Prescribing information:

Presentation: Vials containing 500mg, 1g and 2g of ceftizoxime as the sterile sodium salt.

Uses: Broad-spectrum, bactericidal, cephalosporin antibiotic. Indications include lower respiratory tract infections, genito-urinary tract infections including gonorrhoea, intra-abdominal infections, septicaemia, skin and soft tissue infections. Cefizox is active against a wide range of Gram-positive and Gram-negative organisms and is stable to a broad spectrum of beta-lactamases produced by both aerobic and anaerobic organisms. Dosage and administration: By slow intravenous injection, by continuous or intermittent intravenous infusion, or by deep intramuscular injection. For reconstitution details see Data Sheet. Modification of the following guideline dosages is necessary in patients with impaired renal function (see Data Sheet). Adults: urinary tract infection, 0.5-1g 12-hourly, IM or IV; gonorrhoea, Ig single dose, IM: other infections, 1-2g 8-12 hourly, IM or IV: severe or life-threatening infections, 2-3g 8-hourly, IM or IV: Severe or life-threatening infections, 30-60 mg/kg bodyweight/day in 2-4 divided doses, increased in severe or life-threatening infections to 100-150mg/kg bodyweight/day. The total dose should not exceed the adult dose. Under the age of 3 months: insufficient data to recommend use.

Contra-indications: Hypersensitivity to cephalosporin antibiotics.

Precautions: Renal status should be monitored, especially in seriously ill patients receiving maximum dose therapy and coadministration of aminoglycoside antibiotics. Although the occurrence has not been reported with Cefizox, nephrotoxicity has been reported following concomitant administration of other cephalosporins and aminoglycosides. As with any other antibiotic, prolonged use may result in overgrowth of non-susceptible organisms. Caution in penicillin-sensitive patients because of possible cross-reaction. Side- and adverse effects: Cefizox is generally well

The excellent in vivo performance of Cefizox is the sum of many factors. Most notably, its powerful spectrum of antibacterial activity, stability to ß-lactamases, and highly effective tissue penetration.

Potent antibacterial spectrum

Cefizox is a powerful, third-generation, injectable cephalosporin. It has a wide spectrum of activity against both Gram-negative and Gram-positive aerobic and anaerobic organisms including E. coli, Klebsiella pneumoniae, Proteus mirabilis, H. influenzae, Strep. pneumoniae, Staph. aureus and Strep. pyogenes.

It is also active against hospital opportunist pathogens not so frequently encountered, such as indole-positive Proteus, Serratia marcescens, Morganella morganii, and Enterobacter.^{1,2}

Superior &-lactamase stability

Cefizox has excellent ß-lactamase stability, and is resistant to a wider range of ß-lactamases than cefotaxime?

Excellent tissue penetration

After a single dose, concentrations of Cefizox in most tissues and body fluids are easily in excess of the MIC of likely pathogens.

Study has shown that Cefizox achieves greater concentration in most tissues and body fluids than cefotaxime, after equivalent doses!

And, unlike cefotaxime, Cefizox is not metabolised. Thus the full therapeutic effect of Cefizox is maintained.

International clinical success

Extensive experience confirms that Cefizox provides excellent clinical results against opportunist hospital pathogens.

It has been shown to be highly effective in lower respiratory tract infections, genito-urinary tract infections including gonorrhoea, intraabdominal infections, septicaemia, and skin and soft tissue infections?

Cefizox has also been notably successful in treating infections resistant to ampicillin, carbenicillin, cefamandole, tobramycin or gentamicin.

And Cefizox has proved suitable for use in neutropenic patients⁷ and children.⁸

With a broad spectrum of antibacterial activity, proven efficacy and a low level of side effects? Cefizox is a logical choice in serious infection. Especially before the infecting organism is identified, where multiple infection is suspected, or the infection is resistant to other cephalosporins, aminoglycosides or penicillins.

When infection threatens, Cefizox is an excellent choice.

tolerated. The most common adverse reactions have been local following IM or IV injection. These include burning, cellulitis, pain, induration, tenderness, paraesthesia and phlebitis. Other adverse reactions include hypersensitivity reactions (rash, pruritis, fever), gastrointestinal disturbance (diarrhoea, nausea, and vorniting), vaginitis, transient eosinophilia, thrombocytosis. Neutropenia, leucopenia and thrombocytopenia have been reported rarely. Some individuals have developed a positive Coombs' test. Transient elevation in SGOT, SGPT, alkaline phosphatase, BUN and serum creatinine have occasionally been observed. Use in pregnancy and lactation: There are no data in pregnant women, thus the benefit of using Cefizox in pregnancy should be weighed against the possible hazard. Caution should be exercised if Cefizox is administered to a nursing mother.

Dual Control

Two research based organisations combine

-now-a comprehensive treatment programme for the British diabetic patient. The Nordisk and Wellcome Foundations in diabetes.

Nordisk Insulinlaboratorium, the Danish charitable Foundation, has been at the forefront of insulin innovation for sixty years. Through a dedicated research programme Nordisk has been first with slow-acting insulin preparations, first to concentrate production on pork and first to bring to patients and physicians the benefits of single-vial mixes.

The Wellcome Foundation is an acknowledged leader in research, and has been supplying the needs of the British diabetic patient for sixty years. Wellcome also continues to demonstrate an extensive commitment to postgraduate medical education throughout the United Kingdom.

The mutual co-operation of these two organisations creates a major force in diabetes therapy – with a flexible range of highly purified pork insulins now to appear under a combined Nordisk Wellcome label. Additionally, and importantly, the philosophy of both organisations extends to supportive care of the diabetic patient in the community together with a continuing nationwide series of educational courses and symposia for the professions.

Also, for the first time and as a result of this cooperation, part of the complex manufacturing process of these insulins will be carried out in the United Kingdom. Distribution of these insulins will be effected throughout this country and the Republic of Ireland by The Wellcome Foundation Ltd.

