CUT CHOLESTEROL

Polyunsaturated cod liver oil reduces blood cholesterol by 15.8%

The recently published Report of the Joint Working Party of the Royal College of Physicians of London and the British Cardiac Society (1) makes general dietary recommendations considered desirable to counter the risk of Coronary Heart Disease. These recommendations emphasise the need to reduce the intake of hard saturated fats and replace with oils rich in polyunsaturates.

There are limited opportunities for substitution with polyunsaturated oils in the modern diet, but modern Cod Liver Oil offers a valuable nutritional supplement rich in polyunsaturates which have been shown to be effective in reducing serum cholesterol levels, (2) (3). The polyunsaturates of Cod Liver Oil are unique to marine products and help supplement the linoleic acid polyunsaturates specific to vegetable oils.

In addition, of course, Cod Liver Oil supplies the important Vitamins A and D, and energy, making it an important nutritional supplement, particularly for the older patients.

The Medical Management of Dyspepsia

Summary

Digestive disorders particularly dyspepsia, flatulence and symptoms of peptic ulcer have traditionally been treated with antacids or anticholinergic agents whose primary action is to reduce acidity.

Maxolon is an entirely different compound, both chemically and pharmacologically which acts by promoting normal gastric emptying, reducing the time during which the gastric mucosa is exposed to acid.

Maxolon has been shown to prevent the symptoms caused by oesophageal reflux, gastric stasis and regurgitation of bile and thus it provides long term relief for the dyspepsia patient who would otherwise suffer a routine of recurrent symptoms.

Introduction

Digestive disorders are one of the most common complaints encountered in General Practice, estimated at 12% of all surgery consultations. The majority of cases are acute short term conditions which, when treated symptomatically, resolve in a few days. A number of patients however, have recurrent flatulent dyspepsia, a symptom complex which has been defined as – "Epigastric discomfort after meals, a feeling of fullness so that tight clothing is loosened, eructation with temporary relief and regurgitation of sour fluid to the mouth with heartburn."<sup>1</sup>

Radiological investigation of these patients may reveal gall stones, a hiatus hernia, a peptic ulcer or combinations of these conditions but these symptoms can also affect those with normal barium meal and cholecystogram.<sup>1</sup>

Antacids

For more than 2,000 years, antacid therapy has been employed in treating dyspepsia patients and even today antacids are rarely omitted from the treatment regime.

There is no doubt that small doses of antacid with little apparent neutralising capacity will produce pain relief, but in the treatment of flatulent dyspepsia their use is worth a re-appraisal.

Firstly the action of even the most powerful antacids is limited by stomach emptying so that they must be taken as pain arises. This can lead to considerable inconvenience, particularly for the working patient, since antacids are most effective in suspension form.<sup>2</sup>

Secondly although antacid side-effects are usually mild they may present problems if therapy is long term. The most common complication is disturbance of bowel function.

As is well known, compounds containing magnesium have a strong laxative effect whilst others, such as aluminium hydroxide cause constipation.<sup>3</sup>

The more potent antacids, such as sodium bicarbonate or calcium carbonate, are not often used, firstly because of serious side effects such as alkalosis which can arise through systemic absorption of the compounds and secondly because their effectiveness may be reduced by resulting gastric hypersecretory action or acid rebound.

In rare cases hypermagnesaemia, hypercalcaemia or hypernatraemia may result from persistent use of some commonly used compounds.<sup>3</sup>

Care needs to be taken if antacids are prescribed concurrently with other drugs as they can interfere by several different mechanisms with the actions of certain compounds, in particular tetracyclines, anticholinergics and corticosteroids.<sup>3</sup>

Anticholinergics

Anticholinergics, (e.g. belladonna derivatives) like antacids, have been used to treat gastric disorders since ancient times. As inhibitors of gastric acid secretion, they may serve as a useful adjunct to antacid therapy providing more prolonged relief from acid pain (6-8 hours). In some cases, however, anticholinergics may exacerbate dyspepsia by increasing gastric stasis and thereby lengthening the time digestive juices are in the stomach.

Side-effects can also be a problem, although paradoxically unless they are produced, it cannot be assumed that a pharmacologically effective dose is being given.<sup>3</sup>

The most common side-effect is dry mouth but sometimes blurred vision, difficulty in micturition or impotence may also occur.<sup>3</sup>

Maxolon (metoclopramide)

Maxolon is a member of the orthopramide group of products and has been found to provide more fundamental treatment for the patient with flatulence, heartburn or dyspepsia than either antacids or anticholinergics. Its effect in promoting normal gastric emptying,<sup>4-5</sup> improves the efficiency and co-ordination of the gastro-duodenal tract, and significantly reduces the time during which the gastric mucosa is exposed to acid.<sup>6</sup>

Side-effects are uncommon, with lassitude and drowsiness the main problems. Cessation of treatment usually ensures that these transient effects rapidly disappear.

