Septtrin Assurance

Prescribing Information

Indications Sensitive bacterial infections of the lower respiratory, urinary and genital tracts, sinusitis, otitis media, skin infections, septicaemia, typhoid and paratyphoid fevers, and other infections caused by sensitive organisms.

Dosage Septtrin Paediatric Suspension. Children 6-12 years: 10 ml twice daily. 6 months to 6 years: 5 ml twice daily. 6 weeks to 6 months: 2.5 ml twice daily. Septtrin Paediatric Suspension may be diluted with Syrup BP. In acute infections Septtrin should be given for at least five days or until the patient has been symptom-free for two days.

Contra-indications Septtrin is contra-indicated in patients with marked liver parenchymal damage, blood dyscrasias or severe renal insufficiency. Septtrin should not be given to patients hypersensitive to sulphonamides, trimethoprim or co-trimoxazole; should not be given during pregnancy or to neonates. Precautions In renal impairment a reduced dosage is indicated and an adequate urinary output should be maintained. Regular blood counts are necessary whenever long-term therapy is used. Caution is advised in patients with folate deficiency. Care should be taken when giving Septtrin to patients receiving oral anticoagulants of the coumarin group, pyrimethamine or sulphonylureas.

Adverse Reactions Occasionally, nausea, vomiting, glossitis and skin rashes may occur with normal doses and, very rarely, haematological reactions.

Additional Information In the treatment of tonsillopharyngitis due to Group A beta-haemolytic streptococci, eradication of these organisms from the oropharynx is less rapid than with some other antibiotics. Presentation Septtrin Paediatric Suspension contains 40 mg Trimethoprim BP and 200 mg Sulphamethoxazole BP in each 5 ml.

Basic NHS cost £1.56 for 100 ml. PL3/5222.

Cetiprin[®]

(Emepronium Bromide)

for incontinence

Prescribing Information Presentation Cetiprin Tablets 100mg: White, coated and slightly bulged tablets of 10 mm diameter, marked (CT) on one side. Each tablet contains 100 mg emepronium bromide. Uses Main pharmacological action. Emepronium bromide is a quaternary ammonium anticholinergic drug which blocks peripheral cholinergic nerves and ganglionic transmission. In man, it increases bladder capacity; delays the first desire to void and decreases voiding pressure. Indications 1 Urinary frequency and incontinence in old people. 2 Nocturnal frequency. 3 After bladder surgery, prostatectomy or bladder radiotherapy. In order to obtain an optimal response the treatment should continue for at least three to four weeks. Dosage and administration Route of administration. By mouth with an adequate amount of fluid (minimum 100 ml). Cetiprin tablets should always be taken with the patient sitting or standing and the patient should not lie down within 10-15 minutes following ingestion. Recommended dosage: 1 Urinary frequency and incontinence in old people up to 200 mg, (2 x 100 mg tablets) three times daily dependant on response. 2 Nocturnal frequency: 200-400 mg at bedtime. 3 After bladder surgery, prostatectomy or bladder radiotherapy 200 mg, (2 x 100 mg tablets) three times daily in most cases. Contra-indications, warnings, etc. Cetiprin is contra-indicated in the following 1 In patients with symptoms or signs of oesophageal obstruction. 2 In patients with pre-existing oesophagitis. 3 In patients with prostatic enlargement associated with large amounts of residual urine and flaccid bladder. Precautions 1 Caution should be observed in patients with glaucoma or gastric retention. 2 No teratogenic effect has been observed but the usual precautions in early pregnancy should be observed. Side-effects: Rarely, dryness of the mouth. Ulceration of the gums and mouth has been reported, particularly in geriatric patients who hold the tablets in their mouths for long periods. There have also been instances of oesophageal ulceration when the tablets have not been swallowed with an adequate amount of fluid. See dosage recommendations above. Package quantities Cetiprin 100 mg. Bottles of 50, 250 and 500 tablets. UK Product licence number 0022/5001 Eire Product authorisation number 187/7/1 Basic NHS price 32p daily.

EMERGENCIES IN THE HOME

ARTICLES FROM THE BRITISH MEDICAL JOURNAL

General practitioners are often the first doctors to see acutely ill patients, and often in difficult circumstances. This book tells general practitioners straightforwardly what they need to know to deal with such emergencies – both the common and the less common. A specialist and a general practitioner have co-operated on each chapter, making each both authoritative and practical.

oxprenolol hydrochloride BP sustained-release and cyclopenthiazine BP

controls blood pressure

-carefully.