As may be expected of two highly regarded research based organisations, further important product developments will be announced under the Nordisk and Wellcome symbol, substantiating their claim that with proper care the effect of diabetes on quality of life can be further minimised.

PRESCRIBING INFORMATION

Freedminance:
Fortum for Injection is supplied in vials containing 500mg, 1g and 2g ceftazidime (as pentahydrate) with sodium carbonate.

Fortum is a bactericidal cephalosporin antibiotic which is resistant to most beta-lactamases and is active against a wide range of Gram-positive and Gram-negative bacteria.
It is indicated for the treatment of single infections and for mixed infections caused by two or more susceptible organisms. Fortum, because of its broad antibacterial spectrum, may be used alone as first choice drug, pending sensitivity test results.

Dosage and administrationThe usual adult dosage is in the range 1g to 6g i.m. or i.v. per day (see Data Sheet for details).

Contra-indication
Fortum is contra-indicated in patients with known hypersensitivity to cephalosporin antibiotics

Cephalosporins may, in general, be given safely to patients who are hypersensitive to penicillins. Care is indicated in patients who have experienced an anaphylactic reaction to penicillin.

Replaces on patients with three particular at an alphylacute received to periodite. Cephalosporin antibiotics at high dosage should be given with caution to patients receiving concurrent treatment with nephrotoxic drugs. Clinical experience with Fortum has shown that this is not likely to be a problem at the recommended dose levels. Reduce dosage when renal function is impaired (see Data Sheet).

As with all drugs, Fortum should be administered with caution during the early months of pregnancy and in early infancy. Fortum is excreted in human milk in low concentrations.

Fortum does not interfere with enzyme-based tests for glycosuria. Slight interference with copper reduction methods may be observed. Fortum does not interfere in the alkaline picrate assay for creatinine. Fortum and aminoglycosides should not be mixed in the same giving set or syringe.

As with other broad spectrum antibiotics, prolonged use of Fortum may result in the overgrowth of non-susceptible organisms (e.g., Candida, Enterococci) which may require interruption of treatment or adoption of appropriate measures.

Exirel. The selective bronchodilator which relieves the strain on the right heart. 12

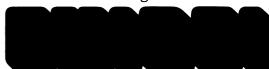

No matter how effective previous treatment may have been, asthmatics and bronchitics could still progress towards chronic respiratory disease.

Now, even with today's modern management these patients may have a brighter future.

First and foremost, Exirel provides the immediate and sustained relief of bronchospasm asthmatics need. In comparative studies Exirel has also proved to be as effective as salbutamol,³ and in animal studies has proved to be moselective than salbutamol.⁴ A further benefit of Exirel was seen patients with disease progression. Recent studies have show that Exirel reduces the strain on the right heart.^{1,2}

Excellent clinical activity in hospital patients

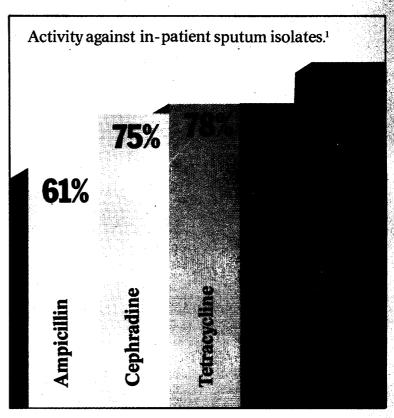

Clinical trials on a wide range of respiratory infections in hospital have confirmed that Augmentin is highly effective in practice.2,3 One study² involved 91 patients with acute exacerbations of chronic bronchitis or pneumonia, 88% bronchitis or pneum many of whom had underlying diseases SUCCESS underlying diseases and all of whom had failed to respond to one or more oral or parenteral antibiotics such as ampicillin, tetracycline, co-trimoxazole and cefuroxime. Despite these circumstances, when Augmentin was administered orally "80 of the patients had an excellent or a partial response consisting both of improvement in general condition and of change of sputum character from purulent to mucoid."2

Penicillin-based therapy

Augmentin has been shown to be welltolerated as would be expected from a penicillin-based antibiotic.4

THE KEYNES PRESS

A new series of limited editions of medical classics, published under an imprint named after Sir Geoffrey Keynes

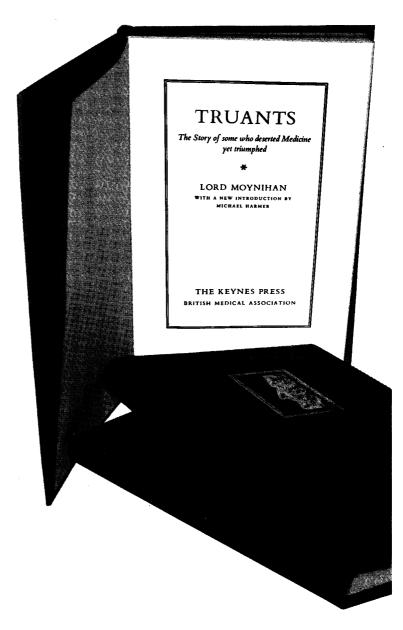

Sir Geoffrey Keynes, who died in July 1982 at the age of 95, was one of the great polymaths. His twin loves were medicine and surgery, on the one hand, and literature and arts, on the other, and he pursued both with equal success. He worked closely with the Nonesuch Press, editing several of its books, and it is therefore fitting that a new venture, the Keynes Press, should be named after him.

Aimed primarily at reprinting classics with a medical interest published in the period of Keynes's life, the press intends to pursue the same standards of scholarship and elegance that characterised the Nonesuch Press. Thus each book will be specially edited and contain a commissioned introduction by an expert. Each will be individually designed by Sebastian Carter of the Rampant Lions Press, and the emblem of the press is a profile of Keynes specially drawn by David Gentleman.

The first three books, published this November, are: Truants: the Story of some who deserted Medicine yet triumphed, by Lord Moynihan. Introduction by Michael Harmer, Consulting Surgeon, Royal Marsden Hospital, London. Pp xxii + 73.

Epidemiology in Country Practice, by William Pickles. Introduction by David Barker, Professor of Clinical Epidemiology, University of Southampton. Pp xiv + 110.

