The Medical Management of Dyspepsia

Summary

Digestive disorders particularly dyspepsia, flatulence and symptoms of peptic ulcer have traditionally been treated with antacids or anticholinergic agents whose primary action is to reduce acidity.

Maxolon is an entirely different compound, both chemically and pharmacologically which acts by promoting normal gastric emptying, reducing the time during which the gastric mucosa is exposed to acid.

Maxolon has been shown to prevent the symptoms caused by oesophageal reflux, gastric stasis and regurgitation of bile and thus it provides long term relief for the dyspepsia patient who would otherwise suffer a routine of recurrent symptoms.

Introduction

Digestive disorders are one of the most common complaints encountered in General Practice, estimated at 12% of all surgery consultations. The majority of cases are acute short term conditions which, when treated symptomatically, resolve in a few days. A number of patients however, have recurrent flatulent dyspepsia, a symptom complex which has been defined as – "Epigastric discomfort after meals, a feeling of fullness so that tight clothing is loosened, eructation with temporary relief and regurgitation of sour fluid to the mouth with heartburn."<sup>1</sup>

Radiological investigation of these patients may reveal gall stones, a hiatus hernia, a peptic ulcer or combinations of these conditions but these symptoms can also affect those with normal barium meal and cholecystogram.<sup>1</sup>

Antacids

For more than 2,000 years, antacid therapy has been employed in treating dyspepsia patients and even today antacids are rarely omitted from the treatment regime.

There is no doubt that small doses of antacid with little apparent neutralising capacity will produce pain relief, but in the treatment of flatulent dyspepsia their use is worth a re-appraisal.

Firstly the action of even the most powerful antacids is limited by stomach emptying so that they must be taken as pain arises. This can lead to considerable inconvenience, particularly for the working patient, since antacids are most effective in suspension form.<sup>2</sup>

Secondly although antacid side-effects are usually mild they may present problems if therapy is long term. The most common complication is disturbance of bowel function.

As is well known, compounds containing magnesium have a strong laxative effect whilst others, such as aluminium hydroxide cause constipation.<sup>3</sup>

The more potent antacids, such as sodium bicarbonate or calcium carbonate, are not often used, firstly because of serious side effects such as alkalosis which can arise through systemic absorption of the compounds and secondly because their effectiveness may be reduced by resulting gastric hypersecretory action or acid rebound.

In rare cases hypermagnesaemia, hypercalcaemia or hypernatraemia may result from persistent use of some commonly used compounds.<sup>3</sup>

Care needs to be taken if antacids are prescribed concurrently with other drugs as they can interfere by several different mechanisms with the actions of certain compounds, in particular tetracyclines, anticholinergics and corticosteroids.<sup>3</sup>

Anticholinergics

Anticholinergics, (e.g. belladonna derivatives) like antacids, have been used to treat gastric disorders since ancient times. As inhibitors of gastric acid secretion, they may serve as a useful adjunct to antacid therapy providing more prolonged relief from acid pain (6-8 hours). In some cases, however, anticholinergics may exacerbate dyspepsia by increasing gastric stasis and thereby lengthening the time digestive juices are in the stomach.

Side-effects can also be a problem, although paradoxically unless they are produced, it cannot be assumed that a pharmacologically effective dose is being given.<sup>3</sup>

The most common side-effect is dry mouth but sometimes blurred vision, difficulty in micturition or impotence may also occur.<sup>3</sup>

Maxolon (metoclopramide)

Maxolon is a member of the orthopramide group of products and has been found to provide more fundamental treatment for the patient with flatulence, heartburn or dyspepsia than either antacids or anticholinergics. Its effect in promoting normal gastric emptying,<sup>4,5</sup> improves the efficiency and co-ordination of the gastro-duodenal tract, and significantly reduces the time during which the gastric mucosa is exposed to acid.<sup>6</sup>

Side-effects are uncommon, with lassitude and drowsiness the main problems. Cessation of treatment usually ensures that these transient effects rapidly disappear.

Occasional reports of extra-pyramidal reactions, often related to overdosage, have been received. Once again these effects are transient and usually respond to withdrawal of therapy.<sup>7</sup>

In practice, Maxolon's maintenance of normal gastro-duodenal function means that the patient can eat a normal diet and no longer experience symptoms – "some of the patients have been on the drug for up to two years and remain symptom free."<sup>8</sup>

Published reports in over 1,100 patients<sup>8,9,10,11</sup> show that Maxolon has a success rate of 84% in the treatment of various digestive disorders including X-ray negative dyspepsia and symptoms of peptic ulcer.

A booklet on the use of Maxolon (regd.) in the treatment of gastro-duodenal conditions is available from:

Beecham Research Laboratories, Freepost, Brentford, Middx. TW8 9BD.