Presentation Tablets containing 160mg oxprenolol hydrochloride BP sustained-release and 0.25mg cyclopenthiazine BP. Indications Treatment of mild and moderate hypertension. Dosage One or two tablets daily, which can be combined with other antihypertensives having a different pharmacological effect, such as a vasodilator. Side-effects Dizziness, drowsiness, headache, insomnia, excitement and gastro-intestinal disturbances may occur, usually at the start of treatment, while isolated cases of excessive bradycardia and thrombocytopenia have been reported. Bronchospasm and heart failure may be precipitated in susceptible patients, while exertional tiredness and cold extremities may also occur. Treatment should be withdrawn if skin rashes and/or dry eyes occur. Latent gout or diabetes may become manifest, while occasional cases of allergic skin reaction, mild anorexia, nausea, constipation, diarrhoea and thrombocytopenia have been reported with thiazide diuretics. Precautions Cardiac failure must be controlled with digitalis. Caution should be observed in treating asthmatics, chronic bronchitics or those in whom bronchospasm may be precipitated. Caution should be observed in patients with metabolic acidosis or during anaesthesia, and care should be exercised in cases of acute renal impairment. It should not be given in combination with calcium-antagonists of the verapamil type. During pregnancy, beta-blockers may cause bradycardia in the foetus, which may persist after birth. Beta-blockers should only be employed after the needs of the mother have been weighed against possible risks to the foetus. Contra-indications Atrio-ventricular block, marked bradycardia, uncontrolled heart failure, cardiogenic shock, renal insufficiency and concomitant lithium therapy. Packs Cartons of 28 tablets in two calendar reminder foils of 14 (PL0008/0138) basic NHS price £8.18

