

Motilium®

controls nausea and vomiting without central effects

Motilium, a potent peripherally acting dopamine antagonist, achieves a high degree of efficacy through a dual mode of action.

Firstly Motilium® suppresses the emetic response to toxic substances in the blood by blocking the effects of dopamine released within the chemoreceptor trigger zone.

Motilium® does not cross the blood brain barrier and therefore does not interfere with the nigrostriatal and mesolimbic systems.

Secondly Motilium® possesses gastrokinetic properties. Acting locally on the upper gastro-intestinal tract Motilium® increases lower oesophageal sphincter pressure and improves delayed gastric emptying.

The unique mode of action of Motilium® combines high efficacy in controlling nausea and vomiting with freedom from central side effects.

ABC OF BRAIN STEM DEATH

The subject of brain stem death still arouses misconceptions—witness the response to the BBC Panorama programme on transplantation and brain death. In a series of articles in the BMJ Dr Christopher Pallis dispelled some of the misconceptions, examined the concepts underlying our ideas of death, and described the practical aspects of diagnosing brain stem death. These articles have now been collected into a book together with additional material on the wider aspects of the subject, including some of the neurological controversies.

Superiority confirmed in chest infections

Oral

Superior in Spectrum

Sensitivity studies have shown that Augmentin is active against more respiratory pathogens than other commonly prescribed oral antibacterials such as amoxycillin, tetracycline, erythromycin, co-trimoxazole and cephalosporin<sup>1</sup>

Superior in Clinical Practice

The superior activity of Augmentin in clinical practice is confirmed by a number of trials in which Augmentin was used to treat patients with difficult chest infections in whom previous treatment with other antibacterials had failed:

AUGMENTIN

success

"All patients had serious chest infections, which had failed to respond to at least one or more previous antibiotic treatments."<sup>2</sup>

Failed Antibiotic Treatments

Ampicillin Amoxycillin
Co-trimoxazole Tetracycline
Cephalosporins

90%
improvement

"...we carried out an open study of Augmentin in exacerbations of bronchiectasis or chronic obstructive airways disease which had failed to respond to a 10-day course of an appropriate antimicrobial."<sup>3</sup>

Ampicillin/amoxycillin
(21 patients)
Co-trimoxazole (11 patients)
Oxytetracycline (5 patients)
Not specified (4 patients)

86% success -
no relapses

"In view of the increasing numbers of  $\beta$ -lactamase-producing Haemophilus . . . and organisms like B. catarrhalis, a reassessment of first-line antibiotics used in the treatment of chest infections should be considered."<sup>4</sup>

Amoxycillin Co-trimoxazole
Chloramphenicol Penicillin
Flucloxacillin Ampicillin
Cefuroxime

In Everyday Infections too

If Augmentin works this well in such difficult chest infections, its place is self evident in the treatment of the more common infections of the respiratory tract. Indeed one author recently made the following observation:

"With the advent of Augmentin, there now seems little place for the continuing use of penicillins such as ampicillin and amoxycillin for the oral treatment of common infections of the respiratory and urinary tracts and soft tissues."<sup>5</sup>

A Wellcome discovery made it possible

Epoprostenol is a naturally occurring prostaglandin, which prevents platelets sticking to vessel walls and to each other.

The discovery of epoprostenol (or prostacyclin as it was called at the time) was a significant achievement of Wellcome prostaglandin research – a discovery which has since generated immense interest.

In 1975, Dr John Vane and colleagues embarked on a line of research to determine whether vessel walls synthesised thromboxane  $A_2$  ( $TXA_2$ ). The latter had already been shown to cause platelet aggregation and vasoconstriction.

In fact, Vane et al disproved the synthesis theory, but observed that the endoperoxide precursor of  $TXA_2$  was being converted into another, unknown substance.

Further work showed this substance to be the biological counterpart of  $TXA_2$ , epoprostenol. It relaxed vessel walls and was found to be the most potent inhibitor of platelet aggregation known. So powerful, in fact, that it can also disaggregate platelet clumps.

For this, and other discoveries in the field of prostaglandins and related substances, Dr. Vane shared the 1982 Nobel Prize for Medicine.

Flolan is the synthetic sodium salt of epoprostenol.

FLOLAN Prescribing Information

Presentation In each pack is a vial containing 500  $\mu$ g freeze-dried epoprostenol sodium, plus a 50 ml vial of sterile diluent containing Sodium Chloride BP 0.147% w/v and Glycine BP 0.188% w/v in clear solution.