A Sense of Asher. A collection of writings and essays by Richard Asher. Introduction by Ruth Holland, Editorial Assistant, British Medical Journal. Pp. xvi + 97.

Their format is demy octavo, the type being 12/13 Monotype Bembo; the paper is Abbey Mill suede in Truants and Glastonbury cream wove in Epidemiology in Country Practice and A Sense of Asher; each has Abbey Mill endpapers. Each volume is limited to a total of 300 numbered copies for sale, the price for each being £35 including postage.

Copies may be ordered from the Publishing Manager, British Medical Journal, BMA House, Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9JR. (Cheques should be made payable to the British Medical Journal.)

Cuts fat in half.

St. Ivel Gold contains only half the fat of butter, margarine or even polyunsaturated margarine. Most authorities agree that reducing total dietary fat is an important measure in reducing the risks of obesity¹ and heart disease^{2,3}

Changing to polyunsaturated margarine does not decrease the calorie or fat intake. Moving to St. Ivel Gold does.

Reduces the incidence of rebleeding

Recurrent bleeding in acute upper gastrointestinal haemorrhage has always been associated with significant morbidity and mortality.

A study using Zantac (ranitidine) showed that "the incidence of ebleeding in duodenal ulceration was ignificantly reduced."¹

Minimises the risk of drug interaction

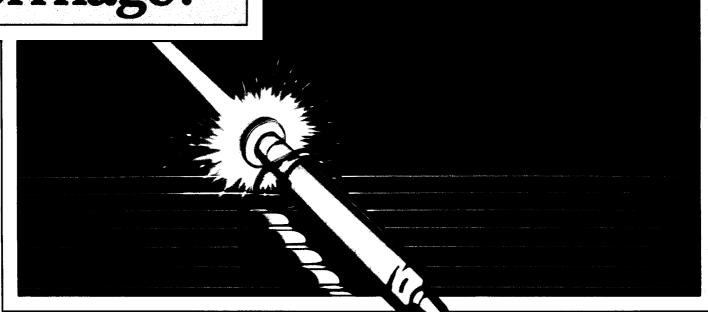

Zantac does not block the action of the liver enzyme system^{2,3} responsible for the breakdown of many drugs including some commonly used benzodiazepines or anaesthetics. This may be particularly important in patients who have to undergo investigative procedures such as gastroscopy.

Additionally antiandrogenic effects are unlikely to occur.⁴

NEW DRUGS

In the past few years the number of important new drugs and our understanding of pharmacology have continued to increase. Reliable and unbiased information on the therapeutic use of these agents is, however, not always readily available. Articles recently published in the BMJ on entirely new groups of drugs – H₂ receptor antagonists, calcium antagonists, captopril – and on new members of groups of drugs already available – beta-blockers, tranquillisers, hypnotics, diuretics – fill this gap and are now collected together in book form. Busy practitioners will find that this comprehensive review allows them to make a more rational choice of treatment.

ABC OF HEALTHY TRAVEL

ERIC WALKER GLYN WILLIAMS

With more people travelling abroad each year the health problems of travellers, both abroad and on their return, assume increasing importance. Travellers may be at hazard from the environment, their lifestyles, and their lack of familiarity with foreign customs. Doctors need to be able to advise their travelling patients and to be aware of the—sometimes potentially serious—infections that may not become apparent until the traveller has return home. In the ABC of Healthy Travel in the BMJ Dr Eric Walker and Dr Glyn Williams described the problems facing the traveller, the immunisations he needs, the infections he may bring home; suggested ways of preventing and treating illness abroad; listed sources of up to date information; and reviewed recent advice on malaria prophylaxis. These articles have been collected into a book to provide the busy practitioner with a practical guide to advising travellers and managing their illnesses.

ANTI-MALIGNIN ANTIBODY DETERMINATION Now available to laboratories

Anti-Malignin Antibody (AMA) (tm) is the serum antibody to the structurally defined polypeptide general transformation antigen Malignin (tm) and related cancer Recognins (tm) present in cancer cells(1-6)

DIAGNOSTIC AID

AMA is elevated in 93% of active cancer patients regardless of the cell type.

The overall incidence of asymptomatic or false positive results in 1,241 controls in four independent blind studies is low (5.2%)⁽¹⁻⁶⁾. AMA therefore can be of value as a diagnostic aid.