A paediatric liquid presentation and ampoules for injection are also available. Average daily cost of Maxolon tablets (ex. 100 pack) 9p.

Side-effects and Precautions

There are no absolute contra-indications to the use of Maxolon. Various extra-pyramidal reactions to Maxolon, usually of the dystonic type, have been reported. The incidence of these reactions in children and young adults may be increased if daily dosages higher than 0.5mg/kg body weight are administered. Reactions include: spasm of the facial muscles, trismus, rhythmic protrusion of the tongue, a bulbar type of speech, spasm of extra-ocular muscles including oculogyric crises, unnatural positioning of the head and shoulders and opisthotonus. There may be a generalised increase in muscle tone. The majority of reactions occur within 36 hours of starting treatment and the effects usually disappear within 24 hours of withdrawal of the drug. Should treatment of a reaction be required, an anti-Parkinson drug may be used. Since extra-pyramidal symptoms may occur with both Maxolon and phenothiazines, care should be exercised in the event of both drugs being prescribed concurrently.

Maxolon's action on the gastro-intestinal tract is antagonised by anticholinergics. Although animal tests in several mammalian species have shown no teratogenic effects, treatment with Maxolon is not advised during the first trimester of pregnancy.

Following oral administration, Talpen is particularly well absorbed and rapidly hydrolysed to give high blood levels of ampicillin. Talpen makes more ampicillin available more quickly.

Talpen has proven its reliability over a wide range of infections, including respiratory infections where it has achieved a 95% success rate.<sup>2</sup> It has also been shown<sup>2</sup> that with Talpen there is a significant reduction in the incidence of diarrhoea, a common and sometimes troublesome occurrence with oral ampicillin.

Talpen at a dosage of one tablet tid, offers distinct advantages over ordinary ampicillin which recommend it as the new standard therapy for routine infections.

Indications: Typical indications include: Acute and Chronic Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and ENT infections.

Usual Adult Dosage: One tablet three times a day. Each tablet contains 250mg of the ampicillin ester, talampicillin hydrochloride.

Contra-indication: Penicillin hypersensitivity.

Precaution: Talpen is not recommended for patients with severe renal or hepatic impairment.

Side-effects: As with other penicillins. An erythematous rash may occasionally occur, the incidence is particularly high in patients with infectious mononucleosis. Each 250mg of talampicillin hydrochloride is chemically equivalent to 169mg of ampicillin.

HYCAL HELPS WITH THE DIETARY MANAGEMENT OF CIRRHOSIS OF THE LIVER.

It's not just a highly concentrated carbohydrate, it's also demineralised and therefore particularly suitable as a diet aid in cirrhosis of the liver.

HYCAL has been recognised as the most highly concentrated, readily assimilable fluid source of carbohydrate.

Its concentrated glucose syrup content is more palatable than other energy sources. HYCAL comes in flavours of lemon, orange, raspberry and blackcurrant. A unique feature in itself, and especially valuable for patients who soon get bored with a restricted diet.

Also, HYCAL is demineralised. So it contains a minimum level of electrolytes, such as potassium and sodium, which may be contra-indicated in cases of cirrhosis of the liver as well as renal failure.

This makes HYCAL ideal for patients with cirrhosis of the liver for whom a low sodium diet is essential.

The Borderline Substances Committee accepts that HYCAL can be regarded as a drug* for just such cases.

HYCAL has won the approval of the medical profession on its merit as a valuable aid in the sustenance of patients during the treatment not only of renal failure, but also cirrhosis of the liver.

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to scrutinize carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to B.M.A. agreements should consult the Secretary of the Association.

Advertisers are reminded that the Race Relations Board insists that no descriptive term implying racial, national, or ethnic characteristics may be used in any advertisement. Further, readers are advised not to apply for any appointment which discriminates between applicants on grounds of creed or unreasonably on grounds of sex.

HOSPITAL APPOINTMENTS

Applicants should state names, address, age, nationality, and qualifications, and enclose (unless otherwise specified) one copy of each of three recent testimonials, with a short statement of experience and appointments held. Applications should be sent at once if no closing date is given: Canvassing disqualifies (Statutory Instrument, 1974, No. 361).

All National Health Service hospital appointments are in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of Service of Hospital Medical Staff.

Further details concerning standards of residential accommodation, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave and other matters should be obtained from the Hospital Secretary; or by B.M.A. members from the Secretary, British Medical Association.

In particular, they will find full details of facilities provided in most hospitals in the United Kingdom in the current edition of the Hospital Gazetteer. If such details are not included members are advised to consult the Secretary of the B.M.A.