Uses Flolan inhibits platelet aggregation. It is indicated for the preservation of platelet numbers and function during cardiopulmonary bypass and charcoal haemoperfusion, and as an alternative to heparin during renal dialysis.

Dosage and administration Flolan is suitable for continuous infusion only, either intravascularly or into the blood supplying the extracorporeal circulation.

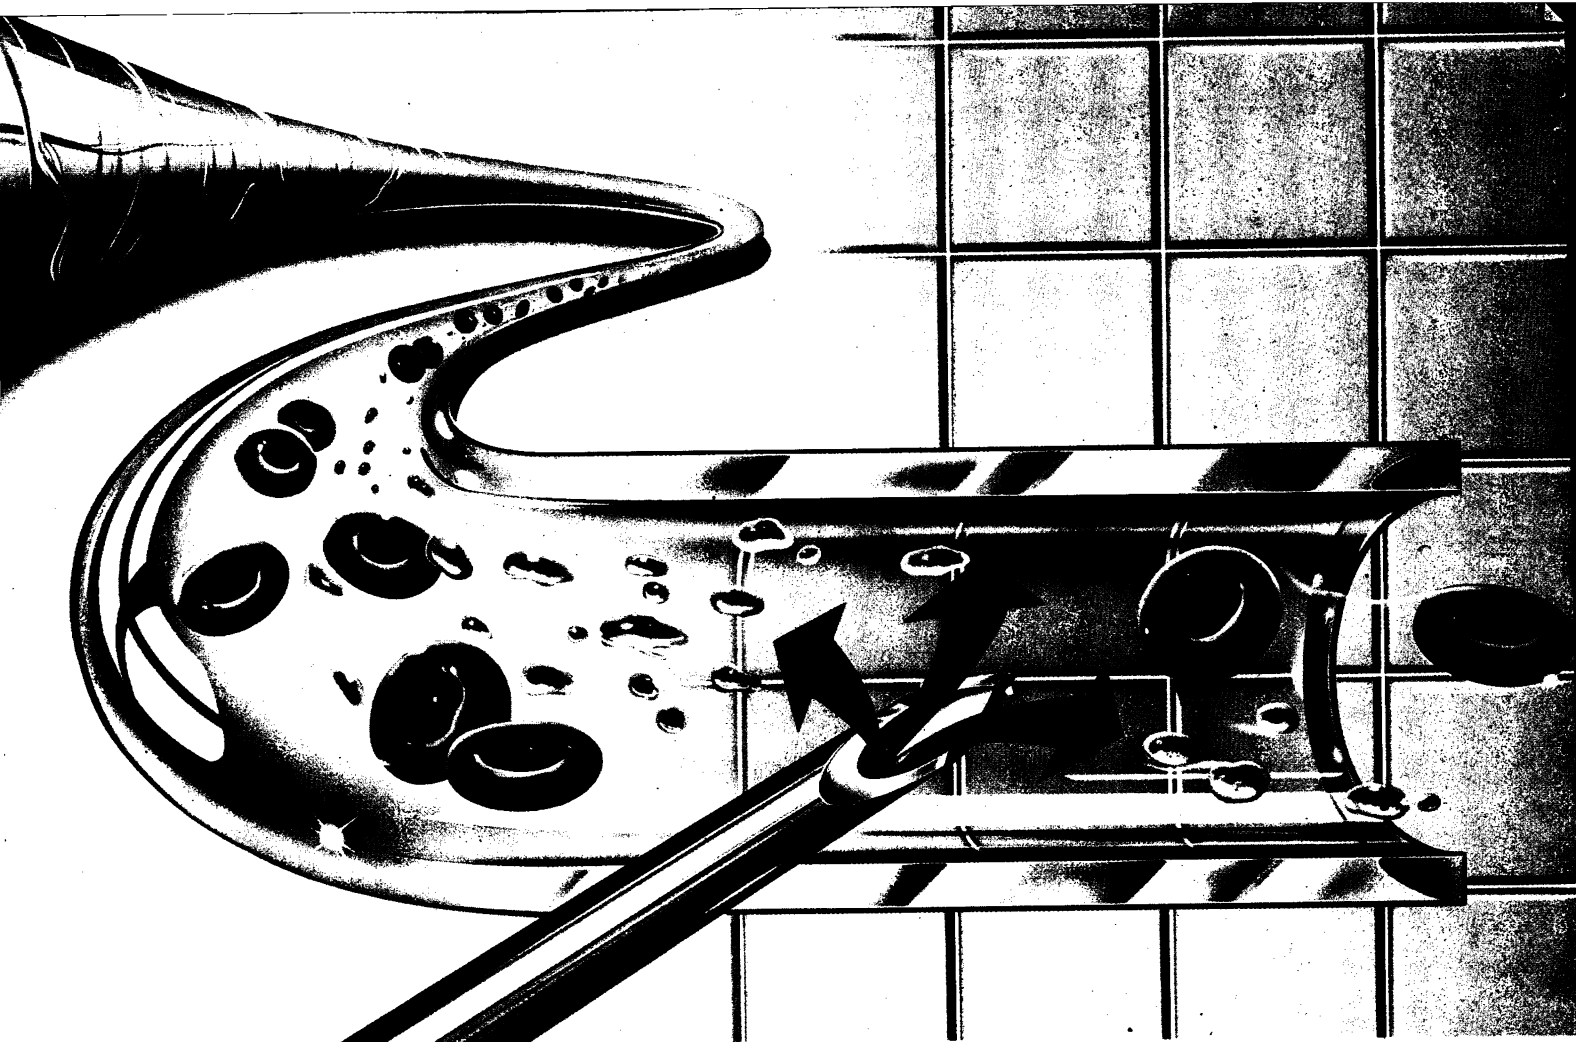

The dosage schedule varies according to the indication. For details see Data Sheet or pack leaflet.

Reconstitution must be performed aseptically, using only the diluent provided. For the method of reconstitution see Data Sheet or pack leaflet.

Contra-indications No recognised contra-indications.

Precautions Flolan should not be used to replace heparin in cardiopulmonary bypass or charcoal haemoperfusion but can do so in renal dialysis. However, standard anti-coagulant monitoring is advisable when concomitant anti-coagulants are administered.

Haemorrhagic complication should be considered in patients with spontaneous or # to theatre.

Therapeutic roles – now and to come

In the operating theatre, Flolan is of particular benefit in extracorporeal circulation procedures, for example, cardiopulmonary bypass, renal haemodialysis and charcoal haemoperfusion. In such circuits, blood is brought into contact with artificial surfaces, which can cause activation, aggregation and consumption of platelets.

The resulting clumps may circulate in the body as microaggregates and can result in renal and cerebral impairment. Platelets also aggregate onto membranes and filters in the circuit, and slow the filtration rate.

Flolan helps prevent these problems by inhibiting aggregation. Fewer platelets stick to the artificial surfaces, more intact platelets return to the body, and the risk of circulatory microaggregates is significantly reduced.

Flolan is an exciting and continuing development which may also show great promise in the treatment of vascular and other diseases.