MONITORING

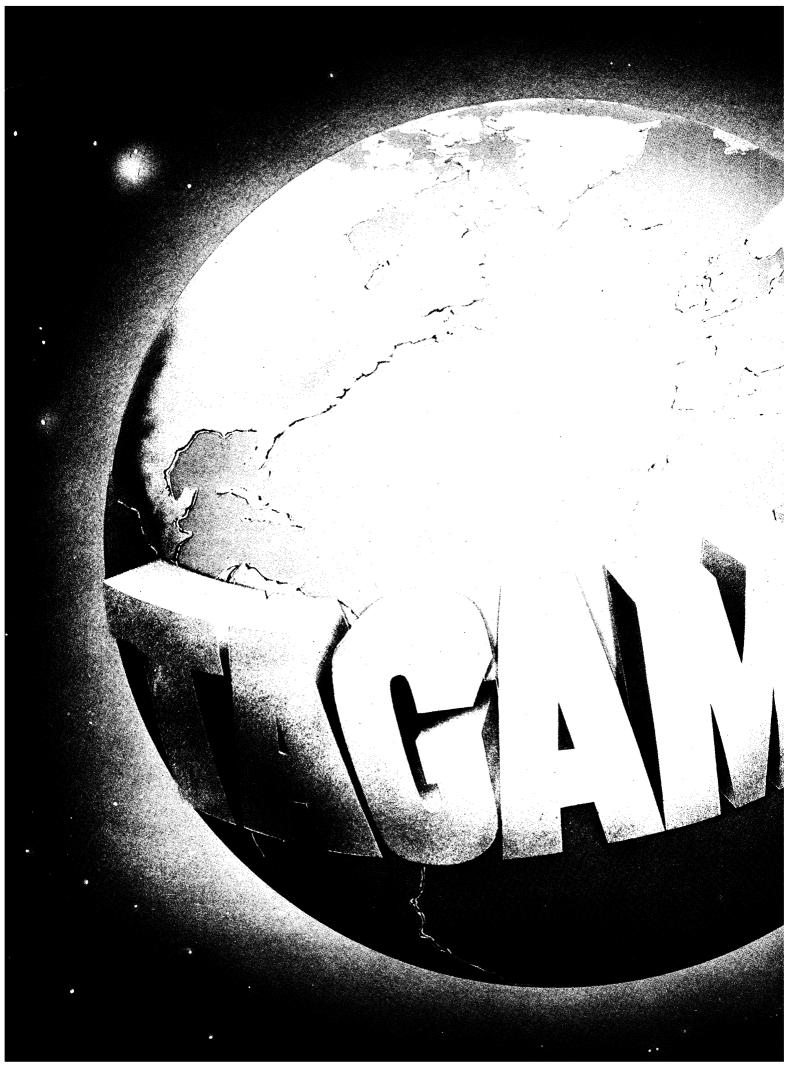

The AMA level is quantitatively related to survival⁽²⁻⁶⁾. Also, in successfully treated cancer patients with no further evidence of disease AMA returns to normal levels in 97% of cases (4-6) AMA therefore can be useful in monitoring the effect of treatment and patient progress.

AVIATION MEDICINE

Richard M Harding & F John Mills

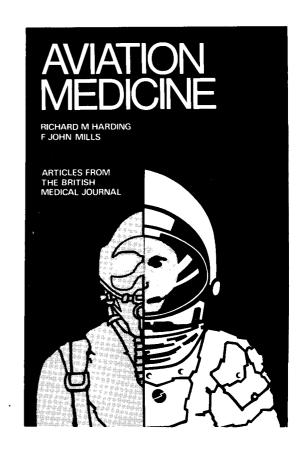

This authoritative and highly readable account of the little known specialty of aviation medicine will interest both general readers and those interested in it as a career. Comprehensive information on the management of airline passengers with particular medical conditions before, during, and after flight will help doctors faced with deciding whether or not their patient is fit to fly and with coping with a medical emergency in the air while themselves passengers on board an aircraft. The chapters on the problems of altitude, acceleration, the function of the special senses in flight, special forms of flight, and aviation psychology describe clearly and precisely the physiological and behavioural effects that flight imposes on man.

LETTERS TO A YOUNG DOCTOR

PHILIP RHODES

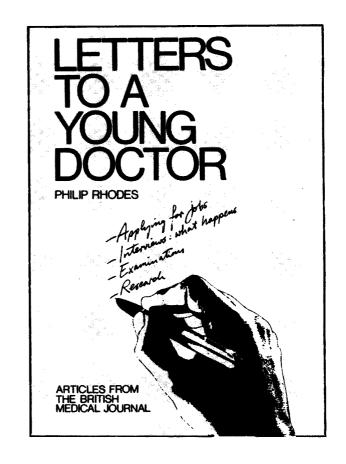

Faced with increasing competition and even the prospect of unemployment young doctors need sound advice on how they should plan their careers. This series of articles by Professor Philip Rhodes, begins with advice to preregistration house officers and then considers the choice open to them after registration. There are sections on study leave, applying for jobs, and interviews, and chapters giving special advice to women and overseas doctors. Examinations, research, teaching, administration, and postgraduate education are also covered.

ABC OF COMPUTING

Although computers are being widely used in medicine, their possibilities and limitations are still not clear to many potential users. This book, aimed at the non-expert, describes some of the uses of computers in medicine; because most doctors' involvement will be indirect, liaising with computer experts rather than designing systems themselves, the book concentrates on concepts rather than detailed descriptions of how computers work. It provides a useful introduction for the doctor who wants to know how computers can contribute to his practice of medicine.

ABC of BRAIN STEM DEATH

CHRISTOPHER PALLIS

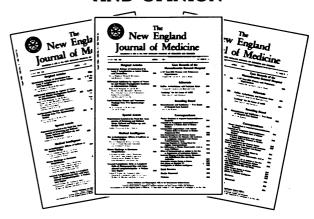

The subject of brain stem death still arouses misconceptions—witness the response to the BBC Panorama programme on transplantation and brain death. Dr Christopher Pallis has dispelled some of the misconceptions, examined the concepts underlying our ideas of death, and described the practical aspects of diagnosing brain stem death. These articles have been collected into a book together with additional material on the wider aspects of the subject, including some of the neurological controversies.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISEM ENTS

Sahiiday 21 January 1984

It is commonly agreed that prostaglandins confer upon the gastric mucosa a resistance to erosion and damage. This so called mucoprotection is compromised by the use of antiarthritic drugs which are prostaglandin synthetase inhibitors. It has been suggested that this is of great relevance to the observed level of gastric side-effects observed with this class of drug.

Lederfen in the stomach has little or no effect on the mucoprotection conferred by the endogenous prostaglandins.² Simply, unmetabolised Lederfen is not a prostaglandin synthetase inhibitor.

The major metabolites of Lederfen are however most potent PSIs, shown by in vitro studies to be twice as potent as indomethacin.² Thus, once Lederfen has been absorbed -avoiding prostaglandin-associated gastric compromise-a powerful antiarthritic effect is observed. Lederfen has been found to be at least equal in clinical effectiveness to reference standards including naproxen,3 indomethacin,4 and aspirin.5 But with significantly fewer side-effects.