The new Ventolin Rotahaler (Salbutamol BP) simplifies routine asthma therapy

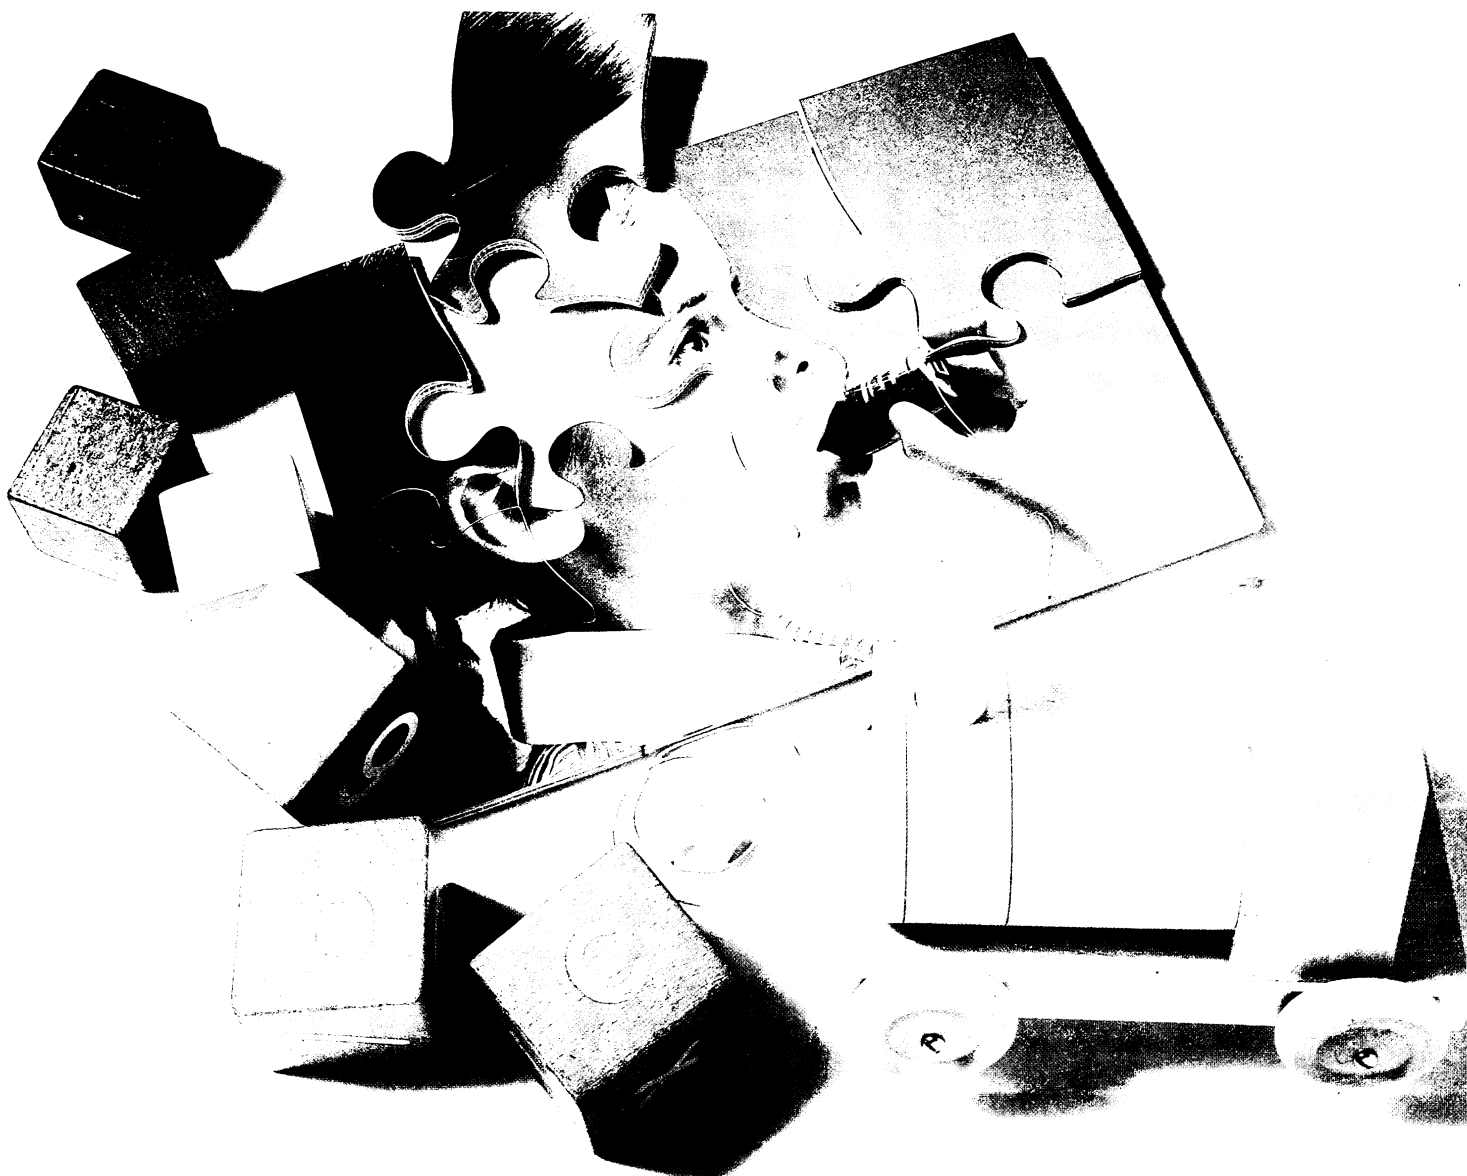

Any patient who experiences frequent attacks of bronchospasm is likely to benefit from routine administration of inhaled Ventolin to ensure prophylaxis against bronchospasm. The new Rotahaler is so simple that almost every asthmatic patient is able to use it properly. Moreover, the Rotahaler guarantees that the full dose of Ventolin is delivered, even at low inspiratory rates. With the Rotahaler/Rotacap system, therefore, both doctor and patient can be confident that the correct dose of Ventolin is being inhaled regularly.

'This new device [Rotahaler] should be eminently suitable for asthmatics of all ages and ease of use is likely to improve compliance.'

Pover GM et. al., Practitioner 1982; 226: 565.

Inhaled Ventolin Inspiring confidence in routine asthma therapy

Prescribing information

Uses Ventolin Rotacaps are indicated both for the treatment and prevention of bronchial asthma. They are ideally suited for routine maintenance therapy and prophylaxis in chronic asthma and may also be used to prevent exercise-induced asthma or before exposure to a known unavoidable challenge. Dosage and administration As a single dose for acute bronchospasm, intermittent episodes of asthma and to prevent exercise-induced bronchospasm.

Adults: one Ventolin Rotacap 200mcg or 400mcg.

Children: one Ventolin Rotacap 200mcg.

For chronic maintenance or prophylactic therapy.

Adults: One Ventolin Rotacap 400mcg three or four times daily.

Children: One Ventolin Rotacap 200mcg three or four times daily. Contra-indications Ventolin preparations should not be used for the prevention of threatened abortion.

Precautions If a previously effective dose of inhaled Ventolin fails to give relief lasting at least three hours, the patient should seek medical advice. Ventolin should be administered cautiously to patients suffering from thyrotoxicosis. Avoidable administration of drugs during the first trimester of pregnancy is undesirable. Side effects No important side effects have been reported following treatment with Ventolin Rotacaps. Presentation and Basic NHS cost Ventolin Rotacaps 200mcg and 400mcg contain a mixture of the stated amount of microfine Salbutamol BP (as sulphate) and larger particle lactose in light blue/colourless or dark blue/colourless hard gelatine capsules. Containers of 100. Basic NHS cost £5.29 and £7.15 respectively. Ventolin Rotahaler for use with Ventolin Rotacaps 78p. Product licence numbers Ventolin Rotacaps 200mcg 0045/0116. Reflux controlled!

Heartburn and regurgitation: strengthening the lower oesophageal sphincter should be the primary goal of medical treatment!

* Maxolon is clinically effective in increasing sphincter tone.^{2,7}

* Maxolon reduces frequency and duration of reflux.^{8,9}

* Maxolon eliminates or alleviates even severe symptoms.¹⁰

Maxolon—controlling heartburn by tightening the sphincter.