Wellcome is at work exploring its full potential.

drug-induced haemorrhagic diatheses.

Flolan and other vasodilators may augment each other's hypotensive effects.

The effects of Flolan on heart rate may be masked by concomitant use of drugs which affect cardiovascular reflexes.

If excessive hypotension occurs, the dose should be reduced or the infusion discontinued.

The hypotensive effect of Flolan may be enhanced by the use of acetate buffer in the dialysis bath during renal dialysis.

Elevated serum glucose levels have been reported occasionally.

Use in pregnancy and lactation The potential benefits must be weighed against the risks.

Side- and adverse effects Facial flushing is common. Headache and gastro-intestinal symptoms including nausea, vomiting and abdominal colic have occurred. Bradycardia associated with a considerable fall in systolic and diastolic blood pressure has followed a dose of 30 ng/kg/min in healthy conscious volunteers. Bradycardia accompanied by pallor, nausea, sweating, and sometimes abdominal discomfort and orthostatic hypotension, has occurred in healthy volunteers at doses greater than 5 ng/kg/min.

1966 The need is recognised

¶If a drug could be produced that had the anti-asthmatic properties of steroids without their side effects, the trials and tribulations of asthmatic patients would be at an end. ¶<sup>1</sup>

1973 The solution is offered

¶In my experience the aerosol of beclomethasone dipropionate is effective in controlling symptoms and avoiding adrenal suppression both in patients with steroid-independent asthma and in most patients with steroid-dependent asthma and therefore seems to be a notable advance in the treatment of asthma. ¶<sup>2</sup>

1983 The promise is fulfilled

¶Inhaled steroids have transformed the management of chronic asthma. All initial promises have been fulfilled and there have been no serious side effects. ¶<sup>3</sup>

