, dyspepsia involves more than this.

Unpleasant symptoms such as dyspepsia, heartburn and gastritis can frequently be traced back to disturbed gastric motility. Recent research has shown that in many patients food is retained for too long in the stomach, gastric contents enter the oesophagus, and bile refluxes from the duodenum.[1]

With Maxolon, you can resolve this underlying problem. Maxolon restores gastric motility to normal, so that symptoms of dyspepsia are prevented.

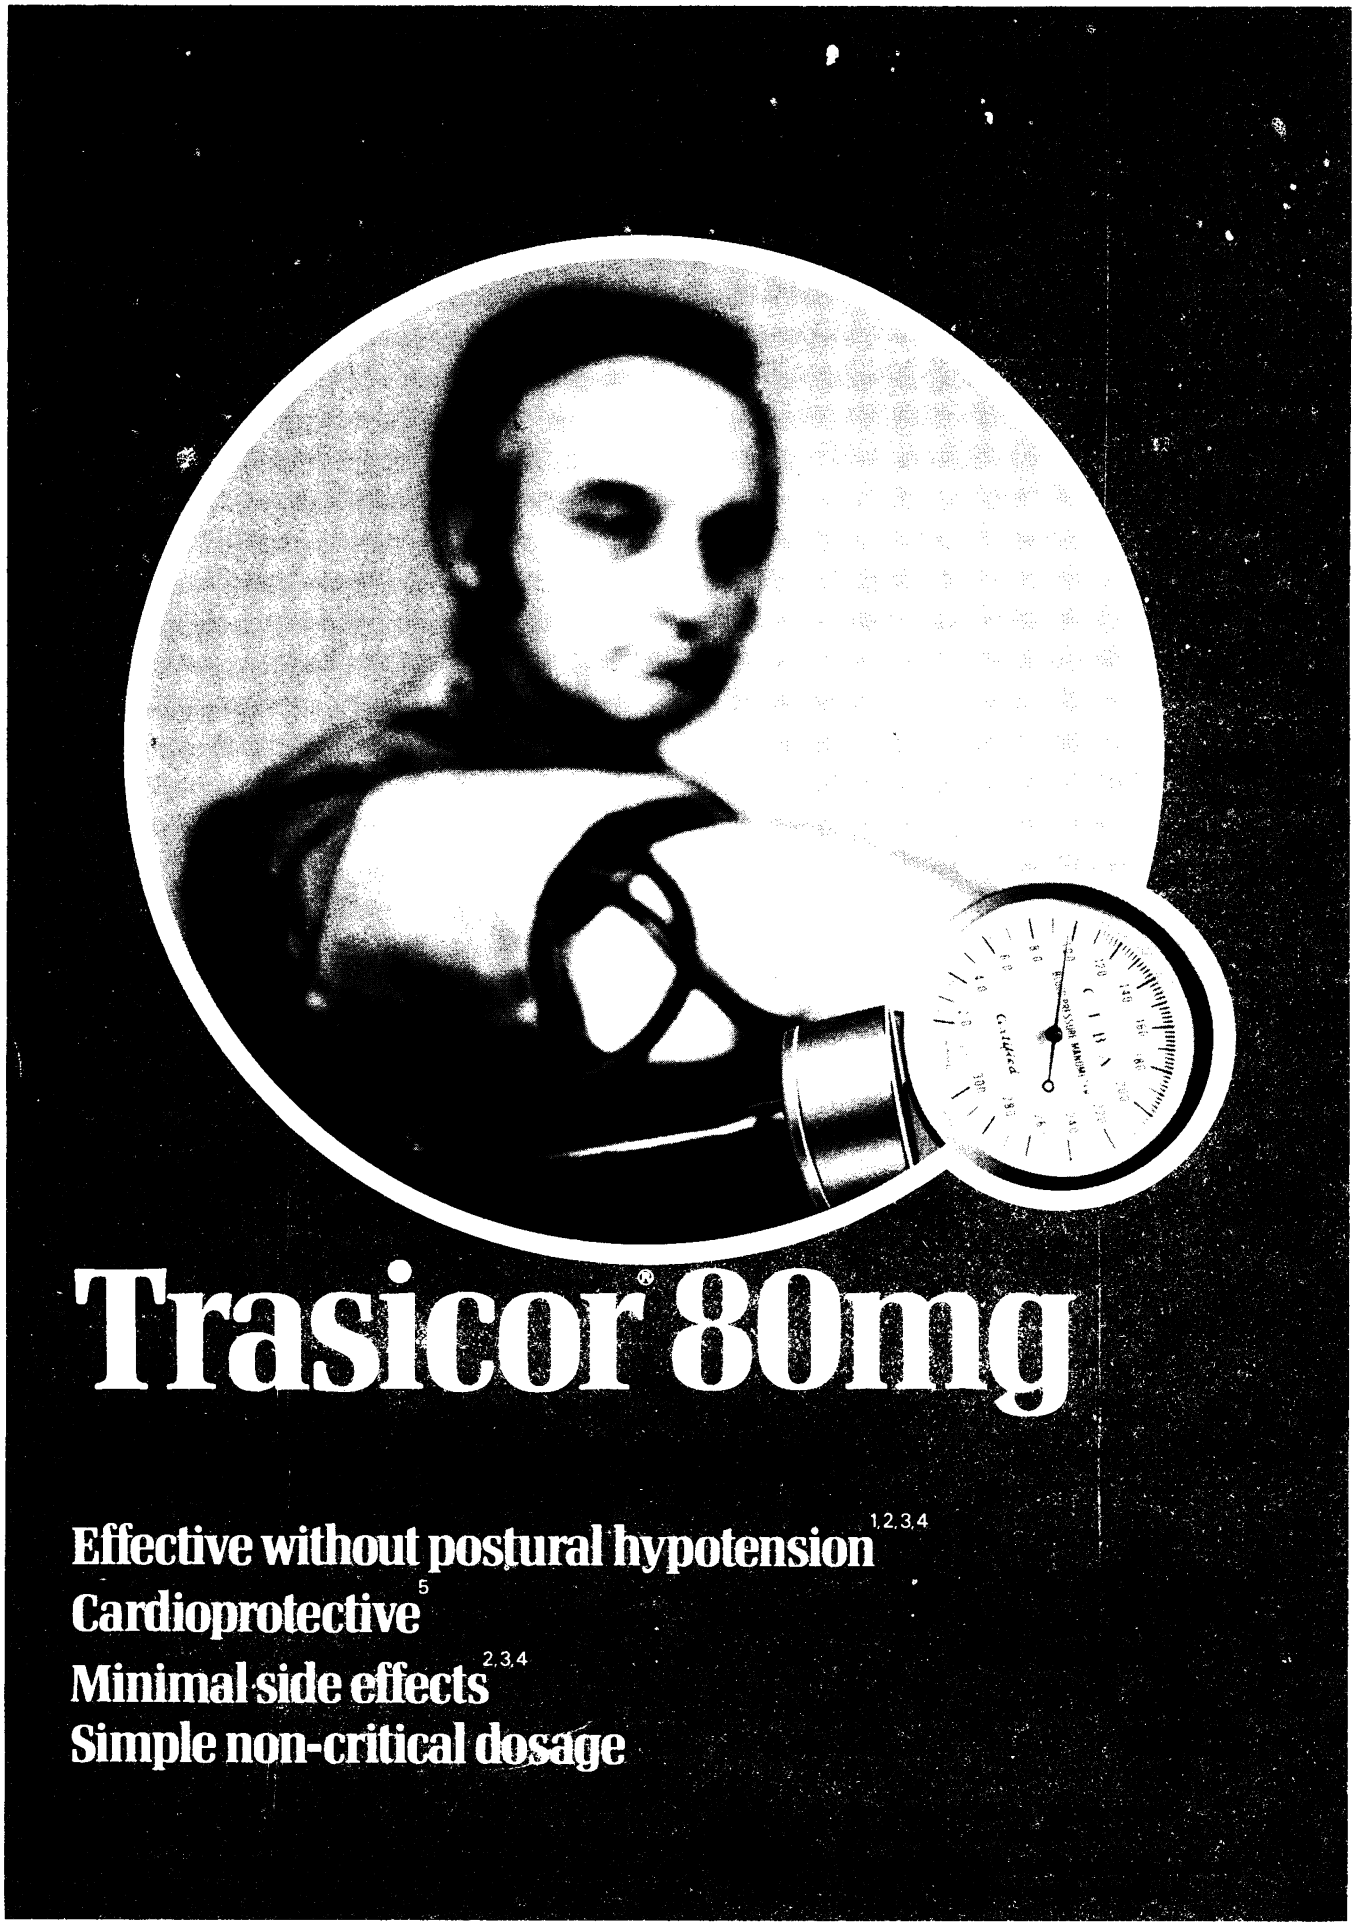

Prescribe Maxolon (tablets or syrup) for your dyspepsia patients. They–and you–will appreciate the difference.

Full information on Maxolon in gastroduodenal conditions is available on request.