Prescribing Information

Indications

Heartburn, dyspepsia and flatulence associated with the following conditions e.g. Reflux oesophagitis, Gastritis, Hiatus hernia, Peptic ulcer. Nausea and vomiting associated with e.g. Gastro-intestinal disorders.

Adult dosage (Oral, IM or IV)

Total daily dosage of Maxolon, especially for children and young adults should not normally exceed 0.5 mg/kg body weight.

Adults: 10 mg three times daily

Young Adults (15-20 years): 5-10 mg three times daily, commencing at the lower dosage

For dosage in children, please consult Data Sheet.

Side effects and precautions

There are no absolute contra-indications to the use of Maxolon.

If vomiting persists the patient should be re-assessed to exclude the possibility of an underlying disorder, e.g. cerebral irritation.

Various extra-pyramidal reactions to Maxolon, usually of the dystonic type, have been reported. The incidence of these reactions in children and young adults may be increased if daily dosages higher than 0.5 mg/kg body weight are administered.

The majority of reactions occur within 36 hours of starting treatment and the effects usually disappear within 24 hours of withdrawal of the drug. Should treatment of a reaction be required, an anticholinergic anti-Parkinsonian drug, or a benzodiazepine may be used. Since extra-pyramidal symptoms may occur with both Maxolon and phenothiazines, care should be exercised in the event of both drugs being prescribed concurrently.

Raised serum prolactin levels have been observed during metoclopramide therapy: this effect is similar to that noted with many other compounds.

Maxolon's action on the gastro-intestinal tract is antagonised by anticholinergics. Although animal tests in several mammalian species have shown no teratogenic effects, treatment with Maxolon is not advised during the first trimester of pregnancy.

Following operations such as pyloroplasty or gut anastomosis Maxolon therapy should be withheld for three or four days since vigorous muscular contractions may not help healing.

1966 The need is recognised

'If a drug could be produced that had the anti-asthmatic properties of steroids without their side effects, the trials and tribulations of asthmatic patients would be at an end.'¹

1973 The solution is offered

'In my experience the aerosol of beclomethasone dipropionate is effective in controlling symptoms and avoiding adrenal suppression both in patients with steroid-independent asthma and in most patients with steroid-dependent asthma and therefore seems to be a notable advance in the treatment of asthma.'²

1983 The promise is fulfilled

'Inhaled steroids have transformed the management of chronic asthma. All initial promises have been fulfilled and there have been no serious side effects.'³

A challenge for the future

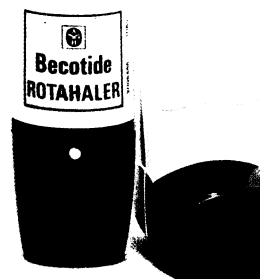

'In the light of the continuing morbidity of asthma, usually from underdiagnosis and undertreatment, and of too frequent asthma fatalities, there is a compelling case for the much wider use of anti-asthma drugs. The contribution that corticosteroids, especially their prophylactic use by inhalation, can make is not yet fully appreciated or employed.'⁴ indications Paramax Tablets: White, scored tablets, engraved "Paramax" on one side.

DESCRIBING FORMATION

Form Sachets: Sachets containing effervescent powder.

Content Each tablet or sachet contains 500 mg paracetamol B.P. with Metoclopramide hydrochloride B.P. equivalent to 5 mg of hydroxy substance.

Actions Paramax is indicated for the symptomatic treatment of migraine.

Effect Paracetamol relieves pain. More absorption is promoted by the action of metoclopramide which also relieves constipation and overcomes nausea and vomiting.

Dose and Administration For oral administration only. Paramax should be taken at the first warning of an attack. If symptoms persist, further doses may be taken at 4-hourly intervals. Total dosage in a 4-hour period should not exceed the quantity stated.

Recommended dosage (tablets)

Dose at first warning of attack

Adults (15-20 years)	1 or 2
----------------------	--------

Children (12-14 years)	1
------------------------	---

Maximum dosage in any 24 hour period

Adults (15-20 years)	6
----------------------	---

Children (12-14 years)	5
------------------------	---

Children (12-14 years)	3
------------------------	---

Contraindications A presentation of Paramax is not available for the treatment of children under 12 years of age is not available.

Total daily dosage of metoclopramide should not exceed

2 mg/kg bodyweight.

Form Sachets: The contents should be poured into about a ¼ of a tumbler of water and stirred before taking.

Contra-indications, Warnings etc.

There are no absolute contra-indications to the use of Paramax.

If vomiting persists the patient should be encouraged to exclude the possibility of a underlying disorder, e.g. cerebral tumour.