? A challenge for the future

¶In the light of the continuing morbidity of asthma, usually from underdiagnosis and undertreatment, and of too frequent asthma fatalities, there is a compelling case for the much wider use of anti-asthma drugs. The contribution that corticosteroids, especially their prophylactic use by inhalation, can make is not yet fully appreciated or employed. ¶<sup>4</sup>

ABC OF HEALTHY TRAVEL

With more people travelling abroad each year the health problems of travellers, both abroad and on their return, assume increasing importance. Travellers may be at hazard from the environment, their lifestyles, and their lack of familiarity with foreign customs. Doctors need to be able to advise their travelling patients and to be aware of the—sometimes potentially serious—infections that may not become apparent until the traveller has return home. In the recent ABC of Healthy Travel in the BMJ Dr Eric Walker and Dr Glyn Williams described the problems facing the traveller, the immunisations he needs, the infections he may bring home; suggested ways of preventing and treating illness abroad; listed sources of up to date information; and reviewed recent advice on malaria prophylaxis. These articles have been collected into a book to provide the busy practitioner with a practical guide to advising travellers and managing their illnesses.

Haemaccel

polygeline

A match for blood anytime.

Haemaccel is a blood plasma substitute with advantages over blood in many situations. An 8 year shelf life at room temperature means that Haemaccel is always readily available. Using Haemaccel also carries no problem of compatibility or cross-matching before use.

Haemaccel also has advantages over electrolyte solutions and dextran 70. It has an effective half-life of 4-6 hours and even distribution between intravascular and extravascular compartments minimises tissue oedema or dehydration.

Uses As a plasma volume substitute in cases of: 1. Hypovolaemic shock due to a) Haemorrhage (visible or concealed), b) Burns, peritonitis, pancreatitis, crush injuries, c) Water and electrolyte loss from persistent vomiting and diarrhoea, diseases of the kidneys and adrenals, portal vein thrombosis, ileus, diabetic coma. 2. Fluid replacement in plasma exchange. 3. Extra-corporeal circulation. 4. Isolated organ perfusion. 5. Carrier solution for insulin. Dosage and Administration Haemaccel should be administered intravenously in a volume approximately equal to the estimated blood loss. Normally 500ml will be infused in not less than 60 minutes but in emergencies Haemaccel can be rapidly infused. Hypovolaemic shock: 500-1,000ml Haemaccel iv. initially. Up to 1,500ml blood loss can be replaced entirely by Haemaccel. For between 1,500 and 4,000ml blood loss, fluid replacement should be with equal volumes of Haemaccel and blood, given separately. (See Pharmaceutical Precautions). For losses over 4,000ml the separate infusion should be in the ratio two parts blood to one part Haemaccel. Burns: At least 1ml Haemaccel per kg body weight multiplied by the percent of body surface burned should be infused in each 24 hrs for 2 days. Plasma exchange: Haemaccel should be given either alone or in combination with other replacement fluids in a volume adequate to replace the plasma removed. Up to 2 litres have been given as sole replacement fluid. Contra-indications, Warnings etc: There are no absolute contra-indications to the use of Haemaccel. However, caution should be used in any patient likely to develop circulatory overloading. Inappropriately rapid administration of Haemaccel, especially to normovolaemic patients, may cause the release of histamine. Histamine release may be especially hazardous in patients with known allergic conditions such as asthma. Haemaccel contains calcium ions and caution should be observed in patients being treated with cardiac glycosides. Haemaccel should, if possible, be warmed to body temperature before use. However in emergencies it may be infused at ambient temperatures. Pharmaceutical Precautions As Haemaccel contains no preservatives, any unused fluid should be discarded once a bottle has been opened. Citrated blood may be infused immediately before or after Haemaccel provided there is adequate flushing of the infusion set. PL 0086/0040 Date of Preparation May 1983 Basic Hospital Price £3.43 per 500ml bottle. BEHRING
S. Behring

It's hardly surprising that Trandate patients don't complain about having cold hands and feet. And it's no surprise to hear they have more energy and don't feel tired all the time.

Because Trandate, unlike plain beta-blockers, lowers blood pressure by reducing peripheral resistance. Which means that it restores more normal circulation. And, since it doesn't affect cardiac output, they can put in a full day... and night.

Not surprisingly then, more people feel better with Trandate.

Prescribing information
Uses Treatment of all grades of hypertension, including the hypertensions of pregnancy when oral antihypertensive therapy is indicated. Trandate Tablets are also indicated for the treatment of patients with angina pectoris coexisting with hypertension.