Power without doubt. The pro-choice in arthritis.

the pro-drug way to control pain, stiffness and side-effects

Indications: Rheumatoid arthritis, osteoarthritis, ankylosing spondylitis, acute musculo-skeletal disorders. Dosage: Adults: One tablet in the morning and two at night. LEDERFEN is not a gastric irritant and is converted, following absorption into long-acting active metabolites. Consequently LEDERFEN is extremely unlikely to cause gastro-intestinal bleeding or ulceration. Furthermore, LEDERFEN may be used without dosage modification in elderly patients in whom mild to moderate renal impairment commonly occurs. Contraor ulceration. Furthermore, LEDERFEN may be used without dosage modification in elderly patients in whom mild to moderate renal impairment commonly occurs. Contraindications: Hypersensitivity to propionic acid anti-inflammatory drugs or aspirin. Precautions: In patients with a history or evidence of active peptic or intestinal ulceration, and only when considered essential in pregnant and nursing women. Side-effects: LEDERFEN is well tolerated by most patients. Gastro-intestinal symptoms, and occasionally skin rash are the most commonly reported. Legal Category: POM. Presentation: Light blue, film coated, capsule shaped 300 mg tablets engraved "Li 300," or capsules printed "Lederle 300 mg," in bottles of 100. Basic NHS Cost: £17.96 per 100 tablets or capsules. Pl.10095/0081. Further information is available on request to the company.

NOTICES TO READERS

APPOINTMENTS

Applicants for medical appointments are advised to check whether the post advertised is included in the Important Notice and to examine carefully the remuneration and terms of service offered. Any member who is in doubt about these terms in relation to BMA agreements should consult the Secretary of the British Medical Association.

DISCRIMINATION

Attention is drawn to the following decision of the BMA Council: "That no advertisements should be accepted that are in any way discrimatory within the context of the Race Relations Act and the Sex Discrimination Act." Thus the BMJ will not accept advertisements that indicate or may reasonably be understood to indicate an intention to discriminate on grounds of sex, colour, race, nationality, or ethnic or national origins unless specifically exempt under the relevant statute.

Unemployment: The BMA is collecting information about unemployment: doctors, particularly junior doctors, actively seeking work but who have been unemployed for more than three months are asked to write in confidence to the Secretary of the BMA.

Superannuation: Members who require advice on superannuation arrangements for prospective employment should write to the Secretary of the BMA.

Locum appointments: There are dangers in accepting long term or undefined locum appointments which may result in doctors disqualifying themselves from the advantages of some of the terms and conditions of service. Members contemplating such posts should contact the Secretary of the BMA for advice.

HOSPITAL POSTS

Training grades

Applicants for the appointments of house officer, senior house officer, registrar and senior registrar are reminded that the national terms and conditions of service request employing authorities to issue a standard model contract and full job description. Tenancy or licence agreements and an inventory of property should be issued for doctors occupying authority accommodation. This will ensure that the applicant has full details of the appointment before interview. Authorities have also been requested to organise visits for intending applicants, who are advised to satisfy themselves, preferably in writing with the details provided before attending an interview or accepting an appointment.

Doctors applying for registrar and senior registrar grade posts are advised to ascertain the status of those posts for the purpose of higher professional training. Further details about standards of residential accommodation, charges for voluntary residence, telephone charges, removal allowances, study leave, superannuation position on leaving the NHS, including restrictions on the refund of contributions, and other matters should be obtained from the hospital administrator or by BMA members from the Secretary of the BMA.

House officer: Each post in this grade shall be tenable for six months. £6720 per annum for the posts held during the first year; £7150 per annum for posts held during the second year; £7580 per annum for posts held during the third and subsequent years subject to full registration.

Senior house officer: £8379 + £560(1) to £8930 + £560(1) to £9490.

Registrar: £9490 + £480(3) to £10930 + £570(1) to £11500.

On assimilation for the scale for registrars, one increment and one only shall be given for any year or part of a year in excess of two spent previously in the senior house officer grade.

Senior registrar: £10930 + £570 (1) to £11500 + £570 (1) to £12070 + £570 (1) to £12640 + £570 (1) to £13210 + £570 (1) to £13780.

On first appointment as senior registrar one increment should be given for each year or part of a year in excess of three spent as a registrar up to a maximum of two increments. The conditions of senior registrar appointments are dealt with in DHSS circular HC(82)10.

Job descriptions: Doctors applying for a post are advised to ask the health authority for a job description and authorities are asked to state in their advertisements from whom this information can be obtained.

Non-training grades

Warning on contracts: The CCHMS has agreed with the DHSS a model form of contract to be issued to all consultants and associate specialists. Although the DHSS has recommended this model to all RHAs, in some instances individual regions have amended the model, thereby changing important clauses. The BMA advises members not to sign a contract if it deviates from the model contained in PM(79)11 and if in any doubt suggests that they contact their BMA regional office.

Criteria are laid down for determining the commencing salaries of consultants, and any members who experience difficulty in this respect are advised to seek the advice of the Secretary of the Association.

Consultants: According to DHSS circular HC(82)10, which deals with the appointment of consultants and senior registrars, doctors who are able to work only part time for personal reasons, such as domestic responsibilities, disability, or ill health are entitled to apply for vacancies and advertised posts should be read as including this condition

Advertisements should state the number of notional half days offered for part time consultant appointment or, for whole time appointments, offer a maximum part time option. In the view of the BMA an advertiser should not insist on possession of an English higher qualification in preference to Scottish of Irish qualifications (or vice versa).

Consultant salary scale: £18900 + £1340 (4) to £24260.

Part time medical officer grade — (clinical assistant): Salary scale: £1420 a year for each weekly notional half day.

Hospital practitioner grade: Salary scale: A sliding scale from £1420 to £1900 a year for each weekly national half day.

Associate specialist: Salary scale £11520 + £1230(6) to £18900.

COMMUNITY MEDICINE

Specialists in community medicine: £18900 + £1340(4) to £24260.

National scales for district medical officer, regional medical officers and chief administrative medical officers vary according to Authority. Details may be obtained from the Secretary of the BMA.

Training grades: £9490 to £13780.

COMMUNITY HEALTH

Clinical medical officer: National salary scales are £10030 to £13880.

Senior clincial medical officer: National salary scales are £14260 to £20490.