Adverse reactions Serious extra-pyramidal reactions to metoclopramide, usually of the dystonic type, have been reported. The incidence of reactions may be increased if the metoclopramide dosage exceeds 0.5 mg/kg bodyweight/day. Reactions include:

1. of the facial muscles, trismus,

2. bulbar protrusion of the tongue, a bulbar

3. spasm of extraocular

4. muscles, including oculogyric crises,

5. abnormal positioning of the head and

6. neck and opisthotonos. There may be

7. a marked increase in muscle tone. The

8. majority of reactions occur within 36 hours

9. after treatment and the effects

10. usually disappear within 24 hours of

11. withdrawal of the drug. Should treatment

12. of a dystonic reaction be required, a

13. diazepam or an anticholinergic

14. antiparkinsonian drug may be used.

15. Care should be exercised in the

16. use of Paramax being prescribed

17. concurrently with a phenothiazine since

18. pyramidal symptoms may occur

19. with both products. The action of

20. metoclopramide on the gastro-intestinal

21. tract is antagonised by anticholinergics.

22. Raised serum prolactin levels have

23. been observed during metoclopramide

24. therapy; this effect is similar to that noted

25. with many other compounds. There is no

26. evidence that metoclopramide by itself

27. has teratogenic effects; however, treat-

28. ment with Paramax is not advised during

29. the first trimester of pregnancy.

30. With other paracetamol-containing

31. preparations, an overdose of Paramax can be

32. toxic to the liver. Overdosage should be

33. treated by gastric lavage with appropriate

34. supportive measures. Intravenous N-

35. acetylcysteine or oral methionine if

36. administered within 10 hours of para-

37. cetamol overdosage appears to exert a

38. protective effect on the liver.

ABC OF HEALTHY TRAVEL

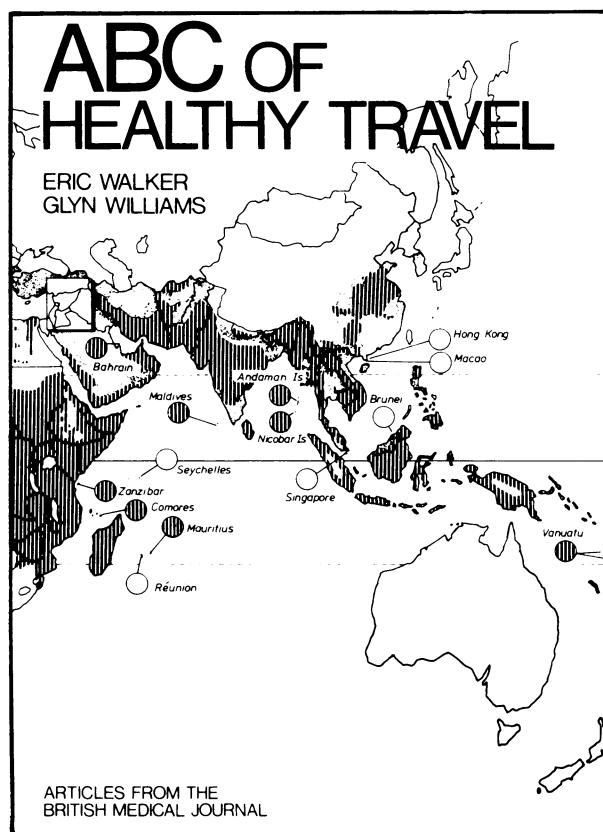

With more people travelling abroad each year the health problems of travellers, both abroad and on their return, assume increasing importance. Travellers may be at hazard from the environment, their lifestyles, and their lack of familiarity with foreign customs. Doctors need to be able to advise their travelling patients and to be aware of the – sometimes potentially serious – infections that may not become apparent until the traveller has returned home. In the recent ABC of Healthy Travel on the BMJ Dr Eric Walker and Dr Glyn Williams described the problems facing the traveller, the immunisations he needs, the infections he may bring home; suggested ways of preventing and treating illness abroad; listed sources of up to date information; and reviewed recent advice on malaria prophylaxis. These articles have been collected into a book to provide the busy practitioner with a practical guide to advising travellers and managing their illnesses.

ALCOHOL PROBLEMS

In recent years alcohol problems have increased dramatically and the thinking on them has undergone a revolution. Alcohol Problems brings together two series of articles published in the BMJ —the ABC of Alcohol, with its emphasis on straightforward advice for the clinician, and Alcohol and Alcoholism, Dr Richard Smith's more discursive survey of current thinking and controversies. Together they cover both the clinical aspects of managing alcohol problems and the social and political factors that surround them.

Betnovate

(betamethasone valerate)

RIGHT FIRST TIME.

Contact Dermatitis caused by sensitivity to nickel — after ten days' treatment with Betnovate Cream.