Dosage and administration
 Treatment may start with one 100mg tablet or one 200mg tablet twice daily in patients already being treated with antihypertensive drugs, the elderly and those of low bodyweight, one 100mg tablet twice daily is more appropriate. If the blood pressure is not controlled by the initial dosage, increases should be made at intervals of about fourteen days. Many patients have satisfactory blood pressure control on 400mg daily. A twice-daily dosage regimen can be maintained up to a total daily dose of 800mg. However, resistant cases may require higher doses. In these patients it is preferable to administer Trandate three or four times a day to minimise side effects. Trandate Tablets should preferably be taken with food. Trandate therapy is not applicable to children. In hypertensive patients with angina, the dose of Trandate will be that required to control the hypertension.

Contra-indications There are no known contra-indications.

Warning There have been reports of skin rashes and/or dry eyes associated with the use of beta adrenoceptor blocking drugs. The reported incidence is small and in most cases the symptoms have cleared when the treatment was withdrawn. Discontinuation of the drug should be considered if any such reaction is not otherwise explicable. Cessation of therapy with a beta adrenoceptor blocking drug should be gradual.

Precautions Trandate should not be given to patients with uncompensated or digitalis resistant heart failure or with atrioventricular block. The presence of severe liver disease may necessitate reduced doses of Trandate. Care should be taken in asthmatic patients and others prone to bronchospasm. Unnecessary administration of drugs during the first trimester of pregnancy is undesirable.

Side effects If the recommended dosage instructions are followed side effects are infrequent and usually transient. Those that have been reported include: headache, tiredness, dizziness, depressed mood and lethargy, difficulty in micturition, epigastric pain, nausea and vomiting, a tingling sensation in the scalp, and, in a very few patients, a lichenoid rash.

Presentation, Package quantities and Basic NHS cost Trandate Tablets 100mg, Trandate Tablets 200mg and Trandate Tablets 400mg each contain 100mg, 200mg and 400mg labetalol hydrochloride, respectively. In containers of 50 and 250 tablets. Basic NHS cost of 50 Trandate Tablets 100mg is £4.54.

The Prevention of Post-Operative Sepsis

Mixed aerobic and anaerobic bacterial infections can frequently complicate certain pelvic and abdominal surgical procedures. Some common operations with a notable risk of infection are hysterectomy (9-78%), Caesarean section (18-83%), appendicectomy (20-50%) and colorectal surgery (23-77%).<sup>1,2</sup>

In recent years the most commonly employed strategy used to reduce this risk has been antimicrobial prophylaxis. Generally accepted rules of chemoprophylaxis are that the antibiotic(s) chosen should be

- active against the likely pathogens
- used for as short a time as possible
- able to achieve an adequate concentration at the site of possible contamination

The Role of Ticar

Ticar is a semi-synthetic penicillin which provides decisive bactericidal cover against those pathogens, both aerobic and anaerobic which are most commonly implicated including Bacteroides fragilis and Clostridia.<sup>3,4</sup> (Fig 1)

Ticar quickly achieves high serum levels following rapid intravenous infusion.<sup>5</sup> Ticar retains its full bactericidal activity even in the presence of penicillinase<sup>6</sup> and with the added safety of a penicillin can be relied upon not to compromise further those patients already at risk.

The Treatment of Post-Operative Sepsis

Post-operative wound infections arise from contamination either by skin flora or by gut commensals. The species and incidence vary considerably with both the individual and the site of surgery, but are normally of mixed aerobic and anaerobic types.

you're right to trust it

FIG 1 - In vitro spectrum of activity (most strains of the organisms indicated will be clinically sensitive)

Mixed infections involving the Bacteroides fragilis group, such as intra-abdominal sepsis, have been associated with high mortalities in the absence of appropriate antimicrobial therapy.

The Role of Ticar

Ticar either alone or in synergistic combination with an aminoglycoside has proved to be highly successful in the treatment of anaerobic and mixed infections including those following surgical intervention.<sup>7,8,9,10</sup>

Ticar has reliable bactericidal activity which is not dependent on the integrity of the patients own defences. In addition its freedom from ototoxicity and nephrotoxicity makes Ticar an obvious first choice in the treatment of post-operative sepsis, especially in severely ill patients.