Applicants requiring hospital married accommodation are strongly advised to obtain, prior to interview, clarification in writing from the employing authority as to whether such accommodation will be available on appointment.

Advertisements for post-registration house officers, senior house officers and registrars should state clearly whether the post is resident, i.e. compulsorily resident.

In all advertisements grade should be clearly indicated. Normally a consultant vacancy must be advertised as (a) part-time with the number of sessions clearly stated, or (b) whole-time with the option of maximum part-time.

In the view of the B.M.A. an advertiser should not insist on possession of English higher qualifications in preference to Scottish or Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

MONKLANDS DISTRICT GENERAL HOSPITAL

PHYSICIAN (2 posts)

The Hospital, which is completely new, is provided in an area where no comparable services or facilities existed before. There will be no transfer of major general clinical units from other hospitals, and there will therefore be a unique opportunity to participate in the organisation and development of a large new General Hospital which is expected to evolve as a focus of postgraduate medical education.

The total bed complement is 584 and of these 120 will be brought into use initially. These comprise 42 medical, 42 surgical, 30 orthopaedic and 6 accident and emergency beds and in addition there will be appropriate out-patient clinics and full laboratory and diagnostic facilities will be available from the outset. The hospital is designed and equipped to the most modern standards of practice in its departments.

The remainder of the Hospital will be brought into use in phases related to the demand and increase of workload, and appropriate increases in staffing up to the full authorised establishment will be made at the same time. There will be four Physicians, four General Surgeons and four Orthopaedic Surgeons of whom one may be primarily responsible for the Accident and Emergency Department. The total establishment will be approximately 45 Consultant and over 60 junior staff.

One of the Consultant Physicians to be appointed will have responsibilities in organising and developing the department of medicine in the hospital until staffing reaches a level when the divisional system can be introduced and will also be required to provide advice and assistance to the Commissioning Team.

Initial Consultant appointment with comparable responsibilities in the other departments mentioned have already been made.

Particulars of Consultant appointments and application forms may be obtained from the Area Personnel Officer, Lanarkshire Health Board, 14 Beckford Street, Hamilton, ML3 0TA (Telephone: Hamilton 21199).

required as soon as possible. Many young doctors looking for a house job early in their career would shy away from psychiatry, but it could be a good idea, particularly if you want to enter general practice. Surveys of the workload in general practice have shown that up to 30% of patients consulting their practitioners have primary psychiatric problems and that in another 30% emotional difficulties are a prominent secondary factor. So why not consider working for your D.P.M. or M.R.C. Psych. at a modern Psychiatric Hospital with a big new District General Hospital in its grounds? Besides general clinical psychiatry the hospital (1,100 beds) has a variety of interesting special units: Alcoholic, Mother and Baby, Psychiatric, Intensive Care, plus a rapidly expanding Community Psychiatric Nursing Service. It shares an active Postgraduate Education Centre with the District General Hospital, runs regular weekly case conferences and grants generous study leave to doctors attending the Wessex School of Psychiatry for the courses in the D.P.M. and M.R.C. Psych. The hospital also has Category A approval from the Royal College of Psychiatrists. An active hospital social club exists and besides the usual varied sporting activities it boasts an excellent nine-hole golf course whilst Basingstoke itself has one of the best sports centres in the country. The post is resident and single/married accommodation will be available.

Vice President of Medical Affairs

Denmark

First class salary

This is an exceptional opportunity — for a young and vigorous physician with broadly-based experience in the pharmaceutical industry — to plan, install and develop an international medical affairs function.

Our client, Novo Industri A/S, is a medium-sized and highly successful company specialising in two main fields of activity — pharmaceuticals and biochemicals. Novo has worldwide sales in excess of £60 million and subsidiaries in 13 countries, and is currently embarking upon a substantial international expansion programme.

In the pharmaceutical field, the company is best known for its insulin preparations, of which it is the world's largest exporter. Apart from a major on-going commitment to research into the aetiology and treatment of diabetes, other fields of current research interest include endocrinology sensu lato, penicillin and cephalosporin antibiotics, cardiovascular agents, radioimmunologicals, and enzymes for medical use. Pharmaceutical R & D expenditure is presently running at some £3.5 million per year.

As part of its international expansion programme, Novo seeks a Vice President of Medical Affairs. This is an entirely new position, and the successful candidate will play a crucial role in directing the Company's worldwide medical activities, including clinical trials on both marketed products and new compounds under development, negotiation with drug registration authorities, and the provision of strategic marketing advice and support.

Novo has an unusually young and dynamic Corporate Management Board, and the new Vice President — ideally aged about 35 to 45 — will need style, drive, enthusiasm and all-round standards of excellence to make his mark.

The post will be based at the Company's modern headquarters and research laboratories, located in a pleasant semi-rural area about 20 minutes drive from the centre of Copenhagen.