PRESCRIBING INFORMATION Dosage and administration Apply a small quantity two or three times daily until improvement occurs. Improvement may then be maintained by applying once a day or less often. Side effects With all topical corticosteroids, local atrophic changes may possibly occur following prolonged and intensive treatment. A so-called 'burn' or treatment of extensive areas may produce the features of hypercorticism. This is more likely to occur in infants and children, and with occlusion. In infants, the napkin may act as an occlusive dressing. In the unlikely event of systemic hypersensitivity appearing, application should stop immediately. Rarely, treatment of psoriasis with corticosteroids, or its withdrawal, is thought to have provoked the pustular form of the disease. Precautions Long-term continuous therapy should be avoided, particularly in infants and children, in whom adrenal suppression can occur even without occlusion. The face, more than other areas of the body, may exhibit atrophic changes after prolonged treatment with potent topical corticosteroids. If applied to the eyelids, care is needed to ensure that the preparation does not enter the eye, as glaucoma might result. Appropriate chemotherapy should be used whenever infection of the skin is present. Any spread of infection requires withdrawal of topical corticosteroid therapy. In general, topical steroids should not be used extensively in pregnancy, i.e. in large amounts or for prolonged periods. Contra-indications Rosacea, acne and perioral dermatitis. Bacterial, fungal or viral diseases of the skin. Hypersensitivity to the preparation. Basic NHS cost (exclusive of VAT) Betnovate 30 gram tubes £1.36. Presentation Cream, Ointment, Lotion. Product Licence numbers 4/5124, 4/5130. Further information on Betnovate, trade mark is available from: Glaxo Laboratories Limited, Greenford, Middlesex UB6 0HE.

Long term activity in arthritis

IN the treatment of arthritis, relief of pain and inflammation is a major objective. The ultimate aim, however, is to restore mobility lost through painful, stiffened joints. This requires long-term, consistently effective control of pain and inflammation. Continuity of treatment is fundamental to the successful management of arthritis.

PRODUCT of Boots Research, Froben is designed for the long-term treatment of arthritis. Rapidly absorbed, it quickly reaches the affected joints bringing pain and inflammation firmly under control and maintaining that control over long periods of treatment. Drug accumulation does not occur and Froben is well tolerated by most patients. Froben is suitable for continuous treatment. Which is why it is effective.

SUITABLE for most arthritic patients, Froben is particularly valuable for those who need a high level of relief from pain and inflammation. Froben will provide that extra relief without the high incidence of side-effects often associated with the more potent of the anti-arthritic agents.

FROBEN is an excellent anti-arthritic with which to start treatment. It is an excellent antiarthritic with which to continue treatment. With Froben, your arthritic patients will receive the full benefit of continuous, consistent long-term therapy.

Froben

flurbiprofen

Active in Arthritis

Prescribing Information:

Presentation: Sugar coated tablets, each containing either 50mg or 100mg of flurbiprofen. Uses: Froben is indicated in the treatment of rheumatoid disease, osteoarthritis and ankylosing spondylitis. Dosage: 150mg to 200mg daily in 3 or 4 divided doses. In patients with severe symptoms or disease of recent origin, or during acute exacerbations, the total daily dose may be increased to 300mg in divided doses. Contra-indications, Warnings etc: Froben should not be given to patients with peptic ulceration. Care should be taken when administering the drug to patients with asthma or who have experienced bronchospasm with other anti-inflammatory or analgesic agents. The safety of Froben during pregnancy or lactation has not been established. In animal experiments, no teratogenic effects were demonstrated but parturition was delayed and prolonged. Side effects dyspepsia, heartburn and headache are the commonest encountered. Occasional skin rashes have been reported. Treatment of overdose, gastric lavage and, if necessary, correction of serum electrolytes. There is no specific antidote. Basic NHS Price: 50mg tablets, 100£8.24 100mg tablets, 100£15.65. Product Licence No: 50mg tablets, PL0014 0167 100mg tablets, PL0014 0168. Further information is available on request.

If you have not yet used Froben, naturally you will wish to know more about the product than we can convey in this advertisement. We will gladly send you the Froben Clinical & Technical Review upon your request.

Gastrozepin is a selective antimuscarinic agent which provides balanced control of gastric secretion without markedly affecting other peripheral receptor sites. This gastro-selective action means that, in practice, Gastrozepin is a well-tolerated drug which heals peptic ulcers.

Gastrozepin DOES NOT . . .

- rely on acid reduction alone
- rely on pepsin reduction alone
- rely on mucosal protection alone
- profoundly affect intragastric pH

Gastrozepin DOES . . .

- relieve daytime pain
- relieve night-time pain
- reduce antacid intake
- heal peptic ulcers with one 50 mg tablet b.d.

NOTICES TO READERS

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to examine carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to BMA agreements should consult the secretary of the British Medical Association.

DISCRIMINATION

Attention is drawn to the following decision of the BMA Council: "That no advertisements should be accepted that are in any way discriminatory within the context of the Race Relations Act and the Sex Discrimination Act." Thus the BMJ will not accept advertisements that indicate or may reasonably be understood to indicate an intention to discriminate on grounds of sex, colour, race, nationality, or ethnic or national origins unless specifically exempt under the relevant statute.