In the BMA's view trainees in community medicine should be offered a choice of options for academic training including full time or part time MSC courses, block release "consortium" courses, or locally supervised private study arrangements. Trainees who are not offered their preferred option are advised to contact the Association for advice.

GENERAL PRACTICE

Principals providing general medical services in the NHS are independent contractors and their remuneration in England and Wales is governed by the Statement of fees and allowances payable to general medical practitioners in England and Wales. (Known as the red book, it is issued by the Department of Health and Social Security). Scotland and Northern Ireland have similar but separate arrangements. Applicants for vacancies as principals, trainees, or assistants in general practice requiring advice may consult the BMA or the appropriate local medical committee.

MRCOG PART II

Intensive Residential Course, 28th March-6th April, 1984 (Closing date 12th March, 1984)

The intensive revision course, with over one hundred hours of tuition has now been extended by one day to allow for the improvements in the programme.

The extra time will allow an even greater emphasis on those parts of the course which consist of one-to-one or small group teaching and will enable more personal coaching. In addition most major theoretical topics will now be covered in seminar rather than formal lecture style to enhance participation and discussion with course members.

The fee of £495 includes tuition, residence and all meals.

PRACTICE MANAGEMENT FOR GENERAL PRACTITIONERS

Course 875 (A) - 14-16 March 1984 Part 1 (B) - 31 May-1 June 1984 Part 2

The King's Fund College is repeating the two modules organised in previous years for newly appointed principals. The first module examines some key components in managing an effective practice and relates these to specific problems encountered by participants in their own. In the intervening weeks participants will be asked to tackle a task within their practice; their experience will be used to identify and develop specific skills and knowledge needed, and to help them plan developments and change for the future. Board, lodgings and tuition fees are funded by the DHSS.

MRC Biostatistics Unit

The Medical Research Council invites applications for the post of full-time Director of the Biostatistics Unit to succeed Dr I Sutherland.

The person appointed will have an established reputation as a scientific investigator in biomedical statistics, be able to develop the Unit's research programme, and have the ability to lead, manage and co-ordinate the activities of a research team. It is not essential that he or she possess a medical qualification.

The Unit is concerned with the development and advancement of statistical methodology, both fundamental and as applied to medical problems, and with research into the epidemiology of disease. An important function at present is the provision of statistical advice to Council Units, Council Committees, and other scientific workers. The precise scope and emphasis of the Unit's future programme will be a matter for discussion between the successful candidate and the Council, but it is expected that the programme will include fundamental studies, both purely theoretical and problem-related. A candidate who wished the Unit to specialise in a particular line of biomedical research in which statistical methods play a prominent part should put their proposals forward.

The Unit is at present accommodated in the MRC Centre at the University Medical School, Cambridge; however, new accommodation may need to be sought on the appointment of a new Director. The present staff complement is 15, including 5 scientific staff.

An appointment to the Council's staff will be in accordance with the Council's terms and conditions of service, and with superannuation under the MRC Pension Scheme. The salary will be within the Council's Special Appointments Grade, which is equivalent to the Universities' professorial range. If required, assistance may be given with house sale/purchase expenses. The present Director is not due to retire until September 1986, but it is hoped that his successor will be able to join the Unit as Director-designate before that date

Applications in the form of a short statement (not exceeding 1,000 words) outlining in general terms the scientific programme which the applicant would propose for the Unit, together with a curriculum vitae, list of publications, and the names of three referees, should be submitted not later than 16 March 1984 to the Secretary of the Council at the address below.

Additional information, including details of the current programme of the Unit, may be obtained from Mr K Hammond, MRC Headquarters Office, 20 Park Crescent, London W1N 4AL; telephone 01-636 5422 ext. 336.

COMMERCIAL APPOINTMENTS

MEDICAL ADVISER E. MERCK LIMITED

We are the UK subsidiary of E. Merck, West Germany, a long established and rapidly expanding pharmaceutical Company, with therapeutic interests in the fields of cardiology, psychiatry, allergy, nutrition, dermatology and radiological contrast media.

To meet a further expansion of our extensive clinical research programme we urgently need to appoint an additional physician to our Medical Department. The rôle will include:

- the design, initiation and follow up of clinical trials on new and established products with special reference to the cardiovascular field
- liaison with opinion leaders involving travel, mainly in the UK, but will also involve some continental travel
- liaison with the Medical Research Department of E. Merck, Darmstadt, West Germany.

The Medical Adviser will report directly to the Medical Director, E. Merck Ltd. Applicants should be aged 28-40. Previous clinical trials experience in the pharmaceutical industry, particularly with cardiovascular research, would be a distinct advantage. Salary will be commensurate with the responsibilities and a Company car will be provided.

Conditions of employment are excellent and include a pension scheme and private health insurance. An honorary clinical attachment to a local hospital would be considered. Relocation expenses will be reimbursed where necessary in line with Company policy.

Please apply in writing with full particulars to the Personnel Officer, E. Merck Ltd., Winchester Road, Four Marks, Alton, Hampshire GU34 5HG, marked strictly confidential.

Mental Health Foundation

General Practice Training Fellowship

The Mental Health Foundation offers a Fellowship enabling a candidate with experience in General Practice to undertake research into mental illness.

There are important areas of psychiatric research that are best carried out by a general practitioner, trained in psychiatric research methods with the support of an Academic Department of Psychiatry. It is proposed therefore, that candidates for the Fellowship should be put forward jointly by Academic Departments of General Practice and Psychiatry.

The Fellowship is aimed at those General Practitioners who intend to follow a career in an Academic Department of General Practice and it is hoped that the candidate will continue to do research in the psychiatric aspects of General Practice.

It is essential that the candidates proposed enjoy the full confidence of both the Department of General Practice and of Psychiatry and that the two Departments have developed a close liaison under which the research will be supervised

It is envisaged that the Fellowship will start with a training period of one year during which time the Fellow will be expected to acquire the necessary disciplines of psychiatry research and to establish liaison between the two Departments concerned.