Even allowing for the high taxation rates and cost of living in Denmark, an exceptionally attractive remuneration package will be negotiated individually. Other benefits will of course include a car and the provision of tuition facilities in Danish at the company's expense.

If you meet our requirements, please write for additional information and an application form, or 'phone if you would like to discuss the position further. Please quote Reference NC 17.

Dr. A. E. F. Chandler, Talentmark Ltd,
King House, 11 Westbourne Grove,
London W2 4UA. Tel: 01-229 2266.

As further medical recruitment is planned shortly, we should also be pleased to hear from young internationally-minded physicians in the pharmaceutical industry whose experience does not yet equip them for such a senior appointment.

brand of doxepin *Trade Mark

greater effect in depression/anxiety ...less effect on the cardiovascular system

Sinequan is less likely than either imipramine or amitriptyline to cause cardiac conduction defects, both at therapeutic doses and in overdoses.<sup>1</sup>

Unlike amitriptyline and imipramine, Sinequan at the normal clinical dosage can be given with guanethidine and related compounds without blocking the anti-hypertensive effect.<sup>2</sup>

Sinequan will not pose the problems of euphoria and dependence. Only one case of euphoria was observed in 1,706 patients receiving Sinequan for up to 22 months.<sup>2</sup>

Unlike the phenothiazines, Sinequan has no tendency to cause opacities of the lens or cornea after long-term usage.<sup>2</sup>

Sinequan will not normally exert any appreciable effect on blood pressure or pulse rate. This holds true even in the elderly who often have exaggerated adverse reactions to psychotropic drugs.<sup>2</sup>

What the papers say

Shortest Acting

"With doses up to 1 mg, the natriuresis was largely complete within 3 hrs."<sup>3</sup>
 "It (Burinex) has a short duration of action, being virtually complete in 3 hrs."<sup>4</sup>

Fast Acting

"The rapid absorption from the gastrointestinal tract is reflected in the brisk diuresis established within the hour."<sup>1</sup>
 "Its (Burinex Injection) onset of action is within 10 min."<sup>2</sup>
 "Bumetanide is rapidly absorbed from the gut."<sup>3</sup>

Clinically Effective

"Fourteen patients showed a good diuretic response on bumetanide where previous treatment with frusemide had proved either unsatisfactory or too slow."<sup>5</sup>
 "An impressive diminution of the signs of pulmonary oedema was seen in most patients and in some the clearance of alveolar oedema was dramatic."<sup>6</sup>
 "Based upon our experience with the use of bumetanide in several hundreds of patients and the detailed studies reported above, it may be concluded that this new diuretic agent is a very useful drug in the treatment of congestive cardiac failure."<sup>7</sup>
 "Our study... confirms that bumetanide is a potent diuretic effective over a wide dose range and in a variety of clinical conditions."<sup>1</sup>

Well tolerated

"Burinex was extremely well tolerated."<sup>12</sup>
 "Bumetanide was well tolerated by patients."<sup>1</sup>
 "Overall, bumetanide showed itself to be a safe and effective diuretic when administered to severely ill patients in a busy hospital milieu."<sup>5</sup>

The correct amount of K

"It is known from short-term studies that 1 mg. of bumetanide increases the excretion of potassium by 10-15 mmol daily (Asbury et al, 1972; Olesen et al, 1973; Davies et al, 1974). Two tablets of the combined preparation Burinex K contain 1 mg. of bumetanide and 16 mmol of potassium."<sup>8</sup>

At the correct time

"35% of the potassium chloride is released by one hour, the rest being released over a period of six hours."<sup>4</sup>

The Morning OR Evening diuretic

"The rapid onset and short duration of action of loop diuretics are clearly desirable when a rapid diuresis is indicated, and when given in the evening to patients with chronic heart failure, the short duration of action can ensure a good nights sleep undisturbed by nocturia or breathlessness."<sup>9</sup>
 "The use of potent and short-acting diuretics such as bumetanide allow the Physician and patient scope to decide upon the most appropriate time for administration and so reduce major disruptions in the patient's daily routine."<sup>10</sup>
 "Patients who go out to work may find Burinex K given in the evening more socially acceptable."<sup>11</sup>

Patients prefer Burinex K

"These results indicate that when long-term diuretic/potassium supplement therapy is required, Burinex K is a more acceptable regimen to the patients than one in which diuretic + Slow K are given separately."<sup>13</sup>
 "Patients showed a highly significant preference to take two tablets on one occasion (Burinex K) rather than two different types of tablet on three separate occasions (Lasix + K)."<sup>14</sup>

* Burinex is a trade mark

Rx ... But of course the decision is yours.