Superannuation: Members who require advice on superannuation arrangements for prospective employment should write to the secretary of the BMA.

Unemployment: The BMA is collecting information about unemployment: doctors, particularly junior doctors, actively seeking work but who have been unemployed for more than three months are asked to write in confidence to the secretary of the BMA.

Locum appointments: There are dangers in accepting long term or undefined locum appointments which may result in doctors disqualifying themselves from the advantages of some of the terms and conditions of service. Members contemplating such posts should contact the secretary of the BMA for advice.

HOSPITAL POSTS

Training grades

Applicants for the appointments of house officer, senior house officer, registrar and senior registrar are reminded that the national terms and conditions of service request employing authorities to issue a standard model contract and full job description. Tenancy or licence agreements and an inventory of property should be issued for doctors occupying authority accommodations. This will ensure that the applicant has full details of the appointment before interview. Authorities have also been requested to organise visits for intending applicants, who are advised to satisfy themselves, preferably in writing with the details provided before attending an interview or accepting an appointment.

Doctors applying for registrar and senior registrar grade posts are advised to ascertain the status of those posts for the purpose of higher professional training.

Further details about standards of residential accommodation, charges for voluntary residence, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave, superannuation position on leaving the NHS, including restrictions on the refund of contributions, and other matters should be obtained from the hospital administrator or by BMA members from the secretary of the BMA.

House officer: Each post in this grade shall be tenable for six months. £6560 per annum for the posts held during the first year; £6980 per annum for posts held during the second year; £7400 per annum for posts held during the third and subsequent years subject to full registration.

Senior house officer: £8170 + £550(1) to £8720 + £540(1) to £9260.

Registrar: £9260 + 470 (2) to £10670 + £550 (1) to £11220.

On assimilation for the scale for registrars, one increment and one only shall be given for any year or part of a year in excess of two spent previously in the senior house officer grade.

Senior registrar: £10670 + £550 (1) to £11220 + £560 (1) to £11780 + £550 (1) to £12330 + £560 (1) to £12890 + £550 (1) to £13440.

On first appointment as senior registrar one increment should be given for each year or part of a year in excess of three spent as a registrar up to a maximum of two increments. The conditions of senior registrar appointments are dealt with in DHSS circular HC(82)10.

Job descriptions: Doctors applying for a post are advised to ask the health authority for a job description and authorities are asked to state in their advertisements from whom this information can be obtained.

Non-training grades

Warning on contracts: The CCHMS has agreed with the DHSS a model form of contract to be issued to all consultants and associate specialists. Although the DHSS has recommended this model to all RHAs, in some instances individual regions have amended the model, thereby changing important clauses. The BMA advises members not to sign a contract if it deviates from the model contained in PM(79) 11 and if in any doubt suggests that they contact their BMA regional office.

Criteria are laid down for determining the commencing salaries of consultants and any members who experience difficulty in this respect are advised to seek the advice of the secretary of the association.

Consultants: According to DHSS circular HC(82)10, which deals with the appointment of consultants and senior registrars, doctors who are able to work only part time for personal reasons, such as domestic responsibilities, disability, or ill health, are entitled to apply for vacancies and advertised posts should be read as including this condition.

Advertisements should state the number of notional half days offered for part time consultant appointment or, for whole time appointments, offer a maximum part time option. In the view of the BMA an advertiser should not insist on possession of an English higher qualification in preference to Scottish or Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

Consultant salary scale: £18440 + £1300(1) to £19740 + £1310(2) to £22360 + £1300(1) to £23660.

Part time medical officer grade - (clinical assistant): Salary scale: £1390 a year for each weekly notional half day.

Hospital practitioner grade: Salary scale: A sliding scale from £1390 to £1850 a year for each weekly notional half day.

Associate specialist: Salary scale: £11240 + £1200(6) to £18440.

COMMUNITY MEDICINE

Specialists in community medicine: £18440 + £1300(1) to £19740 + £1310(2) to £22360 + £1300(1) to £23660.

National scales for district medical officer, regional medical officers and chief administrative medical officers vary according to authority. Details may be obtained from the secretary of the BMA.

Training grades: £9260 to £13440.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

Clinical medical officer: National salary scales are £9780 to £13540 per annum.

Senior clinical medical officer: National salary scales are £13910 to £19980.

In the BMA's view trainees in community medicine should be offered a choice of options for academic training including full time or part time MSC courses, block release "consortium" courses, or locally supervised private study arrangements. Trainees who are not offered their preferred option are advised to contact the association for advice.

GENERAL PRACTICE

Principals providing general medical services in the NHS are independent contractors and their remuneration in England and Wales is governed by the Statement of fees and allowances payable to general medical practitioners in England and Wales (Known as the red book, it is issued by the Department of Health and Social Security). Scotland and Northern Ireland have similar but separate arrangements. Applicants for vacancies as principals, trainees, or assistants in general practice requiring advice may consult the BMA or the appropriate local medical committee.