Prescribing Information: Ticar Infusion: Infusion bottles containing 5g ticarcillin as ticarcillin disodium together with Water for Injections B.P. and sterile transfer needles in packs of 4. (Price: £11.48 per bottle). Ticar 5g, 3g and 1g Vials: Vials containing 5g, 3g or 1g ticarcillin as ticarcillin disodium, in packs of 4 (Price: £9.76 per vial), packs of 6 (Price: £5.85 per vial) and packs of 10 (Price: £2.40 per vial) respectively. Prices correct March, 1982. Favourable Hospital Rates are available from the Company. Dosage: ALL DOSAGES BELOW APPEAR AS DAILY TOTALS, WHICH SHOULD BE DIVIDED AND USUALLY GIVEN AT 4-8 HOURLY INTERVALS. Normal Recommended dosage: Adults 15-20g; Children 200-300mg/kg. Acute uncomplicated UTI: Adults 3-4g; Children 50-100mg/kg. Ticar can be successfully given to patients with renal insufficiency. Full recommendations are given on the data sheet. Preparation and Administration See package enclosure leaflet for full details of preparation. When administered intravenously Ticar should be given by slow injection (3-4 minutes) or infusion over e.g. 30-40 minutes (i.e. at a rate of approximately 50 drops per minute). Contra-indication Penicillin hypersensitivity. Side-effects Side-effects are uncommon and typical of other injectable penicillins. If pain at the intramuscular injection site is troublesome the vial contents may be dissolved in 0.5% lignocaine hydrochloride solution. In rare cases spontaneous skin and mucous membrane haemorrhages due to interferences with normal clotting mechanisms have been reported. Precautions Use of Ticar at less than recommended dosages may permit multiplication of resistant strains of bacteria especially of Pseudomonas. In treating patients on sodium restriction it should be noted that each 1g vial of Ticar contains 5.3 mmol of sodium (approx.) each 3g vial contains 16.0 mmol of sodium (approx.) and each 5g vial contains 26.7 mmol of sodium (approx.) # TODAY'S TREATMENT/4

The drugs that we use today are increasingly potent, dangerous, and expensive, and every doctor should have some understanding of clinical pharmacology and drug-induced diseases. Both these subjects, which have been badly taught in medical schools, are covered comprehensively in this new book, which consists of articles taken from the BMJ. Also included are articles that provide a clear and up-to-the-minute introduction to anaesthetics.

ALCOHOL PROBLEMS

In recent years alcohol problems have increased dramatically and the thinking on them has undergone a revolution. Alcohol Problems brings together two series of articles published in the BMJ —the ABC of Alcohol, with its emphasis on straightforward advice for the clinician, and Alcohol and Alcoholism, Dr Richard Smith's more discursive survey of current thinking and controversies. Together they cover both the clinical aspects of managing alcohol problems and the social and political factors that surround them.

A proven routine in surgical prophylaxis

Recent evidence demonstrates:

- Velosef is effective in penetrating tissues, including bone
- Velosef is effective against resistant strains of bacteria e.g. Staph. aureus

Clinical use confirms:

- Active against Gram +ve and Gram -ve pathogens
- Well-tolerated, with minimal toxicity and proven efficacy
- Available in both parenteral and oral forms

velosef<sup>TM</sup>

cephradine

ABBREVIATED PRESCRIBING INFORMATION Indications: Velosef is a broad spectrum, bactericidal antibiotic, active against both Gram-positive and Gram-negative bacteria. It is highly active against most strains of penicillinase-producing staphylococci. Indications include: chest infections, bone and joint infections, ear, nose and throat infections, gastro-intestinal infections, urinary tract infections, septicaemia and endocarditis, surgical prophylaxis. Dosage: Orally - Adults: 500 mg or 1 g twice daily, or 250 mg or 500 mg four times daily. Children: 25-50 mg/kg/day in two or four equally divided doses. By injection - Adults: 500 mg-1g four times daily i.m. or i.v. In severe infections 2g four times daily i.m. or i.v. Children: 50-100 mg/kg/day in four equally divided doses. Serious infections may require 200-300 mg/kg/day. Contra-indications: Hypersensitivity to cephalosporins. Precautions: Cephalosporins should be used with caution in patients who are hypersensitive to penicillins. As with all drugs, Velosef should be administered with caution during the early months of pregnancy. After treatment with cephradine a false positive reaction for glycosuria may occur with Benedict's solution or Fehling's solution or with reagent tablets such as Clinistix, but not with enzyme-based tests such as Clinistix or Diastix. As with all antibiotics, prolonged use may result in the overgrowth of non-susceptible organisms. Cephalosporins at high dosage should be given with caution to patients receiving concurrent treatment with potent diuretics such as frusemide, as these combinations are suspected of adversely affecting renal function. Patients with suspected or known renal impairment should be treated with reduced dosages. Side-effects: Adverse reactions are rare and generally mild and transient, e.g. rashes, gastro-intestinal disturbance, eosinophilia, a positive Coomb's test, transient rises in serum liver enzymes. Product licence numbers: Velosef Capsules 250mg, 0034/0133 Velosef Capsules 500mg, 0034/0134 Velosef Syrup 125mg/5ml 0034/0135 Velosef Syrup 250mg/5ml 0034/0136 Velosef Injection 500mg 0034/0198 Velosef Injection 1g 0034/0199 Velosef Injection 2g 0034/0200 Price: Capsules 250mg, 20's = £3.23 Syrup 125mg/5ml, 100ml = £2.10 Injection 1g = £1.95. # NOTICES TO READERS