Occasional reports of extra-pyramidal reactions, often related to overdosage, have been received. Once again these effects are transient and usually respond to withdrawal of therapy.<sup>7</sup>

In practice, Maxolon's maintenance of normal gastro-duodenal function means that the patient can eat a normal diet and no longer experience symptoms – "some of the patients have been on the drug for up to two years and remain symptom free."<sup>8</sup>

Published reports in over 1,100 patients<sup>8,9,10,11</sup> show that Maxolon has a success rate of 84% in the treatment of various digestive disorders including X-ray negative dyspepsia and symptoms of peptic ulcer.

A booklet on the use of Maxolon (regd.) in the treatment of gastro-duodenal conditions is available from:

Beecham Research Laboratories, Freeport, Brentford, Middx. TW8 9BD.

The Medical Management of Dyspepsia

Maxolon

prescribing information

Indications

Dyspepsia, heartburn and flatulence associated with the following conditions:
 Peptic Ulcer      Gastritis
 Hiatus hernia      Gall-bladder disease
 Reflux oesophagitis Post-operative conditions

Adult Dosage (oral)

Adults
 10mg 1 tablet or 3 times a day
 10ml syrup
 Young adults (15-20 years)
 5-10mg ½-1 tablet or 3 times a day
 5-10ml syrup commencing at the lower dosage

Note: Total daily dosage of Maxolon, especially for children and young adults, should not normally exceed 0.5mg/kg body weight.

Availability and NHS Prices

Tablets 10mg
 (64p for 20)

Syrup 100ml
 5mg/5ml (64p)

A paediatric liquid presentation and ampoules for injection are also available. Average daily cost of Maxolon tablets (ex. 100 pack) 9p.

Side-effects and Precautions

There are no absolute contra-indications to the use of Maxolon. Various extra-pyramidal reactions to Maxolon, usually of the dystonic type, have been reported. The incidence of these reactions in children and young adults may be increased if daily dosages higher than 0.5mg/kg body weight are administered. Reactions include: spasm of the facial muscles, trismus, rhythmic protrusion of the tongue, a bulbar type of speech, spasm of extra-ocular muscles including oculogyric crises, unnatural positioning of the head and shoulders and opisthotonus. There may be a generalised increase in muscle tone. The majority of reactions occur within 36 hours of starting treatment and the effects usually disappear within 24 hours of withdrawal of the drug. Should treatment of a reaction be required, an anti-Parkinson drug may be used. Since extra-pyramidal symptoms may occur with both Maxolon and phenothiazines, care should be exercised in the event of both drugs being prescribed concurrently.

Maxolon's action on the gastro-intestinal tract is antagonised by anticholinergics. Although animal tests in several mammalian species have shown no teratogenic effects, treatment with Maxolon is not advised during the first trimester of pregnancy.

TODAY'S TREATMENT

From the British Medical Journal

Faced with a succession of new drugs, doctors need authoritative advice on the selection of the most effective remedies for common disorders; and that is the aim of Today's Treatment. This first volume contains articles published in the British Medical Journal in 1974-75 on disorders of the skin and blood and on psychiatric and neurological diseases. These simple clear accounts of assessment and management provide all the information needed for a rational choice of the best treatment for each individual patient.

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to scrutinize carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to B.M.A. agreements should consult the Secretary of the Association.

Advertisers are reminded that the Race Relations Board insists that no descriptive term implying racial, national, or ethnic characteristics may be used in any advertisement. Further, readers are advised not to apply for any appointment which discriminates between applicants on grounds of creed or unreasonably on grounds of sex.

HOSPITAL APPOINTMENTS

Applicants should state names, address, age, nationality, and qualifications, and enclose (unless otherwise specified) one copy of each of three recent testimonials, with a short statement of experience and appointments held. Applications should be sent at once if no closing date is given: Canvassing disqualifies (Statutory Instrument, 1974, No. 361).

All National Health Service hospital appointments are in accordance with the Terms and Conditions of Service of Hospital Medical Staff.

Further details concerning standards of residential accommodation, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave and other matters should be obtained from the Hospital
Secretary; or by B.M.A. members from the Secretary, British Medical Association.

In particular, they will find full details of facilities provided in most hospitals in the United Kingdom in the current edition of the Hospital Gazetteer. If such details are not included members are advised to consult the Secretary of the B.M.A.

Applicants requiring hospital married accommodation are strongly advised to obtain, prior to interview, clarification in writing from the employing authority as to whether such accommodation will be available on appointment.

Advertisements for post-registration house officers, senior house officers and registrars should state clearly whether the post is resident, i.e. compulsorily resident.