UNIVERSITY AND RESEARCH APPOINTMENTS

Clinical

Senior staff - lecturers, senior lecturers, readers holding honorary consultant contracts, scales for NHS consultants (except at Cambridge University, where only heads of departments may achieve final increment. Junior staff - lecturers holding honorary contracts at other than consultant levels, scales as for NHS registrars and senior registrars. Senior lecturers, readers holding honorary contracts at other than consultant level - £13230 + £1070(1) to £14300 + £860(1) to £15160 + £1110(1) to £16270 + £1100(1) to £17370 + £990(1) to £18360.

Preclinical staff

Salary scales are obtainable from the BMA secretary.

ARMED FORCES

BMA members wanting information concerning remuneration and terms and conditions of service of doctors in the armed forces may obtain this from the secretary of the BMA.

OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH

All applicants for occupational health posts are advised to contact the secretary of the BMA for details about BMA recommended remuneration and terms and conditions of service.

NON-PUBLIC SECTOR

For information on medical employment outside the public sector in the UK members are advised to consult the secretary of the BMA.

Aramco is the world's largest oil producing company. The Company's Medical Department is responsible for approximately 60,000 employees and their eligible dependants, providing a comprehensive health care service. In recent years a significant investment programme has been made in new facilities including an extension of the new Health Centre in Dhahran and a completely new Dental Clinic.

Right now we're looking for:

GENERAL SURGEON

You will provide patients with medical care—including diagnosis, pre-operative care, all major and minor operative procedures in the field of general surgery and post-operative treatment. You'll also direct preventive care of patients according to approved procedures as part of an integrated programme of curative and preventive services. As well as a professional qualification, you must also have experience in traumatic and all aspects of general surgery.

ORTHOPAEDIC SURGEON

You should be fully qualified with several years' experience of pre- and post-operative care, including diagnosis, major and minor orthopaedic procedures in general surgery and direct preventive care of patients.

OPHTHALMOLOGIST

With at least 2 years' exclusive practice of ophthalmology since qualifying. You will be performing a full range of work in the ophthalmological field. Additionally, you will also participate in the planning and implementation of integrated preventive/curative medical care programmes.

PAEDIATRICIAN

With at least 2 years' experience after residency training you will provide attending physician services to general paediatric patients, and preventative care of patients in accordance with integrated curative/preventive services programme.

GOVERNMENTAL

THE PRISON MEDICAL SERVICE

A Medical Officer
(Part-time)*H.M. Prison, Leeds.

Applications are invited from fully-registered medical practitioners living within reasonable travelling distance of the Establishment. H.M. Prison, Leeds is a 'local' prison at present accommodating approximately 1,100 adult male inmates. The doctor appointed will assist the full-time medical officers in the provision of services which are basically similar to general practice.

Based on an expected weekly total attendance of 10 hours the salary has been assessed provisionally at £5,603 per annum which includes payment of an allowance for willingness to be 'on-call'. A daily attendance will be necessary normally. Upon the completion of 3 months' total service a review of the hours actually performed will be made; if an increase in hours is then found to have become necessary a salary increase will be applied retrospectively to the date of the commencement of the coverage. Certain travelling expenses will be refundable.

Further information about the duties involved can be obtained from the Senior medical Officer at H.M. Prison, Leeds. Please telephone Leeds (STD code 0532) 636411.

A letter asking for a form of application should be received within 14 days of this announcement appearing. Please write to: The Recruitment Section (Room 610 - ABP), Home Office, 89 Eccleston Square, Freeport, London, SW1V 1YZ.

NORTHERN IRELAND HEALTH AND SOCIAL SERVICES

Central Services Agency

MEDICAL ADVISER

Applications are invited from medical practitioners of at least ten years' standing with not less than five years recent experience in general medical practice within the United Kingdom, for this post in the Northern Ireland Central Services Agency for the Health and Personal Social Services.

The salary scale is that for Consultants (£18,440 – £23,660 per annum). The point of entry on the salary scale will be determined in the light of the successful applicant's qualifications and experience.

The Agency's Medical Adviser is the professional member of the Agency's staff available for consultation and advice on all medical matters in which the Agency is involved.

The main duties of the post are concerned with the administration of General Medical Services throughout Northern Ireland, in association with the four Health and Social Services Boards. There is also a supervisory function in respect of the arrangements for the appointment of Specialists and for the appointment and posting or reposting of Senior Registrars and Registrars.

The post is superannuable under the Northern Ireland Health and Social Services Superannuation Scheme (contributions at the rate of 6 per cent of remuneration are at present payable under the Scheme).

Application form and further particulars are obtainable from:

The Director
Northern Ireland Staffs Council for the Health & Social Services
"The Beeches"
23 Hampton Park