The Fellowship will be awarded for three years on a full-time basis or four years on a part-time basis. At the time of the application it is expected that a programme of research will be put forward in some detail. This should be developed into a concrete proposal which will be considered as part of an overall assessment by the Foundation of the first year's progress. The Foundation reserves the right to withdraw or increase its financial support at this juncture. Thereafter the award will be final. It is expected that the research will lead to the submission of an MD thesis by the candidate. The level of funding will be commensurate with the applicant's academic

APPLICATIONS WILL ONLY BE ACCEPTED FROM DEPARTMENTS OF GENERAL PRACTICE IN CONJUNCTION WITH DEPARTMENTS OF PSYCHIATRY NAMING A SPECIFIC INDIVIDUAL WHO WOULD BE THE RECIPIENT OF THE FELLOWSHIP. While the liaison between Departments would clearly be easier if part of the same University this need not necessarily be the case

Applications should be submitted by 15th MARCH, 1984 and should include full information concerning the candidate on which his/her suitability can be assessed: the initial formulation of the later definitive research proposal; the planned programme of training; details of any clinical commitment of the candidate and assurance of co-operation from each department

Applications should be sent to Dr Paul Bebbington at the Mental Health Foundation, 8 Hallam Street, London W1N 6DH.

GOVERNMENTAL

The Prison Medical Service

Health Care in a Challenging Environment Up to £22,995

The Prison Medical Service (PMS) embraces most branches of medicine and provides a comprehensive medical service within a stimulating and demanding environment. The prison medical officer may have to make and justify decisions in the light of unusual, difficult and often public circumstances; this may involve legal considerations or, in the case of a long term prisoner, may form part of an extended and patient process of rehabilitation.

As the most important responsibility is the health care of prisoners, there are many basic similarities to general practice. Medical solutions "inside" are rarely simple or routine but doctors in the PMS have the assistance of trained support staff, and they are able to call upon specialist resources from the NHS for the provision of any consultant care required

There are management responsibilities - contributing as part of the senior management team to the effective running of the establishment - and the job also has public health and occupational health aspects. Specific duties vary according to the type of establishment. Some doctors at "local" prisons and remand centres undertake the important task of psychiatrically assessing remand prisoners for the purpose of making reports to the courts. Other posts offer a greater concentration on treatment and therapeutic care.

Candidates must be medical practitioners, fully registered in the UK, with a sound clinical background. For some posts qualifications in psychological medicine are an advantage

There will be a number of vacancies and these are expected to include posts at HM Prisons Cardiff, Durham, Hull, Leeds, Liverpool, Maidstone, Manchester, Norwich, Parkhurst (Isle of Wight) and Wandsworth (SW London): HM Remand Centre, Risley (nr Warrington, Cheshire); HM Youth Custody Centre, Feltham (Middlesex) and HM Prison and Youth Custody Centre, Grendon (nr Aylesbury, Bucks), Other vacancies may arise

Starting salary will be in the range of £15,650-£21,745 according to qualifications and experience (up to £1,250 higher in London). Five weeks annual leave. Assistance with the expenses of house sale/purchase may be available. For those interested and prepared to transfer to different locations on promotion, the Service offers very good career opportunities. In appropriate cases encouragement will be given to successful candidates to pursue courses for higher qualifications in psychiatry.

For further details and an application form (to be returned by 3 February 1984) write to Civil Service Commission, Alencon Link, Basingstoke, Hants RG21 IJB, or telephone Basingstoke (0256) 68551 (answering service operates outside office hours). Please quote ref: S(A)630/2.

PROFESSOR OF HUMAN BIOLOGY (P821001/84)

Department of Human Biology
The Department of Human Biology comprises the pre-clinical disciplines of anatomy, physiology, biochemistry and pharmacology, and is responsible for the teaching of both undergraduate and postgraduate medical and dental students. The Department aims to present the basic medical sciences in an integrated fashion, with emphasis on clinical relevance. Clinical contact is introduced from the outset of the undergraduate course. An active programme of population-based and laboratory research is underway in the Department. The successful applicant will have a distinguised academic record with one of the pre-clinical science as their main field of interest, but applications from clinicians with an especial interest in pre-clinical medical education will be particularly welcomed. A medical qualification would be a distinct advantage, althouth a person who is not medically qualified may apply. Teaching and/or research experience in a developing country would also be an advantage. The appointee will provide academic leadership, participate in teaching in the basic medical sciences, and stimulate research. He will also promote the development of Papua New Guinean national academic staff. Opportunities will exist for maintaining links with clinical medicine by suitably qualified practitioners, and this would be welcomed in the interest of maintaining close correlation between the pre-clinical teaching programme and maintaining links with clinical medicine by suitably qualified practitioners, and this would be welcomed in the interest of maintaining close correlation between the pre-clinical teaching programme and clinical practice. The professor will not necessarily have any administrative responsibilities, although he can be elected to positions carrying such responsibilities. Salary: Professor - K22820 per annum plus gratuity. Other conditions. The successful applicant will be normally offered a contract for a three year appointment ending at the end of a Semester. The gratuity entitlement is based on 24% of salary earned and is payable in instalments or lump sum and is taxed at a flat rate of 2%. In addition to the salaries quoted above, the main benefits include: support for approved research; rent-free accommodation; appointment and repatriation airfares for appointee and dependants; financial assistance towards the cost of transporting personal effects to and from P.N.G. 6 weeks annual recreation leave with home airfares available after each 18 months of continuous service; generous education subsidies for children attending schools in P.N.G. or overseas; a salary available after each 18 months of continuous service; generous education subsidies for children attending schools in P.N.G. or overseas; a salary continuation scheme to cover extended illness of disability. Applicants who wish to arrange secondment from thier home institutions will be welcomed. The terms and conditions are currently under region. under review

(15682-118)

For these consultants, in Saudi Arabia the rewards can last a lifetime.

There is a hospital in Jeddah, on the west coast of Saudi Arabia, which combines the highest traditional standards of health care with the latest in medical technology. It is a hospital where consultants can rise to a challenge that will enhance their careers long after that challenge is complete.