In all advertisements grade should be clearly indicated. Normally a consultant vacancy must be advertised as (a) part-time with the number of sessions clearly stated, or (b) whole-time with the option of maximum part-time.

In the view of the BMA, an advertiser should not insist on possession of English higher qualifications in preference to Scottish or Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

SALARY SCALES OF HOSPITAL MEDICAL STAFF

+ HOUSE OFFICER: Each post in this grade shall be tenable for six months. £2,859 per annum for the posts held during the first year; £3,075 per annum for posts held

Occupational Health

Experienced Doctors Starting salary up to £9560

The Employment Medical Advisory Service is responsible for all aspects of occupational medicine in the Health and Safety Executive. There are now vacancies for Advisers within the Service as follows (others may arise in the Regional network):—

Evaluation of danger from Chemicals

EMAS Headquarters (London)

Post on a medical/scientific team investigating chemical hazards in industrial, agricultural, scientific, and all other fields of employment. The Research and Laboratory Services Division of HSE co-operates in this work which also involves liaison with other Government Departments, and academic and research institutions. The successful candidate will also work with Medical Advisers in the Regions, maintain international links, and prepare and present HSE contributions at meetings in Britain and abroad.

Advisory-Consultancy role in the field

Bradford + Luton + Southampton + Wigan/Liverpool

The work of Medical Advisers in the Regional network is extremely varied in content and in the demands it places on professional expertise. It includes giving advice on occupational health problems of people at work, and examining and advising on young persons not fully fit for employment as well as on people undergoing training or rehabilitation. In addition they carry out investigations and formal surveys, and provide guidance on working conditions and other matters affecting occupational health and medicine. They are in constant contact, on the one hand, with workers, their representatives and employers, and on the other, with general practitioners, hospital staff and other medical professionals.

Where possible, Advisers will work in groups, and nurses have been appointed to some groups. Full support is available, including clerical, laboratory and statistical facilities.

Applicants must be fully registered medical practitioners in the United Kingdom. Experience in industrial medicine or in allied subjects, such as toxicology, pulmonary physiology, pathology, rehabilitation or psychiatry, is desirable, and the possession of higher qualifications will be an advantage. A current driving licence is essential.

Starting salary between £7,300 and £9,560 (higher in London). There are good prospects of promotion to posts with salaries of £11,000 and beyond. The pension is non-contributory and previous superannuation rights will normally be transferable.

For further details and an application form (to be returned by 12 November 1976) write to Civil Service Commission, Alencon Link, Basingstoke, Hants, RG21 1JB, or telephone Basingstoke (0256) 68551 (answering service operates outside office hours). Please quote ref: S/9400/2.

Brisbane, Queensland
Royal Brisbane Hospital, Department of Radiology

DEPUTY DIRECTORS (3 positions)

Applications are called for the positions of Deputy Directors of Radiology (3 positions) in the Department of Radiology at the Royal Brisbane Hospital. The appointees will work under the general direction of the Director of Radiological Services to the Royal Brisbane Hospitals Group. The Royal Brisbane Hospitals Group consists of the Royal Brisbane, Royal Children's and Royal Women's Hospitals. The appointees will have close association with the Radiologists at the Royal Children's Hospital, each of the three positions will have special responsibilities. It is envisaged that the special responsibilities will be —

1. Neuro-radiological Services
2. Special Procedures
3. General radiological services, Casualty radiological services and Obstetrical radiological services.

Applicants should state their special interest of preference for any of the three positions. The Royal Brisbane Hospital has some 1,100 beds and the Department of Radiology performs some 130,000 procedures per year. The equipment in the Radiological Department is at present being up dated and the department itself is being extensively enlarged by an extension to the new department in an adjoining new block.

In the General Department all types of radiological procedures are carried out and it is contemplated that ultrasound and body scanning will be added as soon as these procedures become an established reality.

The Neuro-radiological Department is situated within the Department of Neurology and Neurosurgery and is equipped with a Mimer III Neuro-radiological Unit and an E.M.I. Head Scanner.

In the Department, as well as the Deputy Directors, there is an establishment of a Director, 8 Staff Radiologists and 11 Registrars in training. Close co-operation is expected between the department and the newly created Chair of Radiology within the University of Queensland. The positions are permanent after a period of 12 months probation. Superannuation, 5 weeks annual leave, sick leave and overseas study leave are provided.

Salary is $29,458 per annum.