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to examine carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to BMA agreements should consult the secretary of the British Medical Association.

DISCRIMINATION

Attention is drawn to the following decision of the BMA Council: "That no advertisements should be accepted that are in any way discriminatory within the context of the Race Relations Act and the Sex Discrimination Act." Thus the BMJ will not accept advertisements that indicate or may reasonably be understood to indicate an intention to discriminate on grounds of sex, colour, race, nationality, or ethnic or national origins unless specifically exempt under the relevant statute.

Superannuation: Members who require advice on superannuation arrangements for prospective employment should write to the secretary of the BMA.

Unemployment: The BMA is collecting information about unemployment doctors, particularly junior doctors, actively seeking work but who have been unemployed for more than three months are asked to write in confidence to the secretary of the BMA.

Locum appointments: There are dangers in accepting long term or undefined locum appointments which may result in doctors disqualifying themselves from the advantages of some of the terms and conditions of service. Members contemplating such posts should contact the secretary of the BMA for advice.

HOSPITAL POSTS

Training grades

Applicants for the appointments of house officer, senior house officer, registrar and senior registrar are reminded that the national terms and conditions of service request employing authorities to issue a standard model contract and full job description. Tenancy or licence agreements and an inventory of property should be issued for doctors occupying authority accommodations. This will ensure that the applicant has full details of the appointment before interview. Authorities have also been requested to organise visits for intending applicants, who are advised to satisfy themselves, preferably in writing with the details provided before attending an interview or accepting an appointment.

Doctors applying for registrar and senior registrar grade posts are advised to ascertain the status of those posts for the purpose of higher professional training.

Further details about standards of residential accommodation, charges for voluntary residence, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave, superannuation position on leaving the NHS, including restrictions on the refund of contributions, and other matters should be obtained from the hospital administrator or by BMA members from the secretary of the BMA.

House officer: Each post in this grade shall be tenable for six months, £6560 per annum for the posts held during the first year; £6980 per annum for posts held during the second year; £7400 per annum for posts held during the third and subsequent years subject to full registration.

Senior house officer: £8170 + £550(1) to £8720 + £540(1) to £9260.

Registrar: £9260 + 470 (2) to £10670 + £550 (1) to £11220.

On assimilation for the scale for registrars, one increment and one only shall be given for any year or part of a year in excess of two spent previously in the senior house officer grade.

Senior registrar: £10670 + £550 (1) to £11220 + £560 (1) to £11780 + £550 (1) to £12330 + £560 (1) to £12890 + £550 (1) to £13440.

On first appointment as senior registrar one increment should be given for each year or part of a year in excess of three spent as a registrar up to a maximum of two increments. The conditions of senior registrar appointments are dealt with in DHSS circular HC(82)10.

Job descriptions: Doctors applying for a post are advised to ask the health authority for a job description and authorities are asked to state in their advertisements from whom this information can be obtained.

Non-training grades

Warning on contracts: The CCHMS has agreed with the DHSS a model form of contract to be issued to all consultants and associate specialists. Although the DHSS has recommended this model to all RHAs, in some instances individual regions have amended the model, thereby changing important clauses. The BMA advises members not to sign a contract if it deviates from the model contained in PM(79) 11 and if in any doubt suggests that they contact their BMA regional office.

Criteria are laid down for determining the commencing salaries of consultants and any members who experience difficulty in this respect are advised to seek the advice of the secretary of the association.