The National Guard King Khalid Hospital, which cares for the National Guard and their families, is managed by the British-based International Hospitals Group (IHG) in liaison with the British government and is supported by IAL. IAL can offer unique professional and personal opportunities to the following:

Senior Surgeon c. £66,000 p.a. tax-free

With FRCS or equivalent professional medical institute and at least fifteen years in the profession, five years as a consultant and a minimum of ten years in your speciality in a major hospital. Ideally, the candidate will have urology experience. Ref. M010/01.

Senior Radiologist c. £66,000 p.a. tax-free

With FRCR (Diagnostic Radiology) and 15 years in the profession, and at least 5 years experience as a Consultant Radiologist together with a minimum of 10 years in your speciality in a major hospital. This experience should include use of a CAT Scanner. Ref. M010/02.

What you would earn with IAL

The figures quoted are based on a salary of c.£61,000 pa (SR311,000) at a conversion rate of SR5.1=£1, plus a bonus of one month's salary for every 12 months satisfactory service, which is paid as a tax-free lump sum at the end of your time with IAL in Saudi Arabia.

You will enjoy exceptional benefits — free accompanied status accommodation and education allowance, 49 days annual holiday, free return flights to the UK and free medical care. The Hospital has its own complex that offers you shops, restaurants, swimming pool, tennis courts, gymnasium and a theatre.

Preference will be given to suitably qualified Saudi Arabian nationals and other Arabic speaking personnel.

ROYAL CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL Brisbane Australia

PAEDIATRIC RADIOLOGIST

(Full-time or Half-time)

This position will be available from March 1984

The position can be either full-time or half-time. If a full-time position is desired the appointee will work half-time at the Royal Children's Hospital and half-time at the Royal Brisbane Hospital which adjoins the Royal Children's Hospital.

The Royal Children's Hospital (180 beds) provides a complete range of imaging services (excluding Cardiac Studies), some of which are shared with the Royal Brisbane Hospital. The full-time metropolitan Director of Paediatric Radiology works half-time at the Royal Children's Hospital and there are also two visiting Consultant Radiologists.

The Royal Brisbane Hospital with 1,100 beds, in the same grounds, provides a modern imaging service, including ultrasound, nuclear medicine and both C.T. head and total body scans within the Department of Radiological Sciences.

In addition, an arrangement with the Royal Women's Hospital provides for involvement in Neonatal and Obstetric Imaging.

Diagnostic Radiologists with qualifications recognised in Australia or Senior Registrars who have fulfilled examination requirements and who wish to complete their training in these fields, would be eligible to apply.

Applications will be considered on either a long-term or locum basis. Salary range: $1,594.40-$1,933.00 per fortnight depending on period of eligibility for specialist registration.

Terms and conditions of service:

Conditions of services are in accordance with those applying to full-time specialists in the metropolitan public hospitals and the award for Senior Medical Staff – public hospitals, Queensland Radium Institute. All positions are full-time with permanent tenure subject to an initial 12 months probation. Recreation leave is 5 weeks per year, long service leave after 10 years at the rate of 11/3 weeks for each year of service, and study leave at the rate of 6 months after 6 years continuous service and thereafter 4 months leave after 4 years continuous service. Alternatively half of the appropriate time period may be taken as study leave together with an around the world air ticket, actual expenses and a personal allowance. Conference leave is allowed at the discretion of the Board. Appointees will be required to contribute to the State Service Superannuation Fund and will have no right of private practice. All positions attract an allowance of $2,400 per annum as compensation for being on call, attending telephone calls at home, preparation of reports at home, after hours lectures etc.

MEDICAL SUPERINTENDENT

Mater Children's Hospital South Brisbane AUSTRALIA

Applications are called from Medical Practitioners registrable within the State of Queensland for the above position which will become vacant on 1st April, 1984.

The Hospital is a referral hospital for Queensland and Northern New South Wales. A Professorial Unit of the Department of Child Health is situated within the Hospital and staffing comprises a Professor, Associate Professor and two Senior Lecturers.

The Mater Children's Hospital provides comprehensive Specialist Paediatric Services for the southern half of the Brisbane metropolitan area. It has an establishment of 140 beds, admitting over 12,750 inpatients per year and providing over 210,000 occasions of outpatient service. Consultant staff numbers 50 with senior full time specialist staff, and sixteen registrars.

The Hospital has full accreditation with the Royal Australasian College of Physicians.

Experience in Paediatrics is desirable, while administrative experience is essential. An applicant should be a Fellow of the Royal Australian College of Medical Administrators or in training for the Fellowship or be prepared to study for this qualification.

A limited clinical involvement may be arranged.

This position offers an excellent opportunity to be involved in the running of a large, busy, expanding paediatric hospital.

Salary for this position is $53,966 per annum.

In addition a special allowance of $2,400 per annum is payable and additional payments are made in respect of call-backs or where it is necessary to continue clinical duties beyond 6 p.m. The position is superannuated. As no accommodation is available, a house allowance of $1,300 per annum is paid.

Study leave entitlements include the following alternatives:

After six years' continuous service: six months study leave without expenses or three months study leave plus an around-the-world air ticket, actual expenses and a personal allowance.

Thereafter, after each continuing four years' continuous service: four months study without expenses or two months study leave plus an around-the-world air ticket, actual expenses and a personal allowance.

There is no right to private practice.

In addition, reasonable opportunities are provided to attend conferences within Australia. Long Service Leave – 13 weeks after each 10 years continuous service. Annual recreation leave – five weeks, and sick leave entitlement is two weeks per annum (cumulative).

Travelling expenses for the successful applicant and family will be negotiable and every assistance will be given to help persons from outside Queensland to re-establish.

Further information may be obtained from Dr. J.L. McNee, Director of Ambulatory Services, Mater Children's Hospital.

Application including full curriculum vitae and names of three referees should be forwarded, by 2nd March, 1984, to the Executive Director of Medical Services, Dr. E.D. O'Callaghan, Mater Public Hospitals, South Brisbane, Queensland 4101. (M8067)
