

Neo-NaClex-K for easier management of all grades of hypertension

Effective in all grades of hypertension In mild hypertension. bendrofluazide - the white layer of Neo-NaClex-K Tablets - lowers the blood pressure by an average of 10 to 15 mm Hg. In moderate or severe hypertension, Neo-NaClex-K may be given in conjunction with other more potent drugs to enable the dosage and side effects of the latter to be substantially reduced.

Doubly economical Neo-NaClex-K economically combines 2.5 mg bendrofluazide with a potassium supplement of 630 mg KCI in one tablet. This, together with once-daily dosage, makes therapy easier for the hypertensive patient.

High level of safety The antihypertensive effect of Neo-NaClex-K is smooth and sustained - side effects are uncommon and postural hypotension does not normally occur.

Adequate potassium supplement In addition to bendrofluazide, each Neo-NaClex-K tablet contains a potassium supplement that is normally adequate to compensate for any potassium loss that may occur with prolonged thiazide treatment. Embedded in protective material, the potassium is released very slowly so that no great concentration is reached at any one time. The possibility of causing gastric irritation or small bowel ulceration is therefore minimised.

Once-daily dosage The usual dosage is one to three tablets once daily.

For your detailed reading Neo-NaClex-K

Description

Neo-NaClex-K is a film-coated two-layer tablet containing the thiazide drug bendrofluazide in the white layer and potassium chloride in the pink layer. The potassium chloride crystals are embedded in protective material which is designed to release potassium chloride gradually, so minimising gastro-intestinal irritation Potassium taken in this form is well absorbed.

Essential hypertension. Neo-NaClex-K may be used alone, or in conjunction with othe antihypertensive drugs, when either the dosage of the latter can be reduced, or full doses can be used to control resistant cases which do not espond satisfactorily to either drug alone. When Neo-NaClex-K is used alone, the fall in blood pressure may range from 20 to 40 mm Hg systolic and from 10 to 30 mm diastolic.

Administration and dosage
The usual dosage of bendrofluazide is 5 to 7.5 mg daily, but a few patients need only 2.5 mg, while others need 10 mg. Larger doses do not give a correspondingly greater therapeutic effect. When Neo-NaClex-K is used as a supplementary drug, the dosage of the other antihypertensive drug is normally gradually reduced us the Neo-NaClex-K takes effect.

Side effects and precautions
Neo-NaClex-K is a relatively safe drug and side effects of treatment are uncommon. Mild anorexia or indigestion is rare and can be avoided or reduced by taking the dose during or immediately after a meal. Symptoms and signs which might indicate ulceration or obstruction of the small bowel in patients taking tablets or capsules containing potassium salts are indications for stopping treatment with such preparations immediately. These complications are usually associated with enteric coated preparations, and are unlikely to occur with Neo-NaClex-K, which is designed to release potassium chloride slowly. Skin reactions have been reported in a few patients and blood dyscrasias have occurred rarely. Diabetes mellitus with glycosuria, and raised serum uric acid levels (with or without gout), may occur in some patients, especially in those who are susceptible to these disorders

Renal insufficiency complicated by hyperkalaemia.

Neo-NaClex-K Tablets each contain 2.5 mg bendrofluazide and 630 mg potassium chloride, providing 330 mg elemental potassium (8·4 mEq) bottles of 25, 100 and 500 tablets

Reliability is a big point in practice

When a patient comes to you with a straightforward ENT or upper respiratory tract infection, you may reasonably feel that a new and relatively untried treatment is not necessary. You prefer something that has been proved effective, with the safety of a penicillin.

That's when it points to Broxil.

Broxil works. In practice, patients do seem to get better quicker with Broxil than with other treatments. Broxil has an excellent record for safety. All you ever need do is take the normal penicillin precautions. For ENT, upper respiratory tract, skin and soft tissue infections, no other antibiotic treatment can match up to Broxil's record of safety and effectiveness over ten years of practice.

grounds for optimism

For the depressed patient, optimism about the chances of recovery begins with the first visit to the physician who shows an interest in his case. This optimism can be built upon with the aid of modern antidepressant drugs, enabling the physician to help his patient to a more speedy

In this respect, 'Concordin' often brings an initial elevation of mood within a week-the patient soon has grounds for greater optimism.

'Concordin' is available as tablets in two strengths: 'Concordin'-10 as white, film-coated tablets (marked 'C10') containing 10 mg protriptyline hydrochloride, in bottles of 100 and 500; 'Concordin'-5 as salmon-red, film-coated tablets (marked 'C5') containing 5 mg protriptyline hydrochloride, in bottles of 100 and 500.

'Concordin' offers many depressed patients these advantages:

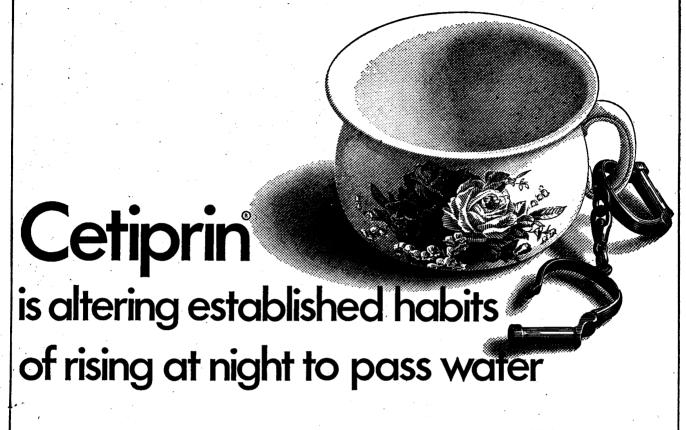

- speed of action improvement often starts within a week
- virtual freedom from sedative activity the patient on 'Concordin' can continue with normal activities since drowsiness is rare
- no dietary restrictions 'Concordin' is not a MAOI and so the patient can enjoy full freedom in choice of food

The results of a recent double-blind crossover trial of Cetiprin suggest that "the drug may alter the established habit of rising at night to pass urine."1

"This trial showed that emepronium bromide (Cetiprin) given in dosage of 150 mgs. on going to bed, effectively diminished nocturnal frequency of micturition in aged women. On the basis of a double-blind crossover trial an important difference emerged between those participants given the placebo before the drug, and those given the drug first. In the first case, there is little effect with the placebo but a moderate effect with the drug. In the latter case, there is a more marked effect with the drug - and this is carried over into the placebo period."2

"Nocturnal frequency of micturition is one of the trials of old age. In a previous paper we have shown it to be present in 64% of the total elderly population (70% of males and 61% of females of 65 years and over)."3

Continuing work on liquorice stresses its growing importance in the treatment of peptic ulcer.

Untreated liquorice is known to produce undesirable side effects. In Rabro tablets the liquorice has been modified to overcome this.

The fact that treatment is effective without the patient being confined to bed makes it the prescription of choice.