Further information available from the Agent-General for Queensland, 392 Strand, London WC2R 0LZ, to whom applications should be sent, giving full details of qualifications, age and experience, together with the names and addresses of three referees. Closing date: 18th February, 1977. (8046)

PUBLIC SERVICE OF SOUTH AUSTRALIA HOSPITALS DEPARTMENT FLINDERS MEDICAL CENTRE STAFF SPECIALIST IN DIAGNOSTIC RADIOLOGY

Applications are invited for a fulltime Staff Specialist post in Diagnostic Radiology to participate in the Diagnostic Radiological Services at the new Flinders Medical Centre which is situated 13 km. south of the City of Adelaide and has a dual role as a regional community hospital and a university teaching hospital. The complex houses all the hospital and medical school functions in a single group of buildings. The first 320 beds and supporting services (including Accident and Emergency, Consulting Clinics, Diagnostic Services Laboratories, Diagnostic Radiology and Nuclear Medicine) were opened in April, 1976. The Medical Centre will increase to 550 beds late in 1977.

Preference will be given to applicants with a particular interest in General or Cardiovascular Radiology. The Radiology Department provides an integrated imaging service with a wide range of modern diagnostic radiological equipment, nuclear medicine and ultrasound facilities. Computerised Tomography will be available in 1977.

The appointee will be expected to teach both undergraduates and postgraduates and participate in research programmes. The appointee will be given academic status with Flinders University of South Australia.

Further information is available from Dr. G. T. Benness, Professor of Radiology

Salary: $21,130/23,625 or $24,456/26,120. For appointment to the higher range, five years' professional experience following attainment of the appropriate specialist qualification is required.

Special Conditions: Hours of duty are nominally 37½ per week, rostered over 7 days if required, with out-of-hours duty as required, allowance for which has been made in the salary. Limited rights of private practice within the Medical Centre apply where appropriate.

Qualifications: Eligible for registration as a Staff Specialist in Radiology with the Medical Board of South Australia.

What the papers say

Shortest Acting

"With doses up to 1 mg, the natriuresis was largely complete within 3 hrs."<sup>3</sup>
 "It (Burinex) has a short duration of action, being virtually complete in 3 hrs."<sup>1</sup>

Fast Acting

"The rapid absorption from the gastrointestinal tract is reflected in the brisk diuresis established within the hour."<sup>1</sup>
 "Its (Burinex Injection) onset of action is within 10 min."<sup>2</sup>
 "Bumetanide is rapidly absorbed from the gut."<sup>3</sup>

Clinically Effective

"Fourteen patients showed a good diuretic response on bumetanide where previous treatment with frusemide had proved either unsatisfactory or too slow."<sup>5</sup>
 "An impressive diminution of the signs of pulmonary oedema was seen in most patients and in some the clearance of alveolar oedema was dramatic."<sup>6</sup>

"Based upon our experience with the use of bumetanide in several hundreds of patients and the detailed studies reported above, it may be concluded that this new diuretic agent is a very useful drug in the treatment of congestive cardiac failure."<sup>7</sup>
 "Our study... confirms that bumetanide is a potent diuretic effective over a wide dose range and in a variety of clinical conditions."<sup>1</sup>

Well tolerated

"Burinex was extremely well tolerated."<sup>12</sup>
 "Bumetanide was well tolerated by patients."<sup>1</sup>
 "Overall, bumetanide showed itself to be a safe and effective diuretic when administered to severely ill patients in a busy hospital milieu."<sup>5</sup>

The correct amount of K

"It is known from short-term studies that 1 mg. of bumetanide increases the excretion of potassium by 10-15 mmol daily (Asbury et al, 1972; Olesen et al, 1973; Davies et al, 1974). Two tablets of the combined preparation Burinex K contain 1 mg. of bumetanide and 16 mmol of potassium."<sup>8</sup>

At the correct time

"35% of the potassium chloride is released by one hour, the rest being released over a period of six hours."<sup>4</sup>

The Morning OR Evening diuretic

"The rapid onset and short duration of action of loop diuretics are clearly desirable when a rapid diuresis is indicated, and when given in the evening to patients with chronic heart failure, the short duration of action can ensure a good nights sleep undisturbed by nocturia or breathlessness."<sup>9</sup>
 "The use of potent and short-acting diuretics such as bumetanide allow the Physician and patient scope to decide upon the most appropriate time for administration and so reduce major disruptions in the patient's daily routine."<sup>10</sup>
 "Patients who go out to work may find Burinex K given in the evening more socially acceptable."<sup>11</sup>

Patients prefer Burinex K

"These results indicate that when long-term diuretic/potassium supplement therapy is required, Burinex K is a more acceptable regimen to the patients than one in which diuretic + Slow K are given separately."<sup>13</sup>
 "Patients showed a highly significant preference to take two tablets on one occasion (Burinex K) rather than two different types of tablet on three separate occasions (Lasix + K)."<sup>14</sup>

* Burinex is a trade mark

... But of course the decision is yours.

<sup>Rx</sup> Burinex K*

Tablets contain 0.5 mg bumetanide with a slow release core of 573 mg (7.7mEq) of potassium chloride.