Consultants: According to DHSS circular HC(82)10, which deals with the appointment of consultants and senior registrars, doctors who are able to work only part time for personal reasons, such as domestic responsibilities, disability, or ill health, are entitled to apply for vacancies and advertised posts should be read as including this condition.

Advertisements should state the number of notional half days offered for part time consultant appointment or, for whole time appointments, offer a maximum part time option. In the view of the BMA an advertiser should not insist on possession of an English higher qualification in preference to Scottish or Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

Consultant salary scale: £18440 + £1300(1) to £19740 + £1310(2) to £22360 + £1300(1) to £23660.

Part time medical officer grade – (clinical assistant): Salary scale: £1390 a year for each weekly notional half day.

Hospital practitioner grade: Salary scale: A sliding scale from £1390 to £1850 a year for each weekly notional half day.

Associate specialist: Salary scale: £11240 + £1200(6) to £18440.

COMMUNITY MEDICINE

Specialists in community medicine: £18440 + £1300(1) to £19740 + £1310(2) to £22360 + £1300(1) to £23660.

National scales for district medical officer, regional medical officers and chief administrative medical officers vary according to authority. Details may be obtained from the secretary of the BMA.

Training grades: £9260 to £13440.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

Clinical medical officer: National salary scales are £9780 to £13540 per annum.

Senior clinical medical officer: National salary scales are £13910 to £19980.

In the BMA's view trainees in community medicine should be offered a choice of options for academic training including full time or part time MSC courses, block release "consortium" courses, or locally supervised private study arrangements. Trainees who are not offered their preferred option are advised to contact the association for advice.

GENERAL PRACTICE

Principals providing general medical services in the NHS are independent contractors and their remuneration in England and Wales is governed by the Statement of fees and allowances payable to general medical practitioners in England and Wales (Known as the red book, it is issued by the Department of Health and Social Security). Scotland and Northern Ireland have similar but separate arrangements. Applicants for vacancies as principals, trainees, or assistants in general practice requiring advice may consult the BMA or the appropriate local medical committee.

UNIVERSITY AND RESEARCH APPOINTMENTS

Clinical

Senior staff – lecturers, senior lecturers, readers holding honorary consultant contracts, scales for NHS consultants (except at Cambridge University, where only heads of departments may achieve final increment). Junior staff – lecturers holding honorary contracts at other than consultant levels, scales as for NHS registrars and senior registrars. Senior lecturers, readers holding honorary contracts at other than consultant level – £14840 + £16040 + £970(1) to £17010 + £1250 (1) to £18260 + £1230 to £19490 + £1120 to £20610.

COMMERCIAL APPOINTMENTS

A career linking

If you're an ambitious young physician with a good knowledge of modern medicine—and you'd relish a new career challenge with worthwhile goals and good advancement prospects—the pharmaceutical industry has a lot to offer.

Our clients, Smith Kline & French Laboratories Limited, are one of the most successful international pharmaceutical companies. Their UK headquarters are in Welwyn Garden City, Herts. The Medical Department plays an important and valued role in the affairs of the company and the scope of its work embraces not only clinical medicine, but also research, business and management.

There is now a need to take on two more Medical Advisers to strengthen and extend the activities of the Department, and the positions offer an excellent and broadly-based grounding from which to establish a stimulating and potentially very rewarding career.

Research activities will include critical clinical appraisal of SK & F medicines (including clinical trials, post-marketing surveillance, and the study of new indications, interactions and unusual/unexpected reactions). There will also be liaison with pre-clinical research scientists over the clinical implications of animal research studies.

Business activities will include participation in marketing strategy meetings, provision of medical advice to company management and marketing teams, and scrutiny of proposed advertising and promotional platforms.

Other activities will include lecturing, the writing of reports and reviews, and attendance at international conferences. Continued practical involvement in clinical medicine, for example the tenure of an NHS Clinical Assistantship, will be encouraged.

Applicants, ideally aged 28-40, should have several years' internal medicine experience in hospital or general practice, backed by good academic horizons. In addition, they should combine maturity and adaptability with the capacity to think and communicate clearly. Existing pharmaceutical industry experience would be advantageous but not essential, as any necessary training can be provided.

The successful candidates will receive an attractive starting salary—regularly reviewed—together with a good bonus, a company car and other valuable benefits, including the opportunity to study in company time for the Diploma in Pharmaceutical Medicine.

To discuss the appointments further, please phone Dr A E F Chandler or Mr B J Oswald, or write in complete confidence for further information and an application form.
